Reports on business conditions thruout the country at the present time are decidedly encouraging. During the past three weeks there has been a definite improvement in the national trade statistics with favorable prospects for a continuation of the upward turn. This recent trend is especially encouraging because it apparently is on a solid foundation. During the past year and a half there have been several periods of business improvement from a statistical standpoint but these have been based largely on speculative demands prompted by inflationary acts of the government or the fear of them. The results of such artificial stimulants proved temporary, however, and unfavorable reactions quickly followed. The present increased business activity seems to be caused by natural forces and therefore gives promise of being more permanent. Inflationary talk has subsided. The administration has assumed a less critical attitude toward business. Theoretical nostrums are being abandoned. There is some promise that government expenditures will be reduced in an attempt to balance the national budget, tending to curb the fear of a paralyzing tax burden. These changes in administration policy have already resulted in a more hopeful attitude in the business world and most economic authorities seem to agree that once confidence is restored, recovery will gain momentum rapidly. Business Week, which has been anything but cheerful for several months, comments on the present improved condition in the current issue as follows:

> Production activity almost everywhere is mounting. Sales are above last year in value and volume. The ratio is increasing. Even in the durable goods industry definite improvement continues. Farm incomes will be a billion dollars greater than last year. Corn prices doubled last year, and again this year. Cotton approaching 13c is so high as to threaten the stability of its market. Power production is within 5% of 1929. Domestic consumption this year broke all records. Foreign trade is expanding. Dividend payments last month were the highest of nearly 3 years. Bank debits are 22% above a year ago, and Reconstruction Finance Corporation is collecting more money than it loans.
> Automotive production already is the largest for any year since 1930, with a few weeks' figures still to be added. The industry confidently looks forward to making more than 3 million cars in 1935.
>
> Retail trade is making an excellent showing. November sales in department stores were 11% ahead of a year ago, with chain and mail order houses showing even greater gains. Every indication is that the holiday shopping will hold up to this promise.
>
> With such figures to support business and such enthusiasm to stimulate it, there would seem to be sufficient justification for business to go forward in high gear.

When one of the Soviet officials was assassinated recently the Russian secret police immediately rounded up sixty-six suspects who were given a secret trial and then shot. You really can't blame the few remaining Republicans for liking this country of ours just as it is.

VERY ODD—BUT VERY TRUE
(Fargo Forum)

Ascribing the cause to the aftermath of the combined efforts of the drought and the AAA, the New York Herald Tribune tells of the recent sizable importations of grain into this country. It says: "Not only are we importing oats from the Argentine, but we are importing rye from Poland and barley and wheat from Canada. Canadian imports include feeding grades of wheat which are subject to an ad valorem tariff duty of only 10 per cent; no wheat of the type classed as 'fit for human consumption' has yet leaped the 42-cent tariff barrier. However, there seems to be reason to believe that not only will much of our own wheat crop go to feeding purposes before the year is out, but that we shall find it advisable, if not necessary, to bring in substantial amounts of Argentine corn when the crop is harvested in the Southern Hemisphere next March."

The necessity for rather large importations of grain now seems odd, indeed, when such a short while ago we were continually wrestling with the problem of tremendous surpluses.

Pointing to the dispatches which state that two cargoes of Argentine oats are now on their way to the Gulf, bound for Iowa, the Herald Tribune, paraphrasing that old saying to the effect that when a dog bites a man it is not news, but when a man bites a dog it is, remarks: "When grain is shipped out of Iowa, that is not news; but when grain is shipped into Iowa, that is news."

STATE CAN GO HANG
(Mankato Free Press)

In a recent editorial, entitled, "State Can Go Hang," the Chicago Journal of Commerce comments upon the changed relationship between states and power companies when the federal government steps in with power systems of its own.

Down in Tennessee, where the government is carrying on its gigantic TVA project, it has been decided, by a director of the TVA, that state rules for transmission of electric power do not have to be observed by the federal authorities. The director believes that so long as the TVA is the creation of a greater power than the state, it doesn't have to take orders from anyone.

The decision arose from the fact that the TVA plans to take over, from a private utility, electric distribution facilities in the Knoxville area. The state commission, whose principal reason for existence is to protect consumers insisted it had a right to inquire whether the TVA's distributive organization would be adequate to service the public, and whether its rates, by comparison with those of the private concern it is to supplant, would be fair. The TVA working upon the principle described above, did not feel it necessary to file the information the commission is asked for. It has been decided also that Tennessee will not receive any taxes from the TVA—but that the latter might make some "donations." In the words of the Journal of Commerce, "The commission is politely told to go peddle its fish and that taxes, if given to the state's coffers, will be donations."

Once a federal authority steps in, the taxes paid by private plants will be lost to the state—unless the authority kindly decides to hand over a "donation"—and the state commissions will apparently have nothing to say about how the authority's electric operations will be carried on.

Christmas Presents to Suit Individual Tastes

BERTHA NEVINS and her best friend, Mary Parks, were discussing Christmas. "It's absurd, Mary," Bertha was saying, "for two grown women to spend quite a lot of money, as we do each year, for foolish presents."

"But, Bertha, we have no families, and it wouldn't seem like Christmas at all—"

"Oh, we'll exchange gifts, of course, darling. Only I think since we have been good friends for so long we should be perfectly frank about what we want."

"You have something in mind," Mary smiled, and as Bertha agreed —"Well," she continued—"so have I. Something I've wanted for ever so long."

"What?" asked Bertha.

"Guess. It is to put in my living room near the window. The main part is small, and the outside needn't be large—"

"What is it made of?"

"Wood, usually, and metal. Metal wires, anyway. And it will be company for me—"

"To have sweet melody floating on the air. Am I right? And the color doesn't matter so long as it has a clear tone?"

"Why, yes, but how did you guess so quickly?"

"Because I wanted exactly the same think for just ages. I'll give you one and you give me one!"

But what Christmas brought to Bertha was a radio, while Mary got a cage and canary.—Helen Gulsbird.

Christmas in Christ's Land Is Without Snow

LITTLE Christian children who live in Jerusalem or who are traveling there with their parents will not have a snowy Christmas. Snow almost never falls in Palestine, for the temperature is seldom below 38 degrees. When it does snow, the flakes melt as soon as they touch the ground.

Most of the people in the country where the infant Jesus was born do not celebrate Christmas, however! For only a few of them are Christians; most are Moslems or Jews. There are some Christmas trees in Christian homes, and gifts are exchanged among those who observe Christ's birthday. But there are no street decorations and no late shopping problem. The post offices have no big signs urging "Mail your packages early!"

Yet there is probably no place in the world more appropriate to visit at Christmas. The Holy Sepulchre is in the old part of the city, and at Bethlehem, six miles south, is a great church that has replaced the humble inn where Christ was born. Inside is a large flat stone on which the infant Jesus is supposed to have been laid, reminding us how Christianity grew from one humble life.—Frances Grinstead.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

THE carol was originally a joyous dance, a sign of liberation from the religious austerity of the Puritan era. Percy Dearmer, writing in "The Oxford Book of Carols," says: "The carol, by forsaking the timeless contemplative melodies of the church, began the era of modern music, which throughout has been based on the dance."

Cheese Rind for Birds

In a recent discussion of the best way of feeding birds in the garden, one experimenter put forward the rind of a Stilton cheese as the supreme Christmas fare! Birds of many sorts, especially the robin are greedily fond of it. They have a desire for fat, and the cheese provides this in association with other virtues. If we feed birds for the sake of watching them as well as comforting them, the rind, if preserved in more or less unbroken form, has the advantage that it cannot be carried away and attracts five or six species of birds if no more.—London Spectator.

71 YEAR-OLD SHOEMAKER GIVES ASSAILANT THE AX

International Falls.— E. H. Metzner, International Falls shoemaker, may have passed the three score and ten years period, but he is still active enough to defend himself, and proved it last week against a drunken assailant. Isaac Makki, 41-year old transient, stopped in Metzner's shop and asked permission to leave his pack. An hour or two later he came back and picked up the bundle, and at 10 o'clock he staggered into the shop again, three sheets to the wind, and demanded his pack again. When Metzner told him he already had it, Makki became angry, and grabbed the 71-year old shoemaker by the throat. In the ensuing struggle, Metzner picked up an axe and struck his opponent twice on the head with the blunt side. Makki gave up. Metzner called the police, and because of his injuries, which required a dozen stitches in his head, Makki was let off with a 10-dollar fine.

Record Quantities of Cattle and Calves Are Slaughtered This Year

"Reports from federally inspected packing plants in the United States indicate that total cattle and calf slaughter of the country in 1934 has broken all previous records," says the Weekly Livestock Market Bulletin, issued by the Central Cooperative Association, farmer-owned livestock selling agency at South St. Paul.

Total slaughter of cattle during the first eleven months of 1934, is 12,075,100 head, that figure already exceeding the previous record of 1918 when the twelve months total was 11,829,000 head. Last year total slaughter was only 7,934,000 head and two years ago it was 7,058,347 head. Annual slaughtering of cattle has exceeded the ten million head mark four times only since records have been kept.

Calf slaughter in the United States during the first eleven months of 1934 is 6,893,681 head, which figure exceeds last year's total by more than two million head. The previous twelve month calf slaughter record was in 1925, when 5,352,000 calves went to the shambles.

Reasons for the marked increase in bovine slaughtering are attributed largely to the large number of cattle and calves purchased by Uncle Sam during the drouth this summer and fall, generally heavy marketing also was induced by the scarcity of feed and relatively high prices of feed. The decrease in government purchases of cattle during November, however, was reflected in the November slaughter report [illegible] head, or the smallest monthly slaughter since July.

Sheep Breeding Test Now Being Conducted at Northwest School

The Northwest Experiment Station, in cooperation with University Farm, is conducting an extensive sheep breeding trial with special emphasis on the effect of size of market lambs on returns to producers. The trial is being conducted under the direction of O. M. Kiser of the Northwest Experiment Station, and L. M. Winters and P. A. Anderson of University Farm.

This project was initiated in the fall of 1933 at which time a breeding flock of grade ewes was purchased on the South St. Paul market. One-half of these ewes were fine boned ewes of medium size. A group of large ewes was mated to a purebred Shropshire ram of large type, while the group of medium type ewes was mated to a purebred Shropshire ram of compact form and medium type. The two flocks were maintained in separate lots until the pasture season opened in May. Separate feed records were kept on each flock.

Results secured during the preliminary trial indicated the desirability of repeating the work this year. Two separate flocks have therefore been secured and careful records are being kept. Attention will be given to the percentage lamb crop, milking qualities of the ewes, rapidity of gains made by the lambs and comparative cost of production. Results should be of interest to the sheep breeders throughout the country.

A junior yearling red Shorthorn bull, Divide Chancellor, was purchased at the recent International Livestock show, Chicago, from the Allen Cattle company, Colorado Springs, Colorado for the Northwest Experiment Station. In commenting on the individuality of the bull, Professor W. H. Peters, University Farm, St. Paul, states that in his opinion he was the best available young bull at the International this year. He won first in the junior yearling class at the American Royal, Kansas City, this fall and followed by capturing similar honors at the International Livestock show the first week in December.

A Christmas Prize in Person

Florence Haney Wild.

"DO YOU ever win anything in those contests you are always entering?" Muriel Wilson queried of her sister Agnes.

"Not yet," Agnes laughed. "But by the law of averages I should win something."

"Soon, I'd say," Muriel said grimly. "You've been entering contests of one kind and another ever since we were infants and mother entered you in a pretty baby contest."

"That's where I began my losing. If I'd won then I'd probably have kept on winning like those people we read about who live on what they make from contests."

"Pooey!" Muriel scoffed. "What makes you do it, anyway?"

"Just my love of adventure. I'm really a born gambler—in a discreet way, of course. That's why I write for my living, just to see if my brain children will find a place or come back home to me."

"Was it your love of adventure, or gambling spirit or whatever you call it, that made you turn down Harold Ryan three years ago when he came home from college with his cousin Fred to spend the holidays? Now, why did you do that, Agnes? He was everything everyone would want in a husband—looks, family, money, and aren't we always told that marriage is the great adventure?"

"Maybe it is an adventure but what sort of a gamble is it to marry a man who already has everything. No, I preferred to gamble with my own career."

"And now that you've made a success where is the gamble in it?" Muriel carefully stuck a sprig of holly in the knot of her red tissue ribbon.

"Since you ask me so pointedly, Muriel dear, I think, perhaps, if Harold lost his money during the depression, as so many did, and if he were to present himself now as a man winning his way through his own efforts, I might trust myself to adventure along with him. But, I fancy, it is too late. He's probably found some less adventurous soul ere this."

"Most likely," Muriel answered, as she rose to answer the door bell which had been persistently ringing. "Guess we're home alone." She hurried down the stairs.

Five minutes later she was back trying vainly to refrain from any show of excitement.

"Some one on business for you, Agnes. He's the persistent kind, insisted he had to see you right now."

"Oh, well, all right. Tell him I'll be down and get it over with." Agnes took off her smock and departed.

Muriel heard Agnes' surprised ejaculation, but it was some time before she was summoned to join the two in the living room below.

"Muriel is just dying to congratulate me," Agnes gayly greeted her younger sister. "Behold, sister mine, I've actually won in a contest. You see, Harold is managing editor now of the paper that was running this particular contest. When the judges were sort of stuck as to which of three people had won, and prize they referred the matter to him and, recognizing your honorable sister's name among the three, he immediately decided in her favor and came, in person, to deliver it."

"But I thought it was for another reason I was to congratulate you." Muriel did not try to conceal her disappointment.

"There is," Harold answered promptly. "I let Agnes speak first. But the reason I have for bringing Agnes the prize in person was to see if I would win this prize person."

Just then the door of the room adjoining was thrown open and another overcoated young man appeared. "This time it was Agnes' turn to show astonishment.

"Of all things, Fred Ryan! Have you been there all the time?"

"Sure thing. I came with Harold as a sort of moral support. You see, Muriel and I have our wedding all planned. Let's make it a double [illegible]."

[illegible] they [illegible] agreed, hugging one another and shouting "Merry Christmas!"

INVITATION FOR CHRISTMAS
By Alice B. Palmer

HOW glorious! How wonderful, thought Dan, an invitation for Christmas! Christmas with Rose Marie!

Dan had been an orphan at the same school with Rose Marie and a great friendship had sprung up between them. She had been adopted by a kindly family in the East, but had always kept in touch with her old friend Danny.

Now, the invitation for Christmas. Dan had never been invited anywhere for this one great holiday and his whole being was stirred with great expectation.

Danny had always had a most pleasant Christmas at the orphanage. Many generous persons had helped make it so, but he had never been in a real "honest to goodness" home Christmas celebration. His heart leaped with joy. "Wonder how it will be! Wonder who'll be there! Oh boy! I can't wait!"

Some days later an atmosphere of complete Christmas joy pervaded the cozy home of the Gaylords on East End Avenue. The turkey was sizzling in the oven and the great variety of Yule cookies were being frosted and tinted with the Christmas colors.

Some hours later, all was a hushed silence as the little family seated about the lighted tree awaited the guest of the evening.

Soon there were footsteps crunching the snow and the next moment the loud peal of the doorbell.

Father met Dan with the cordial welcome of "Merry Christmas, my boy. I presume this is Danny—our Rose's old friend from Rye Junction."

Then Mother and Rose Marie, their faces wreathed in Christmas smiles, reached for Danny's outstretched hands, simultaneously.

Danny had never in all the movies beheld anyone as lovely as Rose Marie.

"Why, Rose Marie, you are wonderful, simply wonderful! The same eyes, the same hair, oh, I—"

"Here, here, you young people, you are forgetting it is Christmas, Merry Christmas, Dan! Merry Christmas, Rose Marie!" shouted Dad. Then followed an "honest to goodness" Christmas in a real home.

Everywhere Danny's eyes rested, it seemed to say in golden letters, "Merry Christmas—Dan!—Merry Christmas, Dan!"

SCHOOL BOARD AND FACULTY MEN AT CROOKSTON MEET

Supt. Morris Bye Presides at Joint Meeting Last Thursday Night

Five measures proposed to strengthen the financial support of Minnesota public schools were outlined by Floyd B. Moe of Virginia, president of the Minnesota Education association, at a dinner meeting of the Schoolmasters club of Districts 30 and 31 in Crookston Thursday night.

Faculty and school board members from 19 communities including Thief River Falls were present at the meeting, as was Senator-elect E. L. Tungseth.

Moe, dean of the Virginia Junior college, reported the findings of a state association committee appointed to study school support and possible revision of laws relating to school finances.

The committee, he said, based its report on five points: first, reorganization of school districts; second, equalization of state aid; third, revision of tax delinquency laws; fourth, reorganization of property assessments; and fifth, revenues supplementary to or in lieu of property taxes.

Superintendent Arnold Gloor of Crookston cited reasons for opposition to the proposed state printing of textbooks. A general discussion of school support, taxation and state aid was held. Crookston high school students furnished entertainment.

Superintendent Morris Bye of Thief River Falls, president of the Schoolmasters club, who presided at the meeting, discussed state aid in Minnesota, characterizing supplemental aid, high school tuition for non-residential students and transportation aid as the types of state subsidies which are most defensible and which should be maintained and extended, if possible, because they are based on the two sound principles that all children should have educational opportunities and that the burden of financing education should be equitably distributed.

The next meeting of the Schoolmasters club of District 31 will be held in East Grand Forks, about January 10, Reishus announced.

Diphtheria Scare at Warren is Not Serious

There is no need to become hysterical or worried about the diphtheria situation in Warren, as there are only a half dozen mild and practically recovered cases in the city, and they are under strict quarantine, Dr. C. H. Holmstrom, city health officer, states Wednesday, says the Warren Sheaf.

Many wild rumors have been circulated throughout the entire Northwest, regarding the situation, some even going as far as to state that there are more than 200 serious cases resulting in from 10 to 20 deaths—however, this is entirely erroneous.

One death did occur in the city which has been attributed to diphtheria, but not realizing the serious illness of the child, medical aid was not summoned until it was too late to be of value, health officers stated yesterday.

REWARD OFFERED BEFORE DEATH CLAIMED NO GOOD

Fergus Falls.—A valuable diamond ring is lost; a reward is offered for its return; the owner dies; the ring is found; the finder of the ring applies for the reward; the administrator of the estate holds that the reward is not good after death. Such is the sad story of Mrs. Belle Rickey, the finder of the ring. The valuable piece of jewelry was lost by Mrs. Verdie Nickells, who immediately offered a reward of $75 for its return. Shortly after, she died, and her estate went into probate. Mrs. Ritchey found the ring in the Nickells back yard, and claimed the reward, but the administrator of the estate refused to give it to her on the grounds that the reward was no good after Mrs. Nickells' death. The case is now being fought out in court.

Keep Poultry Flocks in Good Physical Shape to Insure Winter Laying

After weeks of heavy egg production, laying hens are likely to show loss in weight followed by a drop in production. According to A. M. Pilkey, Northwest School and Station poultryman, to prevent layers from moulting out of season and to insure a heavy egg flow during the winter, it is essential that they be kept in good physical condition.

It is a good plan to examine a few birds from time to time to be certain that body weight is being maintained. Any tendency towards loss in weight should be checked at once either by increasing the amount of grain or by supplying a special moist mash at noon. A method that has been successfully followed at the Northwest Experiment Station for many years calls for an extra feed of whole yellow corn a short time before roosting. The corn is placed in a large pan or trough so that the birds can quickly obtain their full requirements.

A well balanced laying mash should also be kept before the birds at all times. One foot of hopper space should be provided for every ten birds. Grit, oyster shell and greens should also be available together with a regular supply of clean drinking water. Mr. Pilkey has found that where a supply of milk is available in sufficient quantities, it is distinctly advantageous to replace all water with milk.

WARNING ISSUED ON PROPER USE OF CHRISTMAS TREES

Head of Minnesota Public Safety Group Makes Suggestions

The Christmas season always brings joy, but it also may bring tragedy into the home. With this thought in mind, the advisory committee for the Minnesota Public Safety Educational Program, through its chairman, A. V. Rohweder of Duluth, today issued a series of "Don't" for the guidance of residents of the state during the holiday season. They follow:

Don't use lighted candles for decorating the tree. Use carefully wired electric lights. Don't put the tree near a stove, fireplace or radiator. Don't use cotton, celluloid or paper trimmings. Use mica or flake asbestos for artificial snow. Don't let "Santa" wear cotton trimmings and whiskers or a flammable suit. Don't leave a lighted tree unguarded at any time.

Don't place the tree where it will obstruct any exit or a room. Don't put lighted candles near window curtains, paper wreaths and decorations. Electric candles are to be preferred. Don't use stronger bulbs in lighting the Christmas tree than one firefly candlepower. Don't keep the tree until it dries out. Remove it from the house the day after New Years. Don't fail to anchor the tree firmly.

The advisory committee is directing the activities of the Division of Safety and Compensation of the State Emergency Relief Administration.

Big Drop in State Real Estate Valuations Seen

Assessed valuations of real estate in Minnesota may take a drop of approximately $150,000,000 this year as a result of values found by local assessors and equalized by the state tax commission, it was revealed Monday at the capitol.

The predicted drop in valuations over the last assessment of two years ago will result automatically in boosting tax levies unless drastic curtailment is effected in expenditures and special tax levies inaugurated, or special taxes now in effect increased.

Personal property values also will probably decrease this year, it was learned, with the expected total to drop from $218,000,000 last year to a new low of $196,000,000.

Lake Levels and Fish Conditions Improved

An abundance of fall rains and heavy snowfalls with lakes still remaining open at the time have greatly improved lake conditions in the state and low water levels have been materially raised with a direct benefit to fish life, Erling Swenson, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, reported. Water levels were so low in many lakes this fall that promiscuous fishing was permitted that the fish might be taken and utilized for food purposes, Director Swenson said. Counties where lakes were particularly shallow were Watonwan, Faribault, Lincoln, Freeborn, Lyon, Pope, Brown, Murray and Cottonwood.

BOY WARMS PUPS, FIRE RAZES BARN

Litchfield—A fire built by a four year-old boy to warm some newly born puppies turned from a kind deed into a disaster Thanksgiving day, destroying the pups, a barn and 20 tons of hay. The blaze was on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Anderson, north of Atwater. It was discovered at 4 p. m. and was soon out of control, reducing the structure to ashes. It was their son who kindled the fire for a bunch of shivering puppies, only to see it quickly spread and devour his pets and his father's property.

STATE AGENCIES FILE REQUEST FOR INCREASED FUNDS

Department Heads Ask More Than $44,000,000 for Next Two Years

An increase of $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 in the state budget for 1935 and 1936 was indicated late last week in preliminary requests for appropriations submitted to J. C. Strout, state director of the budget.

Virtually all state departments asked increases over their 1933-34 allotments. The budgets were submitted after many conferences between Strout and department heads.

The budget for the current two-year period was $27,000,000. Department heads are asking for a total of from $44,000,000 to $47,000,000 for the next two years, Strout, a member of the "Big Three" and director of personnel, indicated.

A plan for projecting the cost of $4,000,000 building program in addition to the budget over a period of several years is under consideration by Strout. The program would be financed by certificates of indebtedness.

The department of education requested more than $17,000,000 or $4,500,000 more than for the present period, because of the decrease in school districts' revenue and the increase in pupils enrolled. The university asked about $8,000,000 or $1,800,000 more than last year. Strout was expected to recommend these budgets practically as they stand while demanding much curtailment in other departments.

The possibility of the legislature's granting the full requests was deemed remote. Majorities in both the senate and house were elected on platforms pledging them to cut state expenditures.

Goodridge Man to Go to Creamery Short Course

Among the successful candidates, chosen by the Minnesota College of Agriculture to attend the six weeks' creamery course at University Farm is Floyd B. Olson of Goodridge. Because of a reduced budget, the College of Agriculture has been compelled to restrict the attendance this year to only highly qualified creamery men. The course begins January 8, 1935, and will close February 19.

4,161,000 FAMILIES ON U. S. RELIEF IN NOVEMBER

Federal Emergency Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins indicated Friday there were about 4,161,000 families on federal relief rolls during November, an increase of approximately 1.5 per cent over October.

CAPITOL NEWS

(By A. I. Harris)

The state gasoline tax for 1934 will exceed $12,000,000. At the same time the loss to the state through gas tax evasion will hit an all time low of $578. For the nine years the gas tax division was in existance prior to George Griffith's appointment, the yearly collections were much under the 1934 figure, while evasion losses averaged $15,000 annually.

Melvin C. Passolt, superintendent of the state crime bureau, will ask the coming Legislature for an increased force of operatives. At present he has nine men under him but wishes to increase that number to 24. This is in line with recommendations of various crime study organizations.

The office of state liquor control commissioner has added a chemist to its staff. All liquor sold in Minnesota will be analized by this laboratory expert.

The Conservation Commission, at its meeting last week, endorsed the plan proposed by the St. Louis County Planning Board for promoting the same class of employment within state forests as has been proposed by the Regional Forester for national forests. The federal government also was urged to allocate funds for state forest improvement to relieve the serious unemployment situation. Appearing before the Commission in behalf of the St. Louis County Planning Board, George Barrett of Buhl, member of the Arrowhead Rehabilitation association, declared that there were 35,000 men unemployed in St. Louis county alone. The program advocated, he said, would provide immediate work for approximately 12,000 persons for from 10 to 20 months, and permanent employment for 5,000 to 6,000 men. The program is one of forest rehabilitation.

According to latest reports, there are 60,000 persons on the SERA work-relief payroll. These are clients who are working on SERA projects in return for the relief given them. Included are more than 6,000 women, 1,800 in Minneapolis and 1,000 in St. Paul. The men work on such projects as construction, water conservation and flood control and white-collar jobs, while the women are engaged in sewing, nursing, library work, and other white-collar type projects. The so-called white-collar jobs are those utilizing the previous experience of non-manual workers.

Depositors in closed banks in Minnesota will be made happy this holiday season with Christmas presents in the form of dividends from the Minnesota state banking department. According to Elmer A. Benson, Commissioner of Banks, a total of 55 dividends will be declared during the month of December, mostly before Christmas, totaling $513,509.47. The average dividends to each bank is $9,336.53, and the average check to each depositor is $20.08. The total amount in dividends paid to depositors of closed banks in 1934 will approximate $5,500,000, according to Mr. Benson, who says this sets an all time record for the banking department.

In the 28 years that the inheritance tax has been in effect, it has yielded a total of $32,911,143.35, according to the report of the State Auditor. The banner year was in 1917, when $2,594,487 was collected.

A wholesome sign that things are looking brighter for people in the Middle West was evidenced by the licensing by the Securities Commission of the sale of stock in a company formed at Moorhead, Minnesota, by a large group of business and professional men and farmers of adjoining territory for the purpose of leasing and purchasing from the State lands taken over for delinquent taxes. The new company, to be known as Farmers and Merchants Holding Company, Incorporated, already has leased some thousand acres of land from the state, has purchased tractors and farming equipment, and plans are now fully developed for the breaking up and farming of this land. The objective is to gradually increase the lands acquired as operations continue. Such faith in the future of that part of the state alone is a satisfaction, but in addition there is a situation whereby abandoned lands are reclaimed for farming purposes and placed once more on the tax rolls to the joint benefit to the company and the community at large.

Governor Olson underwent a minor operation successfully and reports from his physician are that he will be in perfect health and fit to undergo the ordeals of a strenuous legislative session.

Corn loans were made by the Federal Government to farmers in the various states this year and this method of making such loans proved so successful that it is the intention of the Federal Government to extend loans to farmers also on various kinds of grain. In the State of Minnesota 13,397 loans were made aggregating $5,116,077.57 on 12,102,791 bushels of corn. The loans were made in this state under the Minnesota Farm Storage Act, the details of which are administered by the Railroad and Warehouse Commission.

STEAL 1049 LBS. BUTTER AND PRINTING MACHINE

Princeton—Burglars broke into the creamery at Pease recently and stole 1,049 pounds of butter, also taking with them a printing machine. If a large shipment of butter had not been sent out shortly before the burglary occurred, the loss would undoubtedly have been much heavier. The thieves backed a truck up to the creamery to carry away their loot.

BALLOON FROM FOOTBALL GAME GOES 275 MILES

Silver Lake—A toy balloon which had been released at the Minnesota-Wisconsin football game at Madison, Wis., November 24, came to rest the following day in a tree on the J. J. Sustacek farm near Bohemian Hall. When found, the balloon was nearly deflated. On it was printed the one word, "Wisconsin" and to the end of a five-inch string were tied five matches which served as ballast for the balloon on its 275 mile journey.

Five measures proposed to strengthen the financial support of Minnesota public schools were outlined by Floyd B. Moe of Virginia, president of the Minnesota Education association, at a dinner meeting of the Schoolmasters club of Districts 30 and 31 in Crookston Thursday night.

Faculty and school board members from 19 communities including Thief River Falls were present at the meeting, as was Senator-elect E. L. Tungseth.

Moe, dean of the Virginia junior college, reported the findings of a state association committee appointed to study school support and possible revision of laws relating to school finances.

The committee, he said, based its report on five points: first, reorganization of school districts; second, equalization of state aid; third, revision of tax delinquency laws; fourth, reorganization of property assessments; and fifth, revenues supplementary to or in lieu of property taxes.

Superintendent Arnold Gloor of Crookston cited reasons for opposition to the proposed state printing of textbooks. A general discussion of school support, taxation and state aid was held. Crookston high school students furnished entertainment.

Superintendent Morris Bye of Thief River Falls, president of the Schoolmasters club, who presided at the meeting, discussed state aid in Minnesota, characterizing supplemental aid, high school tuition for non-residential students and transportation aid as the types of state subsidies which are most defensible and which should be maintained and extended, if possible, because they are based on the two sound principles that all children should have educational opportunities and that the burden of financing education should be equitably distributed.

The next meeting of the Schoolmasters club of District 31 will be held in East Grand Forks, about January 10, Heishus announced.

Diphtheria Scare at Warren is Not Serious

There is no need to become hysterical or worried about the diphtheria situation in Warren, as there are only a half dozen mild and practically recovered cases in the city, and they are under strict quarantine, Dr. C. H. Holmstrom, city health officer, stated Wednesday, says the Warren Sheaf.

Many wild rumors have been circulated throughout the entire Northwest regarding the situation, some even going as far as to state that there are more than 200 serious cases resulting in from 10 to 20 deaths—however, this is entirely erroneous.

One death did occur in the city which has been attributed to diphtheria, but not realizing the serious illness of the child, medical aid was not summoned until it was too late to be of value, health officers stated yesterday.

REWARD OFFERED BEFORE DEATH CLAIMED NO GOOD

Fergus Falls.—A valuable diamond ring is lost; a reward is offered for its return; the owner dies; the ring is found; the finder of the ring applies for the reward; the administrator of the estate holds that the reward is not good after death. Such is the sad story of Mrs. Belle Rickey, the finder of the ring. The valuable piece of jewelry was lost by Mrs. Verlie Nickells, who immediately offered a reward of $75 for its return. Shortly after, she died, and her estate went into probate. Mrs. Ritchey found the ring in the Nickells back yard, and claimed the reward, but the administrator of the estate refused to give it to her on the grounds that the reward was no good after Mrs. Nickells' death. The case is now being fought out in court.

Keep Poultry Flocks in Good Physical Shape to Insure Winter Laying

After weeks of heavy egg production, laying hens are likely to show loss in weight followed by a drop in production. According to A. M. Pilkey, Northwest School and Station poultryman, to prevent layers from moulting out of season and to insure a heavy egg flow during the winter, it is essential that they be kept in good physical condition.

It is a good plan to examine a few birds from time to time to be certain that body weight is being maintained. Any tendency towards loss in weight should be checked at once either by increasing the amount of grain or by supplying a special moist mash at noon. A method that has been successfully followed at the Northwest Experiment Station for many years calls for an extra feed of whole yellow corn a short time before roosting. The corn is placed in a large pan or trough so that the birds can quickly obtain their full requirements.

A well balanced laying mash should also be kept before the birds at all times. One foot of hopper space should be provided for every ten birds. Grit, oyster shell and greens should also be available together with a regular supply of clean drinkink water. Mr. Pilkey has found that where a supply of milk is available in sufficient quantities, it is distinctly advantageous to replace all water with milk.

WARNING ISSUED ON PROPER USE OF CHRISTMAS TREES

Head of Minnesota Public Safety Group Makes Suggestions

The Christmas season always brings joy, but it also may bring tragedy into the home. With this thought in mind, the advisory committee for the Minnesota Public Safety Educational Program, through its chairman, A. V. Rohweder of Duluth, today issued a series of "Don't" for the guidance of residents of the state during the holiday season. They follow:

Don't use lighted candles for decorating the tree. Use carefully wired electric lights. Don't put the tree near a stove, fireplace or radiator. Don't use cotton, celluloid or paper trimmings. Use mica or flake asbestos for artificial snow. Don't let "Santa" wear cotton trimmings and whiskers or a flammable suit. Don't leave a lighted tree unguarded at any time.

Don't place the tree where it will obstruct any exit or a room. Don't put lighted candles near window curtains, paper wreaths and decorations. Electric candles are to be preferred. Don't use stronger bulbs in lighting the Christmas tree than one firefly candlepower. Don't keep the tree until it dries out. Remove it from the house the day after New Years. Don't fail to anchor the tree firmly.

The advisory committee is directing the activities of the Division of Safety and Compensation of the State Emergency Relief Administration.

Nearly 200 persons from throughout the ninth district attended a Farmer-Labor legislative conference in Crookston. Resolutions were adopted expressing support and confidence in Congressman-elect R. T. Buckler of Crookston and in Governor Floyd B. Olson.

Assessed valuations of real estate in Minnesota may take a drop of approximately $150,000,000 this year as a result of values found by local assessors and equalized by the state tax commission, it was revealed Monday at the capitol.

The predicted drop in valuations over the last assessment of two years ago will result automatically in boosting tax levies unless drastic curtailment is effected in expenditures and special tax levies inaugurated, or special taxes now in effect increased.

Personal property values also will probably decrease this year, it was learned, with the expected total to drop from $218,000,000 last year to a new low of $196,000,000.

Lake Levels and Fish Conditions Improved

An abundance of fall rains and heavy snowfalls with lakes still remaining open at the time have greatly improved lake conditions in the state and low water levels have been materially raised with a direct benefit to fish life, Erling Swenson, Director of the Division of Game and Fish, reported. Water levels were so low in many lakes this fall that promiscuous fishing was permitted that the fish might be taken and utilized for food purposes, Director Swenson said. Counties where lakes were particularly shallow were Watonwan, Faribault, Lincoln, Freeborn, Lyon, Pope, Brown, Murray and Cottonwood.

BOY WARMS PUPS, FIRE RAZES BARN

Litchfield—A fire built by a four year-old boy to warm some newly born puppies turned from a kind deed into a disaster Thanksgiving day, destroying the pups, a barn and 20 tons of hay. The blaze was on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Anderson, north of Atwater. It was discovered at 4 p. m. and was soon out of control, reducing the structure to ashes. It was their son who kindled the fire for a bunch of shivering puppies, only to see it quickly spread and devour his pets and his father's property.

STATE AGENCIES FILE REQUEST FOR INCREASED FUNDS

Department Heads Ask More Than $44,000,000 for Next Two Years

An increase of $7,000,000 to $10,000,000 in the state budget for 1935 and 1936 was indicated late last week in preliminary requests for appropriations submitted to I. C. Strout, state director of the budget.

Virtually all state departments asked increases over their 1933-34 allotments. The budgets were submitted after many conferences between Strout and department heads.

The budget for the current two-year period was $27,000,000. Department heads are asking for a total of from $44,000,000 to $47,000,000 for the next two years, Strout, a member of the "Big Three" and director of personnel, indicated.

A plan for projecting the cost of $4,000,000 building program in addition to the budget over a period of several years is under consideration by Strout. The program would be financed by certificates of indebtedness.

The department of education requested more than $17,000,000 or $4,500,000 more than for the present period, because of the decrease in school districts' revenue and the increase in pupils enrolled. The university asked about $8,000,000 or $1,500,000 more than last year. Strout was expected to recommend these budgets practically as they stand while demanding much curtailment in other departments.

The possibility of the legislature's granting the full requests was deemed remote. Majorities in both the senate and house were elected on platforms pledging them to cut state expenditures.

Goodridge Man to Go to Creamery Short Course

Among the successful candidates, chosen by the Minnesota College of Agriculture to attend the six weeks' creamery course at University Farm is Floyd B. Olson of Goodridge. Because of a reduced budget, the College of Agriculture has been compelled to restrict the attendance this year to only highly qualified creamery men. The course begins January 8, 1935, and will close February 19.

4,161,000 FAMILIES ON U. S. RELIEF IN NOVEMBER

Federal Emergency Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins indicated Friday there were about 4,161,000 families on federal relief rolls during November, an increase of approximately 1.5 per cent over October.

CAPITOL NEWS

(By A. I. Harris)

The state gasoline tax for 1934 will exceed $12,000,000. At the same time the loss to the state through gas tax evasion will hit an all time low of $578. For the nine years the gas tax division was in existance prior to George Griffith's appointment, the yearly collections were much under the 1934 figure, while evasion losses averaged $15,000 annually.

Melvin C. Passolt, superintendent of the state crime bureau, will ask the coming Legislature for an increased force of operatives. At present he has nine men under him but wishes to increase that number to 24. This is in line with recommendations of various crime study organizations.

The office of state liquor control commissioner has added a chemist to its staff. All liquor sold in Minnesota will be analized by this laboratory expert.

The Conservation Commission, at its meeting last week, endorsed the plan proposed by the St. Louis County Planning Board for promoting the same class of employment within state forests as has been proposed by the Regional Forester for national forests. The federal government also was urged to allocate funds for state forest improvement to relieve the serious unemployment situation. Appearing before the Commission in behalf of the St. Louis County Planning Board, George Barrett of Buhl, member of the Arrowhead Rehabilitation association, declared that there were 35,000 men unemployed in St. Louis county alone. The program advocated, he said, would provide immediate work for approximately 12,000 persons for from 16 to 20 months, and permanent employment for 5,000 to 6,000 men. The program is one of forest rehabilitation.

According to latest reports, there are 60,000 persons on the SERA work-relief payroll. These are clients who are working on SERA projects in return for the relief given them. Included are more than 6,000 women, 1,800 in Minneapolis and 1,000 in St. Paul. The men work on such projects as construction, water conservation and flood control and white-collar jobs, while the women are engaged in sewing, nursing, library work, and other white-collar type projects. The so-called white-collar jobs are those utilizing the previous experience of non-manual workers.

Depositors in closed banks in Minnesota will be made happy this holiday season with Christmas presents in the form of dividends from the Minnesota state banking department. According to Elmer A. Benson, Commissioner of Banks, a total of 55 dividends will be declared during the month of December, mostly before Christmas, totaling $513,509.47. The average dividends to each bank is $9,330.53, and the average check to each depositor is $20.05. The total amount in dividends paid to depositors of closed banks in 1934 will approximate $5,500,000, according to Mr. Benson, who says this sets an all time record for the banking department.

In the 28 years that the inheritance tax has been in effect, it has yielded a total of $32,911,143.35, according to the report of the State Auditor. The banner year was in 1917, when $2,591,487 was collected.

A wholesome sign that things are looking brighter for people in the Middle West was evidenced by the licensing by the Securities Commission of the sale of stock in a company formed at Moorhead, Minnesota, by a large group of business and professional men and farmers of adjoining territory for the purpose of leasing and purchasing from the State lands taken over for delinquent taxes. The new company, to be known as Farmers and Merchants Holding Company, Incorporated, already has leased some thousand acres of land from the state, has purchased tractors and farming equipment, and plans are now fully developed for the breaking up and farming of this land. The objective is to gradually increase the lands acquired as operations continue. Such faith in the future of that part of the state alone is a satisfaction, but in addition there is a situation whereby abandoned lands are reclaimed for farming purposes and placed once more on the tax rolls to the joint benefit to the company and the community at large.

Governor Olson underwent a minor operation successfully and reports from his physician are that he will be in perfect health and fit to undergo the ordeals of a strenuous legislative session.

Corn loans were made by the Federal Government to farmers in the various states this year and this method of making such loans proved so successful that it is the intention of the Federal Government to extend loans to farmers also on various kinds of grain. In the State of Minnesota 15,397 loans were made aggregating $5,446,077.57 on 12,102,391 bushels of corn. The loans were made in this state under the Minnesota Farm Storage Act, the details of which are administered by the Railroad and Warehouse Commission.

STEAL 1049 LBS. BUTTER AND PRINTING MACHINE

Princeton—Burglars broke into the creamery at Pease recently and stole 1,049 pounds of butter, also taking with them a printing machine. If a large shipment of butter had not been sent out shortly before the burglary occurred, the loss would undoubtedly have been much heavier. The thieves backed a truck up to the creamery to carry away their loot.

BALLOON FROM FOOTBALL GAME GOES 275 MILES

Silver Lake—A toy balloon which had been released at the Minnesota-Wisconsin football game at Madison, Wis., November 24, came to rest the following day in a tree on the J. J. Rustucek farm near Bohemian Hall. When found, the balloon was nearly deflated. On it was printed the one word, "Wisconsin" and to the end of a five-inch string were tied five matches which served as ballast for the balloon on its 275 mile journey.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

LINCOLN CHORUS TO GIVE ANNUAL XMAS MUSICALE

Mixed Chorus, Girls' Glee Club and a Cappella Choir to Present Selections

This year, as has been done in previous years, the various schools will present their annual Christmas programs. At this time, the students in our city will present the Christmas story through song, reading and pantomine. All the musical organizations are under the direction of Miss Erna Springen, public school music supervisor.

The program which will be presented by the high school mixed chorus promises to be very beautiful. This year our chorus will be represented by three large groups, namely, the mixed chorus, the girl's glee club, and an a cappella choir. The mixed chorus of sixty voices will sing two groups, the girl's glee club of forty voices will sing one selection, and the a cappella choir of twenty-four voices will sing three anthems. This latter group has been organized very recently. It is composed almost entirely of juniors and seniors, and contains more or less the cream of our musical talent. The group has been practicing outside of school hours and should present a finished piece of work.

Soloists will be James Nesse, who played the leading role in our operetta, and Robert Oden, who also played an important part. Other solos will be taken by girls who have never done any solo work before, namely, Evelyn Tungseth, Fae Belcher, Adeline Nabben and Margaret Jacobson. Miss Genevieve Mangnell, a member of the Teacher Training Department, will also sing a solo.

The small groups appearing are the freshman girls' trio and the mixed quartette. These groups will each sing one selection.

Miss Springen will be assisted by Helen Granum, accompanist, Mr. Orwoll, who has consented to play a baritone solo, and Mr. Lanning, who will lead the assembly in the mass singing.

We hope all of the alumni who are in the city on Friday will attend this concert.

I C

That there's a new fad-wearing white shoes skating.

That our basketeers were not as hot cha cha as Grand Forks. (But, you'll improve eh, boys?)

That many are making New Year Resolutions—(to skate better, go to bed early, get better marks, and to be more lovable.)

That Mr. Carlson got his words mixed; Mr. Carlson (disgusted with some one): Just let me get my throat around your neck!)

That practically all of us High School Brilliants have had the measles. Now don't get the mumps over vacation (Which would you rather have rosy cheeks or fat checks?)

That Lois M. gave quite an oration (Lois, shall we call you an orator or an actress?)

That most of us are seventy-five cents more broke. (But, we can get twelve more cold snaps with the sixty cents we save.)

Girls' Gym Classes Practice on Rhythm

Probably some of you wonder why all the music you've been hearing was being played in the Girl's Gym Classes. The first part of the past week the girls worked on rhythm. They ran, walked, jumped up and down, and wabbled like ducks to music. It seemed to be quite strenuous, as many of the girls were stiff and tired from it the day following their gym classes.

The last part of the week they finished the basket ball test on guarding and the backward pivot and throw. Most of the girls rated better in that than in the other parts of the test. The latter part of the periods they again touched up on rhythm.

GRAND FORKS DEFEATS LOCALS

Central Hands Prowlers 1st Defeat by 37-22 Score

The Grand Forks Central High cagers administered the first defeat of the season to the Prowlers to the tune of 37-22. After the first quarter which ended with the Prowlers on the short end of a 15-3 score the game went on on a more even basis. The Centralites were given a scare by a strong rally by the Prowlers but this dropped short of the mark. Grand Forks, after losing its first game in three overtime periods, came back looking like champions.

One of the best performances ever seen was put up by the Forkers' Captain Nelson. In the first quarter of the game, he scored eleven of the total thirteen points. Altogether in the game, he scored twenty-two points. Besides Capt. Nelson, the outstanding performers for the Forkers were Burkhardt and Bye. For the Prowlers, Hermanson, Mickleson, and Kielty were outstanding.

The Prowlers have high hopes of beating the Forks on March 1 when they come here for a return game. Their hopes are heightened a lot by the fact that Burkhardt, star forward of the Grand Forks quint, will be ineligible at that time. The Prowlers open their home schedule against the Crookston Aggies Thursday evening.

BASKET BALL PROGRESS

This column will be run in the Progress every week from now until the end of the basket ball season. In this the averages of all players will be brought out. The abbreviations used are as follows: fg for field goals made, ft for free throws made, fm for free throws missed, and pf for personal fouls. This week's column is the total of games with Badger, Plummer, and Grand Forks.

Hermanson	16	5	0	3

The members of the Teacher Training Department have had practice teaching in 6th grade history and citizenship.

PROWLERS FACE CROOKSTON A. C. HERE TONIGHT

Preliminary Game Between Prowlers "B" and St. Hilaire to Start at 7 O'clock

Tonight is the night! Tonight the mighty Prowlers turn the heat on the Crookston Agricultural College quintet in the first home game of the season. The Crookston Aggies have a team that is stronger than usual and will provide an ample test of the ability of the Gold and Blue.

The game will start at 7:00 and until the final whistle blows, there will be plenty of competition and suspense. The Aggies have usually been the underdogs, but this year they are coming here firmly resolved to be on the long of the score.

Last year the Lincoln squad journeyed to Crookston, and, in a double header, beat the A. C. by a ratio of three to one and with this in mind, the Aggies will strive just that much harder to win.

There will be a preliminary game between B squad and St. Hilaire that will be worth seeing. The second string is full of hopes and have determined to show all the spectators that they have class.

With the Prowlers making their debut before Thief River basket ball fans, there ought to be a packed house, so be on hand early, and don't forget to buy your season ticket.

SHOP NOTES

Twenty-five drawing desks recently installed in the drawing room were made by the Shop II students. All users of these desks acknowledge a great improvement over the old desks which were very unstable and scarred. Next year Mr. Pope intends to add separate drawing boards. The addition of these desks constitutes the major improvement in the drawing room for a number of years.

The Seventh Grade boys are at present engaged in rope and cordage work and belt splicing.

The Eight Grade boys have recently completed their unit course in drawing and are now working in woodworking which will be followed by a twelve weeks' course in electricity.

ON NEW TEACHERS

Of the 6th period teachers we've had this fall,
I'm sure Mr. Johnson beats them all.
He always greets you with a grin,
No matter what kind of a jam you're in.

To get him for a teacher was our lucky break;
He must be of a genuine make.
He hardly ever seems sullen or cross,
Now all in one, he's an elegant boss.

When the buzzer sounds at five minutes to,
We go to our seats and that's a good clue
That he's been treating us okay,
For it's very unusual to behave that way.

The students, I'm sure, will all agree
That he's a help to our faculty;
And we're hoping that in the days to pass,
He'll be as jolly in every class.

UNIVERSAL PEACE

One of the most discussed, yet one of the least understood, topics of today is that of Universal Peace. Many men have dedicated their lives to the promotion of universal good-will and understanding. The efforts of some have been successful, but I fear that the majority of them labored without achieving truly satisfactory results. As long as men continue to be greedy, and as long as they continue to misunderstand and hate each other, there will never exist a state of true "Peace". If men insist on treading the paths of such ideas, their ultimate destiny will inevitably be their annihilation from the face of the earth as a result of their own insidious, avaricious plottings.

The road to World Peace will be a long road. Man must first obtain peace in domestic life, in business life, and in national and international relationships. The same incentives that lead men to break and debase their home lives and their business lives lead one nation to declare war upon another.

The ordinary domicile of the ordinary man of today is certainly not my idea of "Utopia." Why are the periodicals of today filled with disgusting accounts of divorce, robbery, suicide, and homicide? Because in the home of today there is a pitiful absence of love. Mankind in general have no desire to display any affection for each other. The condition that we have today would be utterly impossible if "men loved their neighbors as themselves." Man misunderstands, he hates, he kills. He hasn't time to investigate the causes of the misunderstanding. He acts impulsively, and when it is too late, he regrets.

The Great War is a horrible example of misunderstanding. The people of the entire world were divided into two great factions each spiting, detesting, and killing the other. Yet the mass of the people were directly at fault. They were treacherously induced to believe fallacious things of the other faction, and they clamored for war! They got war. And a loathsome tale of bloodshed, murder, and mourning was written into history. You ask, why? Because one people misunderstood another.

The modern unscrupulous methods of conducting business are another important factor in destroying man's faith in his friends and associates. Daily we read of one individual or group of individuals bringing judicial action against another. It seems that unfair competition in business and industry has been quite conventional. Senate investigating committees uncover huge frauds, violation of tax payments, giving of bribes, and unlawful profit making. Must youth of today be demoralized by the illegal action of "men of politics and finance"? Decidedly no! Youth of today must be taught to have aversion to such things. Youth must be taught to develop the qualities which will correct these faults. And with fairness and peace in our business institutions, we shall have taken a large step forward in the promotion of Universal Peace.

And lastly we must acquire peace in national and international affairs. We must exercise more prudence in the selection of the men who run our governmental affairs. One must be more cautious when one marks an X after the candidates name on the ballot. Have we studied the policies of the various nominees for offices? Do we know what the different party platform are?

Historians point out that it was the political leaders of the various countries who plunged the entire world into armed contest. We are also told that the world is on the verge of another conflict which will be many times more destructive than the last World War. But it is my firm opinion that such a conflict can be averted by using discretion in choosing the men with whom we endow the power to throw us into (or keep us out of) a clash of opposing military forces.

With peace in the home, the business world, and the political world, we shall have accomplished our aim in securing peace for a world whose very existence depends upon this precious peace. We cannot get peace by writing nor by reading, but we can get peace by acting. And by so doing we shall have fulfilled the desire of our Creator whom we worship: "Let there be Peace on Earth and Good Will Toward Men."

Meet the Prowler, Basketeers

The only Sophomore on this year's Prowler quint is James Van Pelt.

Name: James Van Pelt
Age: 17
Weight: 165
Height: 6 ft.
Class: Sophomore

Van Pelt has a reputation for being an all-round athlete. He has won two letters in football, and as a Freshman, played on the second team. This year he is expected to do big things in track. In his first two games as a regular, Jim has starred at center. As one game after another passes, Jim is expected to become one of the most consistent players on the team.

One of the newcomers to Prowler basket ball this season, is also one of the most promising candidates for future years.

Name: Leonard Helquist
Weight: 155
Height: 6 ft. 2 in.
Class: Sophomore

This is Helquist's first year in Prowler basket ball. He is a good ball handler and is an amazingly accurate shot. With the experience he will receive this year on the second team, he is expected to develop into an outstanding candidate in his next two years in school. He stood out last year in interclass basket ball and, although he played on a losing team, looked like one of the best performers on the floor at all times. With a little added height which he should get before next season he will give any veteran a run for a regular position on the team.

Here we have another Sophomore who will be a prominent member of this year's B squad.

Name: Don Olson
Age: 14
Weight: 148
Height: 5 feet 9 inches
Class: Sophomore

Don has been in the foreground both in grade and interclass basket ball. Not only does he play basket ball well, but he lists among his accomplishments tennis, track, and football. Although usually a guard, Don will probably play center on the second squad. With three years of basket ball and two years of football left, he will be heard from in no little manner once he "finds himself". So let's start looking, Don!

RED LAKE FALLS WINS TOURNEY

Warren Second in Annual Debate Tournament Dec. 15

The annual debate tournament under the supervision of Mr. Carlson was held Saturday from 9:00 A. M. to 6:00 p. m. Red Lake Falls won the tournament for the second consecutive time defeating the Warren team in the finals by a 2-2 decision. The finalists debated 6 times apiece.

Thirty-one debates were held ending at 6 p. m. The following towns were represented: Karlstad, Oklee, Crookston, Warren, Roseau, Red Lake Falls, and Thief River Falls.

After illness among local debaters had taken its toll, only Francis Engle and Oscar Bickley represented Thief River Falls.

We feel that this debate tournament recently initiated by Mr. Carlson deserves a great deal of praise, and work of this type has a great future among the high schools in this part of Northwestern Minnesota. It furthers a competitive feeling and stimulates interest in Debate work.

JUNIOR CLASS DUE CAMPAIGN ENDED

Art Douville is Head of Senior Class Campaign

The collecting of the Junior and Senior class dues has created quite a sensation in school. Enterprising students have "given up" some of their pleasures during the past week so that they might do their part in making the undertaking a success.

In the Junior class, Arthur Nelson, Committee Chairman, has prepared an unique system for tabulating the money collected. Under the guidance of Miss Tandberg and Miss Greenland, four thermometers representing graphs have been prepared, each thermometer illustrating one class. When one school day has been completed, the collectors meet in Room 110 and record the money secured during the day. The members of the second period class will be pleased to hear that their class was leading in the amount of money collected when this was written. On Monday night, Arthur Nelson reported that the Junior class had received three-fifths of their dues in one week's campaign.

The Seniors are asking one dollar as the year's amount of class dues. Half will be collected the first semester, while the remainder will be paid during the last semester. Many students have been absent with measles, colds and chicken pox, the class representative said that it is very difficult to cope with the situation. Art Douville has been elected as the Committee Chairman for the collectors of the Senior class.

If you have not paid your class dues as yet, try to think up a way in which you can earn the money during vacation. Perhaps this will help. Only those who pay their dues are permitted at any of the class functions.

PLUMMER

Warren Defeats Plummer High

In a close and hard fought game Plummer high went down to defeat before the Warren quint at Warren Friday by a score of 18-16. Plummer led at the half 7-6 but was unable to keep the margin during the second period. Each team made six field goals and Warren's margin of victory came from the free throw line when Plummer was able to connect on only three out of eleven gift shots.

Bossman was the high scorer for Warren with a total of ten points, connecting three times from the field and four times from the foul line. A. Karlstad was the outstanding player for Plummer and turned in another high class game to retain his right to the name of one of the best ball players in the district.

Next Thursday brings the highly touted Crookston high team to the local gym for the best game of the season. Doctors State Comfort Comes First in Winter Dressing of Children

Do bare legs in winter promote vitality and resistance to colds? Not in the opinion of the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association in a bulletin on the subject issued today.

Some few small children may possibly go with uncovered knees all winter in Minnesota without harm or discomfort. But they are children with unusual vitality to start with. For the others bare knees are likely to be a serious and unnecessary drain on the child's vitality. All children should be dressed for comfort at all times.

"The question of what to wear requires exercise of common sense" says the bulletin. "No hard and fast rules on the subject can be laid down. If your house or apartment is always warm and often over-heated, as most of them are, then summer time clothes should be worn inside with plenty of wraps ready to add when the child goes outdoors."

It is equally important to see that the child is not over-dressed in the opinion of the committee.

Clothes should never be piled on according to the calandar rather than the temperature. The generation of children that grew up when flannels went on on a fixed date, regardless of the weather, have vivid recollections of the unnecessary agony of prickly wool on warm days.

Wasps' Nests

The deserted home of the paper making wasp is a common sight throughout Michigan woodlands, says the Detroit News. In the old days when the pioneers suffered from hay fever or asthma they found relief by smoking particles of this dried nest. In building it the wasps gather small chips of wood, masticate them and shape their nest much as an artisan would handling plaster or cement. The entrance hole at the bottom goes upward in order to keep out beating rains and the entire structure is highly waterproof.

SAFETY ZONES TO BE ESTABLISHED ON TRUNK ROUTES

Motorists to be Forbidden to Pass Cars at Hazardous Points

In a new effort to reduce accidents on sharp curves, bad hills and other places of unusual hazard, the state highway department will soon establish "no passing" zones on trunk highways.

Such danger zones will be indicated by a double center stripe in the middle of the highway, as contrasted with the single center stripe in general use. Signs at the roadside will carry the "no passing" message.

Engineers are now making a survey of locations on the main routes where passing restrictions are needed. In general, such locations will be on approaches to the crest of a hill where the clear view ahead is less than 500 feet, and on all curves with a radius less than 600 feet or where the clear view ahead is less than 500 feet.

At places of extreme hazard, special reflector button markers may be placed between the double center lines to emphasize the danger at night.

Many head-on collisions result from cars attempting to pass others while the drivers cannot see far enough ahead to insure safety.

MEANEST BURGLAR STEALS SALVATION ARMY CLOTHES

Brainerd—The meanest thief in the world,—unless possibly he needed the clothing worse, took a number of night dresses for children and several pairs of rubbers from the Salvation Army store room in Brainerd one night early this week. The articles of clothing taken were to be distributed to needy Brainerd people this week and the theft was discovered by Captain Frank Genge, new Salvation Army leader in the county seat. Entrance into the building, located on Front Street between Fifth and Fourth streets, was made by breaking a window in the basement of the chapel.

State Game Wardens Active, Report Shows

With 40 less game wardens this November as compared to a year ago, arrests for game law violations last month showed a big increase over November, 1933, a report by George Weaver, chief game warden, discloses. In November this year, 328 arrests were made by state game wardens while last year in November arrests totalled 192. Last year 46 deer were seized in November because of game law infractions and this year this figure was increased to 121 deer.

Fines levied last month because of game law violations amounted to 5,178, the report stated.

"Records of arrests would indicate that our state game warden force has been exceedingly active or that there has been a marked increase in the number of violators" Mr. Weaver said. "Although November is always a large month in game law violations because of the close of the small game hunting season and the usual big game hunting in even-numbered years, this November has surpassed any similar month in past years, records in the division of Game and Fish reveal."

'U' SURVEY SHOWS HEAVY DECLINE IN MINNESOTA BANKS

Number Shrinks From 1,536 in 1921 to 832 at End of 1933

Depositors in a list of 44 closed rural banks in Minnesota selected for purposes of study by the Employment Stabilization Research Institute of the University of Minnesota, received more than half the amount of their deposits as the banks were liquidated, the survey just published reveals.

"The survey was undertaken in an effort to learn what happened in the field of rural banking between 1921 and the end of 1933 and why," Dean Russel A. Stevenson, director of the institute, says in an introductory statement.

In the interval the number of rural banks in the state declined from 1,536 to 832 and "conditions within the region have been reflected in the instability of the banking system during the last decade," the statement points out. It includes with the declaration that "far reaching reforms in the banking system of the country are necessary in order to stabilize the financial structure as a whole."

Data for the study was obtained through a banking clinic, covering 10 selected banks whose officers invited workers of the institute to make an open study of every operation of the bank as shown by the records; an examination of 50 state banks in rural Minnesota that had failed during the last 10 years, and a study of the records of 44 failed national banks in Minnesota during the period covered by the report.

It is the opinion of the survey investigators as revealed in the report that "poor management" accounts for many of the bank failures and that "an improved rural banking system would contribute much to the stability of the entire banking structure."

The growth of group banking which now represents almost one-fifth of rural banking resources is cited as a step not calculated in itself to solve the problem but to aid by becoming a possible step toward branch banking.

FINAL SURVEY FOR MUD LAKE PROJECT READY

Engineer Quist Estimates Water Will Cover Fully 20,000 Acres

EARTH DYKES AND DAMS WILL BE CONSTRUCTED

Condemnation Proceedings Under Project Will be Started Shortly

Final survey reports covering the Mud Lake migratory game sanctuary and reserve project which is scheduled to get under way early in 1935 were completed Friday and submitted by mail that evening to U. S. Senior Engineer McKinley at Minot, N. Dak., according to I. E. Quist, of Warren, who headed the survey during the past fall, says the Warren Sheaf.

Condemnation proceedings to acquire 50,000 acres of land surrounding the Mud Lake area in Eastern Marshall county are expected to be under way at an early date, F. V. Willard, commissioner of conservation for Minnesota, announced last week. The state will condemn the lands after which the Federal government will refund the expenses incurred by the state.

The survey shows that 512,000 cubic yards of dirt will be moved in building dykes and dams necessary for impounding the water which, it is estimated, will cover at least 20,000 acres. The deepest part of the lake will be five feet, this deep point being in the Thief River valley, while the water in the old lake bottom will reach a depth of approximately three feet, said Mr. Quist.

Earthen dams and control works will be constructed in the Thief River and old Judicial Ditch No. 11 with which to help impound the water. Gates will also be constructed by which water may be let out in wet seasons.

A new highway will also be constructed by the government to take place of a section of SAH "E" which is now built across the old lake bottom. Construction work on this highway will start at the Thief River bridge east of Holt and along the south part of the lake project for a distance of seven miles, with the county completing the road of three additional miles to the Blue Grove. This will give a total of 10 miles of construction.

The big dyke will start along County Ditch 35 in Section 10 in East Valley and will run diagonally to the middle of Section 11 and then angles along the west side of the old lake and continuing east bordering the section lines of 31, 32 and 33 in Mud Lake township.

With 20,000 acres under water in the new lake and an additional 30,000 acres subject to swamp marshy land, an ideal duck breeding ground is expected out of the project, which has been designated as Project No. 1 of the U. S. Biological survey under the direction of J. N. "Ding" Darling. The land will be taken over under the Federal government submarginal land purchase program.

Since the surveys were started last summer, Mr. Quist has headed a group of from five to seven men, making surveys and plans necessary before construction work can be started. Headquarters for the surveying crew have been maintained in Middle River.

Tenative arrangements were made to hold the 1935 show the second week in December instead of the first week as this year, in order to avoid conflicting with similar events in the southern part of the state. Premium checks in connection with the recent show were sent out Saturday, Secretary Copp announced.

Large Share of Proceeds is Used to Pay Delinquent Taxes in County

A total of 24 federal home loans have been made to date in Pennington county, practically all of them in Thief River Falls, H. O. Chommie, attorney for the agency, announced today. Loans ranged in size from $300 to $3,050.

A number of homes have been saved from foreclosure as a result of the loans, Mr. Chommie said, adding that out of the proceeds a large amount of delinquent taxes was paid into the county treasury. Several loans were also transferred to the federal agency from closed banks of the community, releasing additional cash to depositors.

Activities of the home loan board thruout the country are now virtually at a standstill, the authorized lending power of $2,000,000,000 having been exhausted. It is forecast that efforts will be made to have the forthcoming session of Congress grant an additional loan authorization.

PARK BOARD TOLD OF GRADING PLANS FOR HIGHWAY 73

Elsberg Approves Proposal for Parkway East of New Bridge

Plans are being prepared by the state highway department for grading Trunk Highway 73 for a distance of one and one-fourth miles east and south of the new bridge in this city, according to word received by Dr. A. E. Jacobson, president of the park board, from N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner.

Mr. Elsberg indicated that favorable action would be taken on the park board resolution asking the creation east of the bridge of a roadway 100 feet wide with a twelve-foot parkway in the center and boulevards along the side. He stated that federal funds would be available to finance the work.

It will not be advisable during the next year or two, Mr. Elsberg stated, to pave the gap between the bridge and Third st. until ample time has been allowed for the fill to settle. It is possible that in the meantime the section will be given a bituminous treatment next summer.

Included in the number was a stenographer in the office in this city.

LEGISLATURE IS CONFRONTED BY CASH PROBLEM

Many Matters Face 1935 Session Which Will Open January 8th

REVENUE FUND HAS $9,000,000 DEFICIT

Preliminary Budget Requests Are in Excess of $50,000,000

The dollars and cents issue—running into the tens of millions—will be the leading and most bitterly fought issue before the 1935 Minnesota legislature, which convenes Jan. 8.

In addition to the customary conflict over biennial appropriations between the numerous state departments that do the spending and the legislature, which does the appropriating, the coming session faces the problem of ways and means of financing a deficit of some $9,000,000 in the general revenue fund; also probable increased demands for state emergency relief.

It is reported, although not verified, that Gov. Olson will ask the legislature for an emergency relief appropriation of $8,000,000, as compared with the $5,000,000 by the 1933 legislature.

Preliminary budget requests by state departments and institutions are in excess of $50,000,000 for the 1935-1937 biennium, as against total appropriations of about $37,000,000. The question becomes one largely of finding new and additional sources of revenue to avoid adding to the already too heavy tax burden on real estate.

During the last campaign Gov. Olson advocated higher rates in the upper brackets in the state income and inheritance tax laws, but under present economic conditions the resultant increase in state revenue from these two sources would be almost negligible in face of the known deficit and relief demands.

A new source of revenue that appears to have the best chance of being "tapped" by the 1935 legislature is the so-called dollar-turnover or gross income tax. It is claimed by proponents of this plan that a majority of the members-elect of both senate and house are pledged to support it, but the amount of such tax, whether it be one-half of 1 per cent or higher, possibly up to 2 per cent, is an is-

Theft Committed Sunday, Pair on Way to Prison Wednesday

Three days after tieing up and robbing Ole Bolstad at his farm home 12 miles east of the city, two transients who had spent a short time working on farms in this locality were on their way to Stillwater to serve indeterminate sentences in the state prison.

The two men, Samuel Thompson, age 28, and Robert Pyne, 22, appeared at Bolstad's home Sunday evening at 8 o'clock, and entering the house trussed up Bolstad and began a search of the premises which resulted in their finding $68 in a trunk.

Shortly after they left the place to hitch-hike into the city, Bolstad succeeded in freeing himself and notified Sheriff O. L. Ihle, who on investigation learned that two men had a short time before engaged a local taxi to drive them to Erskine.

Sheriff Ihle and Deputy Clayton Stenerson left immediately for Erskine and arrested the men as they were boarding a train for Minneapolis. They confessed having committed the offense and were lodged in the city jail until Wednesday morning when they were brought before District Judge J. E. Montague in Crookston for sentence. They were taken to Stillwater later in the day.

As a result of their prompt capture all but $14 of the $68 stolen was restored to Mr. Bolstad.

FEW ERRORS ARE REVEALED IN THE RECOUNT OF VOTES

Nearly 60 Pennington Ballots to be Passed on by District Court

No serious discrepancies in the canvassing board figures were discovered during the past week in the recount of votes in the 65th legislative district being made as the result of the filing of contests.

The three inspectors, Adolf Eklund and Paul A. Lundgren of this city and E. L. Presteman of Bagley, finished checking the Pennington county ballots Saturday, uncovering no major errors. A total of nearly 60 ballots in the county were contested and set aside, and these will be passed on by Judge Graham Torrance in district court.

The inspectors went Monday to Red Lake Falls to count the Red Lake county ballots, and are expected to finish their work in that county today. Only trifling errors were discovered and a half-dozen ballots contested. The inspectors will next go to Bagley to count the Clearwater county ballots, completing the recount in the district.

FIRST SHIPMENT OF '35 AUTO TAGS ARRIVES IN CITY

Reductions in License Fees Will be Abolished January 1

A shipment of 3,620 automobile and truck license plates for 1935 was received the past week end by Alex Campbell, local deputy registrar of motor vehicles. With the arrival of the new year, license fees will revert to the rates in effect before the reduction made by the state legislature in April, 1933, on pleasure cars and farm trucks.

Other classes of vehicles were not affected by the cut two years ago. It is expected that an effort will be made in the forthcoming session of the legislature to continue the reductions in effect, with the added possibility of an increase of one cent in the gasoline tax.

The state organization of motor vehicle dealers and other groups have gone on record in favor of retaining the present scale of license fees, while the state highway department is advocating the higher schedule, pointing out the greatly increased trunk highway mileage it is called on to maintain and improve.

Tax on Bank Checks Ends January First

People who pay by check will get a break next Tuesday when the 2 cent tax on checks expires. This tax produced $41,263,198 last fiscal year, but the opinion is expressed in many quarters in Washington that it will not be revived. Some house members, however, have received intimations that congress may be asked to levy new taxes on other things—though a decision of their nature, these legislators understand, will not be made until the administration completes its budget and relief plans.

Annual Ice Harvest to Get Under Way Saturday

With ice in the river now more than 17 inches in thickness, the annual ice harvest will get under way here Saturday when the O'Hara Fuel & Ice company will start operations with ten men, later increasing its crew of workers to about 20. The Red Lake Ice & Fuel company will begin cutting immediately after the first of the year, employing a crew of a dozen workers.

CIVIC GROUP TOLD HIGH MEAT PRICES ARE IN PROSPECT

South St. Paul Official Says Northwest Drouth is Responsible

As a result of a heavy slaughter of livestock from the drouth areas of the northwest during the past summer and fall, substantially higher meat prices are in prospect for consumers in 1935, members of the Civic and Commerce association were informed Thursday evening in an address by O. Z. Remsberg of the Central Cooperative Livestock association in South St. Paul.

Mr. Remsberg spoke in favor of terminal livestock markets as being the best meeting place of supply and demand, and opposed direct buying as detrimental to the interests of the producers. He did not encourage the establishment of a livestock concentration point in this section, saying that many have not been successful owing to the operations of direct buyers.

Alf Borry and O. C. Paulson spoke in favor of the creation of a commission to handle the affairs of the water and light department, urging a five-man commission. Appointment of a committee was authorized to confer with members of the city council and ascertain their views of the proposal.

BIGGER VOLUME OF HOLIDAY MAIL IS RECEIVED IN CITY

Week's Outgoing Mail Counts 52,318 Greeting Cards and Letters

A substantially larger volume of Christmas mail was handled at the local postoffice this year than in 1933, altho no all-time record was established, Postmaster Andrew Anderson announced today.

A total of 52,318 letters and greeting cards were included in the outgoing mail during the week of December 17 to 24 inclusive, while $630 in postage was paid on parcels received at the postoffice windows during the same period, compared to $570 in 1933. Approximately ten per cent more insured parcels were handled than a year ago.

As a means of clearing the accumulation of Christmas mail, delivery of both letters and parcels was made in the city Sunday, and all parcels arriving up to Christmas Eve were delivered by 6 o'clock of that day.

No deliveries of mail in the city or on the rural routes will be made next Tuesday, New Years Day, it was announced.

LARGE HOUSE ON STUART McLEOD FARM DESTROYED

Three Children of Mr. and Mrs. Geving Are Saved From Flames

Fire that apparently originated in the furnace in the basement Wednesday evening shortly after 9 o'clock completely destroyed the large house on the Stuart McLeod farm three miles west and two miles north of Thief River Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Geving, tenants on the farm, were in the barn doing chores when the flames broke out, and rushed into the house to carry to safety their three small children, who were already in bed.

The local fire department was summoned to the scene, but by the time it arrived the flames had gained too great headway to be brought under control.

Mr. and Mrs. McLeod are making their home in the city.

COLD WEATHER HAMPERS YULE FESTIVITIES

Temperature of 25 Below Zero Prevails During Most of Christmas Day

READING WEDNESDAY AS LOW AS 38 BELOW

New Year Services Scheduled to be Held in Local Churches

The arrival of old-fashioned winter coincided this year with the coming of the Christmas season in the northwest, and served to handicap the observance of the holiday.

After many weeks of temperatures ranging up around the freezing point, the mercury, driven down Saturday night by a stiff north wind, took a nose dive Sunday morning to approximately 15 below zero, followed by a further drop Christmas morning to about 25 below, the temperature continuing at the low mark thruout the day.

The lowest reading for the season was recorded Wednesday morning when some thermometers in the downtown section of the city registered as low as 38 below. This morning a low of 15 below was recorded.

That the cold wave was general thruout the state was revealed by reports from various government weather stations showing temperatures Wednesday morning of 19 below in Minneapolis, 29 below in Crookston, 37 below in Bemidji, and a low point for the state of 39 below at Eveleth.

Tow cars from local garages did a rushing business Christmas day and yesterday helping motorists start balky cars that had been left standing outside.

Despite the cold weather Christmas services and Sunday school programs in the churches were carried out as scheduled, altho the attendance was not as large as it would have been under more favorable conditions.

The coming of the New Year will be observed with special services in several local churches. Zion Lutheran church will hold wake services Monday evening, New Years Eve, at 8 o'clock under the auspices of the Luther league, while services will be conducted at 11 o'clock New Years Day in Trinity Lutheran church.

St. John's Lutheran church will hold New Years Day services at 10 in the morning in the English language and at 11:15 in the German language. The Baptist church will hold watch night services New Years Eve at 9 o'clock.

Other events scheduled for New Years Eve include the annual firemen's ball at the Auditorium and a party sponsored by the Smiley Community club at the new club hall.

111 APPLICANTS REQUEST OLD AGE PENSIONS HERE

Action on Pleas Scheduled to be Taken by Board Next Month

A total of 111 applicants for old age pensions had been filed in Pennington county up to the first of this week, County Auditor Harry Fowler stated Monday. The applications are scheduled to come up for consideration at the January meeting of the board.

The board at a recent meeting fixed a maximum of $5 a month to be paid to any individual, Mr. Fowler said, adding that the annual cost to the county on this basis will be approximately $7,200. A law enacted by the last legislature makes payment of the pensions mandatory on the county, at least until the next general election in 1936 when the matter may be submitted to the voters.

In order to qualify for the pension, applicants are required to be 70 years of age or older and must have been residents of the county for the past 15 years. Recipients of the pension may be required to offset any advances made them in the form of pension payments.

Holiday Band Concert Given at Auditorium

The Thief River Falls municipal band and the juvenile band appeared in a holiday concert at the Auditorium under the direction of S. P. Orwoll, and presented a group of selections appropriate to the Christmas season. Owing to the prevailing extremely cold weather only a small audience attended the concert.

The Right Time

By Martha Banning Thomas

A New Year's Story

THE town hall of the small village of Lindera had no clock, but a bell in the cupola. The janitor was one of those fussy fellows [illegible] of doing everything on the dot. He kept his watch set "railroad time," [illegible]

[illegible] past the hour the big bell sounded its twelve deep notes. Clocks were set back ten minutes. Even those people awakened from their sleep looked at their watches and set them right with the bell.

Next day confusion reigned [illegible]

Two solemn youths, unnaturally grave, were holding their watches [illegible] "You're wrong, both of you," declared every one. "We were all wrong. We knew it because we set our clocks by the midnight bell."

The boys raised surprised eyebrows. "But we," they said, "have correct 'railroad' time. Nobody in Lindera is right . . . but us?"

It came out at last. It had to, of course. Old Foxton chattered to his wife. His wife told a neighbor. The news ran like wildfire.

Christmas Luck; Omens Used in Days Long Ago

DO YOU know that a full moon at Christmas day is supposed to be unlucky, the saying going, "Light Christmas, light wheat" [illegible] Rain during the twelve days after Christmas was said to foretell a wet year to follow. When decorating the house with Christmas holly, be careful not to burn any leaves or berries that fall, but put them carefully away until Twelfth Night, when they should be burned with the rest of the decorations. Then luck and happiness will follow; but if a single leaf is burned beforehand, you are courting disaster, say the old-fashioned country folk who set store on Christmas omens. Look to your fire on Christmas day, for if it burns brightly it is a sign of prosperity; if, however, when the fire is first lighted it smolders and refuses to "catch," set-backs may be looked for during the year to come.

Wear something new on Christmas day, "for luck," and be very careful to put on no garment with a hole or tear in it, otherwise you will lose money. Also remember that the first words spoken in the day should be [illegible] to speak a word of grumbling is to court bad luck.—Montreal Herald.

Journey From Nazareth, Birth of Christ Child

ALMOST two thousand years ago the great emperor, Caesar Augustus, sent out a decree that the whole world should be enrolled. Each one was to go to his own city, to the place of his fathers. None were exempt from the decree.

From the hill town of Nazareth two people set out to answer to the summons. One, a tall, bearded figure, his shoulders sagging under the weight of years, and from the continual stooping that his trade as a carpenter necessitated. The other, a young and beautiful woman, her face aglow with a strange sweet serenity. Their names were Joseph and Mary, and they were going to the distant town of Bethlehem, because they were of the house of David.

The man walked patiently beside the plodding donkey on which the woman was seated. They showed no impatience as others passed them by, nor did they join with any of their fellow travelers in venting anger against Caesar for taking them on such a long and tiresome journey.

Perhaps because of Joseph's age, or of Mary's delicate condition, they were among the last to enter Bethlehem, and to seek a shelter at the inn. They were told that there was no room for them there. Their humble appearance made no appeal to the innkeeper on a night when more prosperous looking guests were crowding the doors.

Disappointed and fearful, they sought further. But they could find no place. Some one spoke of a cave outside the town. Joseph looked at Mary and his eyes filled with tears. But she nodded assent [illegible] And in that lowly place [illegible] hope and promise of all mankind, was born into the world.—Katherine Edelman.

AFTER FIVE YEARS

A Christmas Story

By Katherine Edelman

"I—I REALLY am nervous," Madge Crowell admitted to herself as she dropped one of the ornaments she was hanging on the Christmas tree. "Well, who wouldn't be in my place—Ben has been gone more than five years—maybe he'll find me changed—that he'll be disappointed. . . . I—I couldn't bear that."

"What are you talking to yourself about?" A boyish voice spoke at Madge's elbow. "Is Christmas having its effect upon you, or is it the thought of a certain young man who is coming this evening?"

"Both, I guess," Madge answered lightly. Then, turning to her brother, she spoke more seriously, "Richard, do—do you think Ben will have changed very much—do you think he will like me as well as he used to?"

"Well, I shouldn't be surprised if he has become a little bit tanned from the African climate, or if he has grown a mustache, or got a bit stouter, but as to whether he will like you as much as he used to—I'd say 'no.' He's bound to like you a lot better, that is, if he's kept his eyesight."

"Of all the foolish, flattering brothers! I should have known better than to ask you such a question!" But Madge's eyes were pools of dancing light as she looked at her brother. "Just for such a flippant answer, I'm going to put you at the task of cleaning up all this mess. I—I really must run up and dress; the clock seems to be running a race."

Madge's wardrobe was not extensive, yet it took her some time to decide on what to wear. She finally chose a simple blue gown. She remembered that Ben had always liked her in blue; he used to say that it matched her eyes. . . . But that was long ago; they were both little children then. Would he find her as desirable now as he used to—would his eyes glow with love and pleasure as he looked into her face? Well, she would soon find out; he was due almost any moment now.

Her heart pounded as the door bell rang. Nervously she hurried down the wide steps. In a moment Ben was clasping her hands and whispering words that she thrilled to hear. And as blue eyes met brown in a long tender look, Madge knew that she was going to have the very happiest Christmas of her life.

Let's Forget The Mistakes

Last year, the year that draws to a close, was not free, in the majority of cases, from those human errors we all make. But there is no reason why the memory of those errors should pass with us to the new year.

Let us, rather, remember only the lessons learned in 1934, and plunge into 1935 with the resolve to make it a year of achievement and advancement.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

It is time once again to say Happy New Year to your friends and wish them the usual good health, prosperity and happiness along with the fulfillment of all worthy desires and everything like that. It is a nice custom and should be encouraged. And so we wish you a Happy New Year. Not just a few of you—not just those of you who like us—but all of you. Everybody in town from the Mayor up and everybody out of town with no exceptions. A Happy New Year to you one and all.

Perhaps that doesn't sound sincere—a little flippant. Well, frankly, it is a little difficult for us to take this kind of wishing seriously. Not because we would not like to see everyone happy. Nothing would make us happier than to know that everyone else was happy. But we're licked before we start. We know that, no matter how much we may hope for them, many of our friends and neighbors will not be happy. It just isn't in them. They are not built that way. And there is nothing so futile as wishing happiness for those who refuse to be happy.

And being happy is such a simple thing after all. If you don't believe that happiness is within your easy reach try a couple of experiments on yourself. Do someone a good turn and enjoy the pleasure of the recipient of your favor. Say something nice about someone you haven't said anything nice about for a long time, or restrain yourself from saying that which would be unpleasant for some other person to hear. For such little things you will be repaid with a satisfaction that all the wealth in the world could not buy. They will bring you happiness.

Want things, surely, and work for them, but don't become irritable because you cannot have all of the things you want. Most of them would prove disappointing to you if you did obtain them. The real pleasures of life are found in such things as the comfort of an old pair of shoes or the refreshment of a cold glass of water on a hot day or the warmth of a fireside and friends on a cold winter night. Most of these things are within your reach. Think about them and enjoy them and you will gradually develop a healthier attitude toward life, and life will become more pleasant for you, and presently you will discover you are happy.

And so, while we appreciate the futility of mere wishing, nevertheless we wish it sincerely, may you be happy and may the new year bring reasonable rewards for all of your worthy efforts.

TWO SOVIET SCIENTISTS
(Literary Digest)

Russian scientific organizations have just completed special ceremonies honoring two outstanding figures in science in that country, one born 100 years ago, the other still active.

The first was Dmitri Ivanovitch Mendeleeff, who laid the foundation of modern chemistry through his discovery of the periodic relations of the 92 elements from which all substances are made. Mendeleeff's "periodic table of the elements" is used today substantially as he outlined it.

The other scientist is Ivan Vladimir Michurin, "the Luther Burbank of Soviet Russia." Michurin's work in developing fruits and vegetables, along the lines that made Burbank famous in this country, has won him such acclaim that the town of Kozlov, 300 miles southeast of Moscow, has been renamed for him.

At that place he is directing a 200,000-acre experimental "garden", supported by the soviet government. By creating new and hardy strains he is said to have extended, hundreds of miles northward, the zone in which fruits can be grown successfully.

Men continually forget that happiness is a condition of mind, and not a disposition of circumstances.—Lecky.

The first thing a kindness deserves is acceptance, the second transmission.—G. Macdonald.

A DOG THAT HITCH-HIKED
(Kirksville, Mo., Express)

Something new in hitch-hiking was discovered by a Kirksville motorist in the eastern part of the state a few days ago. As he drove leisurely along one of the state highways, he observed a small dog at the side of the pavement. When the car drew near, the dog jumped to attention and indicated with movement of its head that it wished to ride. The driver stopped and immediately the little animal leaped beside him in the seat, evidencing his gratitude for the "lift." After several miles had been covered, the car approached a big white farmhouse. The dog whined, moved over to the door and looked appealingly at the driver. The car was stopped and the door opened. The dog jumped out, barking joyfully, and made a straight line for the door of the farmhouse.

USED JOKES
(Detroit News)

Consternation must surely reign in the ranks of British comedians over the announcement that as soon as a funny crack has been delivered once on the radio the British Broadcasting Company will label it "used" and retire it from circulation.

There are only seven original jokes (as there are only ninety-two original chemical elements), and the variations and combinations of these which form the jokes of commerce require time, as well as wits and favorable circumstances, for their construction. Now, if a joke once heard, like an oyster once swallowed, is to be considered gone forever, the comedians can not by any conceivable effort gather fresh material fast enough to keep going. They will inevitably soon run out of rib-ticklers, and be reduced to the painful necessity of telling bedtime stories or manhunter mysteries.

NEVADA NEW MARITIME STATE
(San Francisco Chronicle)

Nevada, in becoming a maritime state, has gone Switzerland and its navy one better. The ships of the sagebrush state are only on paper, just as the Swiss navy appeared only on William Jennings Bryan's famous proclamation. But Nevada has found a way to make its shipping industry put money into the state treasury.

A number of steamship companies decided to make Nevada their home port, legally, by filing their articles of incorporation in the state. Now the state holds that their property is subject to taxation. The companies insist that the ruling will not hold water, but some have paid under protest. Nevada promises rough weather as the ships navigate through her courts.

NEWSPAPER ERRORS
(Frank R. Kent, of Baltimore Sun)

In no business and in no profession, save that of the pure scientist is the premium on accuracy so high, the penalty for inaccuracy so prompt and the proportion of accuracy so great.

There isn't a newspaper man anywhere who does not know that, trivial though his error may be, some one will catch him. Even when it escapes the watchful editorial gaze, even when no one in the office picks it up, even when he, himself, is unaware of it, there are still the old subscribers—thousands of them—vigilant, alert, aggressive, resentful, eager to put their finger on the "break," communicate with the editor and "show up" the writer and the paper.

These old subscribers, in my judgment, are by far the most valuable asset a newspaper can have. Their militant, microscopic scrutiny is the finest possible corrective influence.

THE ROMANCE OF ALFALFA
(Jordan Independent)

When the German immigrant, Wendelin Grimm, came to Carver county in the year 1857, he happened to bring among his personal belongings, a 20-pound sack of alfalfa seed, which was known in the old country as lucerne.

Grimm had to acclimate his imported alfalfa to the rigors of Minnesota climate, but he kept at it year after year until he succeeded. His struggles required amazing patience and in that sense the success that followed has a tinge of the romantic. Alfalfa is today recognized as one of the nation's important and valuable crops.

On the old farm in our neighboring county where Wendelin Grimm lived and toiled so long and patiently for so many years, there is a monument, extolling his great contribution to the agricultural industry. He brought alfalfa over from Germany with him nearly 80 years ago, nursed the plants, hardened them, saved the seed crop each year and little by little laid deep and sure the foundations of success for the marvelous forage crop we call alfalfa.

FARMERS OF TOMORROW
(Canby Press)

Last week Mildred Tillbury, a young Freeland township girl, exhibited her pet lamb, which she had raised as a 4-H Club project, at the Junior Livestock show in South St. Paul and took grand championship honors, bringing home with her a clear profit of $60 on the one animal.

Excluding fancy prices paid for prize animals at the show auctions, club members are learning how to get more money from feeding livestock, a lesson that a lot of farmers wish they had learned when they were young. Scientific feeding, keen knowledge of good animals, and hard work are making capable and self-supporting farmers of our young boys and girls in the country.

[illegible] Uncle Sam raises farmers, the salt of the earth. And that the next generation of farmers will be a good one is evidenced by the result already obtained by young 4-H Club members.

GASOLINE LAKE IS LATEST IN WINDOM

Windom—Ten thousand gallons of gasoline were dumped on the city streets of Windom recently when one end of a big tanker gave away, costing the company about $2,000. Railroad trains had to pass over the tracks at very low speed for a week, to avoid striking a spark which would have set the gasoline lake "sky high", and the section had to be roped off to pedestrians and cars. Gradually the gas has seeped into the ground or evaporated.

PUPILS OF N. W. SCHOOL GO HOME FOR THE HOLIDAY

Numerous Gatherings Feature Closing Week of Fall Term

Many informal gatherings featured the closing week of the fall term at the Northwest School. These special events included an awards assembly, inter-class song contest, and get-together Christmas dinner. At the awards assembly, members of the football squad were presented with school letters and service bars. Highest ranking students in home project work also received suitable silver trophies and other prizes.

The inter-class song contest, with each class singing the same three songs, under the direction of one of their own members, was won by the Advanced, with the seniors capturing second place. The beautiful dining hall was most effectively decorated for the get-together dinner which was followed by brief addresses by representatives of the various classes.

According to Superintendent A. A. Dowell, the enrollment during the past term was the second largest in the history of the school, having been surpassed only during the year 1929-30. The following students from Pennington county will spend the two weeks vacation period at their homes. They will register for the winter term, which opens January 7. Harvey Clausen, Truman Hemmingvold, Leo Jenson, John Kast, Marvin Nelson, Harold Nabben, Goodridge; [illegible], Harry Solberg, Olaf Dahlen, Erie; Gerald Yonke, Oliver Haugen, St. Hilaire; Martin Hanson, Ray Oen, LeRoy Peterson, Carl and Morris Engelstad, Laura Hanson, Irene Holst, Thief River Falls.

Bound Over to District Court on Theft Charge

Jerome Johnson was arrested by local police Sunday morning on a charge of stealing articles from the person of J. Graham, Lancaster CCC worker en route to his home for the holiday. The theft occurred as Graham was sleeping in the Soo depot while waiting for the northbound train, and the missing articles were found in possession of Johnson, who was taken into custody near the depot. Brought before Municipal Judge N. W. Taralseth Monday morning, Johnson was bound over to district court under $500 bonds.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR COMING SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE

one that remains to be fought out in the legislative session. The question of exemption of food products, and possibly clothing from such a tax is another highly debatable issue.

Among other tax relief measures advocated by organizations or legislators are increased gross earnings tax on railroads, repeal of the statewide 1-mill road tax, levy of a state tax on bank checks, increase in the mortgage registry tax, constitutional limitation of tax levies by the state and local governmental agencies on real estate and a system of state supervision over bond issues by local governmental agencies.

The tax delinquency situation which has steadily been growing worse in the last five years, with its resultant added burden on the taxpayers hitherto able and willing to pay, offers another hard nut for the legislature to crack. This situation would be even worse than it is, it's pointed out, had it not been for the considerable amount of delinquent taxes paid by both home and farm owners who have refinanced their obligations in the last year or so through the federal farm and home loaning agencies.

Big reductions in assessed valuations of property throughout the state, with consequent increased tax rates, offer another knotty problem for legislative headscratching.

From these and other related considerations, it seems inevitable that the 1935 legislature will be compelled to devote most of its time and attention to the dollars and cents problems, more than possibly has ever before been the case in Minnesota.

SLEEPER UNAWARE OF FIRE NEAR BED

Red Wing—Some heavy sleepers are notorious for their inability to be awakened, and the writer himself, much to his chagrin, slept through a disastrous fire in his father's barn as a youngster, but Hans Wendt, Red Wing cafe employee, takes all prizes. Firemen and police were required to awaken him after two people had reported a fire in the room in which he was sleeping. The officers broke into the room when the fire had been reported, and found Wendt's head buried deep in his pillow, entirely unconscious to the world, while his clothes were blazing six feet away. An over-heated electric plate caused the fire.

SO. ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

(By U. S. Department of Agricultural Economics and Minnesota Department of Agriculture)

South St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 24, 1934. Livestock receipts for the pre-holiday market session were very light, but the cattle market was mostly steady, due partly to lack of desirable killing quality. Thin fleshed stockers brought $2.00-2.75, some good stockers $3.25.

Hog prices advanced sharply, weights above 160 lb. being 25 higher, lighter weights 25-50 higher. Good to choice 220-250 lb. hogs earned $6.25-6.75, 180-220 lb. [illegible] $6.25, 160-180 lb. $5.50-5.75, 140-160 lb. $4.50-5.25, 100-140 lb. [illegible], feeder pigs [illegible], bulk good sows $5.50-6.00.

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

By Katherine Edelman

"A HAPPY and prosperous New Year!" All day the words had been flung at Bob Cameron; everywhere he went they echoed in his ears. He wanted to shut them out, to forget that a New Year was beginning.

Last night, in summing up the old year, he had come to the conclusion that he was an utter failure, that he might as well discard the idea of becoming a writer. Every story that he had sent out had come back. It was true that a few editors had encouraged him—one of the best known in the country had told him to keep on, that he had a fine literary style. But none of them had kept his offerings.

Bob felt that the wisest thing he could do was to chuck the whole thing at the beginning of the New Year. Yet down in his heart he knew that writing was a part of him; that it would be an almost impossible task to keep away from the untidy desk back in his den. But he would have to do it, it was [illegible] hold a girl to a promise, with nothing to offer her but failure.

[illegible] had been his resolution to quit the writing game. He loved Dorothy and she loved him. They had been engaged since their senior year at Northwestern. It was time that he should say something about marriage, it was not fair to hold her as he was doing. But he would have to get a position that would enable him to keep a girl like Dorothy; he couldn't ask her to [illegible] on the meager pittance he was getting from the Pryor company. He had taken the job simply because it gave him so much time for writing, caring nothing at the time for the small salary and the lack of opportunity that it held.

The unhappiness brought by his resolve showed plainly in the weary droop of Bob's shoulders and the tired lines on his boyish face. He found it hard to join in the small talk and fun of the New Year's party that was going on. [illegible]

JOBS ON HIGHWAYS TO HELP FARMERS PAY UP U. S. LOANS

To Assist in Graveling 500 Miles of Highways as Winter Project

Farmers in some twenty drouth counties in Minnesota will be able to work out all or part of their government feed and hay loans this winter by helping the state highway department regravel state roads, according to a highway department announcement.

In cooperation with the national Public Works Administration and the State Emergency Relief Administration, the highway department has developed a work relief program for the winter months which contemplates the regraveling of nearly 500 miles of roads.

It is estimated by the department that this program will provide about 200,000 team-hours for farmer's teams, an equal number of work hours for the teamsters, and probably 100,000 hand labor hours for men without teams. This is in addition to work to be done by small, locally owned trucks.

Part of the program also will provide work for relief labor where there are no government loans to be repaid. However, all the work will be in primary drouth counties.

Teams and hand labor methods will be employed to as great an extent as practicable.

The financing of this program will be handled through a PWA allotment of 30 per cent of labor and materials, the balance of the cost to be met by the SERA and the highway department.

Every effort is being made by the highway department to get the work started the first week in January, it was said by N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner.

Muley and Alfred Bredeson. Other new officials who will assume office the first of the year are H. O. Berve, recently elected county attorney succeeding Paul Lundgren, and Arthur Rambeck, who will succeed O. L. Ihle as sheriff.

HALLOCK MAN IS DIRECTOR OF FARM CENSUS IN DIST. 1

Clifford Bouvette Placed in Charge of January Project

Clifford Bouvette of Hallock will supervise the federal farm census in this district, No. 1, with headquarters in Crookston, Congressman Einar Hoidale announced in Minneapolis Friday. He will be assisted in the work, which begins immediately after the first of the year, by Arnold L. Frederickson of Dilworth. Both were democratic candidates for Congress in the spring primaries.

Taking of the census, which is expected to require about a month, will be directed in Minnesota by A. J. Nogara of Washington, who has offices 'n the Minneapolis postoffice. He will supervise the work of seven district supervisors and seven assistants.

Included in District No. 1 are Becker, Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Lake of the Woods, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Ottertail, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau and Wilkin counties.

The district supervisors, Congressman Hoidale announced, will select the enumerators, each one to cover about two townships, and all to be paid on a basis of a fixed sum for each report made. The amount of compensation each will receive will depend on the density of the farm population within his area. Mr. Nogara will instruct the supervisors, who in turn will instruct the enumerators.

The enumerators who will make the canvass will be selected from the rural districts where the farms are located. In every instance the enumerator must be a legal resident of his enumeration district and every effort is being made to appoint to these positions, as far as possible, farmers, farmers' wives, sons and daughters. Furthermore, each enumerator, as well as all Census employees, is sworn to secrecy regarding the reports. The law provides that the individual returns made by each farmer is absolutely confidential. All employees are required to read the law and penalties imposed for disclosure of information. William L. Austin, Director, Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce, desires particularly to impress every farmer with the fact that his report will not be used as a basis for taxation nor communicated to any tax official.

HERE'S A FISH STORY FOR YOUR FIRESIDE

Cass Lake.—When talk of fishing starts, Dave Erixon is in the front row of that circle around the stove. He doesn't believe the story about the yodeling buck, reported in these columns, but remembers that in the days "way back when" there were some great fishermen. Bill Henderson, logger, didn't have much to do one day, so took a smooth board, painted a minnow at one end, and lowered it into the water. The fish would strike at the minnow, slide up the slippery board and right into a basket, kept above the ice on the other end of the board. "It kept Harry Fetheram and I busy all day long, changing the baskets."

Opposing proposed diversion of portions of gasoline tax monies to other than highway purposes.

Against proposed incorporation of all county and township roads into the present state highway system.

Unless the Legislature, which meets January 8, continues the present schedule Minnesota motor vehicle owners will pay 1931 license rates. The present schedule of rates was adopted as a temporary measure in 1932, and reduced fees 20 to 50 per cent.

Mike Holm, secretary of state, announced Wednesday he will recommend a new schedule of rates of the Legislature.

Clearwater Co. Agent Accepts Mahnomen Post

Announcement of the resignation of C. C. Chase, Clearwater county agricultural agent, effective January 1, was made at Bagley on Thursday.

Mr. Chase, who has served since June 16, 1931, will become Mahnomen county agent and will establish an extension office in the village of Mahnomen.

Mahnomen county has been without a county agent since 1923, but the county board of commissioners this week authorized the appointment of Mr. Chase in that capacity, at an increased salary over that which he has been receiving.

C. L. McEnelly, district county agent supervisor, will be in Clearwater county late this month to interview applicants for the vacant post.

Central Livestock Co-op. Has Big Volume in 1934

Enough livestock was marketed cooperatively through the Central Co-operative Association during the year 1934 to provide the people of the Twin Cities with a normal supply of beef, veal, pork, and lamb for more than two years, states the weekly market bulletin issued by that livestock selling agency at South St. Paul.

The year 1934 was one of the biggest of the twelve years that the Central has been in business at South St. Paul, says the bulletin. A total of 190,000 cattle, 183,000 calves, 695,000 hogs, and 270,000 sheep were received, fed and watered, sorted into the various classes and grades, sold and driven to the scales by this farmer-owned livestock selling agency.

TINY KITTEN STOWAWAY ON LONG AUTO TRIP

Slayton—A tiny, seven weeks old kitten was found clinging desperately to one of the brace rods of a car, under the fender, after Gordon Paige and Henry Holm had made a 30 mile trip to Tracy recently. The animal was a badly frightened kitten after the wild ride it had had in a bitingly cold wind. It clung desperately to its perilous perch, and it was with difficulty that the boys were able to remove it from the rod and place it in the car. How the little thing had been able to maintain its hold during the long ride against the cold wind and over roads that in places were none too smooth, is beyond understanding. But it was mighty glad to get back to the farm in comfort and safety on the inside of the car!

BABY GETS ROUGH, FATHER IN HOSPITAL

Waseca.—Babies are getting a little rough in this modern age, and it is no longer safe for unprotected fathers to play with their children. Witness William Deef, of Waseca, who was carrying one of his little sons about the room on his shoulder. The little man was in danger of falling backward, and Deef raised his left arm quickly to catch him, and in doing so threw the arm out, at the shoulder socket. A doctor was called and found it necessary to remove Deef to the hospital and put him under an anaesthetic before the arm could be gotten back into place. As a result, Deef will have to carry his arm in a sling for two weeks, and avoid any quick upturn of that arm in the future to prevent a repetition of the accident.

LIVESTOCK MEN TO RECEIVE TRIBUTE AT WINTER SHOWS

Two From Each County Will be Honored at Event Feb. 4-8

Leading dairy breeders and general livestock breeders in each of the thirteen Northwestern Minnesota counties will receive special recognition as a feature of the silver anniversary of the Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Shows to be held February 4 to 8.

One progressive dairy breeder and one progressive general livestock breeder, that is, a breeder either of beef cattle or sheep or hogs, will be selected from each of the valley counties. The selections are to be made in the respective counties by livestock breeders as outlined by the local county agent or local leader in counties without agents. These honor breeders will attend the Red River Valley Livestock Breeders' banquet during Winter Shows week and be presented with attractive placques which will become their permanent property.

The Red River Valley Dairymen's association, of which C. M. Pesek is secretary, is presenting the plaques to the dairy breeders, and the Red River Valley Livestock Breeders' association, O. M. Kiser, secretary, is presenting the plaques to the general livestock breeders.

According to Superintendent A. A. Dowell, president of the Winter Shows board, remarkable progress has taken place in livestock production during the past quarter of a century. This has been due in no small part to the hundreds of livestock breeders scattered throughout the Valley counties. It is highly fitting that these bred improvers be recognized during the silver anniversary celebration.

State Hunters Purchase $40,000 in Duck Stamps

Minnesota hunters paid more money into the federal conservation fund thru purchases of duck hunting stamps, than all other states. State hunters have purchased $40,000 worth of the stamps. Approximately $500,000 have been sold in the United States. Wisconsin ranked second with the sale of 35,431 of the migratory waterfowl stamps. The figures were made public this week by the bureau of biological survey of the U. S. department of agriculture.

EXPLOSION BLOWS WOMAN FROM HER HOME, UNHURT

Lewiston.—How it happened no one knows, but Mrs. Pauline Johns picked herself up from the ground 45 feet away from the house, practically unharmed, after a gas explosion had wrecked the building in which she was sitting. Members of the Harry Kalmes family at Altura were seated around the table when the stove in the kitchen exploded. The house was almost a complete wreck, with all windows blown out, furniture demolished, and walls broken in two. An end of the stove was found clamped so tightly around a piece of a table that it required a crowbar to pry it loose. The explosion apparently blew Mrs. Johns through a window, 45 feet away, without injuring her. Mrs. Kalmes' clothes were caught on fire, and she suffered considerably from burns before members of the family were able to extinguish the blaze by rolling her in the snow. Five children received minor injuries. The house was practically new, and must be completely rebuilt.

THE NEW YEAR

By GEORGE COOPER

in Indianapolis News

A SONG for the Old
While its knell is tolled
And its parting moments fly!
But a song and a cheer
For the glad New Year,
While we watch the Old Year die!
Oh! its grief and pain
Ne'er can come again,
And its care lies buried deep;
But what joy untold
Doth the New Year hold
And what hopes within it sleep!

A song for the Old,
While its knell is tolled,
And the friends it gave so true!
But, with hearts of glee,
Let us merrily
Welcome in the bright, bright New!
For the heights we gained,
For the good attained,
We will not the Old despise;
But a joy more sweet
Making life complete,
In the golden New Year lies.

A song for the Old,
While its knell is tolled,
With a grander, broader zeal,
And a forward view,
Let us greet the New,
Heart and purpose ever leal!
Let the ills we met,
And the sad regret,
With the Old be buried deep;
For what joy untold
Doth the New Year hold,
And what hopes within it sleep!

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Resolutions criticizing the present method of the sale of beer in beverage rooms and urging the end of these abuses are being passed at meetings of church groups in the province of Ontario, to be forwarded to Premier Hepburn, and to Mr. E. Odette, the chairman of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario.

At the meeting of the Hamilton Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, according to a special report in the Christian Science Monitor, beverage rooms were condemned as an evil influence upon the public. Unalterable opposition to the granting of authorities for beverage rooms was recorded in the resolution, and the cancellation of authorities at once to those in the vicinity of schools and churches was urged. It was also recommended that all applications for authority for sale be publicly advertised at least a month before consideration.

The Toronto Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church charged that the present beer sale has resulted in an increase in drunkenness, and deplored the effects upon domestic, commercial and industrial life.

VALUATIONS OF REAL ESTATE DROP QUARTER BILLION

Tax Commission Reports Big Slash in Full and True Valuations

The full and true value of all real estate and personal property in Minnesota dropped $244,409,500 from 1932 to 1934, but the value of moneys and credits in the state hit a new high, the state tax commission revealed late last week.

Total value of real and personal property was placed at $4,254,878,657 of which $3,591,040,347 was for real property and $663,838,310 for personal property. Real property values dropped $232,316,657 in the two years, and personal property values $12,092,843 the past year. Moneys and credits rose $53,558,083 to an all-time record of $476,454,000.

The commission divided the real property into three classes, unmined iron ore, which dropped to $439,686,202 from $450,438,096 in 1932; unplatted property, which dropped to $1,567,971,839 from $1,668,773,740; and platted property, which dropped to $1,583,382,306 from $1,714,145,168.

The commission revealed that the bulk of Minnesota's unmined iron ore in St. Louis county, where the full and true valuation of ore is placed at $401,610,878. Value of ore in Itasca county was put at $33,772,952, and that in Crow Wing county at $4,293,372.

Real property assessments are made May 1, every second year, while personal property is valued every May 1. The tax commission said it is unable to announce the new assessed valuation of the state, until county officials have put into effect changes ordered by the commission.

Laura Hanson and Morris Engelstad, Thief River Falls, together with Marvin Nabben, Goodridge, are members of the debate squad which is being coached by D. C. McGenty. IRATE SUBSCRIBER 'BUMPS OFF' EDITOR

Benson.—It looked like the good old days for awhile, and Ye Editor thought it his last day, when an irate subscriber entered the office in Benson recently and started shooting. Rev. P. M. Shea strode into the Monitor-News and dramatically made known the fact that he resented certain implications in a recent issue. In a "sic semper tyrannis" mode, he pulled out a young cannon and fired it in the general direction of Editor Don Lawson. Then he stalked out to the back shop and fired again. The linotype operator picked himself from the ceiling. Fortunately for Publisher Joe McGowan, duties had required his presence elsewhere, but it is rumored that he was caught leaving town when informed that it was all a joke. The cartridges were blank, and everyone had one of the biggest laughs of the year—after they knew it was a joke.

LOST FISHING TACKLE FOUND 17 YEARS LATER

Alexandria. — Fishing tackle lost 17 years ago when a big fish dragged rod, line and sinker away with it, was found recently on Lake Mary. The tackle was found on the opposite side of a bar, indicating that the fish must have lugged it a distance much greater than 1½ miles on a direct line. The late James R. B. Van Cleave was the fisherman in 1917. The fishing tackle bore his name, and residents remembered well the time he came back without his tackle, mourning the "big one that got away."

Truth About Buying That Every Woman Should Know

"A very careful analysis of the comparative values of a number of lines of goods sold both through stores and by canvassers causes me to say that there is absolutely no question but that women who buy from stores receive more for their money."

"Exceedingly plausible sales talks have caused many women to hold the erroneous and costly belief that they can buy more cheaply from agents than from retail stores."

"They are given the impression that goods sold at the door cost less because a number of profits are wiped out. What they are not told is that the commission paid the canvasser is of necessity much larger than the regular profit of the merchant."

"All investigations show, and any woman who will investigate can prove it for herself that dollar for dollar, the retail store gives the greater value."

COUNCIL HOLDS CONCLUDING '34 SESSION FRIDAY

Lays on Table Proposal to Organize Water and Light Commission

AGREEMENT ON DOG QUESTION REACHED

Oen Gets Permit to Erect New Building on Site of One Destroyed

That there will be no action in the immediate future on the part of the city council to take steps toward the creation of a commission to handle the affairs of the water and light department was indicated Friday evening at an adjourned meeting of the council when that body voted to lay the matter on the table.

The question was thus disposed of when a committee from the Civic and Commerce association appeared at the meeting to ask council members for an expression of opinion on the proposal, at the same time making it plain that the association had not gone on record for or against a commission. Members of the committee were Frank Rinkel, W. H. Mann, W. L. Carlisle and A. J. Berry.

At the same time Alderman M. T. McFarland pointed out the urgent need of revising the rates charged for electric current, and he expressed the opinion that lowering the present rates might not reduce the income of the plant for the reason that a material increase in the volume of business could be expected as a result. Members of the council indicated that they would appreciate the co-operation of the various local groups in working out a new schedule of charges.

Friday evening having been designated as the time for the hearing on the alleged dog nuisance on the premises of Dr. H. R. Newell on Horace av. N., Dr. Newell, who was present, reiterated his recent announcement that he planned to build a new home next spring on the outskirts of the city, and that in the meantime he would make every effort to prevent his dogs from causing annoyance in the neighborhood. Residents of that vicinity, represented by Carlie Johnson, Clarence Knudsen and H. N. Rhodegaard, indicated that the offer was satisfactory, and the matter was disposed of on that basis.

Rasmus Oen, owner of the building on Main av. housing the O. K. One-Stop Service Station which was badly damaged by fire last Thursday afternoon, was granted a permit to erect a new building on the same site at an estimated cost of $3,000. The structure will be one story in height and of tile construction.

RED LAKE FALLS HOCKEY MEN BOW TO LOCALS JAN. 1

Thief River Falls Winner of Fast Contest by Score of 5 to 2

In its first game of the season played the afternoon of New Years Day, the local senior hockey team defeated Red Lake Falls 5 to 2. A considerable number of fans witnessed the contest which was marred by a bad cut over the right eye sustained by Higginbotham, local goalie, when hit by a flying puck.

At the end of the first period the visitors were leading 1 to 0, while in the second period Thief River Falls gained a 2 to 1 advantage. The game was fast and rough, with referee Leonard Harris handing out numerous penalties.

Included in the Thief River Falls lineup were Higginbotham and Marcus Olson, goalies; Gulrud and K. Lindberg, defense; Berling, Becken, Williams, Rustad, Hellquist and Ed. Olson, forwards.

Two ties resulted in games played during the past week in the intermediate league. The Lamberts and Times teams played to a 3-3 tie Wednesday of last week, and the DeCremers and Kellys tied at 2-2 Friday. The Decremers defeated the Lamberts Monday 5 to 2, and are now leading the league.

Games scheduled for the coming week include the Lamberts and Kellys Friday evening; the Times and DeCremers Monday; and the Lamberts and Times Wednesday. The games are set to begin at 6:45.

Wedding Permits Here Slump in '34 Despite Improved Conditions

Weddings in 1934 in Pennington county did not increase in proportion to the improved economic status of its citizens as compared to the preceding year, it is revealed in the announcement by Clerk of Court Adolf Eklund that a total of 82 marriage license applications were received by him last year as compared to 91 in 1933. In 1932 80 licenses were issued and in 1931 the number was 86. Only five licenses were applied for in December compared with nine in the same month in 1933, Mr. Eklund said. The highest number issued in any one month was twelve in May, three of them being issued May 31, presaging June weddings. Ten were issued in June.

CREDIT GROUP TO CONDUCT ANNUAL MEETING TUESDAY

Organization Has $41,000 in Loans to Date, Says Secretary Lund

Members of the Thief River Falls Production Credit Association will assemble next Tuesday, Jan. 8, at 10:30 o'clock at the court house in this city for the association's first annual meeting, it was announced this week by Robert J. Lund, secretary-treasurer. This is one of a number of similar associations organized by farmers under the farm credit administration for the purpose of affording themselves a source of funds for putting in crops, to purchase livestock, feed, equipment, supplies etc., and for other general farm purposes.

Since the association was formed early this year it has gained 155 members and had made loans totaling $41,454 up to Nov. 30, Mr. Lund said. The board of directors and the officers chosen at the organization meeting last spring were named to hold office until the first annual meeting. Every member, that is every borrower, of the association is entitled to one vote, and Secretary Lund says he hopes for a large attendance.

"A representative of the Production Credit Corporation of St. Paul will attend the meeting and address the stockholders, and there will be reports of our financial condition and the discussion of several important matters which require action by the stockholders. Farmers who are not stockholders are also invited to attend the meeting," he said, and continued:

"The association has members in Pennington, Red Lake, Eastern Marshall, Roseau, Lake of the Woods and northern Beltrami counties. This is a cooperative association which belongs to its members. It was organized to make sound agricultural loans at as favorable a rate of interest as possible. Any earnings above expenses go into reserve and when a guaranty fund equal to 25% of the outstanding capital stock has been built up the association may pay dividends to its stockholders."

Hundreds of Children Enjoy Elks Free Movie

The Avalon theatre was packed last Thursday afternoon on the occasion of the annual Christmas party for children sponsored by the local Elks lodge. FIRES DO OVER $10,000 DAMAGE HERE THURSDAY

Two Blazes Damage O. K. Service Station, Raze Fair Stock Barns

APARTMENT TENANT INJURED IN BLAZE

Seed House Loses $5,000 in Hay and Feed Stored on Fair Grounds

Losses totaling well over $10,000 resulted from two fires in this city last Thursday. The first, breaking out shortly after noon hour on the second floor of the O. K. One-Stop service station, damaged the structure so badly that Rasmus Oen, the owner, is taking steps to replace it immediately with a one-story tile building.

The second blaze broke out in the evening on the fair grounds and razed the U-shaped livestock barn in the south part of the grounds together with approximately 300 tons of alfalfa hay and feed ingredients belonging to the Thief River Falls Seed House and valued at $5,000. Losses in the two fires were partly covered by insurance.

The service station fire originated in a vent in the chimney in the second floor apartment occupied by Miss Olga Knutseth and Miss Caroline Rhodegaard, night operators in the telephone exchange. The latter was the first to discover the blaze and awakened Miss Knutseth who was asleep at the time.

Attempting to salvage her fur coat in a closet in the path of the flames—Miss Knutseth sustained burns on her back and right arm, necessitating her removal to a local hospital for treatment. She and Miss Rhodegaard lost virtually all their possessions in the blaze. The Tony Hutnseth family, occupants of the other apartment in the building, escaped in safety.

The flames, which were fought in subzero temperatures until evening, did the most damage to the rear part of the structure, and Palmer Tommerdahl, operator of the service station, said he expects to have part of his stock installed in the front portion of the building in a day or two. The enclosed grease racks, adjoining on the south, escaped without damage. Most of the stock was salvaged and stored temporarily in the First National Bank building.

Lack of water mains on the fair grounds handicapped the fire department in fighting the blaze in the livestock barns, but enough water was carried to the scene to save the adjoining buildings. Secretary Robert J. Lund estimated the loss to the fair association at $2,000 with $1,300 insurance in force. The origin of the fire was not determined. The board will meet shortly to make plans for rebuilding the structure, Mr. Lund said.

CHEVROLET WILL SHOW 1935 MODELS HERE ON SATURDAY

Standard Six Will Feature More Powerful Motor, Low Prices

The Northern Chevrolet company Saturday will put on display at its quarters on Main av. N. the new 1935 Standard Six Chevrolet. A new Master Deluxe six will also be introduced shortly.

The standard six will feature a more powerful motor, improved performance, larger brakes, a new rugged X-type frame, and the lowest price of any make of six cylinder car. Visitors at the show room Saturday will have an opportunity to win a new car radio and a spotlight, it was announced.

The 1935 New Standard has been given virtually the same performance ability as the Master De Luxe which, however, departs distinctly from previous Chevrolets in striking advances in design of body and trim. The engines, incorporating many improvements over the 1934 Master motor, are of the same size and design in both models, while in the chassis the chief difference is the presence in the Master De Luxe of Chevrolet enclosed knee-action suspension, now entering its second year improved in construction and operation.

Drivers Permits Need Not be Renewed, Eklund Says

In response to a number of inquiries Clerk of Court Adolf Eklund announced this week that under the present state law holders of motor vehicle drivers' licenses are not required to renew them, as they are issued to be held permanently unless revoked for cause. Mr. Eklund, however, pointed out that the present law is subject to amendment at the coming session of the legislature.

Pioneer Official Dies

JUDGE N. TARRANT, PIONEER CITIZEN, DIED LAST SUNDAY

Popular Official Had Been Municipal Judge Quarter Century

Municipal Judge N. W. Tarrant, who has been a resident of this community since 1893 and had served as judge of municipal court here continuously for a quarter century, died at his home in this city Sunday afternoon following a brief illness. He was in his 74th year.

Funeral rites were conducted Wednesday morning from St. Bernard's church, Rev. Father A. I. Merth officiating. Business places and public offices remained closed during the hour of the funeral out of respect to the late official.

Born March 11, 1861, in Fox Lake, Wisconsin, Mr. Tarrant left his home community in 1881 to experience the hardships of pioneer life on a homestead in Dakota territory. Located near Standing Rock Indian agency he came in contact with such traditional characters as Sitting Bull, Calamity Jane and Chief Rain-in-the-Face. He served at that time as deputy sheriff.

In 1891 he removed to Grand Forks to work in a store, and two years later he settled on a farm in North township, moving into this city in 1895 to operate a confectionery store. He was a charter member of the local fire department which was organized in 1895.

Judge Tarrant was elected justice of the peace in 1896, and four years later was named to fill the office of municipal court judge, resigning in 1901 when he was elected probate judge in what was then Red Lake county. He filled the office for six years, making his home during that period in Red Lake Falls.

At the end of his third term, when the county was divided and Pennington county was organized, he moved back to Thief River Falls and the following three years operated a grocery and confectionery store on the east side of the river until in 1910 when he was elected judge of municipal court, retaining that office up to the time of his death.

Judge Tarrant was married in 1891 to Miss Elnora Sheldon of St. Charles, Minnesota, who survives him. He was a member of the local Elks lodge, having been a member of the first class to be initiated in the city. He also was a member of the Modern Woodmen of America, and he served for many years on the Pennington county Democratic committee.

3,000 SEEK JOBS AS 1935 CENSUS ENUMERATORS

District Headquarters at Crookston is Besieged With Applicants

SEVEN TO BE NAMED IN PENNINGTON CO.

Democratic County Committees Will Assist in Selection

Three thousand applications for 256 jobs face census supervisors for the Crookston district as they begin the task of selecting enumerators for the 1935 United States farm census, it was revealed Saturday according to the Crookston Times.

Established in headquarters in the federal building, Clifford Bouvette, Ninth district census supervisor, and Arnold Fredriksen, his assistant, are beginning the task of classifying the applications according to the counties where applicants reside.

The co-operation of Democratic county committees will then be obtained in selecting the enumerators. All applicants must first be given written examinations to determine their qualifications for the posts which they seek.

When selection of the enumerators is completed, those chosen to conduct the census will be given instruction at a series of schools to be conducted at central points throughout the district.

Announcement of the number of enumeration districts in each of the 15 counties in the Ninth congressional district was made by Mr. Bouvette. One enumerator will be appointed for each district.

The number of districts in each county is as follows: Polk, 27; Kittson, eight; Roseau, 12; Marshall, 17; Mahnomen, 10; Clay, 12; Wilkin, eight; Becker, 26; Clearwater, 10; Lake of the Woods, eight; Pennington, seven; Beltrami, 38; Norman, 12; Red Lake, six and Ottertail, 26.

The number of enumerators assigned to each county is based on the density of population, conditions of travel, and other factors tending to affect the speed with which the census can be taken, Mr. Bouvette explained.

Enumerators will be paid on a schedule of rates per farm. These rates vary from 25 cents to $3, the former being the rate for all farms within incorporate villages, and the latter prevailing in a few instances in the far northern counties, including Lake of the Woods, where farm lands are not readily accessible.

Districts have been so divided that every enumerator will have an opportunity to earn from $75 to $100, Mr. Bouvette said, and the taking of the census will require about 30 days.

Martin Widsten of Bemidji has been appointed clerk for the district headquarters, Mr. Bouvette announced.

THRONSON PLACES NEW PONTIAC CAR ON LOCAL DISPLAY

Announces Low Priced Six and Improved Straight Eight for 1935

A new low-priced Six now joins an improved Straight Eight to form the nineteen-model line of cars presented by the Pontiac Motor Company for 1935, T. M. Thronson of the Thronson Motor Company, local dealer announced. Closely approaching the lowest price field for the first time, Pontiac's two new cars should reap an increase of the total of the industry's business, Mr. Thronson said. The new Six will be available both in Standard and Deluxe models.

The wheelbase of the Six is 112 inches as compared with 117 inches for the Eight. In appearance, it duplicates closely the modern streamlining of the eight.

Five distinctive body styles are offered on the Standard Six. The models with bodies by Fisher, include: 2-door and 4-door sedans; 2-door and 4-door touring sedans (with built-in trunks), and standard coupe. The Deluxe Six also includes a sport coupe and cabriolet. The Straight Eight provides the seven body styles.

Both Pontiac chassis have ample power for the modern mode of high-speed travel. The six-cylinder engine develops 81 horsepower at 65 miles an hour, while the Straight Eight delivers 84 horsepower at 70 miles an hour.

A comparison of the Straight Eight with that of last year, reveals many improvements and refinements that also are included in the new Six.

WILL OPEN BIDS ON POSTOFFICE IN CITY FEB. 11

Announcement is Made by Public Works Agency in Washington

PLANS WILL REACH THIS CITY SHORTLY

Receipts at Local Office in 1934 Reach Highest Figure to Date

The most tangible evidence to date that Thief River Falls is destined to secure its long-awaited postoffice building is found in the announcement from Washington last Friday that sealed bids covering the construction of the building will be opened February 11 at the office of the Public Works administration in Washington. The call for bids is published elsewhere in this issue of the Times.

The formal notice, received Monday by Postmaster Andrew Anderson, states that prospective bidders may secure the use of a set of drawings and specifications from the assistant director of procurement of the public works branch after a deposit of $15 has been made. A set of plans also will be placed on file at the postoffice here, Mr. Anderson was advised.

The government a year ago completed purchase of the site for the structure on the southwest corner of LaBree av. and Second st., and since that time local residents have been eagerly awaiting developments leading to actual construction. With the site paid for previously, it is understood locally that the sum of approximately $47,000 is available to finance the erection of the building, altho no definite announcement in this respect has been recently forthcoming.

In connection with the announcement of a new home for the local office, Postmaster Andrew Anderson stated today that receipts of the local postoffice for the past calendar year broke all records, reaching a total of $30,881.77, a gain of $2,819.95 over the previous high mark of $28,061.82 established in 1933.

While part of the increased receipts is due to higher rates for first class postage and increases in fees, it is also taken as evidence of an improvement in economic conditions in this community. The highest total of receipts with two-cent postage in effect was in 1924 when the figures were $27,336.97.

Receipts by quarter years for 1933 and 1934 are shown below:

March	$6,683.77	$6,819.[illegible]
June	6,185.85	6,922.17
September	6,059.86	6,874.[illegible]
December	9,133.84	10,464.71
	$28,061.82	$30,881.77

LUND AND TUNBERG PLACE 1935 FORDS ON DISPLAY HERE

Attractive Body Lines Are Departure From Former Styling

Two models of the 1935 Ford car, a coupe and a four-door sedan, were put on display in this city Saturday by Lund & Tunberg, local dealers, and attracted much interest from residents of the community.

Most striking feature of the new car is the body lines which are distinctively modern and a definite departure from any previous Ford design. Also embodied in the new car is a combination of major engineering developments aimed at increased riding comfort, which has been termed the "Centre-poise" ride.

This feature is effected by the new spring suspension system, proper car weight balance and passenger weight distribution and the location of the passenger closer to the center of the car—so that passengers ride between the wheels. This made necessary, also, the lengthening of the front spring and its location more than four inches in front of the axle, and the moving forward eight inches of the engine so that its weight rests over the front axle.

The new car is said to mark the present culmination of developments begun by Ford three years ago at the time of the announcement of the V-8 engine. In the three-year period Ford has been engaged in the development of a combination of engineering improvements aimed at providing a degree of riding comfort and ease of control comparable with the performance of the engine itself.

Aunt Chloe's Inherited "Merry Christmas Gift"

OLD AUNT CHLOE was a darky almost as wide as she was high. She had a smile that would melt a quart of ice cream. She wore a red bandanna handkerchief tied about her head, with two corners sticking up like rabbit's ears. Her aprons were big enough for the mains'l of a square-rigger. She radiated such a warmth of hospitality in her mean little, clean little shack that many visitors called there for the pleasure of basking in the glow of it. Aunt Chloe was very poor, and unconquerably cheerful. She also had imagination.

Tacked to her walls were two colored prints. One was of a garden in full summer bloom. The other depicted a Christmas scene—a sleighload of people going off on a glorious ride.

Christmas morning some of her neighbors dropped in to complain a little about the hard times. They found the old woman gazing intently at the summer picture. She turned her head to welcome the visitors. "Eben if Ah'm a little cold," she explained, "Eben if Ah don't hab much Christmas, I got one gif' don't neber fail. Ah can think ahead inter pleasant times. When Ah'm all hot and steamy in de summer, and tiahed, too, I looks at de snow-picture, and right away Ah'm cool. And now . . . in dis chillsome time, Ah keeps a-lookin' at de summer one. I kin 'jes feel de sunshine on mah back. Dem things is so . . . eben if dey ain't so just dis minute. It's a gif' from de Lord, chillun, a gif' from de Lord. And it keeps me fannin' along," her wide smile lit up the room, "like nobody's business!"—Martha Banning Thomas.

A Country Doctors Wife
By Martha B. Thomas

CADDY lighted the fire in the fireplace. She switched on Christmas lights for the tree. She pulled down the shades, and pushed an easy chair towards the fire. Haley would be home any time now, cold and weary from his round of calls on sick people. This was their first Christmas eve together since they had been married.

Haley had started out on his rounds at noon. At three he had telephoned to her to say that he was obliged to abandon his car. The snow was too deep. He had borrowed a pair of snowshoes and a fur cap, and with bag in hand, was about to walk a road leading through the woods to a small shack where a sick woman lay waiting his ministrations. At Caddy's worried inquiries, he said it would take him a couple of hours.

Caddy gazed at the flames. This country practice covered miles and miles. Haley was conscientious. He never failed to reach his patients somehow, but he was tired and worn out. And Caddy herself was often lonely. Her plans for fun, for little parties at home, usually ended in trying to get someone to fill Haley's place. She knew it would be like this. Haley had warned her. She was sensible and patient. Yet tonight . . . Christmas eve, and Haley's birthday. She sighed . . . she simply couldn't bear to have anything go wrong.

The telephone rang. "That you, Caddy? I'm stuck again. The drifts are so deep I can't walk through. I'm out of the wood road all safe, and within two miles of that sick child. But none of the farmers near here has a team of horses. I really need oxen to pull me through. It's tough going."

"Oh," breathed Caddy, trying not to sound dismal.

"Caddy, I wonder," he hesitated. She could tell he was tired by the drag in his voice. "If you could possibly get Lem Sauler's team of oxen and drive here for me? I simply can't ask him to do it himself. He has his daughter home for the holidays and her family. It's Christmas."

Caddy could not speak. She knew what this meant. Hours of being out in the storm. Heaven alone knew when they would get home.

"Won't you, darling . . . to help me out?"

Then she remembered something her father had said to her on her wedding day:

"You will never be allowed to forget you are the wife of a country doctor. But I think he's worth it . . . if you are!"

So now over the telephone she said, "All right. Stay where you are. Get warm and rested, and I'll be there by Shanghai Express!"

The tedious drive behind the oxen seemed endless. The snow sifted down inside her collar. It blinded her. She was not actually suffering, but she was pretty uncomfortable. On . . . and on . . . and on. The whirling curtain swept before her. The snow drifted across the broad back of the patient beasts. They took their own way in their own plodding time. On and on . . . and on. Creak . . . creak . . . the swaying of the beasts was like some grotesque nightmarish rhythm. She almost fell asleep.

Then out of the whiteness ahead she heard a shout. "Hey . . . bless your heart, darling!" And Haley jumped aboard.

The child was very sick. The throat had to be lanced. Caddy forgot her injured feelings. She helped capably. The mother, worn and harassed, thanked both with tears in her eyes. And together they drank coffee beside a humble kitchen stove, and ate huge slices of thick, buttered bread. Not what Caddy had planned for Christmas eve, yet, curiously enough, it seemed better than the other. It had . . . she tried to think it out—more strength and sinew in it.

She smiled at Haley. "This is positively the best Christmas eve I ever spent in my life!" she whispered.

Behind a large buttered slice of bread he kissed her. "You are the perfect pattern of a country doctor's wife!" he whispered back.

Kingdom of Jugoslavia

Jugoslavia was formed at the end of the World war from the former kingdoms of Serbia and Montenegro and territory which formerly belonged to Rumania, Bulgaria, Austria and Hungary. It represents substantially the area inhabited by the south or "Jugo" Slavs. The formation of the new kingdom became effective on December 20, 1918, and by a royal decree signed on October 3, 1929, by King Alexander, the name was officially changed to the Kingdom of Jugoslavia, an appellation long in popular usage.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Heres' a report of an interview with a police woman on a night shift in a city of a half million. When asked how conditions are now as compared with pre-prohibition days, she said: "Conditions, especially for youth, are very much worse than before prohibition, and indescribably worse than before repeal. Before prohibition there were 408 saloons in the city, restricted to the down town areas, and a few business centers towards the outskirts. The law forbade minors to enter the saloons, and while the law quite generally was ignored, yet there were no attractions that were particularly alluring to youth.

"Now 3.2 beer is legally sold in over 1700 places, scattered thruout the entire city, close to the schoolhouses, and convenient to residential districts. In them soft drinks and light refreshments are sold, booths provide privacy for patrons and dancing in many cases is free. On top of that there are a few more than 200 night clubs, where 3.2 is legally sold, and in many of the places boys and girls that the proprietor of the bar maids dare trust can buy any kind of drink that they can pay for. Many of the young folks buy alcohol of a convenient bootlegger who has much less to fear now, since hard liquor is legally available, than before repeal. Food is served in these places and they are open all hours. Many of them are at their worst between midnight and five in the morning, when conditions beggar words."

When asked about students she stated that on Saturday nights the dance floors of some of the night clubs are often packed with boys and girls of student age, and after midnight drunkenness is shocking and sometimes universal. "In these particulars," she said, "the primrose path to perdition seems a hundred times wider and more slippery than before repeal. And, if reports can be credited, moral delinquency and depravity resulting from these conditions have never been hitherto approached. Moreover, the conditions in rural districts are reported to be as appalling as in the city.

Buyer Conducts Novel Field Test In Large Hotels

THE buyer of sheets and pillow cases for a large retail concern has been conducting a novel field test of his wares during the past year.

It seems that this gentleman is very definitely from Missouri. He wanted to prove to himself that he had the best sheet that could possibly be manufactured for and sold to the American housewife at a certain price. So he presented each of 20 large, busy hotels with a dozen of them, and asked that his sheets be given plenty of hard wear, that the hotels tell him just how they were used, and what they honestly thought about them. He got plenty of action and the reports were most illuminating.

It seems that laundering is a major activity in the hotel business. The enthusiastic way they go about their washing would put a Dutch housewife to shame. Our buyer's sheets were being plunged into the mangle four, five, and six times a week. At the end of ten months they'd been through the mill from 100 to 292 times; most of them about 160 times. Assuming that a sheet in the average home is washed one week and used the next, it can readily be seen that during this ten months period the hotel sheet has lived a life equivalent to that of the average six year old sheet in the average home.

The buyer became distinctly uneasy. After all, six year old sheets aren't usually the ones that are trotted out in the guest room of most homes, and in his earlier enthusiasm he'd made a particular point of soliciting the frank opinion of the best and the fussiest hotels he could find. Besides, he'd merely asked for rough treatment, not brutality. The grinding of mangles disturbed his slumbers.

We can only surmise what would have become of the poor fellow if his sheets had failed him—but of course they didn't! They came through in fine shape. The twenty hotels enthused over them, were amazed at their durability. The buyer's confidence was more than justified. His sheets had passed a test that every housewife would appreciate! His sheets were wonderful, hotels were wonderful, everything was wonderful.

Such is the life of a successful buyer, life in a successful hotel, and the life of a successful sheet.

You may have guessed what sheets we've been talking about, and if you have, of course you know the company that sells them. But if you've never given Pencos a test in your own home, drop in at the J. C. Penney store at Thief River Falls and ask for "Penco." You'll enthuse over them too; you'll be amazed at their durability; you'll recommend Penco Sheets as unhesitatingly as these 20 famous hotels did.

Spoilage Insignificant in Surplus Commodities

In distributing more than 10,000,000 pounds of surplus commodities throughout Minnesota, a loss of only a fraction of one per cent or 9,644 pounds was incurred, reports Fred A. Gilbert, director of commodity distribution, Minnesota SERA (State Emergency Relief administration.) This record is considered excellent in view of the fact that virtually 1,000,000 pounds of fresh meat was included in the total of 10,067,425. Here follows a summary of commodities distributed through this agency to date, in pound weight: Salt pork, 2,318,600, canned beef, 2,160,603; smoked pork, 1,907,682; flour, 1,281,832; fresh veal, 811,357; butter 621,010; lard, 446,340; milk-wheat-o, 249,840; fresh beef, 111,463, and cheese 59,625.

Oregon's Forests

Names of historical national forest landmarks in Oregon reveal records of human history and migration. Typically historic names are Mount David Douglas, in the Willamette national forest, named in honor of the famous Scottish botanist who, in 1826, first classified the Douglas fir tree for science. Tomahawk island in Multnomah county marks the vicinity where Captain Clark's pipe tomahawk was stolen by Indians in 1805. Snoqualmie national forest is from the Indian tribal name, "Sdoh-kwalk-bluh," or moon people.

CAPITOL NEWS

(By A. I. Harris)

Conservation studies have now been made a part of the regular public school work. This subject is included in one of the supplementary study bulletins issued by the state department of education. Negotiations to include conservation as a study in the school curriculum have been carried on for months between E. V. Willard, conservation commissioner and John G. Rockwell, commissioner of education. The conservation department has offered to aid the schools in the preparation of the studies.

Last spring the Minnesota rural credit department set aside seed potato plots on some of its farms. The purpose, T. H. Arens, conservator, says is a move for the elevation of the quality of the Minnesota seed potato, which is said to have lost some of its prestige to the North Dakota spud during the last few years. Mr. Arens reports much success and hopes to regain for Minnesota first place as a producer of seed potato. Southern potato growers look to the northern states for seed potatoes. The experiment, he says, has been quite successful.

State employes held a Christmas party last week in the state office bldg. auditorium, the receipts from which were used to distribute food and clothing to the needy.

It seems certain that Governor Olson will request the next Legislature to pass effective water conservation laws. Minnesota, which boasts of its 10,000 lakes, is notoriously one of the backward states in the Union as pertaining to water conservation legislation. Common opinion to the contrary, the conservation commission has no power whatever to control water levels. The need for this kind of legislation became more apparent the past summer and fall than ever before because of severe drouth conditions.

It is a foregone conclusion that the labor union will militantly oppose any efforts to establish a state constabulary in the coming legislature. It has been suggested that labor might not oppose a bill with clauses which would not permit the use of a state constabulary in labor disputes, as that is the main reason behind the labor opposition to such a measure. Labor fears that an unfriendly governor might use a constabulary to "break" strikes. However, it is unlikely that labor would support any kind of bill creating a state police force.

The heavy artillery of the securities commission landed numerous direct hits during the past week in the trial at Moorhead of J. Cameron Thompson, Northwest Bancorporation official. Those testifying were Commissioner S. Paul Skahen, Deputy Commissioner Charles L. Hayes, Investigator Greenberg and stenographers employed in the office.

Minnesota collects liquor revenue at the rate of 8.7 cents per capita per month for the general fund, a recent survey of the wet states disclosed. This rate is the highest among the states voting "repeal". Authorities also declare that this high rate of collection means that Minnesota has the lowest bootlegging rate in America.

86 YEAR OLD SPORT WANTS MATCH WITH INDIAN FIGHTER

Walker—Al Sinclair, 86 year-old farmer and woodsman living near Nisswa, challenged Captain Nate Dahly, veteran Indian fighter, woodsman and author living at Laporte, to a wrestling match "any time he wants it", Mr. Sinclair had heard a report that the Laporte pioneer had remarked that he could out-wrestle "any man my age who has taken a drink of liquor". Mr. Sinclair didn't know how old the captain is, but he would certify that he was 86 years old, and had taken a drink of liquor. Captain Dahly is a champion of temperance. Friends of Sinclair said that the match, if consummated, will be held either in a Brainerd hall or the Pine River armory, with suitable preliminaries.

4-H Club Members Earn $20,000,000 in 1934; Better Year in Prospect

Achievements of rural boys and girls in 4-H clubs reached a new peak in 1934, announces G. L. Noble of Chicago, managing director of the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work. Livestock, crops and handwork of the approximately 920,000 club members in 1934 will total in value about $20,240,000 according to careful estimates. Prizes won in local, state and national exhibitions and contests provided by hundreds of individuals, business firms and civic, educational and agricultural groups reach nearly $1,000,000. These include over 35,000 educational trips and scholarships of $10 to $40. All of these have been effective and wholesome incentives. The new year, with higher price levels for farm products, a drouth of record, severity past, less exactions on 4-H leadership for crop control and relief, and a better complexion in the rural field, promises greater 4-H gains.

Grygla Child Dies; Funeral Tomorrow

Funeral services will be held at Grygla tomorrow, Jan. 4, for Maxine Edith Carlson five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Carlson of Grygla, who passed away at her home Dec. 31. Rev. S. T. Anderson will have charge of the funeral.

A TRAFFIC VICTIM EVERY 35 SECONDS

Every 35 seconds, night and day, every day in the year, a person is injured in an automobile accident in the United States, according to the Traffic Safety Manual just published for school use by the safety division of the Minnesota Emergency Relief Administration. The men, women and children killed every year in traffic accidents equal in number the combined populations of the cities of Rochester and Brainerd, or more than 30,000.

Mavie Lad, Age 19, Passes Away Dec. 27

Russell Oscar Nelson passed away at his home near Mavie Thursday, Dec. 27, at the age of 19 years. Funeral services were conducted New Years' Day from the Germantown church, Rev. E. O. Sabo officiating, and interment was made in the Germantown cemetery.

Russell Nelson was born in Marshall county Nov. 23, 1916, living there all of his life. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Amanda Nelson, six brothers and two sisters, John and Milton of Superior, Wis.; Burton of International Falls; Carl, Lawrence, Floyd and Fern at home and Mrs. Mildred Lindahl of Wells. His father, Ole Nelson, passed away in 1926.

WE WON'T WORRY

The year 1935 is here but we are not worried about it. After all, it's just another year. Like all other years that have preceded it, 1935 will have the usual twelve months and four seasons. During the winter there will be short days and long nights. By a fortunate coincidence, during the summer months, just at the time when we need more sunshine, the days will be longer and the nights shorter. Each week will be made up of seven days and on each Thursday of the year, so dependable is the government of the universe, the sun will reach its meridian height just as the Times is on its way to the post office.

And there will be plenty of news to make the paper interesting each week. There will be the mistakes of the council and county board to tell about, perhaps an injunction or two, the usual grist of automobile accidents, fires, speeches, programs, building projects, law suits and arrests, and of course the weather with its rains, drouths, frosts and storms. For those occasional light weeks, when everyone seems to be on their good behavior and there is a shortage of current events to write about, we can always grind out a few stories on tax collections, the coming county fair or the latest letter from Washington on the progress of the new post office.

No, we are not worried about 1935. Not that we are not concerned about what the future will bring. But we are not worried for the very good reason that one of our New Year's resolution strictly prohibits all worrying. And we certainly will try to keep this resolution through the first week of the year at least.

We have resolved to quit worrying, or at least cut down on it as much as possible, because we know from experience that so much of our best worrying has been wasted effort. In order to prove this we could take you into our confidence and go over a long list of our own private worries of the past that time proved groundless. But, if you don't mind, we'll let you prove it to yourself out of your own stock of experience. The point can be illustrated just as well by citing a few of the many community, state and national worries that have distressed us unnecessarily in the past.

It was only a matter of a few years ago that we were worried about Wall Street owning all of our farms. Now we know that Wall Street doesn't want our farms and will be well satisfied to get back a little of the money invested in farm mortgages. The viewers-with-alarm got out a lot of speeches on that subject. Then there were sow thistles, and a lot of people actually left the country because it would be only a matter of a few years before farming in this territory would be an impossible thing. Sow thistles and grasshoppers stand out by themselves in our memories of disagreeable things because we can't recall ever having heard the politicians lay the blame for either of these evils to the money trust. About fifteen years ago, we are told, the paving of the business section of Thief River Falls was going to bankrupt the city. As a matter of fact a lot of local improvements were going to have that same bad effect. But the town is still here. A half a dozen times the river was going to go dry but we still have drinking water and a little surplus with which to build skating rinks.

Carrying the heavy load of state and national worries has been a terrific burden too. It seems that there is always something dreadful threatening our national security and worrying about these dreadful things in the past is one of the things that has robbed us of our youth. The KKK's worried about something or other and then a lot of other people worried about the KKK's and what good did all of this worrying do anybody we ask you. Think of all the wasted worrying over prohibition. For a year or so people worried about teaching evolution in the schools; then there was a worry campaign about indecent literature; and the worry about short skirts and what are the young people coming to; and the worry about the Esch-Cummins law that guaranteed profits to the railroads, and a hundred and one other worries that had us down at various times in the past. We are through with all of them. Others can worry themselves into an early grave but the yellow peril means nothing to us and we are not interested in the bad effects of poor quality cheese on the cotton market. With one firm resolution we have swept such worries out of our lives forever—or at any rate for 1935.

All of this may seem unimportant to you, and perhaps it is, but it is tremendously important to us. Relieved of the responsibility of worrying about things that concern us only remotely, if at all, we will have so much more time to devote to our own affairs that we are sure the Times is going to be a better newspaper in 1935. The neighbors will have to decide for themselves whether their children should stay out so late at night; the pie maker will have to improve his own pies if they are to be improved—if we don't like his pies we won't eat them; we'll let the banker run the bank and the farmers can do the farming. It so happens, for the time being, that our job is running a newspaper, and until that newspaper gets so good that we can't possibly improve on it, we are just going to have to neglect all worrying about other things. Sorry.

We'll let you know later if the idea works all right. If it does maybe some of you other people will want to try it.

TAX PLAN FOR TIMBER LANDS
(Minneapolis Journal)

Minnesota and the Federal government have been taking over vast areas of Northern Minnesota timber lands and cut over areas in the last few years. In the case of the State, this has been a work of necessity, resulting from unpaid taxes and ditch assessments which have threatened bankruptcy for local units.

At the present rate, it will not be many years before all but a small fraction of the timber bearing land in the state will have passed from private ownership.

This is not desirable, for local government can not exist without taxes, and when all the land becomes public, there is nothing left to tax. Private industry also passes out of the picture.

Because of the slow growth of timber in a cold climate, private owners feel unable to hold land for timber production, paying heavy annual taxes while they wait for the timber to mature. The State already has made an effort to encourage private ownership, but the plan has not succeeded well. Land set aside for timber production was to be taxed only on a small land value, and the timber was to pay taxes only when it was cut. The consent of local government units was necessary, however, and they have been slow to agree to the removal of growing of timber from the tax rolls. As a result, the counties have been getting unwelcome presents of tax delinquent, idle land.

R. N. Goodman, a Wisconsin lumberman, returns from Germany with an interesting account of the system in use there. The timber lands are assessed on a value determined by their net income to the owners. About one-quarter of the timber lands of Germany are operated under the sustained yield system. They are providing material for industries and paying taxes.

Mr. Goodman, before going abroad, had believed that the only way to prevent timber exhaustion was by immediate Federal acquisition of all remaining timber lands. Now he sees in the German plan a way out, through which a good part of the timber land of the Lake States may be kept in private hands and made to produce public revenue, as well as to supply material for wood working industries.

Minnesota's forest conservation plans so far have headed only toward complete public ownership. This is not in the public interest. The German system may have merit for use in this State, and certainly it is worth a study.

The sun is just rising on the morning of another day, the first day of a new year. What can I wish that this day, this year, may bring to me? Nothing that shall make the world or others poorer, nothing at the expense of other men; but just those few things which in their coming do not stop with me, but touch me rather, as they pass and gather strength:

A few friends who understand me, and yet remain friends. A work to do which has real value without which the world would feel poorer. A return for such work small enough not to tax unduly anyone who pays.

A mind unafraid to travel, even tho the trail be not blazed. An understanding heart. A sight of the eternal hills and unresting sea, and of something beautiful the hand of man has made. A sense of humor and the power to laugh. A little leisure with nothing to do. A few moments of quiet, silent meditation. A sense of the presence of God.

And the patience to wait for the coming of these things, with the wisdom to know them when they come.—"A Morning's Wish," by W. R. Hunt.

TAXES—JUST TAXES
(Mankato Free Press)

The purchaser of a loaf of bread, according to the National Investment Transcript, pays 17 kinds of taxes when he lays his dime on the counter.

If he walks home on leaving the store, he is wearing out shoes which are taxed 23 times.

If he rides in an automobile, he is paying 42 different kinds of taxes.

If he takes a subway or an electric car, the total number of visible taxes which are part of the cost of his fare runs to about 58.

All of these taxes, obviously are indirect—and very few of us know that we pay them. As the Transcript says, "Tax ignorance is the crowning element in mass ignorance today." Most of us pay few or no taxes directly—and we think because of that we are contributing nothing to the cost of government.

There is not a thing in the world that isn't taxed. The house we live in represents a legion of taxes—running all the way from taxes on standing lumber to taxes paid by the store which sold the finishing paint and the manufacturers which produced it. Food, clothing, transportation, entertainment, periodicals, books—the tax bill is a substantial item in their cost to the consumer.

It is obvious that these indirect taxes—which provide the bulk of government revenue — fall more heavily on persons of moderate means than on those with higher incomes. A loaf of bread will last a millionaire as long as it will a laborer—and the tax is the same on the loaf each buys. Tax reduction would be the greatest boon the average American could have—a boon that would at once be reflected in more jobs, more purchasing power, more spending for the necessities and luxuries which keep the industrial machine turning.

We will have tax reduction when we spend less money—and not until then. Only massed public opinion, backed up by knowledge of the facts, can bring it about. The cost of government can and must be reduced—all the way from Washington down to the smallest hamlet in the land.

Is democracy really a good form of human government, in fact, the best that has so far appeared? The 19th century thought so, and congratulated itself on the spread of democracy throughout the world. Yet, so "progressive" has the 20th century been that today the greater part of the human race are ruled by dictators—a form of absolute monarchy for which one must turn back the pages of human history for several centuries to find its equal. Only in the British commonwealth, France and the United States does democracy still rule among the important countries of the world. And in the United States we are rapidly moving to the point where a majority of the people are on the public payroll, and when that happens, democracy will give way to socialism and socialism to dictatorship. Democracy cannot exist in a socialistic state, nor can a free government continue to function when any large part of the electorate feed from the public crib. At the rate this country is progressing toward a government-directed economy, there is plenty for the liberty-loving citizen to be thinking about during 1935.—Morris Tribune.

A PRAYER
Found in Chester Cathedral

Give me a good digestion, Lord,
And also something to digest;
Give me a healthy body, Lord,
With sense to keep it at its best.

Give me a healthy mind, Lord,
To keep the good and pure in sight,
Which seeing sin is not appalled,
But finds a way to set it right.

Give me a mind that is not bored,
That does not whimper, whine or sigh.
Don't let me worry over-much
About the fussy thing called I.

Give me a sense of humor, Lord,
Give me the grace to see a joke,
To get some happiness from life,
And pass it on to other folk.

Public Forum

Editor, the Times:

Analyzing the cooperative accomplishments of the rural population during the year of 1934 and passing over the threshold into the new year of 1935, it would probably be fair to pause just for a moment in respect and approval of accomplishments, large and small.

Space in these newspapers are limited so I'm going to pass judgment on one phase of cooperative success during the past year.

The community clubs of Pennington county and vicinity have during 1934 made a splendid showing of community cooperative enterprising. These clubs have during the past year spent considerable time in organization and perfection of social, recreational, and educational activities, which have for their purpose the concentration of community activities. To the extent that socially they have something to say about with who, when and where their children may be found. Recreationally, they make it possible for their children to enjoy the national sports close at home. Educationally, if given the moral support of the community folks, and with a well-planned year's program, there is no limit to its educational possibilities, as it pertains to the best welfare of the rural people.

These activities will have a tendency to keep the community people sufficiently and amply occupied with local enterprises of worth while activities; to refrain from traveling several nights a week seeking enjoyment, many of questionable repute.

During the past year, the clubs have exchanged a number of well-planned programs which have a far-reaching effect, in stimulating better community club interest. It also assures the club's membership of a greater variation of entertainment.

They organized during the past season, a community club kitten ball league which stimulated a great deal of community club sportsmanship. The various clubs have spent considerable time in the past years in preparing a local community booth at the county fair. Enough cooperation can be given to this project to send a creditable exhibit yearly from this county to the state fair.

The one-act play contest which was staged at the Auditorium a short time ago by these community clubs, proved a big success and probably will become a yearly event. The clubs of this vicinity are just about to organize a federation of community clubs, which will have for its aim, to encourage, promote, and organize such activities as will elevate the standard socially, morally, and educationally of the rural people.

While the community clubs are at the present time enjoying a splendid support from the rural people in the communities where these clubs are active, yet they will not do what could be done until such a time when all the community people take a hold and perfect the club's activities to the best interests of all concerned.

Yours for more community clubs with a uniform membership.
Paul Engelstad.

During renovating work in the Artushof (Court of Arthur), in Danzig, a fresco painting was found under a covering of boards. The Artushof was built in its present form in 1481.

Only 15 Minutes Now Needed to Stop Cough

If you have tried "everything" and your cough or sore throat still hangs on, do not think you can't get relief. What you need is Thoxine—real prescription medicine. It does two essential things: First, it relieves throat irritation and your cough stops. Second, it attacks the internal cause of trouble, drives cold and fever out of the system.

This two-way action makes Thoxine quicker and surer—and explains its truly phenomenal success. All you do is take a big swallow and in 15 minutes you feel relief or get your money back. Safe, pleasant. No harmful drugs. Only 35c. Lambert's Drug Store.

LEGISLATIVE LETTER
By R. W. Hitchcock

"There are three things about a Legislature", said Bill Nolan, three times Speaker of the Minnesota House, "to be thankful for —it meets only once in two years, it is limited by law to 90 days, and if there is an extra session the members don't get paid anything for it."

The Forty-Seventh Legislature of Minnesota meets on Tuesday, January 8th. If it is like most of its predecessors, and it will be, it will stick it out for the full 90 days, and Governor Olson and the people of Minnesota will have it on their hands for four months.

It is sometimes hard for the ordinary fellow to understand how the Legislature makes four months out of 90 days. It is a simple matter of legislative hocus-pocus. To your law-maker there are three kinds of days — calendar days, session days and legislative days.

Good, bad or indifferent, all Legislatures get the same treatment. Before they begin the newspapers print columns about the great things they are going to do; when they adjourn the papers try to figure out how much damage they have done.

An Important Session

It is not long in any legislative session before some Representative or Senator rises in his place and takes occasion to declare that "this is undoubtedly the most important session of the Legislature in the history of the state."

Many are already thinking this of the Legislature of 1935. It will sit at a critical time in the history of the state. The distress of the people, arising out of the depression, is still acute. What can the Legislature do to relieve or better conditions? An extraordinary condition exists in a deficit of more than $9,000,000. What is the Legislature going to do about that? Taxes on real property, both taxpayers and politicians are agreed, are a crushing, paralyzing burden. A welter of remedies is proposed, some definite and enthusiastically backed; others more vague and more uncertainly put forward. Can the Legislature pick one, or a half dozen, that will better the condition of the people? The necessity for certain social reforms, like old age pensions and unemployment insurance, is generally conceded. Will the Legislature be able to draft wise measures dealing with these great reforms, and where will it get the money to finance them? There are other pressing problems. The Legislature of 1935 will be a most important Legislature indeed if it acquits itself creditably of a very few of the great issues it will be called upon to meet.

Before November 6th perhaps Floyd B. Olson had co-operative commonwealth dreams which the Legislature of 1935 might realize for him and make him revolutionary presidential timber. That dream is over for the present. But who can tell? The recalcitrant Legislature of 1935, which Governor Olson cannot organize to his liking in either branch, may kick him into the leadership of a new third party by refusing to do his bidding. There are those who think that the hour is at hand for a new ruling party and they are looking for a leadman. Or the Legislature of 1935, dominated by independent progressives, may repeat the experience of 1905 and enact a notable mass of liberal legislation. If it does, it will not get the credit for it. Floyd B. Olson will be the crusading hero of it all, and Harkis was not more willing than is the Governor.

More Roads — Less Money

An important problem, though far less important than many others, the motor vehicle tax promises to become one of the burning issues of the Legislature of 1935.

Two years ago Secretary of State, Mike Holm, won the plaudits of the people by recommending a fifty per cent cut in the automobile license tax. Mr. Holm has a recommendation up his sleeve this year, also, but he refuses to say what it is. He will tell the Legislature at the proper time. But it is a good bet that Mike remembers how pleasant was the praise of the people two years ago. Figure it out for yourself. You can hardly miss.

The old license rates were automatically restored January 1st. The reduction of 1933 was temporary and has expired. The Legislature of 1935 will have to do something in a hurry if it wants to see any money flowing into the coffers of the highway department, but the sharp and prolonged fight of 1933 seems likely to be repeated.

Drivers' License Again in Spot Light

The administration of the new Drivers' License law aroused a great deal of criticism in the 1934 campaign and there wasn't much that the state administration could say about it.

Evidently the administration thinks that where there is so much smoke of talk there may be some fire of action. The talk is that an attempt will be made to transfer the drivers' license division to the Secretary of State and join it with the motor license division.

Just to be on the safe side, the administration the other day paid Friend-Ward, landlord to the drivers' license division, six months rent in advance.

Legislative Flotsam

Many veteran Senators, whom Governor Olson promised to campaign against, are back again. The Governor kept his promise, but he wasn't as successful talking against others as he was talking for himself. These veteran Senators will be a powerful influence in the Legislature of 1935.

An exceptionally large number of veteran House members will be missing from the Legislature of 1935, but unusually strong men have been elected to take their places. Several new members of 1933 have shown exceptional ability, and the new crop this year is generally considered as considerably above the average.

Senate and House will organize on Tuesday, the first day, with every indication that the independent progressives will control both bodies. The Governor will deliver his message on Wednesday.

Governor Olson's first message, in 1931, was very amateurish, very much a school boy effort, betraying the fact that he had had little experience or knowledge of state affairs. His message in 1933 was a comprehensive state paper, and the message this year is awaited with keen interest. A politically hostile Legislature having relieved him of responsibility, he can go as far as he likes with promises and proposals. The state wonders how far he will go.

The Legislature of 1935 has a big job and there is evidence that there are more big men than usual to do it.

BOY HUNTER BAGS HORNED RABBIT

Sauk Center—The days of pink elephants and green lizards passed out with the eighteenth amendment, they say, but here's one about horned rabbits. Not long ago Norbert Bots went hunting for rabbits. He shot one, but did not like its looks, and left it laying in the field. He told his parents he had shot a rabbit with horns, and they sent him back to get it. Sure enough, the rabbit had horns growing from the back of the ears. The horns are explained as a kind of fungus growth not uncommon in rabbits.

HISTORY PAGEANT TO BE PRESENTED AT WINTER SHOWS

13 Northwest Counties Will Share in Anniversary Spectacle

An elaborate pageant depicting the history of the Red River Valley will be one of the most important features of the silver anniversary celebration of the Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows. Thirteen Red River Valley counties are expected to take part in the pageant, each county presenting some outstanding scene relating to the rapid development which has taken place in Northwestern Minnesota. The plan includes the appointment of a pageant director in each county. The county director will then select the personnel and supervise the presentation of the scene for that particular county.

According to present plans, this will be the most elaborate historical pageant ever presented in the Northwest. An unusual amount of historical material is available as indicated by the preliminary reports issued from time to time by the various county historical associations. Furthermore, numerous local and county pageants have been presented, thus indicating special interest in such a subject.

The pageant is to be presented at one of the large mass meetings one evening during Winter Shows Week. The central committee has announced unusual interest on the part of those counties which have been approached. Superintendent Theodore C. Blegen of the Minnesota Historical society has offered the full cooperation of his organization.

Winter Sports Carnival at Bemidji Next Sunday

Citizens of Northern Minnesota will have an opportunity to see some of the world's best ice skaters perform when the 1935 Bemidji winter sports carnival opens at the municipal rink on Lake Bemidji Sunday, January 6. Twenty skaters, some of them champions, will participate in the opening show which will be staged at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of January 6. Among those who will appear will be Bill Swallander, national junior champion in figure skating and Frances Johnson who placed second in the last national contest. Both of these skaters live in Minneapolis. Another leading attraction will be the act of Eddie Shipstead and Oscar Johnson, the world's greatest comedy acrobatic skaters and the originators of the world famous "Sparkplug" act. This team has just returned from Vancouver, B. C. and will leave Bemidji to go to Detroit and Madison Square Garden in New York City for performances.

EVENTFUL SESSION OF CONGRESS WILL OPEN TODAY NOON

Labor and Social Questions Will be Given First Consideration

The first session of the seventy-fourth congress will meet at noon today. It promises to be an eventful and history-making session. President Roosevelt recently has been conferring with his advisers and with leaders at the capital about the legislative program which, as far as it can be formulated in advance, is taking shape steadily.

When the session opens the President will be in daily consultation with democratic leaders in the senate and the house with such men as Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, democratic leader of the senate; Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, chairman of the finance committee, and Representative Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee, who will be the new speaker.

Labor, social and humanitarian questions, according to all indications, will be the foremost subjects of consideration by the new congress.

While a long list of major bills will be presented with some pressure for consideration, the number that will find their way to the statue books apparently will be limited. In any event, it is the purpose of democratic leaders in the senate and house, and likewise the administration, wish that the session should be relatively short and should wind up about May 1.

That old and well known line of talk that the country is better off and more composed and that business is less disturbed when congress is away from Washington is heard once more.

It reflects a purpose on the part of the democratic heads to have the session transact such business as is deemed indispensable by the administration and congress, and quit.

A prolonged session, reaching into the middle of next summer, would be in the interest of the discontented, radical and left elements, and make it the easier for them to drive through measures which the White House and the conservative democratic leaders view with disfavor.

Light Runs Have Tonic Effect on Hog Market, Weekly Report Reveals

Generally reduced supplies of hogs have served as a tonic to all hog markets of the country and sharp price upturns have registered throughout the country, says the weekly market bulletin issued by the Central Cooperative Association, farmer owned livestock selling agency at So. St. Paul.

At South St. Paul, hog prices have advanced virtually $1.00 since the middle of December, and other large markets have shared in the upturn. Abbreviated market supplies resulting from severe weather, are responsible for much of the recent strength. How far upward continued light receipts will carry hog prices will be determined largely by the buying activity on the part of consumers. A year ago hog markets were sagging near the $3.00 mark. Now they are near the $7.00 mark.

Light hog runs are expected for a good many months according to the number of sows estimated to farrow this spring. Based upon returns from the government June pig survey made in cooperation with the rural mail carriers, there is a prospective decrease of 17 per cent in the number of sows to farrow in the spring of 1935. This decrease follows the sharp reduction in 1934, and presages the smallest market supplies of hogs for 1935 in many years.

Half of State Checked in State Auditor Recount

Claims that $500 has been collected from state employees to finance the recount of John T. Lyons, defeated farmer-labor candidate for state auditor, were denied Thursday by Senator Emil L. Regnier, who is in charge of raising the funds. Some money has been raised, but the amount was not revealed. Approximately half the precincts in the state now have been recounted. An error of 100 votes in the twenty-seventh precinct of the thirteenth ward was discovered Saturday to cut King's margin, giving Lyons a small net gain in the recount.

TAX BODY MAKES SURVEY OF 1934 TAX DELINQUENCY

Furnishes Basis for Recommendations to State Legislature

Minnesota has a tax delinquency of approximately 20 per cent, for taxes collected up to September 1, 1934, according to a report just issued by the Minnesota Taxpayers Association. Steele county with 3.08 per cent is the lowest in the state; Winona county with 3.16 per cent comes second, and Brown county, with 3.25 per cent is third.

Of the 87 counties in the state, 53 in one zone have a delinquency of less than 15 per cent; 15 counties in another zone have between 15 and 25 per cent; seven have between 25 and 35 per cent; and 12 have more than 35 per cent. Most of the 15 counties which have a delinquency of more than 35 per cent are in the northern part of the state, with Lake of the Woods having the highest, 77.26 per cent, the report shows.

Hennepin, Ramsey, and St. Louis counties in which the three large cities are located, have more than one-half of the taxable value of the state, and between them average about 15 per cent delinquent, Hennepin has 14.22, Ramsey, 15.23, and St. Louis, 15.81.

"In the southern part of the state, in spite of the drought and adverse financial conditions, there were on January 1, 1934, 32 counties having a total tax delinquency of less than 15 per cent, these counties, except Douglas, being located south of a line drawn east and west on the north line of Kandiyohi and Swift counties. Some of these counties had a total delinquency of less than six per cent" the report revealed.

35,000 PERSONS KILLED IN MOTOR ACCIDENTS IN '34

One Dies in Highway Mishaps Each Fifteen Minutes of Past Year

Upward of 35,000 persons were killed in automobile accidents this year, the greatest price this country ever has paid in lives for swift transportation on the highways. Fatalities last year totaled 30,000.

Two independent agencies agreed closely last week in their estimates of the 1934 accident toll, based on preliminary reports.

The American Automobile Association figured the year's fatalities at 35,080, The Travelers Insurance Company, Hartford, Conn., said they would total at least 36,000, with around 1,000,000 injured in 900,000 accidents.

That death toll means that the number of persons killed on the highway in this one year virtually is as large as the number of enlisted men in the AEF killed in action during the World war.

On the average a person has been killed every 15 minutes of the year and someone injured every 31 seconds. In the last 10 years, more than 290,000 persons have been killed.

Experts were wary in assigning causes for the year's great increase in fatalities. The larger number of old an eddfteein number of old and defective machines being used as a result of the depression years and the higher speeds of new models are contributory causes, they believed.

The Travelers reported a decrease of three per cent in the number of accidents per death, and said this "emphasized a trend in more serious accidents that has been evidenced for a number of years."

THE NEW FORD V-8 FOR 1935

NOW ON DISPLAY

A New Ford V-8 That Brings New Beauty, New Safety, and a New Kind of Riding Comfort Within Reach of Millions of People

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 is the biggest and roomiest Ford car ever built. It is a strikingly handsome car, with modern lines and new, luxurious appointments.

But most important of all it is especially designed to give you smooth, easy riding over all kinds of roads—"a front-seat ride for back-seat riders."

This ease of riding is achieved by the use of three basic principles never before combined in a low-price car.

1. Correct distribution of car weight by moving engine and body forward eight and a half inches.

2. New location of seats by which the rear seat is moved forward, toward the center of the car—away from the rear axle and away from the bumps.

3. New spring suspension which permits the use of longer, more flexible springs and increases the springbase to 123 inches.

The result is Center-Poise—which not only gives you a new riding comfort but adds to the stability of the car and its ease of handling. You can take curves with greater safety.

There are many new features in the Ford V-8 for 1935 which make the car still easier to drive. New brakes give more power for stopping quickly with far less foot pressure on the pedal.

A new type of easy-pressure clutch employs centrifugal force to increase efficiency at higher speeds. New steering mechanism makes the car still easier to handle. New, wider, roomier seats.

The New Ford V-8 for 1935 retains the V-8 engine which has demonstrated its dependability and economy in the service of more than a million owners. There are refinements, but no change in basic design. You buy premium performance when you buy this Ford V-8—full 85 horsepower and capable of 80 miles an hour. All Ford V-8 cars for 1935 come equipped with Safety Glass throughout at no additional cost.

We invite you to see this New Ford V-8 for 1935 at the showrooms of Ford dealers. You will want to ride in it—to drive it yourself. You will find it a new experience in motoring.

NEW 1935 FORD V-8 TRUCKS AND COMMERCIAL CARS ARE NOW ON DISPLAY

January Turkey Pool

We will be dressing turkeys again on Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 7 and 8. If you carried over some birds that were too light for Christmas they should be all right for the coming pool. Your turkeys will be handled the same as they have in the past on a pool basis, and you can rest assured we will do everything we can to net you every cent possible.

You do not have to list your turkeys for dressing at this time, so just bring in a load or a dozen, they will be dressed the same day you bring them in.

If you have capons, bring them in on either of the above dates. We will advance you the following: 8-lb. capons, 18c; 6 to 8 lbs., 15c; 4 to 6 lbs, 13c; slips, 10c. Turkey advances will be the same as they were for the Christmas pool.

Yours truly,
Peterson-Biddick Co.

Two were easily recaptured and returned to the crate, but a third, more lively and sensing freedom, took to the air. He was brought up sharply against a drug store window, when a woman shopper, barely nosing out several competitors in a close race for the bird, seized it fondly by the neck and started home with her Christmas dinner.

PLUMMER

M. W. A. Defeats Winger 33-26

In a hard fought battle, the local M. W. A. Basketball team defeated Winger here last Saturday night by a score of 33-26. Winger started fast and led during a large part of the first period but Plummer tightened its defense and started to hit the baskets from well out on the floor. The Winger defense broke enough to permit Plummer to gain a ten-point lead at the half. The second half was especially hard fought with Winger threatening to overtake the M. W. A. several times but the local boys countered every time with an offense of their own to make the second half an even period.

Plummer goes to McIntosh next Thursday evening for a game with the highly-touted McIntosh Independents. The local M. W. A. team has developed rapidly and has assumed a polish that assures that the boys will play a strong game against any team in this section. McIntosh will test them to the utmost and a good game is a certainty.

Last Wednesday night the local M. W. A team journeyed to Middle River and avenged a one-point defeat handed them by the same team earlier in the season to the tune of 32-31. The game was well played although rough at times. The local team showed an uncanny ability to find the basket that won the game for them This game is indicative of the development in the local team that promises to make a strong bid for the Northern League Championship during the second half.

CONTEST ON TUNGSETH IS WITHDRAWN

TUNGSETH LEAD IS INCREASED TO 118

Hearing in Day-Waldal Contest to be Resumed Today

The election contest instituted following the November 6 election by Paul Harris against E. L. Tungseth, successful candidate for the state senate, came to a sudden end Saturday when Mr. Harris filed in district court a notice dismissing the contest. The hearing before Judge Graham Torrance of Bemidji scheduled to be held at the court house Wednesday of this week was thereupon canceled.

In the recently completed recount Tungseth was shown to have gained 17 votes over his opponent, making his margin of victory 5,525 to 5,407, while only 37 ballots were in dispute. The inspectors reported the undisputed ballots as follows:

	Harris	Tungseth
Pennington	2,330	2,483
Red Lake	1,221	1,302
Clearwater	1,856	1,740
	5,407	5,525

The hearing in the contest opened by W. E. Day against Marius Waldal, successful candidate for election to the state legislature, opened in Red Lake Falls Monday, and after checking over most of the disputed ballots in Clearwater county Judge Torrance adjourned the hearing until today.

Pennington: Day, 2,337; Waldal, 2,042; Melby, 2,449; Jones, 1,396; disputed ballots, 46. Red Lake: Day, 954; Waldal, 1,713; Melby, 1,082; Jones, 1,101; disputed, 22. Clearwater: Day, 1,868; Waldal, 1,417; Melby, 1,705; Jones, 1,754; disputed, 53. Totals for each candidate in the district are: Day, 5,159; Waldal, 5,172; Melby, 5,236; Jones, 4,251; disputed, 121.

In the first disputed ballots checked in Clearwater county at the hearing Day gained 23 and Waldal 11. The final outcome of the contest thus depends on what disposition is made of the remaining contested ballots.

At the opening of the legislative session Tuesday, representative Lewis Herfindahl, administration supporter, lodged objection to the seating of Waldal, who, Herfindahl contended, was "improperly awarded a certificate of election" that "should have been granted Walter Day, Bagley, housemember last session."

Representative L. E. Brophey, Minneapolis, pointed out Waldal's election certificate already had been filed with the secretary of state, and properly certified. Waldal voted for George W. Johnson, of Duluth, independent candidate for speaker of the house.

INDEPENDENTS IN CONTROL OF LEGISLATURE

Groups Opposing Governor Organize Both House and Senate

DULUTH MAN NAMED SPEAKER OF HOUSE

Governor's Message to Legislature Wednesday is Conciliatory

Anti-administration forces overwhelmed Liberal blocs in both houses of Minnesota's 49th Legislature Tuesday to seize control in Senate and House and rear a virtually insurmountable obstacle to the Farmer-Labor party's sweeping program of public ownership.

Representative George W. Johnson of Duluth was elected speaker of the House by a vote of 82 to 49 over Representative Harold H. Barker, Elbow Lake.

Johnson's election followed a vigorous attempt by Liberal representatives, including Charles Wangensteen, Chisholm, and Mark Nolan, Gilbert, to sway votes from the Independent Progressives, who were supporting Johnson.

The session was called to order at noon with Lieutenant-Governor Hjalmar Peterson of Askov, calling the Senate into session, and Mike Holm, secretary of state, rapping the gavel in the House.

The Senate proceeded smoothly and rather quietly in its organization preliminaries with the big test to come when the Conservatives move to have a Committee on Committees dominate the upper branch instead of the lieutenant governor who is aligned with the administration faction.

BISHOP SUCCEEDS TO POST HELD BY JUDGE N. TARRANT

Sworn Into Office After Appointment by Governor Floyd Olson

Following notification received Saturday of his appointment by Governor Floyd B. Olson, to the office of municipal judge in this city succeeding the late Judge N. W. Tarrant, J. M. Bishop, local attorney and former incumbent of the post, was sworn into office Monday afternoon. He will serve out Judge Tarrant's term which expires at the end of the current year.

Judge Bishop announced yesterday that he would continue his private practice insofar as it does not conflict with the duties of his new office.

Moving to this city in 1902 after acquiring local property the preceding year, Judge Bishop was shortly elected municipal judge and served from 1903 to 1911 inclusive. 1935 CHRYSLERS ON DISPLAY SOON AT GUSTAFSONS

Appearance of the Airflow Model is Changed; New Plymouth Here

The 1935 line of Chrysler automobiles was put on display last week in New York city, and models are expected shortly to go on display in this city, it was announced this week by C. D. Gustafson of C. D. Gustafson & Son, local dealers.

There has been a change in the appearance of the Airflow brought about by a new and pleasing treatment of the front end, affecting hood, radiator, headlights and louvers. Instead of the hood's having uniform width from cowl to front as in the 1934 cars, a new curved center-section terminating in a pointed radiator has been adopted. This gives the car an appearance of greater length.

The Chrysler line for 1935 will embrace six models. Four of these are of the Airflow type—the Airflow Eight, Airflow Imperial, Airflow Custom Imperial on a wheelbase of 137 inches, and the Airflow Custom Imperial on a wheelbase of 146 inches. The other cars, both of which are entirely new in the line are a six and an eight designated as the Airstream models. These cars are a modification of the Airflow in construction and replace the conventional models previously offered by Chrysler, additional proof that Chrysler believes the public accepts Airflow principles as fundamentally sound.

The changes for 1935 are in the nature of engineering advancements that have been developed by Chrysler in the past year and many refinements of features that already have proved their worth.

Introduced in six beautiful body types the new Plymouth, streamlined in design, have added engineering developments which today more than ever before gives emphasis to its claim of superiority in the low-priced field. The Plymouth is now on display.

To quickly catalog the outstanding features of the new car—the 1935 Plymouth has an 82 horsepower engine with a compression ratio of 6.7 to 1; a torpedo-type all steel safety body, syncro-silent transmission; a new "ride" achieved by a redistribution of weight, plus a new front spring assembly, "Floating Power" engine mountings and hydraulic brakes.

SIX TONS OF ILLEGAL FISH TAKEN IN RAID

Detroit Lakes.—A truck containing six tons, or 12,000 pounds of pike, pickerel, perch, eel pout and tullibee was taken into custody at Detroit Lakes recently by two game wardens while its owner, Clarence Fradet of Edgeley, N. D., stopped at a Detroit Lakes restaurant for breakfast. Fradet was taken into municipal court, where he pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of over the limit of pike and pickerel. He was fined $50 and $5.50 costs. Fradet, who did not have a commercial license, said he purchased the fish at 10c a pound from the netters at Warroad. The fish were being taken to North Dakota to be put on sale. In an effort to disguise the load, eel pout and "red eyes" had been placed at the top of the truck. Fradet bought back the load of fish from the state game and fish division through its agents.

FARMERS TO MOVE FROM OLD HOMES

Baudette.—The spending of $385,000 by the government in Lake of the Woods and Beltrami counties will be undertaken immediately, with farmers moving from their old homes in outlying districts to farms closer to villages, schools, highways and railways. Figures show that out of 306 farmers consulted, 260 have agreed to move. Land was appraised at around $5.75 per acre, the payment by the government to apply on the payment of new farms or in cash as the farmer wishes. The government will also underwrite loans for the erection of buildings and improvements on the new farms, and the tenants can "strip" their old farms of doors, windows, etc. to take for their new homes. The farmers will have their choice of new farms.

Chances Aren't So Good of Observing Your 50th Wedding Anniversary

What are your chances for celebrating your golden wedding? With all the possibilities nicely estimated, the prospects for living fifty years to attend their golden anniversary have now been figured out by the statisticians for all the young couples and the couples not so young who are getting married today.

Physicians of the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association cite these figures in today's bulletin because they lend a romantic side light on the accomplishments of medicine and science in prolonging human life.

"Taking the average case in which the bride is about 22 years old and the bridegroom about 25, the chance is about one in six, today, that both will survive for a golden wedding celebration," says the bulletin.

"The chances for the same pair to survive for 25 years for their silver wedding anniversary are much better being about three in four, while it is almost a certainty that barring the usual accidents they will survive for their tin anniversary ten years off.

If they marry earlier, say at 18 and 23, respectively, they stand a chance of about one in four of living together for fifty years. But if they marry late, say at 37 and 42 their chance is only about one in a thousand of jointly surviving for 50 years.

In any case, the number of golden wedding anniversaries celebrated now-a-days and in the next 100 years, for example, will greatly outnumber the celebrations of the last century because 5 years have been added to the average span of life.

Of course, figures take no account of the possibility that golden wedding celebrations may diminish seriously as a result of divorce rather than illness and death.

St. Olaf Choir to Give Twenty-three Concerts

Twenty-three concerts in ten states, many of them in the largest cities of the country, will be given by the St. Olaf Lutheran choir when the "musical missionaries" from Northfield embark on their Eastern concert tour, beginning January 20.

The choir will give concerts in Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, and Indiana on the way to the East and back, with three concerts scheduled in New York, five in Pennsylvania, two in Massachusetts, one in Maine, and one in New Jersey. The coming trip will be the first Eastern tour in four years, but finds the choir heralded as one of the leading musical organizations in the United States.

The first tour of the St. Olaf college singers was made in 1911, and one or more tours have been made each year since then. In 1913 and again in 1930, the choir visited Europe.

FILL OF BEER WINS WAGER; EMPTY HONOR

Austin—Anton can regard with only a feeling of remorse the empty honor of having established what is probably a quick-drinking beer record for Austin. He has only a meager dollar bill to show for his accomplishment. On the other hand, there was a fine of $13.50 for a charge of intoxication to be paid. It happened when a restaurant proprietor showed Anton and his friend a mammoth stein that would hold two and a half quarts of beer. "I'll bet you a dollar you can't drink that much beer in fifteen minutes", the friend challenged. Anton was tempted. The stein was filled and a watch ticked off the minutes as Anton went to work. In less than five minutes the stein was empty. From that time on he is not sure just what happened, until he was arraigned before the justice the following morning, and was fined $13.50, including costs. Not much profit in that, he commented ruefully.

In Memoriam

Twilight once again has fallen,
Gently laid to rest each day;
And it finds your loved ones lonely,
For two long years you've been away.
God alone can know what sorrow
Grips our hearts in throbs of pain,
Since you left us, daughter, sister,
And crossed beyond that far domain.
When each day so gently closes
And morning dawns so bright and clear,
May loving Jesus guard you darling,
And his angels keep you near.
Through those lonely years for ever—
As long as life can find its way,
You'll be with us always darling;
You're in our hearts Thora, to stay.
In this year that lies before us,
Perhaps that we may join you there.
We never know whom God is taking—
To his home so bright and fair.
So rest in holy peace our darling,
Gods own angels guarding thee
We pray again we all may gather,
And once again your face will see.

In sad memory of our dearly beloved daughter and sister, Thora who passed away January 13, 1933.

Wednesday, February 6, will be livestock day at the Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows. During the forenoon silver loving cups and other awards will be presented to winners of the various herd and flock championships and 4-H club winners.

This will be followed by a special program at which time Dean W. C. Coffey will discuss federal drouth relief and other emergency measures. Professor W. H. Peters will follow with "What are the Most Important Immediate Problems confronting the Livestock Producer" and P. A. Anderson will discuss "Increasing the Income from Sheep."

The Livestock breeders will hold their annual banquet during the evening at which time plaques will be presented to thirty leading dairy cattle and general livestock breeders from thirteen Northwestern Minnesota counties. These breed improvers will be selected this month. One constructive dairy cattle breeders and one general livestock breeder will be selected from each of the thirteen counties, with two additional breeders from Polk and Otter Tail counties where two county agent offices are maintained. The presentation of these awards will be one of the features of the silver anniversary of the founding of the Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows.

Livestock Topics to be Discussed at Farmers and Homemakers Week

Livestock and dairy farmers will find many offerings of outstanding importance on the program of the thirty-fifth annual Farmers and Homemakers Week to be held at University Farm, St. Paul, January 14-19.

Both the animal husbandry and dairy programs will stress economical ways of using high priced feeds and methods of wintering stock on short rations.

The divisional program in animal husbandry will open Monday afternoon with a series of demonstrations in slaughtering, the college livestock and meat specialists showing the right methods of butchering beeves, hogs, and sheep under farm conditions. Livestock judging demonstrations with farmers taking part, farm meat cutting demonstrations, and separate all-day series of lectures and demonstrations dealing with horses, hogs, sheep and beef cattle will be other features on the week's program.

Feeding dairy cattle under present conditions will receive the main emphasis in the dairy division program, speakers treating this subject from all angles. Cattle disease control, certain improvement, dairy production, and a dairy judging contest for farmers are other topics and features planned.

Meetings of all state livestock and dairy breed associations will be held at University Farm during the week, mostly on Thursday, January 17, and on Friday will be held the annual meeting of the Minnesota Livestock Breeders association.

500 Drivers With Bad Lights Get Patrol Tags

Nearly 500 motorists driving on state highways with improper lights were tagged by the state highway patrol in the past week, says a highway department bulletin. Three hundred drivers were given tickets for having only one headlight, and 140 others were nabbed because their tail lights were out. Of the 440 total cases for the week, the following disposition was made: 350 were required to go directly to garages and have their lights put in proper condition. 35 cases resulted in immediate arrest of the drivers: 55 were given 48 hours in which to have lights corrected.

HEN RIDES 40 MILES ON BUMPER OF AUTO

Wilmont.—Slayton may have its kitten that can successfully ride the rods beneath an auto, but Wilmont has its chicken that last week carried out a more daring feat. W. J. Sievers motored to Slayton to spend a few hours, and as he left the garage, the mechanic placed a hen that had taken up quarters in the garage on the rear bumper, thinking to get rid of the pesky fowl when Sievers started traveling 60 miles an hour. Sievers knew nothing of the presence of the hen until he arrived home, more than 40 miles away. During the trip the hen had apparently taken the ride on the bumper as a matter of course, and when discovered was apparently very comfortable.

Officials Appreciate Response to Game Bird Winter Feeding Appeal

Game and Fish officials of the Minnesota department of conservation are grateful because of the state-wide response that has been made to an appeal they issued recently for aid in feeding upland game birds which were threatened with starvation due to heavy snows in many sections of the state. State game wardens are cooperating in every district in seeing to it that the game birds are properly fed and that adequate shelters are provided.

"Sportsmen's organizations, 4-H clubs, Boy Scouts, school children, rural mail carriers, civic and patriotic groups are doing splendid work in arranging for feed for our upland game birds," Erling Swenson, Director of the division of game and fish said. "With this sort of cooperation, we have every hope of bringing through the winter a sufficient brood stock for the spring nesting season."

Federal and state grain inspection samples have been made available for winter bird feeding. During the month of November about 13,000 pounds of grain were secured from these sources with the bulk of this feed being placed for birds on the Carlos Avery wild life refuge in Anoka County.

Efforts will be made to enlist the aid of the state emergency relief administration in saving the upland game birds of the state, assuring a continuance of the foundation stock.

Minnesota Farm Loans Made by Federal Land Bank Show Big Increase

Loans to Minnesota farmers by the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul were 466 per cent greater in the first 11 months of 1934 than in the whole of 1933, it is shown in a brief statistical summary just received. In volume of credit furnished to farmers in Minnesota there is a 488 per cent increase.

The November loans in this state totaled 2,326 compared with 1,790 for November 1933, and the volume loaned in the same month was $7,317,200 as against $4,949,100 for November a year ago. For 11 months of 1934, not including any portion of December, there have been 27,844 loans closed for farmers in Minnesota for a total volume of $81,412,730 compared with 5,971 loans and a volume of $16,676,160 for the entire year of 1933.

Ease from the pressure of debts has resulted from the program accomplished and material increase in buying power is anticipated, thinks President Roy A. Nelson of the Land Bank, if there are fair crops in 1935.

State Leads in Purchase of Federal Duck Stamps

Latest reports from the United States Bureau of Biological Survey list Minnesota in the lead among the states in the sale of the new Federal duck hunting stamps. Nearly a half million dollars for wild waterfowl conservation has been paid into federal revenue channels by duck stamp purchasers for the open season of 1934-1935 the report stated. "It is pleasing to note that Minnesota continues to take a commanding lead in waterfowl conservation work," Erling Swenson, director of the state division of Game and Fish, said. "Our state leads with 40,000 federal duck stamps sold." Wisconsin was in second place with 35,341 stamps sold and Illinois stood third with 30,311. Ninety per cent of the fund received will be used to acquire and improve migratory waterfowl refuges in a nation-wide program to restore wild life.

Study Reveals Savings in Northern Minnesota From Land Use Program

Net savings in public funds amounting to $180 a year for each family could be made in one northern Minnesota county by moving 135 families out of an isolated community in three townships and relocating them on better land adjacent to communities already developed. A survey of this case, recently reported by M. M. Regan of the agricultural economics division, University Farm, St. Paul, shows that such a relocation program would result in a total yearly saving of $25,591, of which the community's share would be 5,209, the county's $10,282, and the state's $1,011.

Most of the savings would be for roads and schools, says Mr. Regan. Savings from schools would be $12,139, from town roads $1,366, from county roads $9,878, and from town government $2,206. All these figures are net amounts left after allowances were made for increases in expenses of the communities into which the families would be moved. Such increased expenses would be very small, because existing roads and schools would be almost completely adequate to care for the new families.

Besides the actual savings possible, such a relocation on better land should enable these families to contribute a larger share of the public funds needed, Mr. Regan reports. In 1932 the community raised only about 15 per cent for its own support, the state contributing 14.1 per cent and the county 70.5 per cent.

As can be seen, the bulk of the savings in the foregoing case would revert to the taxpayers in the county. For this reason, counties can well afford to study the possible savings from relocating isolated communities and settlers. These possibilities and plans for procedure are disclosed in Special Bulletin 167, "Zoning of Minnesota Lands". Copies are free from county agents or the Bulletin Office, University Farm, St. Paul.

Minnesota as Health Resort in Early Days Discussed by Authors

Minnesota's climate was one of its chief assets in early days according to a historical article appearing in the current issue of "Everybody's Health", the state Christmas Seal magazine, written by the state's well known authors, Maud and Delos Lovelace.

"Minnesota as a Health Resort in the Early Days" is the title of the article dealing with the high regard founders and early residents of the state had for the health-giving qualities of Minnesota's "salubrious climate, worth more than mines of gold."

The article states: "Among the motives given for settling in Minnesota, the search for health is mentioned with marked frequency. The remedial restorative climate attracted settlers not only from the nearby newly settled communities but from the distant east and south."

While climate is greatly discounted today in the treatment of tuberculosis, Minnesota is outstanding in its fight against this disease because of its excellent sanatorium system, its intensive program of tuberculin testing of school children, and its general program of prevention and early discovery through education and special health projects, it is pointed out by the Minnesota Public Health Association. This campaign has been made possible through Christmas Seals.

Trained to Save Lives

First aid certificates were issued by the Red Cross last year to 130,973 persons who finished the course of instruction put on by the chapters. Included in this list were more than 70,000 foremen, time clerks and other key employes on Federal Civil Works projects. Further evidence of the government's endorsement of the first aid program is found in projects now under way where Red Cross chapters, at the request of the War Department, are giving first aid instruction in CCC camps. Where it has been requested by Army engineers the same instruction is also made available to key men working on federal water conservancy and flood control projects.

Farmers Being Moved from Remote Homes in 2 Northwest Counties

A transfer of 200 households from isolated farmsteads in Roseau and Lake of the Woods counties to fertile lands selected for them by the rural rehabilitation division, Minnesota SERA (State Emergency Relief administration), in a move involving the expenditure of $730,000, is being undertaken through the joint efforts of the SERA and the regional office of the land policy section of the AAA (Agricultural Adjustment administration).

These farm families are withdrawing from non-productive lands in the Beltrami Island forest, unsuited to agriculture, reports R. I. Nowell, regional AAA director, Madison, Wisconsin. This organization plans to purchase 50,000 acres in this forest area with the ultimate purpose of enlarging it to cover 400,000 acres. The cost will be about $350,000.

A beneficial result of the move from these sub-marginal lands will be the saving of more than $25,000 annually to Roseau and Lake of the Woods counties. There will be no further necessity for maintaining schools and roads in this section which lies far away from the path of general travel. All federally-owned lands in the district were recently closed to homestead entry by executive order of President Roosevelt.

J. W. Taylor, of Roseau, and A. D. Wilson of Guthrie, will act as project supervisors for the SERA and AAA, respectively.

Of the ten best pictures of 1934, selected by more than four hundred critics from all parts of the United States, nine were presented at the Avalon theater. Of the forty-two pictures that rated next best in this national poll, all but two showed to Thief River Falls audiences. Evidently we are getting the best there is in moving pictures at least.

Bids for the new post office will be opened next month which forces us to admit that the project is moving along faster than we thought it would. It may now be necessary for us to revise our guess on the opening date. If they are going to push things along in this manner the building may be completed by the end of the next depression.

Our off-hand guess as to the most important development during the year 1934 would be the progress made in criminal apprehension. Broadening of the powers of the national police organization following the Lindbergh kidnapping has resulted in a clean-up of gangs thruout the country and has done much to restore respect for John Law. This war on crime has cost the lives of several brave federal agents whose names, alas, are already forgotten. These unsung heroes deserve a niche in the country's hall of fame. Their sacrifice deserves at least as much acclaim as that which goes to home run champions, prize fighters and south pole discoverers. Proper recognition of the value of their service would have a salutary effect on the country. Instead of encouraging our youngsters to become criminals by glorifying gangsters and law breakers, we might develop a few more St. Georges by a greater appreciation of the service of those who still slay dragons.

THEY POINT THE WAY OUT

In spite of everything that might be said about the evils of the automobile, the automobile industry deserves a lot of credit for the spirit of hopefulness with which it fights its way through every difficulty. It takes more than a depression to cause the automobile men to pull in their ears. No matter what conditions are, they keep right on selling. In the toughest years of the depression they have made the most revolutionary changes in their products, reducing costs to meet reduced buying power. They have improved their product. By good merchandising methods they have created the demand for that product. And there is much justification for the opinion that this industry, through its efforts to save itself, will lead the nation back to recovery. At any rate those sound principles which it has applied in its own behalf might well be adopted with good effect by other industries and individuals to speed the return to normal activity.

TWO IMPORTANT MESSAGES

President Roosevelt has delivered two important messages to Congress, one of them a review of the administration's record and an outline in general terms of its future policies, the other a financial report including estimates of expenses during the next two years to be provided for at the present session. Because the President has unquestioned control in both houses and assurance that his program will be approved with but minor changes, these messages indicate quite accurately the probable future course of the ship of state.

Probably the most significant statement in the message on policy was the announcement that direct relief would be discontinued and that the unemployment problem would be met by a new and greatly enlarged public works program. In outlining plans for this program he urged consideration of the following "practical principles":

> 1. All work undertaken should be useful—not just for a day, or a year, but useful in the sense that it affords permanent improvement in living conditions or that it creates future new wealth for the nation.
>
> 2. Compensation on emergency public projects should be in the form of security payments which should be larger than the amount now received as a relief dole, but at the same time not so large as to encourage the rejection of opportunities for private employment or the leaving of private employment to engage in government work.
>
> 3. Projects should be undertaken on which a large percentage of direct labor can be used.
>
> 4. Preference should be given to those projects which will be self-liquidating in the sense that there is a reasonable expectation that the government will get its money back at some future time.
>
> 5. The projects undertaken should be selected and planned so as to compete as little as possible with private enterprises. This suggests that if it were not for the necessity of giving useful work to the unemployed now on relief, these projects in most instances would not now be undertaken.
>
> 6. The planning of projects would seek to assure work during the coming fiscal year to the individuals now on relief, or until such time as private employment is available. In order to make adjustment to increasing private employment, work should be planned with a view to tapering it off in proportion to the speed with which the emergency workers are offered positions with private employers.
>
> 7. Effort should be made to locate projects where they will serve the greatest unemployment needs as shown by present relief rolls, and the broad program of the national resources board should be freely used for guidance in selection. Our ultimate objective being the enrichment of human lives, the government has the primary duty to use its emergency expenditures as much as possible to serve those who cannot secure the advantages of private capital.

Adoption of this program will have a

There will be no more federal relief, for instance, for those who are unable to work. Which means that the states or local communities will have to provide for such cases again. The federal government will direct its energies toward creating jobs. Of those who are not capable of working the President said:

> It is my thought that in the future they must be cared for as they were before. I stand ready through my own personal efforts, and through the public influence of the office that I hold, to help these local agencies to get the means necessary to assume this burden.
> The security legislation which I shall propose to the congress will, I am confident, be of assistance to local effort in the care of this type of cases. Local responsibility can and will be resumed, for, after all, common sense tells us that the wealth necessary for this task existed and still exists in the local community, and the dictates of sound administration require that this responsibility be in the first instance a local one.

That employment relief will be supplemented by a broad "security" program covering, among other things, unemployment and old age insurance, to be presented in a later message, is also promised, but the fact that no provision was made for such a program in the budget report might indicate that nothing definite along that line will be expected from the present Congress.

Those who hoped for a promise of a balanced budget will be disappointed with the President's financial report. Provision will be made for the so called regular expenses of the government but the unemployment relief program of the next two years will be bought on credit and the national debt at the end of 1936, he estimates, will be more than thirty-four billion dollars.

While the prospects for increased debt and incidentally increased taxes are anything but encouraging, the President's messages will do much to stimulate confidence in the stability of the government. The messages indicate that the drift to the left has been checked and that from now on the administration will proceed more conservatively toward its recovery goal. There is a less belligerent attitude toward business and less talk of "new deal" experiments. There are no further demands for changes in the economic laws or in the laws of nature. All of which will have a wholesome effect on private business and will do much to restore that confidence in the future that is so essential to private enterprise and activity.

THERE IS NO FINANCIAL SANTA CLAUS
(Murray County Herald)

One of the greatest obstacles in the way of curing the growing tax problem is the ancient human desire to get something for nothing.

That desire is at the forefront, in times such as the present when vast sums are being spent for direct relief and for public works projects. Practically every state is making an effort to obtain a larger share of federal funds than neighboring common-wealths. One of the most potent "sales talks" of high state officials is that they have been instrumental in obtaining federal grants for their constituents.

The idea has gotten around that this money is "free". And so it is—to the extent that the state pays nothing for it directly. Yet every cent of the money comes from the federal treasury—it is made possible by federal borrowings which are secured by liens on every enterprise, every piece of property, every investment in the nation. Interest payments on the bonds must be obtained thru taxation—and when the time for amortization comes, the money must also be raised by taxing the public.

Generally speaking, the federal grants are proportioned to states on the basis of population, the percentage of needy being about the same in one part of the country as another. As a result, the people of the various states will have to pay back the money they get precisely as they would if it were secured by state bonds. The only advantage the federal government has is in borrowing money at a slightly lower interest rate than a state.

This is not to argue that relief isn't necessary—it is. But it is also a fact that states are obtaining money for luxury projects which they do not need, and whose contribution to the welfare of the people is far less than it should be, in the light of their cost. Once the public learns that no one in history has managed to devise a way of getting something of value for nothing, it will demand that the states, as a whole, stop looking for a financial Santa Claus, and use more common sense.

THE RELATIVITY OF TIME
(From The Rotarian Magazine)

"It's no trick to grow old", says Edward A. Guest, popular American poet. "Anyone can do it—if he has the time."

Behind the humor is an implication which Mr. Guest invariably hastens to make clear... Time, of itself, is nothing. It's what men fill it with that counts.

Possibly the loneliest men on earth are those who have lived many years, selecting for the target of their efforts not others, but themselves. They are the men who have regarded their vocations as merely means for profit, not as a trust for serving society. They are the men who have had no time, in the words of wise old Dr. Johnson, to keep their friendships in constant repair. They are the men who have not learned the delights of a hobby nor the thrill of a majestic sunset.

They are, in short, the men who can not say, as did Robert Louis Stevenson shortly before tuberculosis ended his days, "During my life I have not been bored. All experience has been to me interesting."

WATCH OUT FOR THE PEDDLER
(Minneapolis Tribune)

With the advent of the peddler at hand, it is well for housewives to be on their guard. Most of these itinerant sellers offer products that are not worth the price and many of them are out to defraud the buyer.

Down at Lamberton, for example, housewives have just found that the "flower bulbs" that they bought from a peddler developed into nothing more than onions.

"Onions are flourishing in a number of homes here this spring—or did—while housewives keep an eye out for the itinerant persons who visited them a few months ago," says the news dispatch. "The housewives thought they were buying bulbs which would develop into flowers."

The man who sold the "bulbs" is of course gone and won't be back. Therein lies one of the dangers of buying from peddlers. They are usually gone before you know what you've got, and with them has gone your money for something that often has little or no value.

The solution is, "Do not buy from the next peddler who comes along or from the others that follow."

That country is richest which nourishes the greatest number of noble and happy human beings; the man is richest who has the widest helpful

Expenditure Control Urged for Minnesota by Taxpayers Group

Expenditure control stands foremost among measures which should be considered if the Minnesota Legislature attempts revision of the state's taxation system," J. P. McDonnell of Buffalo, president of the Minnesota Taxpayers Association, stated today.

"One of the reasons for the constant upswing in public costs extending back over two decades, is the lack of legal restraint on those invested with power to levy taxes," Mr. McDonnell said.

"Some who oppose all curb on spending tell us that it would be an infringement on the democratic way of doing things. They prefer a wide open policy. Yet the entire history of America has shown the necessity for checks and balances.

"Expenditure control, such as we propose, provides a check and balance system for local government, a check on the expenses of government. It requires a complete financial accounting from every official and guarantees to every taxpayer that he can make a legal appeal for justice," McDonnell pointed out.

Besides the expenditure control bill, which would set up local boards of review to pass on all bond issues and tax levies, the association will sponsor several other measures.

CAPITOL NEWS
By A. I. Harris

Old Man Winter has been making heavy demands on state highway department funds this season by reason of the frequent snow falls. Every heavy snow means night and day operation of heavy motor plows and trucks over thousands of miles of roads. Snow removal expense on the old 6,700 mile system has run as high as half a million dollars in some years, but recently the cost has been much lower because of lack of winter precipitation. This item is one which the department can never estimate in advance because of the vagaries of the weather.

Here's a break for 200 old time lumberjacks. The loggers will be placed in a special SERA transient camp in the Chippewa National forest, near Blackduck. According to Oscar W. Behrens, transient director, the men will salvage timber available in the Chippewa forest for use in other state camps. The men will be transferred to the logging camp from other units.

George Griffith, chief oil inspector, will recommend to the ensuing Legislature that the oil inspector division, now a unit of the Department of Agriculture, be made a separate department. Mr. Griffith contends that his division is, and has always been, an independent department in practice.

Municipal liquor stores, according to information received by the office of liquor control commissioner, are in most instances paying the municipal expenses of the cities and villages in which they operate.

The income tax division of the state tax commission reports that returns for 1934 were about up to the commission's expectations. The delinquency rate is not great. To date about $1,250,000 has been collected, with about $750,000 more expected. Delinquencies will be punished with a flat fine of $10 plus 12 per cent of the total tax.

It is to be hoped that the present heavy snowfall marks the end of the period of deficient precipitation. Experts tell us that wet and dry periods come in cycles, for reasons which they themselves do not understand. Perhaps we are now approaching one of the wet cycles, which means the restoration of our water levels, lakes, lake levels and restoration of our streams, and generally bring more helpful conditions for agriculture.

While heavy snowfall is a blessing, it involves unusual activities on the part of conservationists in the matter of preservation of our bird life. The heavier the snowfall the more difficult it becomes for game birds to obtain their necessary food. This means that if we are to preserve our game birds we must feed them. Considerable feeding of game birds is now being done by conservation groups, sportsmen, Boy Scouts and other organizations. The winter feeding of game birds this year must be greater than it has been in recent years or many of them will perish.

Current reports that have been given some circulation in certain parts of the state that Minnesota's deer herd is practically extinct is without foundation. A survey in the deer country of the state conducted by game wardens at the instance of Erling Swenson, director of the state division of Game and Fish discloses that our deer herd is in a healthy and satisfactory condition following the recent open hunting season.

Growing With Your Child
(By the Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota)

Learning to Read

Apart from all the incidental learning that goes on during the child's first year at school, such as how to get along in a group, the child's effort is pretty much concentrated on learning to read. If he is not well-grounded in this absolutely essential subject he might just as well not try to go on until he has mastered it, for by the time he has reached the fourth or fifth grade, he will be almost hopelessly swamped if he does not read easily and quickly. He cannot expect to keep up with his class, for virtually all his other work is dependent on his ability to get information and direction by this means.

If a child does not seem to be getting along well with his reading during the first few months at school, it will pay to check up at once, rather than allow him to become so discouraged by his failure that he has little heart for further effort. First of all, we must consider the possibility that perhaps his eyes may be the cause of his trouble. While most schools nowadays give an examination designed to check up on this, it is often true that only very marked disabilities come to light by the mass procedure. It is worth while, then, as a first step, to have a careful eye examination by a competent specialist.

If his eyes turn out to be all right, we will do well to suspect his hearing. If he is not hearing words right, he can hardly recognize them and call them out correctly. Again, the child with a speech defect, such as stammering, or some form of letter substitution, will sometimes have difficulty with reading, partly because he is so hesitant about reading aloud. Whether some children have a special reading defect which amounts to a kind of "word-blindness" is still a matter for discussion. However, the child whose trouble is not readily diagnosed should receive the benefit of whatever special remedial training has been or can be devised to meet his needs.

Not infrequently, the child's teacher attempts to speed up his progress by suggesting that his parents help him read at home. This may be effective, if all that the child needs is more practice; otherwise, more harm than good may result. For the mother has little or no idea of the technique by which the teacher proceeds, and she may succeed only in turning the child against the whole business, by nagging, or irritation over seeming stupidity. If there are other children in the family, calling attention to the child's difficulty by having him work at home may cause feelings of inferiority, for comparisons will almost inevitably be drawn.

Here, then, are a few suggestions if your first grader is stumbling:

1. Have his eyes, and ears, examined by a competent specialist.
2. Find out from your local school authorities how to go about getting special help.
3. Bear in mind that there are great differences in speed of learning. If your child is a slow child, it is well to recognize that fact at the outset of his school career, so that he will not be hopelessly discouraged by being pushed and hurried beyond his capabilities. Better spend two years in the first grade than be continually plugging along despairingly, losing ground with every year.

TRAIN SHEARS BUMPER FROM PASSING CAR

Willmar—A train took the front bumper off Benny Johnson's car in Kandiyohi village Christmas day, but gave him a present of his life by leaving him unhurt. Blinded by the snow and wind, Johnson failed to see the train coming and could not hear it because of the blizzard. The first knowledge he and his wife had of the train was when it was right on top of them. The car was literally "sheared" by the locomotive of the Empire Builder, the front bumper being cut off, the fenders dented, and a glass broken out of one of the front lamps, but aside from being half scared out of their wits, neither of the two occupants of the car suffered any injury.

LEGISLATIVE LETTER
By R. W. Hitchcock

Some time after Bill had gone west to grow up with the country he wrote home that he was "in the Legislature now." "But" complained the Old Man, "he doesn't say what for."

Nearly two hundred representatives of the people are in the Minnesota Legislature now for four months of confusion and hard labor. The session will be beset with puzzling, and weighty problems. It will be a good Legislature if it solves one of the many serious problems confronting it; namely, the tax problem; but if it does that it will do more than any other Legislature, in Minnesota or elsewhere, ever did before.

Fatigued with the excitement and labor of organization and with the thought of the heavy tasks outlined in the Governor's message, the Legislature will probably adjourn today to rest up over the week end and gain strength to face their committee assignments next week. The Legislature is always a slow starter, but late in April it will work night and day and put on a fast finish.

Some Legislative Statistics

The Legislature meets only in the odd numbered year. This is the state's forty-ninth, although it had eight other legislative sessions as a territory. It is limited by law to 90 legislative days which draw out the session for four calendar months and bring final adjournment late in April. The Legislature consists of 131 House members of the Senate, all of whom, strange as it may seem, are entitled to be called Honorable. Each member gets $1,000 for the two year period; believe it or not, that's all he gets; being a member of the Legislature isn't what it used to be. About 3,000 bills will be introduced of which perhaps 400 will get to be laws; if we may believe what many critics of law-making seriously say, this is about 390 too many. Some six or seven, maybe a dozen, state-wide laws of major importance will come out of the session; most of the rest will be local bills or minor amendments of existing laws. The session, if it follows recent precedent, will cost between $400,000 and $500,000. If this distresses any taxpayer, let him consider the New York Legislature which has the same number of members, sits for the same length of time, costs $2,000,000, and will repeat the performance next year when the Minnesota Legislature is taking a complete rest, praise the Lord.

What a Legislature Is

The Legislature is a representative democracy in function. Representing the people, it is the sovereign power of the state, and can add to or take from every other activity of the state, privilege, authority and power.

The Legislature is the people in the act of governing themselves. Good or bad, it is what the people make it. When we praise it, we take pride in our own accomplishments; when we blame it, we find fault with ourselves.

Flesh Pots of Egypt

More than a month ago each faction of the legislative membership held caucuses in the effort to control the organization of the House and Senate and on the opening day of the session, Tuesday, these efforts were completed. The papers have been full of the matter, the members have been keenly concerned, and the people at large considerably interested. What was all the excitement about? Everybody said, particularly the contending factions, that it was to determine the character of the legislation of the session. But it wasn't that at all. We get about the same legislation no matter which faction controls. Minnesota is a liberal, progressive state; it has been enacting liberal, progressive laws at every legislative session since it became a state. All the hullabaloo about organizing the House and Senate was simply for the purpose of determining who should get the flesh pots of Egypt—the appointment of clerks and stenographers for the session and the choice committee places. The people determined last November 6th what should be the character of the legislation of the session of 1935 when they exercised their right of choice among those who were standing for the legislature.

The people then determined that laws should be made in the legislature of 1935 by those who are opposed to the principles set out in the Farmer-Labor platform of last spring.

What's in a Name?

The Farmer-Labor Leader appeared last week for the first time as a weekly publication under the name of The Minnesota Leader. Is the Farmer-Labor party wearying of its name? Is this the first step toward a change? Do the leaders of the party want a name that will be more acceptable to the nation at large? Are they looking forward to the formation of a national party and is "Farmer-Labor" too provincial a name to function under?

If the Farmer-Labor party wants to change its name, that is undoubtedly its business, but it takes it pretty hard that the opposition in the Legislature has changed its name also and now calls itself the Independent Progressive party. The State News, edited by Art Jacobs frothed at the mouth about it in its last issue, and the new Minnesota Leader doesn't like it a bit.

The Independent Progressive faction, dominant in both Senate and House, is composed of both about equal numbers. In this group, particularly among the new members of the Senate and House, is an exceptionally large number of strong men.

There is every indication that the Legislature of 1935, faced with unusually heavy responsibilities, will acquit itself well and make a record comparable to the best in Minnesota legislative history.

Support for Schools

During the campaign last fall, and since, demands were voiced for state school support to the amount of $25 per public school pupil. Those who made the demand may have thought that they were hitching their wagon to a star, but were they? On the basis of 560,000 public school children this demand would require state aid to the public schools to the amount of $14,000,000 annually.

The Legislature is now appropriating approximately $6,500,000 to the public schools of the state. Interest on the state school fund, distributed pro rata, amounts to about $2,500,000 per year and is steadily increasing, the public school received in 1934 a total of $1,900,000 from the new income tax. These amounts total almost $11,000,000. In a normal year, receipts from the occupation and royalty taxes will add another $2,000,000, bring the total almost to the $25 per capita asked for.

It is even possible that the $25 per capita will be exceeded in 1935, for many business men confidently predict that income tax returns, all of which go to the public schools, will be doubled this year.

Few states in the Union have made such strides toward equalizing educational opportunity and the burden of educational support as has Minnesota.

Liquor Taxes

In this connection it is interesting to note that another new source of revenue provided by the Legislature of 1933, the liquor tax, produce $2,562,074.61 in 1934 up to December 1st. All of the proceeds of the liquor tax goes for relief.

If the state must provide $12,000,000 for relief the coming year, and presumably a comparable amount for 1936, as has been indicated, the proceeds of the liquor tax will be earmarked for some years to come to care for the borrowings that will be necessary for relief.

Auditor Recount

The recounting of ballots in the contest of state auditor will be finished shortly. This far the recount has given State Auditor King a small gain. Farmer-Labor faithful it is said, are giving their services in the recount in the hope of receiving a small pittance for their work but it is doubtful if even that will be forthcoming.

Rise in Deaths From Pneumonia is Cited by Public Health Group

More pneumonia deaths have been recorded for each month of 1934 than for any corresponding month in 1933. This fact is cited in a bulletin issued by the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association today as a reason for special caution during the months of colds and "flu".

It is difficult to account for the rise in pneumonia deaths according to the bulletin, especially in a period when there has been no serious epidemic of influenza and deaths from other acute illnesses have dropped instead of rising.

The fact is unquestionable, however, as shown in a recent authoritative study and it is believed by the physicians to be justification for unusual precautions against colds and unusual care to avoid prolonging them and causing complications.

"Every cold should be treated with the possibility in mind that it might lead to something worse, or that it might, in fact, turn out to be something much more serious", according to the bulletin.

"The victim should stay at home in bed for a day or two both to avoid infecting others and to give himself the best chance to recover quickly. Failure to recover in a few days or the appearance of any complication should be the signal for seeking help."

Many pneumonias could be avoided, according to the physicians, if the patient had given himself plenty of rest and used discretion in getting back to his ordinary pursuits.

Rice on Terraced Land

In many parts of Oceania rice planting is done on terraced land, flooded by means of a sluice. This method is employed particularly in the highlands, where the soil is not always fertile and planting on the slopes is difficult. The irrigation and terracing overcome both conditions, converting much otherwise useless soil into rice beds.

Department Policy on Village Snow Plowing

Why doesn't the state highway department give the same snow plowing service on village streets used for trunk routes as on the routes outside of municipalities? This query was made by a Minnesota newspaper editor last week.

The answer, says a highway department bulletin, is that the department is willing to give the same service, but this has proved unacceptable to most municipalities. Snow plowing operations of the highway department are confined to pushing the snow off the roadway to the sides. In the municipality this means piling up snow against the curbs and eliminating parking space. This is not desired by the local merchants, as a result most small towns have asked the department not to plow in the village limits, preferring to let traffic pack the snow down.

A visiting novelist has made a list of the most interesting ten persons in Hollywood. Probably there are not more than half a score who applaud his judgment.—Pasadena Post.

1622 JOBS FILLED IN PENNINGTON CO. DURING PAST YEAR

Many, However, of Temporary Nature, Reemployment Office Reveals

A total of 1622 jobs, both regular and temporary, have been filled by Pennington county residents during the past year, according to the 1934 activity summary compiled by Howard J. Davidson, manager of the local office of the National Re-employment service.

Of the 1622 placements made by the service during the 12-month period, 981 were assigned of public and Civil Works projects and Bureau of Public Roads projects and 641 to fill private needs, both of a temporary and permanent nature.

Counting the aid received from the government through the Civil Works Administration last winter, relief work projects, bureau of public road jobs, and openings in private industry, the majority of the 2200 applicants of the local office have been offered and taken work at some time or another during the year. Most of the jobs however, were of a temporary nature, and some applicants have been placed on as many as a dozen of such jobs. The registration card of one woman in the housekeeper file shows a total of fourteen placements on temporary jobs, both private and government work since December 1933.

Mr. Davidson reports, however, that this work was largely seasonal and of a temporary nature, most of the workers having been laid off with the advent of cold weather. He states that, although the majority of the farmers are not in need of additional work aid this winter, the unemployment situation in the city itself is much the same as last year at this time. He points out that many persons who had reserves at that time have since found it necessary to apply for federal aid.

At the present time approximately 50 men in the county are working on relief projects such as county road work, the new toboggan slide, painting in public schools and the crapple pond.

The office of County Auditor Harry Fowler was rushed to the limit at the year-end when the record total of $19,996.50 in delinquent taxes was received in payments made during the last few days of 1934 to take advantage of the discount tax sale. Some of the payments covered taxes dating as far back as 1925. Many county residents this year took advantage of the sale, while last year most of the payments were made by out-of-town parties.

Times Team Now Tops Intermediate Hockey League With 2 Wins

With a record up to yesterday of two victories and one tie, the Times team is now in the lead in the intermediate hockey league. The DeCremers were second with one victory, one defeat and a tie. Playing last Friday the Lamberts and Kellys tied 3-3, while Monday evening the Times won from the DeCremers 5 to 3. The ties will not be played off until the end of the schedule owing to the regulation providing that hockey games end at 7:45.

No Losses Result From Fires During Past Week

A series of fire alarms were turned in during the past week but no damage of consequence resulted in any case. Chimney fires brought the department late Monday afternoon to the homes of Rasmus Foss on Kendall av. S. and the Dr. C. M. Haug apartment on LaBree av. N. A blaze developed in an automobile near the Rex cafe late Saturday evening, but was extinguished with snow before the department was summoned. Steam escaping from a hot water tank in the attic of the A. H. McLaughlin home on Main av. N. resulted in an alarm being turned in last Thursday afternoon.

The club, which is composed of young people from the Town of Lind, recently won in competitions at Roseau and Thief River Falls. The play they present is a one act farce called "Frank and Erna" and depicts the embarrassing predicaments that result when the friends of a young couple endeavor to cover up a "spat" between the two.

Users of Community Rink May Now Skate to Music

Music has been provided the past week for skaters on the community rink by means of an amplifier arrangement, and has added to the pleasure of the many skaters using the rink. LEGISLATURE OPENS 1935 DELIBERATIONS AT CAPITOL TUESDAY rules committee. The vote on this was 43-23.

Submittal of a constitutional amendment to give Minnesota a one-house Legislature and immediate reduction in membership and reapportionment of the present House and Senate were urged by Governor Olson in his inaugural address to the Legislature Wednesday.

That was one of two major surprises contained in the governor's biennial message, which bore out completely his previous statements that it would be "conciliatory in tone."

The other surprise was the governor's demand for a complete investigation of the State Conservation department, but by a committee consisting of the presidents of the Minnesota Izaak Walton league and Minnesota Game Protective league and the head of the forestry department at the University of Minnesota, instead of a group of legislators.

Except for those two proposals, the governor's recommendations conformed almost entirely to advance reports of what he would include in his program.

A completely new and unique radio program which promises to hold the interest of the nation's radio enthusiasts will be inaugurated by Montgomery Ward beginning Sunday, January 13, it was announced in Chicago today by company officials.

A cast of 80 will interpret the famous characters of the Bible, and the drama will be supplemented by a complete symphonic orchestra and special choir.

HOG CONTRACTS FOR 1935 TO BE SIGNED SHORTLY

Not Necessary to Have Been Signers Last Year, Says County Agent

All eligible producers of corn and hogs will have opportunity to sign the 1935 corn-hog contract, whether or not they took part in the 1934 corn-hog production adjustment program, according to R. M. Douglass, county agent. Signing of numbers, he said, will start late this month or early in February.

Those eligible to sign this contract include persons owning and operating their own farms, and tenants operating farms on a cash rent or a fixed share agreement. In the case of farms rented on a crop or stock share lease or agreement, the contract is signed by both the tenant and the landlord.

The eligibility in all cases will be determined by the county allotment committee in accordance with instructions issued by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and subject to the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

The contract will require hog adjustments on individual farms to 10 per cent below the average 1932-33 production, with benefit payments of $15 per head on the number represented by the 10 per cent adjustment.

District Meeting of Reemployment Service in This City Saturday

The district personnel of the National Reemployment Service will meet all day Saturday at the district office in the Auditorium, it was announced yesterday by Don Snyder, district manager. Meetings of this nature are conducted approximately every month to review and discuss job opportunities, functions and procedures of employment offices and for the training of personnel in standard practices. Public works regulations will be discussed in addition to labor clearance, farm labor, job specifications, and a report by Mr. Snyder on the last state meeting of district managers in St. Paul.

State's Share of Relief $20,000,000 in 2 Years, Conference Indicates

Minnesota must raise approximately $20,000,000 in the two years for relief, it was revealed Monday following a conference between Gov. Olson and Harold Hunter, new northwest division relief administrator.

This would be divided, the governor said, by the state contributing $6,000,000 per year and the local political division $4,000,000 per year. To this amount the federal government would probably add $25,000,000 a year.

The governor intimated that the sum could be raised by selling bonds against the beer and whisky taxes for 1936, 1937 and 1938.

It's a great forward step to think of eliminating profits from war, at a time when we wouldn't dare think of eliminating war itself.

COUNTY BOARD IN BUSY SESSION AT FIRST '35 MEETING

At the request of the Marshall county board a resolution was adopted asking the state highway department to establish a new highway directly south from Grygla to Trunk Highway No. 1. The board laid on the table a petition from residents of the affected area asking the rerouting of Trunk Highway No. 1 one mile north of the present route.

The board set aside $14,000 for routine maintenance on state aid roads and $12,891 for county aid roads. A resolution was adopted not to authorize any new road construction until the state road allotments are made for the current year. District Highway Engineer A. O. Torgerson, who appeared at the meeting, recommended immediate graveling of new county aid roads and putting off of additional construction for the present. Wages for road work were fixed on the same basis as in 1934.

The board inaugurated the county old-age pension plan by approving a total of 60 applications for pensions, each of which was made payable at the rate of $5 a month beginning at the end of this month. Other applications numbering 52 were laid over for recommendations from the town boards, villages and city governments.

Owing to the year-end rush of tax payments Auditor Harry Fowler was unable to complete his annual financial report in time for the January meeting, and this will be considered at the next session February 5.

A number of feeding stations for pheasants are being established in this section under the supervision of Game Warden Walter H. Quist. The project is financed by a collection of funds in this city by Mr. Quist, which to date has netted $135. He said yesterday he expected the fund to total $175 by the time the canvass is completed.

Finland's Timberland

Half of Finland is clothed with valuable timber. Railway locomotives burn wood instead of coal. In the days of wooden ships Finland held an important place in shipbuilding and on the seas. More and more of the square-rigged, Cape Horn grain ships have fallen into Finnish hands. But with the steel ship dominating modern marine traffic, lack of iron ore has crowded the Finns from their once important place in general shipping on the oceans.

Legion Listenin' Post

Better be in attendance at this meeting as there is some important business coming up and last but not least there is going to be something extra in the way of eats.

The American Legion Auxiliary with the co-operation of the Legion distributed twenty five Christmas baskets and the Auxiliary also distributed some clothes where it was badly needed.

It is well worth while belonging to the Legion for the use of it's service department if and when needed, not to mention the fact that a lot of good guys are in the outfit. The service officer of this post has just cleared up four adjusted service certificate cases and a number of compensation cases. Multiply the work of this one officer by the number of officers over the nation and one can not realize the amount of work performed in behalf of the veterans by the Legion.

The Adjutant is mailing cards to all of out-of-town members; however if you fail to get a card calling attention to the meeting tomorrow evening, it is not intentional and the Adjutant would like to have you leave your name so that you get on the mailing list.

The membership campaign which has been in charge of two teams one captained by Doc. Haug and the other by Ward Long will close on January 11th. The campaign has been quite spirited and memberships have been coming in pretty good. The Adjutant would like to have the captains and any others that have memberships on hand turn them in before Friday noon so that he can deliver the cards to the members at the meeting in the evening.

The auto show is in the offing. Oscar Paulson has been elected general chairman and is open to any suggestions that you may have to make the coming show bigger and better than ever. Attend the Post meetings and air your ideas on this.

See you Friday night.
Uphold and defend.

Hepburn in "The Little Minister" Here Sunday

Katherine Hepburn, movie star who is rapidly winning her way to the top position in her profession, comes to the Avalon theatre Sunday and Monday in her latest picture, "The Little Minister", based on Sir James M. Barrie's famous story of Babbie, a girl whose love affair stirred up a countryside. The film, in which John Beal and Alan Hale also appear, has won general praise from metropolitan critics.

Forty Motor Vehicle Licenses Out to Date

Forty 1935 automobiles and truck licenses had been issued up to yesterday from the office of Alex Campbell, deputy registrar of motor vehicles in this city. Included in the number were nine new cars and trucks. Mr. Campbell stated that farm truck licenses are now being issued on the same reduced basis as in 1934, following a ruling by the attorney general's office.

PLANS FOR VALLEY SHOW HISTORICAL PAGEANT GO AHEAD

Arnold E. Carlson Will Represent Pennington Co. in Event

Thirteen Northwestern Minnesota counties have joined hands to present an historical pageant of the Red River Valley during Winter Shows week, February 4 to 8. This is expected to be the greatest historical event ever presented in the Northwest and will serve as a feature of the Silver Anniversary celebration of the founding of the Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows.

The response from the various counties surpassed all expectations, thus indicating unusual interest in the mammoth undertaking. The following county committee chairmen have already been appointed: Clifford Bouvette, Hallock, Kittson county; County Superintendent of Schools Charles Christianson, Roseau, Roseau county; Professor Arnold E. Carlson, Thief River Falls, Pennington county; Superintendent J. A. Hughes, Red Lake Falls, Red Lake county; Mrs. E. F. Wright, Crookston, Polk county; Mrs. H. P. Phillips, Mahnomen, Mahnomen county; County Superintendent John M. Henderson, Fergus Falls, Ottertail county; Edgar Waite, and County Superintendent Clarence Gordhamer, Breckenridge, Wilkin county; Supt. A. C. Pederson, Ada, Norman county, and County Superintendent of Schools, Mrs. Mae Barness, Bagley, Clearwater county. Committee chairmen and county directors in Marshall, Becker and Clay counties will be announced within the next few days.

Each county will present one important historical event. These will include an early Indian scene; Hudson's Bay Post and French trappers; early transportation on the Red River and the use of the Red River oxcart; Indian peace treaty at Huot 1863; early social life; early settlement; early church, early schools; transportation developments; logging; industries including agriculture, dairy and milling; World War, and the Silver Jubilee of the Red River Valley Winter Shows.

GIVE SNOW PLOWS RIGHT OF WAY ON ROADS, IS WARNING

Highway Department Urges Cars to Slow Down When Meeting Plows

"Don't dispute the right of way with a snow plow", is the warning of the state highway department in an appeal to motorists to exercise unusual caution when meeting plows at work on the trunk highways.

"Drivers will save themselves much inconvenience and some danger if they will make it a habit to slow down or stop when they meet a plow", says a department bulletin. "They should pull as far to the side of the road as possible and give the snow plow the right of way.

"In order to throw snow from the highways and keep them open for public use, it is necessary for the big V plows to travel 25 to 30 miles an hour and maintain a steady pace. They cannot dodge, jump or stop for every approaching car if they are to do an effective job.

"Many pleasure car drivers will approach a plow without slackening speed, expecting the plow to get out of their way. When it does not, they try to turn out at the last moment, but are going so fast they run into the ditch. If these drivers would slow down and turn out for the plow, they would seldom have any difficulty. Snow plows carry brilliant blue lights for night warnings."

AIRPLANES USED IN LOCATING CATTLE

Hibbing—Major Timmerman of Hibbing announced recently that he had authorized Bill Garrity, a former World War aviator, and Pharis Sarff, local aviation instructor, to fly a plane as low as possible over the woods north of Nashwauk in an effort to locate cattle with binoculars. The animals are federal cattle that have strayed into the woods, and an effort is being made to butcher them and bring them to Hibbing to be stored for distribution to needy families during the winter. Charts of the location of the animals will be made, and village crews will be sent out to shoot them and bring them out to roads to be loaded onto trucks. Permission has been obtained from the federal government to take all of the cattle, which are choice herefords, that can be found.

TO BUILD $100,000 INDIAN HOSPITAL

Cass Lake—A general hospital for the Chippewa Indians, costing about $100,000, will be started some time in March near Cass Lake. The new hospital will be built on land just south of the Nopeming farm, and will be when finished one of the finest hospitals in the country. Supt. Mark L. Burns, of the Cass Lake Consolidated agency, is the man the Chippewa Indians of Minnesota can thank for procuring this new and needed hospital. Health conditions among the Indians will be improved greatly by this added and centrally located hospitalization.

Pamphlets Ready on Farm Outlook for 1935

Farm folks who want to get the best information available on the outlook for 1935 may obtain copies of University Farm pamphlet 25, just out. In addition to the outlook for agricultural prices, the pamphlet contains a most interesting section on the outlook for farm family living in 1935, prepared under the direction of Miss Julia O. Newton, state home demonstration leader, University Farm.

The agricultural section of the outlook statement has been prepared by representatives of the Department of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, following a conference with members of the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. It deals with the general business and agricultural outlook, indicates important changes in the principal farm enterprises in Minnesota, and reflects probable tendencies in agriculture. It is intended to guide farmers in shaping their farm plans for 1935.

Anyone interested may have a copy of this pamphlet free from the county agent or from the Bulletin Office, University Farm, St. Paul.

STATE TREASURY GETS $2,814,994 IN LIQUOR TAXES

All Revenue From the Sale of Liquor Stamps Goes for Relief

Minnesota led all states of the union in per capital liquor tax collections for 1934, it was announced late last week by David R. Arundel, state liquor control commissioner. He expressed the conviction that this record means Minnesota has a low rate of liquor revenue evasion, rather than a high drinking rate, and "the lowest bootlegging rate" of any wet state.

The state treasury was enriched by $2,814,994.74 in 1934, Mr. Arundel showed. This does not include "off sale" or "on sale" license fees, which go to the municipalities.

The state revenue was obtained from excise stamps. It amounts to 8.6 cents a month per capita.

The next highest rate was in Kentucky, with 7.8 cents, Wisconsin standing third and New York fourth. The figures are sponsored by the National Conference of State Liquor Administrators.

All the liquor stamp tax revenue is used now for relief.

"U" TAX EXPERT DISCUSSES LEVY ON RETAIL SALES

Professor Blakey Asserts Tax Is Primarily for Emergency Use

Of interest to Minnesotans were the statements of Roy G. Blakey, University of Minnesota tax expert, speaking before the American Economic Association at Chicago on December 28th.

Making it clear that he was luke-warm on the point of sales taxes, Dr. Blakey pointed out, however, that a retail sales tax bears less heavily on the rural than on the urban population. As an example he gave Cook county, Illinois, in which Chicago lies and which is 98 percent urban. There, he said, per capita collections from the sales tax were $5.19 while in 27 Illinois counties having no city of more than 2500 people, per capita collections were $2.18, and for the state as a whole, collections were $4.50.

Prices are somewhat higher in cities and the farmer raises a relatively larger part of what he consumes and buys a relatively smaller part than do city residents. Everything considered, the sales tax is an emergency measure and not one calculated to solve the ultimate tax problem, either satisfactorily or permanently, in his opinion.

"If a sales tax is to be administered by the states, retail sales taxes are more feasible than manufacturers' sales taxes" he said, "although prime necessities should be exempted if possible. Generally speaking, a two or three percent rate appears more justifiable than much lower rates if the emergency is such as to require such taxation at all. Costs and difficulties of administration are usually much less than twice as great for a two per cent sales tax than for one of half that amount."

DEER BATTLES HUNTER; ESCAPES WITH TAG

Cass Lake—Curley Gamache went hunting. He hid beside a runaway and soon bagged a fine deer. Curley dropped his rifle, drew a knife, and rushed for his quarry. He put his identification tag on the animal, then seized its throat and poised his knife for the final death thrust. The deer lunged to his feet, knocked the knife from Curley's hand, and threw him into the brush. Curley sprang to his feet and dashed after the critter, shrieking "Stop him! Stop him!" Another rifle cracked, down went the deer again, and another hunter ran from the woods, knife in hand. "That's my deer" said Curley. "You're crazy," snapped the other hunter. "I just killed it." "Here's my tag on him," said Gamache, pointing it out. The other hunter just looked blank, then he said: "I know I killed that deer, Mister, but if you are fast enough to catch a deer and tag it, by gosh, take the deer."

PRESIDENT ASKS HUGE FIGURES IN BUDGET MESSAGE

Asks Congress to Appropriate Four Billion for Work Relief

A four billion dollar work-relief fund was asked of congress Monday, by President Roosevelt in a message forecasting a new peak public debt of $34,239,000,000 on June 30, 1936.

Declaring unemployment alone blocked a balanced budget, he envisaged an evening of government expenditures and receipts "as rapidly as private industry is able to reemploy those who now are without work."

This second financial accounting of the New Deal, read separately to an expectant senate and house, allowed for the spending of $17,101,000,000 in the two-year fiscal period that ends 18 months hence.

The president's request for $4,000,000,000 was coupled with the recommendation that the money be "in one sum, subject to allocation" by himself. This phase of the budget was expected to stir congressional controversy.

The total asked for the year beginning next July 1 was $8,520,413,609, with receipts estimated at $3,991,904,659. This would mean a $4,528,808,970 deficit compared with $4,869,418,338 expected for the year closing next June.

Congress was informed the government's income would meet all expenditures except those "to give work to the unemployed". Mr. Roosevelt did "not consider it advisable at this time" to propose new taxes but asked the continuation of existing levies.

Reviewing the budget message with reporters, Mr. Roosevelt said he expected the $4,000,000,000 work program to get started by early April and reach full swing by fall. Out of unexpended recovery balances, he asked congress for the immediate reappropriation of $880,000,000 for direct relief grants until July to tide over the transition period.

NEGRO ALMOST GASSED IN REFRIGERATOR CAR

Breckenridge —Reading "The Last of the Mohicans", a negro answering to the name of Howard Smith nearly wrote the last chapter of his own book at Breckenridge last week when found unconscious in a refrigerator car. Gas from the refrigeration machinery had gradually seeped out until it had rendered him unconscious. When found, he had his shoes removed and apparently was reading Cooper's famous novel. Interest in the book had been the cause of his failure to notice the gas. Walter Wendelin, ice foreman, fortunately happened to look into the car, and discovered the transient. Altho in a serious condition, Smith improved after a night in the hospital.

STATE "U" SEEKS RESTORATION OF FORMER BUDGET

Change Would Add $475,000 to Contribution by the State

In budget requests sent to the state legislature the University of Minnesota has asked that the sum cut from the annual maintenance appropriation two years ago be restored. Approval of the request would add $475,000 a year to the state's contribution to higher education.

The sudden rise of registration this fall, practically to former peak figures, increased operating costs and rising costs of practically all supplies and equipment are given as the reasons for asking restoration of the cut.

Only in case the legislature decides to return to a policy of doing some building at institutions does the university ask that its building needs be considered. If the legislature does consider buildings, the university asks a building for the division of forestry and one for the school of business administration. It is pointed out that neither has anything like adequate housing, and that both are rapidly growing units of instruction.

Minnesota's forest school is now the second largest in the United States. Last fall it admitted the largest freshman class in its history.

Restoration of cuts made in a number of special appropriations, including those of county agents, agricultural extension and work on the problems of low grade and manganese bearing iron ores is also requested.

If the maintenance appropriation were restored the university would receive $3,275,000 a year from the legislature, the sum it received in 1931. President Coffman and the Board of Regents point out in their request that the university, following the cuts of two years ago, receives less state support than it had thirteen years ago in 1921, although student enrollment has grown meanwhile by 58.3 percent.

Due to a decline in income from the 23-100 mill tax as well as reduced appropriations the university has operated for the past two years on $803,000, less money than it had before.

"BLUE LIGHTNING" AROUSES VILLAGE

Olivia—A regular Fourth-of-July celebration, with all the fireworks, was experienced by Olivia citizens in January when two high tension wires carrying 2300 volts broke and fell on a wire fence. The current instantly electrified the wire on the fence and as the strands broke, blue flames shot up high into the heavens. For a time the entire fence glowed as contacts were made and broken. Farmers living as far as five miles from Olivia saw the display.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

EXACT DATE FOR MASQUERADE TO BE ANNOUNCED

Progress Reporter Gives Suggestions to Puzzled Classmen for Costumes

The Seniors and Juniors will continue to have their fingers crossed until they hear, read, and see the news of 1935 masquerade. Sensational costumes are to appear. It is a dark, dark mystery trying to find out what your best friend is going to wear. Do you seniors remember the Micky and Minnie Mouse of last year? Questions are popping forth continually in the minds of those students who expect to attend. Shall I wear a Christmas tree as Donald H. wore last year and bring home the bacon again or shall I go as Violet Kelly went, ah, that's it, a rag doll? Some Seniors take a hint and go as your beloved class ring. After spending some time dancing with a foreigner the guests of the Seniors and the hosts themselves unmask and find some Humpty Dumpty a Little Miss Mary the long lost pal of the evening.

ORPHEON QUARTET PRESENT CONCERT

Noted Singers Appeared at Auditorium, Jan. 9

The Orpheon mixed quartet presented a program of vocal music at the auditorium last Wednesday at three o'clock as the third in the series of Lincoln High School Northwest Assembly Programs.

The personnel of the quartet included Bertha Irwin, soprano, who has studied for two years under Frank Prochowski in New York City; Margaret Powell, contralto, who has a pleasing voice in quartet work as well as a soloist; Louis Keymer, tenor, an outstanding pupil of Earle Killeen; and Sheldon Gray, basso, who has had experience in radio work, light opera, and as a church soloist.

The quartet from Rigoletto, "Italia, Italia Beloved," "Italian Street Song" from "Naughty Marietta," "The Lord Is My Light", and the bridal chorus from "The Rose Maiden" were among the numbers presented.

CHEMISTRY CLUB ORGANIZED FOR EXPERIMENTING

Thirty Students Enrolled to Perform Experiments Omitted From Class Work

Under the present hour system of classes, Chemistry Laboratory periods are 50 minutes. Under the old system, Chemistry Laboratory periods were ninety minutes. These shortened laboratory periods cause much of the year end laboratory work to be omitted. Unfortunately, this is the most interesting laboratory work. To give those students who are interested in Chemistry an opportunity to do this laboratory work which is usually omitted, A Chemistry Laboratory Club will be formed.

Over 30 students have enrolled to date. As the laboratory will accommodate only 20 students, two sections of the club may be formed, meeting alternate weeks. The club meeting will be held either on Monday or Thursday evening, whichever is the most suitable night. The work for the first meeting will be the etching of glass by means of Hydrofluoric Acid and the preparation of Bromine.

While the work done in this club should go to help in latter Chemistry classes, the main object of the club is to perform interesting experiments which are usually omitted from the regular course.

NEW DRAPES FOR LIBRARY WINDOWS

Sewing Classes Fashioned New Curtains for Library

After several week's of almost impatient expectancy, one of Miss Leavitt's most cherished desires has been fulfilled. The library has been endowed with seven pairs of distinctly attractive drapes designed and fashioned by Miss Fletcher's second year sewing class. With the enthusiasm of artists, they have worked and the final results of their labors are now being used to temper the harshness of the windows and to lend a certain romance and softness to the library itself. They are tapestry of Mexican pattern which harmonizes with the present furnishings of the library.

The curtains are draped on the newest thing in curtain cranes which regulate the amount of light. The janitors have cooperated and generously spent much of their time putting up the curtains.

PROWLERS CRUSH CROOKSTON A. C. BY 56-7 SCORE

Prowler 'B' Squad Subdues St. Hilaire by 36-1 Score in Preliminary Game

The last Thursday before the Christmas recess was certainly a Lincoln High School day. Beginning with that one-sided 36-1 victory of the Prowlers B squad over St. Hilaire and reaching a climax with the warriors of the gold and blue sweeping down to crush the Crookston Aggies 56-7.

In the first five minutes of the play Kielty had dropped in two field goals while Van Pelt missed a free throw. Hermanson scored two and Kielty one more from the floor and Nicholson failed to convert from the foul line as the quarter ended 10-0.

Kielty scored six baskets from the floor in the second quarter while Lee and Hermanson scored two and Van Pelt one to leave the score at the half 32-0.

The second half opened with Berg playing in Nicholson's place. Kielty took the ball on a tip and scored in the first few seconds of play. Berg fouled both Alseth and Albertson and each converted to put the Aggies on the scoreboard with two points. Kielty fouled Ross but he missed the gift shot. Hermanson and Ross scored for the Prowlers and A. C. respectively. Hermanson scored two more and Kielty one as the quarter ended 44-4.

Van Pelt fouled Stromberg to open the last quarter but the free shot was missed. Nicholson, after playing a fine floor game, finally crashed the scoreboard with a field goal. Hermanson and Lee each scored and Alseth made an impossible shot from a corner. Ross converted one out of two gift shots. Nicholson began to click again and scored six points before the game ended 56-7.

There was a sizeable crowd out to this game and no one went home disappointed. The Prowlers showed up so well against the A. C. that many think this team will go "places". Let's boast them!

To express their sympathetic sentiments, the students of the Sophomore Class have contributed toward flowers for Erling Melby, who is critically ill in a Minneapolis hospital. With the flowers go the sincere wishes of the Sophomore Class for their President's speedy recovery. We, the Progress Staff, earnestly add our own hopes and good wishes to those of the Sophomore Class.

EDITORIAL

Last Monday we returned to school for the first time following the Christmas holidays. It was also the first time in the New Year. We think of a new year as a new period in our lives. It is a chance to forget the old and begin anew. It is our opportunity to make amends for the mistakes we have committed in the past. In short, a new year marks the turning of a new page for everyone of us in the book which we all possess. These countless thousands of books are all entitled "My Life".

Some of us have the idea that a new year will inevitably bring a new era which will be brimming with success and prosperity. Those who have this idea have not employed the best kind of logic in arriving at that conclusion. The New Year will bring each one of us the merits we deserve. Whether we work diligently or do not work at all, we will be rewarded according to what we do, no more and no less. The well-being of society depends upon the effort society exerts to acquire this well-being.

For the nineteen hundred and 35th time the New Year ushered in a host of resolutions—among them—one by the Progress Staff reporters. "We do hereby solemnly resolve that we will to the best of our ability get our assignments in before Friday so that the bulk of the work will not be left to the heads of the staff for an all night vigil on Monday."

This is not meant to be humorous. Having attained the cooperation of the reporters is a great step in our favor. That which would have been a greater step yet would have been the securing of the cooperation of the faculty members. We admit it is tiresome to have a reporter dangling at one's heels—but—is the reporter getting any more enjoyment out of it than you?

Hence: Our earnest plea—

May the teaching staff cooperate with us—the members of the progress staff.

Striped Candy Stick

The modern striped candy stick derives its origin from a strange practice. Europeans once carried glass walking sticks filled with colored sweetmeats, hoping that witches desiring to injure them would stop to assort all the separate candies and forget their original intent.

FACULTY SPEND QUIET HOLIDAY SEASON AT HOMES

Six Members of H. S. Teaching Staff Remain in City for Christmas

It would appear that the local faculty needed to recuperate from the strenuous effects of the first half of the school year, for very quiet vacations were spent in their home towns. Teachers who remained in Thief River were: Mr. Mayer-Oakes who obtained a very severe cold; Miss Leavitt who thought nothing at all of school thus enjoying her vacation; Mrs. Korstad who stayed at home doing domestic tasks and so forth; and Mr. Claffy had a good time. Mr. Pope and Miss Tandberg just stayed at home. Out of town teachers seemed to have done the same thing. Mr. Lunning in Egan, S. D.; Mr. Johnson at Marshall; Miss Wise, Mr. Carlson and Miss Deibel in the Twin Cities; Miss Steenerson at Moorhead; Miss Greenland at Hinford, N. D.; Miss Springen at Mayville, N. D.; Miss Falberg at Stanchfield and Minneapolis; Miss Fletcher in Grand Forks; and Mr. Chalmers in Madison, Wis.

ONE-ACT PLAYS CHOSEN FOR SRS.

"The Black Valise" and "Wienies for Wed." Chosen

There are in "The Black Valise", a one-act play, the synopsis or character sketch—of—which was presented in the last school paper of 1934, two more characters. There was a sketch of three characters given there. The two additional characters are Mr. and Mrs. Clancy, low-comedy types. Mr. Clancy is a blustering, domineering individual who does a haphazard job as janitor, but succeeds completely in browbeating his wife. She is mouselike and servile, flitting through the scene like a gray shadow. Her intellect is almost nil.

The second play chosen is a comedy farce, "Wienies for Wednesday." Playing an interesting role is the prima donna. She is large and imposing, with a full vibrant voice. The other characters are the mother and father and children of a typical, likeable American family.

The try-outs for the one act plays to be presented by the Seniors will be held sometime this week.

MUSIC GROUPS TO BE CHOSEN FOR CONTEST SOON

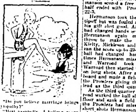
Music Has Been Ordered: Groups to Begin Work for Contest When Music Comes

All groups that will appear in the High School District Music Contest at Crookston this spring will be selected within the next week. The music has been ordered and the groups will start work on it as soon as the music arrives.

From time immemorial the various schools in the districts of the state have assembled to participate in these contests. The members of the choruses look forward to the Music Contest during the entire year, especially if that contest takes place in some other than their own home town. The numbers are sent out directly after Christmas, and the time between then and the contest is spent working on these numbers.

Now then, you might rightly ask, "Do the benefits derived from these contests correspond with the time and money spent?" Yes, it is generally considered that they do. Competition has been called the basis for all good work. It is a well-known fact that more can be accomplished if there is an incentive behind it. The incentive in the Music Contest is to produce as good if not better groups than those of the surrounding towns. Those who have attended a number of contests during the last few years have noticed the decided and continued improvement in the singing. We believe that this is due almost entirely to the competitive feeling between the schools.

SOME HOPE



"Do you believe marriage brings sympathy?"

"Most assuredly. I believe every woman feels sorry for some other woman's husband."

WARROAD BOWS TO LOCAL QUINT HERE FRI. 47-7

Prowler Seconds Whip St. Hilaire in Preliminary Contest 29-6

The Prowlers opened hostilities for 1935 last Friday against a small Warroad team. Although in some things the team showed need of improvement their passing game was greatly improved over their showing against the Crookston, A. C. The Prowlers proved that old adage that you have to get possession of the ball to score by keeping the ball in their possession the greatest part of the time.

The game opened with the Prowlers getting possession of the ball right away and after passing the ball around several times Hermanson was fouled but missed his free throw. After taking the ball off the back board the Prowlers missed several short shots. Then Mickelson fouled a Warroad man who made his gift shot putting Warroad ahead 1-0. After this Mickelson counted twice from the floor to give the Prowlers a 4-1 lead. Berg then made a whirl shot from the center after which Warroad took time out. As play started Mickleson made a free throw, after which Kielty substituted for Lee as the quarter ended with the Prowlers leading 7-1.

Lee substituted for Berg after Mickleson and Nicholson ran the count up to 11-1. After the Prowlers had missed several short shots Mickelson slipped in a field goal for the Prowlers and Warroad got their first field goal. Kielty made one of his two free throws to give the Prowlers a 14-1 lead. Kielty, Lee, Nicholson and Hermanson scored a free throw as the half ended with Prowlers ahead 22-3.

Hermanson took the ball on the tipoff but was fouled and he made his gift shot good. After the ball had changed hands several times Hermanson again made a free throw to make the score 24-3. Kielty, Mickleson and Hermanson ran the score up to 29-3. After the ball had changed hands several times Hermanson missed a setup and Warroad took possession. Warroad then started to gamble on long shots. After a long shot board and made a field goal for the Prowlers giving them a 32-3 lead as the third quarter ended.

As the third quarter ended Warroad worked the ball slowly up the floor and sank a field goal. After the Prowlers had missed several short shots Hermanson slipped in a basket for the locals. Kielty then counted twice to run the score up to 40-5. After Nicholson missed a free throw Kielty, Hermanson ran the score up to 44-5. Then Nicholson sank a side shot to make the score 46-5. Warroad then received a technical foul for too many time outs and Hermanson, who was acting captain, made the free throw. Dumois then made a field goal for Warroad as the game ended with the score 47-7.

In the preliminary game the Prowler Seconds again beat the St. Hilaire team 29-6. Next week the traditional battle between Warren and the Prowlers will be played. All the Prowlers need is a little encouragement from the fans to win so lets all be out there to witness this game.

WARREN QUINTET OPPOSE LOCALS HERE TOMORROW

Orange and Black, Last Year's District Champs, Have Weaker Team

Tomorrow evening the Prowlers, only once defeated this year, will tackle their traditional foe, Warren, on our own battleground. The game will be a climax to a second team game between the schools' B squads.

The game will probably be a one-sided affair in the local's favor. Warren is supposed to have a fast team that has not clicked yet, but will, in any event, give the Prowlers a good work out.

The Prowlers line-up will be Van Pelt, Kielty, Hermanson, Lee, Berg, Mickleson and Nicholson. The personnel of the Warren team will contain none of the last year's team, but the new material is of a nature that it may develop into a good team by District Tournament time.

The teams will meet again before the tournament but the Prowler quint will be an easy victor over the Warren five unless some stroke of luck as that which let the inferior team from Warren take the District Tournament interferes. Let's be out 100% and prevent this from happening!

Use for Cellulose

The first chemical uses for cellulose were those where it was combined with nitrogen to form cellulose nitrate. By varying the amount of nitrogen, chemists obtained a wide variety of products. If a large proportion of nitrogen was used they obtained smokeless powder. With a medium proportion the quick drying lacquers for automobiles and similar products were developed. Using only a small amount of nitrogen to large amounts of cellulose, the chemists produced celluloid for motion picture film, toilet articles and a multitude of molded toys.

Friday the 13th Comes Two Times During 1935

If you entertain any superstitions regarding Friday, the thirteenth, only two occasions will be given during the year 1935, in which rabbit's feet and other good luck tokens can be carried to offset the hoodoo of the day. Only twice does the hoodoo day occur, once in September and again in December.

Only one double holiday occurs during the year, this on Sunday and Labor Day, September 1 and 2. Another prospective double-holiday occurs on Sunday and Monday, November 10 and 11.

Easter Sunday is late this year, coming on April 21, while Memorial Day and July Fourth, observed as holidays, occur on Thursday.

Armistice Day is on Monday, with Thanksgiving falling on November 28 and Christmas falls on Wednesday this year.

SHOOT 7 PHEASANTS, JUDGE SAYS $425.00

Waconia— Game Wardens Schutz of Waconia, Farrel of Mound, and Safro of Scott county picked up four fellows east of Jordan for illegal shooting of pheasants. Three of the men arrested were Minneapolis residents and fourth was a Jordan man. The hunters were brought before a Jordan judge, who fined them $100 each and costs amounting to eight dollars apiece. The expense of that hunting trip for the four hunters amounted to $425. The four hunters had seven pheasants, one of the members of the hunting party having three pheasants which cost his $108, but the pheasants were confiscated. Probably the next time the four men will journey to Africa to hunt elephants at least a really big game hunt may not prove to be as expensive as these seven pheasants.

FEDERAL HIGHWAY AID IS DISCUSSED BY N. W. ELSBERG

Calls Attention to State's Inability to Match Federal Funds

On the basis of present revenues, the Minnesota Department of Highways will be unable in 1935 and 1936 to obtain Federal highway aid allotments authorized by Congress. These allotments, as authorized by the Hayden-Cartwright Act, will amount to nearly $7,000,000 for this State in the next two years, says N. W. Elsberg, commissioner of highways in his report presented last week to Governor Floyd B. Olson. This money will not be given to Minnesota unless it is matched dollar for dollar by State funds. If it is not matched here, it will go to increase allotments to other states.

"Minnesota's present inability to match federal funds is due to the increase in mileage of the trunk system made by the 1933 Legislature, and the decrease in motor vehicle license fees made at the same time. The effects of this increase in expenses and decrease in revenues were cushioned in 1933 and 1934 by emergency federal highway grants which the State received without any matching obligation. Such grants enabled the Department of Highways to carry on construction in the past biennium. Hardly any construction will be possible in the next biennium if State revenues of the Highway Department are not increased.

"The national government's policy on future highway aid was explained by President Roosevelt on signing the Hayden-Cartwright Act, in June 1934, when he said: "Notice also is given to the 44 state legislatures which convene early next year (1935) that unmatched emergency grants are to be abandoned, and that there is to be a return to the established plan which required that the states shall meet the federal government halfway in paying the cost of new construction."

"Therefore, if the Minnesota Legislature wishes this State to receive its share of Federal aid in 1935 and 1936, it must provide additional State Highway revenues. It should be borne in mind that Minnesota will pay the same amount of Federal taxes regardless of any action the Legislature may take. If the federal money goes unmatched, Minnesotans will pay federal taxes to aid road building in other states. If the money is matched, Minnesota will get back from the federal government in the next biennium slightly more than the amount the state will pay in federal gasoline taxes during the same period. Thousands of men who will be given work on the roads if the federal money is spent in the state will have to be provided for in some other manner should those funds not be obtained.

SPEAKERS LISTED FOR WINTER SHOW FEBRUARY 5 TO 9

Well Known Authorities to Discuss Variety of Federal Projects

Problems relating to the social and economic phases of farm life will be stressed at both the men's and women's meeting which will be held each day during the forthcoming Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows. On Tuesday, February 5, Dr. O. B. Jesness, chief of the Department of Agricultural Economics, University Farm, will discuss "Agriculture and the Export Market." This is one of the most important problems confronting the American farmers at this time. Should they adopt the policy of nationalism or insist upon maintaining foreign outlets for surplus products? Dr. Jesness is one of the leading authorities in the nation on this subject.

Dean W. C. Coffey will speak the following day on federal drouth relief and other emergency measures. Dean Coffey has served as regional director in the mammoth drouth relief program, and hence will have a message of unusual importance for Winter Shows visitors.

Professor Henry Schmitz, chief of the Forestry division, University Farm, will be the principal speaker on Thursday of Winter Shows week. He will discuss the proposed shelter belt program for the state. This subject is of special importance to the farmers of the Red River Valley.

It is expected that delegates from communities throughout the Northwest will attend these meetings with a view to carrying the messages back to their respective communities. Thus, the Winter Shows program will serve as a regional center where these important topics will be discussed.

Other lectures dealing with problems of the farm and the home will be discussed each day during the week. Each evening all groups will be brought together for huge mass meetings, at which time problems of national and international importance will be discussed. The Winter Shows will be held during the week of February 4-8, inclusive.

PASSING TRAIN THROWS SNOW, BURIES PASSENGER

Aitkin—Struck by an avalanche of snow thrown by a train which was passing, Miss Melverda Munson, of Iron Hub, was completely buried on Christmas night, being bruised and stunned by the impact. Had there not been someone there to pull her out, it is possible that she would have been unable to extricate herself. Miss Munson was at the Cedar Lake station, waiting for the train to Aitkin. Her brother flagged the train, but due to poor visibility, the engineer saw the signal too late, and sped past, throwing a huge bank of snow. Miss Munson was thrown against the station wall and completely buried. The train backed up, and members of the crew assisted her from her living tomb and carried her to the train.

Nothing Is Permanent But Change

Sounds funny, but it's true.

There was a time when it was necessary to market livestock one, two and even three hundred or more miles away. This meant shrinkage in transit, high freight costs, yardage costs, feeding costs, commissions, to say nothing of a long wait for your money.

Today - this is unnecessary.

You can market your hogs, cattle, calves and sheep close to home, carry them in your own truck over fine hard surfaced roads, little if any shrinkage, no commissions, no yardage and SPOT CASH IMMEDIATELY.

The Northern Packing Company at Grand Forks needs especially, your well finished young hogs averaging 210 to 300 lbs. Full market value for your cattle (all grades).

SCHOOL BOARD ACCEPTS COAL BID OF OEN CO.

Northrop School Interior Repainted as Federal Relief Project

BENNES DELEGATE TO STATE MEETING

Decline Noted in Number of School Absences Since the Holidays

In its comparatively brief January session Monday evening the board of education accepted the bid of the Oen Mercantile company to supply the school district with 100 tons of Yohiogheny lump coal at $9.70 a ton. Four bids were received, all of them on a uniform basis.

Supt. Morris Bye reported that the painting of the interior of the Northrop school, being carried out as a federal relief project, will be completed within a week. Materials used on the project, costing to date $545.25, are supplied by the school district, while the labor cost, totaling $805.55 to date, is defrayed by federal funds. It is proposed to paint the interior of the Knox school also if a similar arrangement can be made.

E. M. Bennes was named a delegate to the 1935 convention of the Minnesota School Board association to be held at the Lowry hotel in St. Paul February 6, 7 and 8. Mr. Bennes is a member of the legislative committee of the state organization.

Mr. Bye announced that the year-end distribution to the schools of the state from income tax receipts is at the rate of $2.30 per pupil, which will give the local district $2,063.10 for the 897 children of ages 8 to 16 as shown in the 1934 census.

A representative of a Valley, N. D., nursery appeared before the board, and was authorized to submit plans for landscaping the Knox and Northrop school grounds.

School events up to the end of February, exclusive of basketball games, as listed by Mr. Bye, include the following: Debate with Red Lake Falls, January 22; senior one-act plays, January 29; local declamation contest, January 31; high school masquerade party, February 1; assembly program, Brown's Jubilee Singers, February 4; declamation contest, February 6; and assembly program, L. E. Gerde, February 25.

The basketball tournament for District 31 will be held at the Auditorium in this city March 6, 7, and 8, all games being played in the evening.

During December, Mr. Bye stated in his report to the board, the daily absentee list was very high due to an epidemic of German measles in a mild form. The highest number of absences on any one day was 288, which was reduced to 185 just before Christmas vacation. Some improvement in attendance was noted when schools opened after the holidays, the absences last Friday totaling 154, approximately ten per cent of the enrollment.

CO-OP. CREAMERY, PLUMMER ENJOYS SUCCESSFUL YEAR

The Plummer co-operative creamery manufactured in 1934, 345,560 pounds of butter, 92 per cent of the total scoring 93 or better, it was revealed in the report submitted at the annual meeting held Monday. Receipts for dairy products amounted to $79,719.05, while the net average price paid for butterfat was 25.55 cents and the average cost of manufacture was 2.47 cents a pound.

O. E. Wilson was re-elected president of the association for this year, and all other officers were retained including H. H. Fredrickson, secretary-treasurer; George Orr, Carl Sorenson and Anton Lee, directors; and Albert Martin, operator.

B. J. Ommodt, Land O'Lakes field man, addressed the meeting and stressed the need of building stronger co-operatives in order that the producers be assured a fair share of the consumer's dollar. He also discussed the need of a uniform cream grading law which he maintained would raise the quality of Minnesota dairy products.

Local Faculty Men at Schoolmasters Meeting

Supt. Morris Bye, head of the Schoolmasters club of high school athletic district 31, presided at a meeting of the organization Wednesday evening in East Grand Forks, a delegation of local faculty members also being present. Dr. John C. West, president of the University of North Dakota, was the principal speaker.

JUDGE PONDERING DECISION IN DAY-WALDAL CONTEST

Day Leads by Small Margin With Few Ballots to be Acted on

Following the completion Tuesday in Red Lake Falls of hearings before District Judge Graham M. Torrance of Bemidji in the Day-Waldal election contest proceedings, Judge Torrance today is considering a decision on a few doubtful ballots which apparently will decide the matter, W. E. Day having a lead of a scant half dozen in the ballots credited to date.

No testimony was submitted in behalf of Marius Waldal at the hearing, but it was indicated that in the event of an adverse decision he will press in the legislature his charge of violation of the corrupt practices act by Mr. Day.

The latter Tuesday brought the matter before the lower house in his efforts to unseat Waldal, who holds a certificate of election.

C. C. NOMINATES 12 CANDIDATES FOR VOTE JAN. 24

Six Directors to be Chosen in Annual Election Thursday

Names of twelve nominees for six directors' posts to be filled next Thursday, January 24, in the annual election of the Civic and Commerce Association were submitted at the luncheon Thursday of last week by Morris Bye, chairman of the nominating committee. Additional nominations may be made from the floor at today's meeting, it was announced.

Included in the list of those proposed by the committee were E. M. Bennes, W. L. Carlisle, C. D. Gustafson, Walter Jung, B. O. Norby; Frank Rinkel, Harry Fowler, Anton Hall, A. Magnuson, A. J. Rau, F. E. Tunberg and Haakon M. Olson.

Acting on an invitation recently extended the association by the city council, a committee including Frank Rinkel, W. L. Carlisle and W. H. Mann was appointed to lend any aid possible to the city administration in working out a proposed new schedule of rates for electric current.

It was announced that at a conference the preceding evening with Division Engineer A. O. Torgerson of the state highway department, officers of the association had been informed of the likelihood that the proposed parkway treatment of Johnson at, from the east end of the new bridge would be extended around the curve as far south as Bridge st., and that it was possible bids on the project would be called for in February or March.

The association went on record in support of the highway department's request for sufficient funds to enable it to qualify for approximately $7,000,000 in federal allotments for highway construction that will be made available to this state during the coming two years. The matter of seeking an extension of the trunk highway system to include the road south from Grygla to intersect with Highway No. 1 was referred to the road committee for a report.

Following reports of complaints directed against the present mail service on the Great Northern railway between Crookston and this city and the offering of a number of suggestions for its improvement, the matter was referred to the merchants' committee for study.

Tax Reduction Bills Would Limit Tax on General Property

RESOLUTION ASKS OLD-AGE PENSIONS

Bill Proposes to Extend the Mortgage Moratorium Law Two Years

Legislation allowing the secretary of agriculture to fix prices on farm commodities was asked of congress Wednesday in a resolution introduced in the state senate by Sen. J. V. Weber, Slayton.

The resolution pointed out that congress has given industry the right to fix prices to bring back prosperity and said the agricultural industry should be given the same opportunity.

Tax reduction bills proposed by the Minnesota Federation of Associations for Tax Reform were introduced by Sen. Claude H. MacKenzie of Gaylord, James A. Carley of Plainview and Walter P. Wolfer of Minneapolis.

One of the bills would limit the tax on general property to 30 mills and would establish county tax adjustment boards. The other would provide for a constitutional amendment limiting the tax on real property of 1.2 per cent of its value.

Another tax relief measure was introduced by Sen. Patrick Farmand, Hibbing. It calls for reductions in the iron mining district of 25 per cent in the next six years.

The public welfare committee reported favorably a resolution introduced by Sen. D. G. Novak of St. Paul, memorializing congress to pass an adequate old age pension law.

The first batch of house bills came in late in the session, and before introductions had been completed, 49 were before the body.

Among the principal ones were bills to:

Extend for two years more after May 1, the mortgage moratorium and contract for deed moratorium laws.

Transfer the drivers license division from the highway department to the secretary of state's office.

Outlaw all endurance contests, walkathons, etc.

Set up a new system of combination party convention and primary for nominating of candidates.

BERVE APPEALS TO DISTRICT COURT FOR SALARY RAISE

Objects to Reduction Made Effective Last Week by County Board

Citing the increased duties of the office of county attorney, H. O. Berve, who last week assumed that post, Saturday filed with County Auditor Harry Fowler notice of an appeal to district court from the action of the county board in fixing his salary at $1,200. Notice of the action was served on the board Monday.

Mr. Berve's predecessor in the office, Paul A. Lundgren, received a salary of $1,500 a year and as part of his duties handled tax attachments and collection of rentals on tax delinquent lands. The board last week took action to reduce the salary to $1,200 when Mr. Berve objected to attending to the collection of rentals.

In his notice he contends the present salary is unjust and entirely insufficient and suggests $1,800 as a reasonable figure considering the necessity of furnishing his own office, library and necessary stenographic assistance.

A hearing in the action is scheduled to be held at a special term of court Friday, January 25, at 10 o'clock in the morning, at which time Mr. Berve will ask the court to fix his salary for his term of office as provided by law.

Donates Its Facilities for President Greetings

The Western Union Telegraph company has placed its nationwide system of telegraph offices at the disposal of the Presidents Birthday Ball committee for receiving 25 cents from each person who places his signature on a multiple signature birthday greeting: "Happy Birthday, Mr. President, I am proud to know that the cost of sending this greeting will help in the great fight against infantile paralysis, to which you have given your leadership and loaned your birthday". Signatures from every city will be mailed to New York where they will be bound into what probably will be the greatest birthday greeting in history. On hundred per cent of the money will be turned over to the national Birthday Ball committee which will arrange for proper credit for each community.

State Citizens Respond to Bird Feeding Appeal

From all sections of Minnesota reports are swarming into the offices of the state division of Game and Fish relative to local campaigns for winter feeding of upland game birds, according to Charles McFarlane, deputy division director. Early sub-zero weather coupled with heavy snow in most of the state made it imperative that artificial means be used to save the game birds from actual starvation in many localities where natural food was abnormally scarce, Mr. McFarlane said. Officials of the Game and Fish division are "deeply grateful" for the splendid cooperation they have received throughout all sections of the state in the campaign to save game birds. Acknowledgement is made of the efforts put forth by sportsmen and conservation organizations, Boy Scouts, 4-H clubs and other groups in providing food to upland game birds.

Saar District Votes to Reunite With Germany

The Saar Sunday voted overwhelmingly, by 90 per cent, for reunion with Germany, casting 477,119 votes for Germany, 46,513 for continuance under league of nations rule and 2,124 for France, it was anounced Tuesday.

The special committee on the Saar at Geneva decided promptly that Saar should be returned to Germany intact, and will advise the council. The council is expected to ratify the decision this week and arrange for the transfer within two months.

An exodus of refugees started to the French border and Jewish shops in the Saar began to close.

English Bull Terrier Is One of Oldest of Breed

When dog fighting was outlawed the popularity of the bull terrier started down grade, says Albert Stoll, Jr., in the Detroit News. This was entirely unjustified, for no more intelligent and kindly dog companion exists. But its close association with a "sport" indulged in by those whose tastes ran to the display of brute strength and blood placed this breed in an unfavorable light as a dog for the house, especially around children.

The white English bull terrier is among the oldest of the terrier breeds. In development it reached its height during the early part of the Nineteenth century when dog fighting was a popular English sport. It undoubtedly is a cross between the bulldog and several of the old terrier breeds. The former brought it strength, courage, size and indomitable will to conquer, while the terrier blood gave it tenacity, quickness and intelligence.

The accepted color of this terrier is pure white, although some are marked with brindle on the head. They stand from 19 to 22 inches high at the front shoulders and weigh from 45 to 50 pounds in the heavy class and from 29 to 35 among the lighter.

The bull terrier is the personification of the muscular development and every line suggests the ability to take care of itself under any circumstances. Where adopted as a pet this terrier is well regarded. It is active, quick and keen, constantly concerned with the responsibility of its guardianship, whether it be property or children.

Florence's Triumph

By IDA MELLON

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate, WNU Service.

FLORENCE had expected to have a wonderful time when she went to visit her aunt and cousins in New York. But somehow when she arrived things were not just what she had expected them to be.

Her cousins, Dolly and Joan, had changed, for one thing. They seemed to be so anxious all the time about their various social engagements. They were anxious, too, about Florence.

"You mustn't be too nice to Dick Thomas," they told her, the night after Dick had entertained them all at dinner and the theater. "He's nice enough, of course, but he hasn't any money, and it's useless to have a man like that hanging around all the time; for one thing, it keeps other men away."

"But—he must have spent a good deal," ventured their cousin from the country.

"Probably you're right, Florence," Joan answered. "But it must have taken nearly every cent he earned last week to do it. Let's see—we'll have to have him here for dinner some time soon, to pay him back for last night; let's ask him the night Peggy Frances comes, and get rid of both of them at once!"

At her home in a sleepy little southern town you were friendly with people whether they had money or not.

Florence knew without being told that her cousins wanted to get married—and with them, getting married meant marrying a man who had money.

To Florence it seemed hideous, but Joan and Dolly and their mother seemed to think it was the only thing for a girl to do.

"You just have to have money," Joan told her once. "Without it life, at least in this day and age, is just impossible."

One of the young men to whom Dolly was especially nice discovered that Florence was the daughter of the famous Samuel Darwin, and devoted himself to her after that. Her aunt told Florence that she ought to be delighted, that the young man was a great catch. Florence said nothing.

He gave a dinner for Florence a month after she arrived in New York, at a very smart new restaurant. It happened to be an evening when she was feeling especially homesick, when it seemed that she must pack her trunk in the morning and go straight back home. She was trying hard to pretend to enjoy herself, when, glancing up, she saw the face of the young man who was picking up the soiled dishes, and apparently very much absorbed in the task.

"Why—why—" she turned in her chair, but he had gone off to the kitchen, and the next course was being served. Florence was very quiet until it was over, and the young man appeared again. Then, as he removed her plate, she laid her hand on his arm.

"Yes—I am," he said, and his voice had that same soft drawl in it.

"I don't care," Florence answered defiantly. "I used to know him down home—and—"

He had come back for more dishes, reluctantly. She motioned him to her side.

"Billy, what are you doing here? Won't you come to see me?" she asked. "I'd really like to see you. Please?"

"Why, Florence, I—I—"

"Florence!" her aunt exclaimed again, and the young man disappeared once more. He didn't come back again.

"I haven't seen him for ages; he ran away from home," she said. "And now maybe I won't see him again. Oh—"

And suddenly the other diners in the smart restaurant were amazed to see a pretty young girl in a white and silver frock rise from her chair and hurry across the dining room, to the door of the kitchen—and rush straight through it, with the head waiter following.

"Billy!" she cried, as she caught up with him. "Why are you running away from me?"

"Because I'm a flat failure," he told her. "I said I'd come up here and make good, because I was sure I could sell that play I wrote down home. Well, I haven't sold it, and I had to earn a living somehow—you shouldn't have spoken to me!"

"Don't be silly!" Florence told him, catching hold of his arm with both hands. "I don't care what you're doing—I love you, and I always will!"

Florence's aunt scolded frantically, and tried to prevent the wedding which, nevertheless, took place the next morning. She stopped scolding only when Billy's play was accepted, a week later. Then she told her friends, as Florence had told everyone from the start, "Of course I knew that dear Billy would succeed!"

And she took credit to herself for the very pretty romance that grew out of Florence's speaking to the bus boy.

Will Rogers offers as one of the best divorce reasons he ever heard the one given by the fellow who said: "She suits me fine, but I just can't afford her."

State Citizens Respond to Bird Feeding Appeal

From all sections of Minnesota reports are swarming into the offices of the state division of Game and Fish relative to local campaigns for winter feeding of upland game birds, according to Charles McFarlane, deputy division director. Early sub-zero weather coupled with heavy snow in most of the state made it imperative that artificial means be used to save the game birds from actual starvation in many localities where natural food was abnormally scarce, Mr. McFarlane said. Officials of the Game and Fish division are "deeply grateful" for the splendid cooperation they have received throughout all sections of the state in the campaign to save game birds. Acknowledgement is made of the efforts put forth by sportsmen and conservation organizations, Boy Scouts, 4-H clubs and other groups in providing food to upland game birds.

Saar District Votes to Reunite With Germany

The Saar Sunday voted overwhelmingly, by 90 per cent, for reunion with Germany, casting 477,119 votes for Germany, 46,513 for continuance under league of nations rule and 2,124 for France, it was anounced Tuesday.

The special committee on the Saar at Geneva decided promptly that Saar should be returned to Germany intact, and will advise the council. The council is expected to ratify the decision this week and arrange for the transfer within two months.

An exodus of refugees started to the French border and Jewish shops in the Saar began to close.

English Bull Terrier Is One of Oldest of Breed

When dog fighting was outlawed the popularity of the bull terrier started down grade, says Albert Stoll, Jr., in the Detroit News. This was entirely unjustified, for no more intelligent and kindly dog companion exists. But its close association with a "sport" indulged in by those whose tastes ran to the display of brute strength and blood placed this breed in an unfavorable light as a dog for the house, especially around children.

The white English bull terrier is among the oldest of the terrier breeds. In development it reached its height during the early part of the Nineteenth century when dog fighting was a popular English sport. It undoubtedly is a cross between the bulldog and several of the old terrier breeds. The former brought it strength, courage, size and indomitable will to conquer, while the terrier blood gave it tenacity, quickness and intelligence.

The accepted color of this terrier is pure white, although some are marked with brindle on the head. They stand from 19 to 22 inches high at the front shoulders and weigh from 45 to 50 pounds in the heavy class and from 28 to 35 among the lighter.

The bull terrier is the personification of the muscular development and every line suggests the ability to take care of itself under any circumstances. Where adopted as a pet this terrier is well regarded. It is active, quick and keen, constantly concerned with the responsibility of its guardianship, whether it be property or children.

Florence's Triumph
By IDA MELLON

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Service.

FLORENCE had expected to have a wonderful time when she went to visit her aunt and cousins in New York. But somehow when she arrived things were not just what she had expected them to be.

Her cousins, Dolly and Joan, had changed, for one thing. They seemed to be so anxious all the time about their various social engagements. They were anxious, too, about Florence.

"You mustn't be too nice to Dick Thomas," they told her, the night after Dick had entertained them all at dinner and the theater. "He's nice enough, of course, but he hasn't any money, and it's useless to have a man like that hanging around all the time; for one thing, it keeps other men away."

"But—he must have spent a good deal," ventured their cousin from the country.

"Probably you're right, Florence," Joan answered. "But it must have taken nearly every cent he earned last week to do it. Let's see—we'll have to have him here for dinner some time soon, to pay him back for last night; let's ask him the night Peggy Frances comes, and get rid of both of them at once!"

At her home in a sleepy little southern town you were friendly with people whether they had money or not.

Florence knew without being told that her cousins wanted to get married—and with them, getting married meant marrying a man who had money.

To Florence it seemed hideous, but Joan and Dolly and their mother seemed to think it was the only thing for a girl to do.

"You just have to have money," Joan told her once. "Without it life, at least in this day and age, is just impossible."

One of the young men to whom Dolly was especially nice discovered that Florence was the daughter of the famous Samuel Darwin, and devoted himself to her after that. Her aunt told Florence that she ought to be delighted, that the young man was a great catch. Florence said nothing.

He gave a dinner for Florence a month after she arrived in New York, at a very smart new restaurant. It happened to be an evening when she was feeling especially homesick, when it seemed that she must pack her trunk in the morning and go straight back home. She was trying hard to pretend to enjoy herself, when, glancing up, she saw the face of the young man who was picking up the soiled dishes, and apparently very much absorbed in the task.

"Why—why—" she turned in her chair, but he had gone off to the kitchen, and the next course was being served. Florence was very quiet until it was over, and the young man appeared again. Then, as he removed her plate, she laid her hand on his arm.

"Yes—I am," he said, and his voice had that same soft drawl in it.

"I don't care," Florence answered defiantly. "I used to know him down home—and—"

He had come back for more dishes, reluctantly. She motioned him to her side.

"Billy, what are you doing here? Won't you come to see me?" she asked. "I'd really like to see you. Please?"

"Why, Florence, I—I—"

"Florence!" her aunt exclaimed again, and the young man disappeared once more. He didn't come back again.

"I haven't seen him for ages; he ran away from home," she said. "And now maybe I won't see him again. Oh—"

And suddenly the other diners in the smart restaurant were amazed to see a pretty young girl in a white and silver frock rise from her chair and hurry across the dining room, to the door of the kitchen—and rush straight through it, with the head waiter following.

"Billy!" she cried, as she caught up with him. "Why are you running away from me?"

"Because I'm a flat failure," he told her. "I said I'd come up here and make good, because I was sure I could sell that play I wrote down home. Well, I haven't sold it, and I had to earn a living somehow—you shouldn't have spoken to me!"

"Don't be silly!" Florence told him, catching hold of his arm with both hands. "I don't care what you're doing —I love you, and I always will!"

Florence's aunt scolded frantically, and tried to prevent the wedding which, nevertheless, took place the next morning. She stopped scolding only when Billy's play was accepted, a week later. Then she told her friends, as Florence had told everyone from the start, "Of course I knew that dear Billy would succeed!"

And she took credit to herself for the very pretty romance that grew out of Florence's speaking to the bus boy.

Will Rogers offers as one of the best divorce reasons he ever heard the one given by the fellow who said: "She suits me fine, but I just can't afford her."

Official Paper of the City of Thief River Falls

As depositors in closed banks go, the depositors of the First National Bank are a good natured lot of people these days. And getting a hundred cents on the dollar out of a closed bank should make a depositor happy. There probably isn't another closed bank in the country that will pay so large a return to both its depositors and stockholders as the First National of Thief River Falls. And no one locally objects to such stockholders as Oen, Ostby and Bennes recovering a part of their investment.

It is annoying to have a dog continually snarling and snapping at your heels. And it is difficult at times to restrain a natural temptation to take after that kind of a dog with a stout cudgel and give him a lesson in good manners and common sense. But while it must be done occasionally as a matter of self defense, there really is little satisfaction in such an experience. The dog sets up an awful yelping. The neighbors look out the window to see what all the fuss is about and wonder why a big man should lose his temper over the antics of such a little dog. The net result is that the dog gets the sympathy and the man gets himself classified as an irritable old codger who has lost his sense of humor.

In response to demands for rate revision, the Council is making a comparison of the consumer cost of electricity in this city with other cities of this size. Such a comparison will of course reveal the fact that there should be a downward revision of local rates immediately. Which, in itself, would not be a difficult thing to do. The problem is more involved than that, however. A downward revision of rates will increase the demand for current. This, in turn, will necessitate more power generating equipment. In other words the voters will probably be given an opportunity in the near future of deciding whether or not the city should buy another diesel engine. And then we will have the old argument all over again.

IT WAS COMMENDABLE LAST YEAR

What is a fair price for newspapers to charge for the publication of official proceedings? It would be impossible to answer that question with an arbitrary figure for the simple reason that what would be a proper price for space in one paper would be an improper price for space in another paper. The state has established what is known as a legal rate for such publications, and this legal rate is considered a fair price for an average newspaper. The legal rate undoubtedly is too high for some papers, considering their cost of production. And it is a fact that the legal rate is so low that other papers cannot afford to publish legal notices at the price the law allows.

During the past year the taxpayers of this county have been saved quite a bit of money because of a newspaper price war. In the letting of the county printing a year ago the Times lost. It was our opinion then that from the standpoint of service, payrolls, taxes paid and all that sort of thing the county board would have been justified in favoring us in spite of the fact that our bid was not low. The county board, however, decided against us. And we took our medicine gracefully. During the year we published all proceedings without compensation as a news service to our readers. If we did weep a few tears we didn't weep them in public or raise a great hullabaloo about price cutters.

This year we did a little fancy price cutting of our own, and for some reason or other this does not seem to meet with universal approval. Last year price cutting was a very commendable thing but this year it is all wrong.

No one regrets this situation any more than we do. For one thing price cutting does not build a good newspaper and we are trying to publish a newspaper that will be a credit to this community. As long as we are able to we will continue to maintain a high standard of newspaper service. Fortunately we have resolved not to worry in 1935, so we will just have to go ahead and do the best we can.

Perhaps the story, to be complete, should have a moral. We might say it has been proved again that self preservation is the first law of nature. Or we might observe that people who live in glass houses should not throw parties.

WE MUST PROVIDE THE FUNDS

One of the difficult problems to be solved by the legislature will be to provide sufficient revenue for the highway department to qualify for the state's share of federal money available for new road construction. Something like seven million dollars of federal money will be available for this purpose during the next two years. In order to get it, the state will have to raise an equivalent amount, which will mean a total of at least fourteen million dollars worth of new construction on the state's trunk highway system for the two year period.

Governor Olson has properly asked the legislature to provide the funds needed, justifying the increased costs by the benefits to be obtained through employment. The state faces a definite relief problem. Increased road construction, as a part of the President's work program, is one of the practical solutions to this relief problem.

There seems to be little difference of opinion as to whether or not the state should qualify for its share of these federal funds. The question is how to raise the money. The highway department is asking that there be no further reductions in the automobile license fees, permitting them to return to the level of 1932, which they will do automatically if the legislature does not extend the reductions made two years ago. But the reduction was popular two years ago and the legislators will be tempted to yield to popular demand. The alternative will be an increase in the gas tax. The fact that gasoline is now carrying a five cents a gallon tax gives much weight to the argument of those who oppose this form of tax increase.

But it is a question for the legislature to decide. The important thing is to provide the revenue. Automobile users will have to pay the bill but they in turn will derive the benefits of road improvements. We have added thousands of miles of local roads to the trunk highway system. And if we are to expect the state to build and maintain these roads we must also expect to be called upon to provide the necessary funds.

THE GENERAL TALKS PLAINLY

The first of a series of articles on the New Deal, by General Hugh S. Johnson, former NRA chief, is published in this week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post. Considering the General's prominent position in the original New Deal pattern, these articles will attract more than passing interest. They undoubtedly will have an influence on public opinion. By provoking an intelligent discussion of the complicated problems of recovery the articles will do much toward creating the demand for an intelligent solution of those problems.

In this first article, as was to be expected, the General does not "pull his punches". He hits straight at his mark and hits hard. There are no weasel words in his vocabulary. He even admits his own errors of judgement. For instance, in speaking of the attempt to raise commodity prices by reducing the gold content of the dollar he says:

> "We chose to restore value to the assets on which the debt was based, by various devices. Now nobody in the world had ever done this without creating a cataclysm—. But we thought we could do it, and there was reason for thinking so. We tried it through reduction of the gold content of the dollar. We tried it earnestly and thoroughly and sincerely, but the reason wasn't good enough and the method did not work. Prices refused to rise in inverse ratio to the gold content as promised by the plan, and that plan now stands completely discredited by the most thorough test that could be given it. Now, I think it was wise and right to have made this attempt—it was a laboratory demonstration of the fallacy of an old illusion. I cherished it myself. But I believe it would have been wiser either to have coupled with it, or to have tried separately, a deliberate scaling down of debts."

He blames the delay in recovery to public fear of unsound government policies. About this lack of confidence he says:

> "Every element for prosperity is here—money, vast pools of credit, great resources, starved demand, fine facilities for manufacture, sale and distribution, and a brave, active, alert and patriotic people. It is trite to say that the missing element is confidence.
>
> "But confidence felt by whom? By workers? By farmers? No; farmers are producing as much as ever, and will so continue. They have to. But workers can't work unless somebody will pay them wages. The answer as to whose confidence must be restored is so obvious that it hardly seems debatable.
>
> "Men can't go back to work until money goes back to work, and money won't go back to work unless those who have or are responsible for money to invest in creating work know that, once it is out of their hands, no magic is going to frisk it away like fairy gold turning into crisp and colored autumn leaves.
> "It is perfectly clear that recovery in a big and quick and powerful wave awaits only an impeccable assurance in deeds, and not words, that no such thing will happen. That is all there is to it. It could be done immediately. And unless it is done promptly, there is no end in sight.
>
> "There are current a lot of impassioned appeals to banks and industries to get busy and start recovery. To me, that seems nonsense. If any business man held the key to recovery all this time and did not use it, he ought to be lynched.
>
> "No business has held that key. Banks and business corporations are trustees of O. P. M.—other people's money. They are there to do business when they can do so safely and in proper discharge of their trust. They are avid to do it when they can do it that way—that is, profitably. But there are penitentiaries and bankruptcy courts and public condemnation for people who play recklessly with their obligations. No amount of belaboring business and talking about timidity, by men who never conducted a business in their lives, is going to change these essential responsibilities."

Whether or not one agrees with General Johnson's diagnosis of the nation's ills or his recommendations for the cure, his articles are undoubtedly both interesting and instructive. And considering his close association with the administration through many months of trial and error, it cannot be said that he knows not whereof he speaks.

SWIFT JUSTICE
(Duluth Herald)

Three days after a farmer living near Thief River Falls had been tied and robbed, two men had been caught, sentenced to the state prison and started on their way there. This is by no means a record, and it is unfortunate that it is worth notice at all, but it is an example of the celerity that is often looked for in vain in law-enforcing agencies.

The law's delay is proverbial and some delays are necessary and advisable if justice is to be served, but officers should be jealous of every hour from the time a man of known guilt is arrested until he has begun his term.

Punishment is important for its effect upon the potential offender as well as upon the actual wrong-doer. If it is to deter others from committing crimes, the causal relation between the offense and the punishment must be made clear to their inner consciousness.

When one kind of event always follows swiftly after another kind, even the dullest and most skeptical is likely to suspect that there is a definite and certain connection between the two. If our present idea of crime and punishment is the correct, this sort of reasoning must be encouraged.

Topics of the Times

By H. A. B.

It must be fun to be in the legislature these days when the cry is for more tax funds and lower taxes.

North Dakota legislators are proposing to turn some normal schools into institutions for the feeble-minded. Opponents of higher education no doubt will contend that only minor changes are necessary.

A car with a California license was seen in town last week in subzero weather. That's the height of something or other.

For a study in slow motion watch the state solons hurry to carry out the governor's proposal for a smaller legislature.

The cost of government in the United States last year, we read, was $17,000,000,000. Sometimes it seems that democracy is an expensive luxury.

The French government isn't so backward after all. It has put a ban on radio advertising.

The number of farmers in the Minnesota legislature is just about equal to the number of lawyers. That combination should result in some well balanced laws.

The President has spoken, and it remains for Congress to supply the echo.

A lot of former soldier boys already have that bonus money spent in their imaginations.

It is fortunate that the old economic system built up this country's credit to the point where it makes possible all this New Deal borrowing.

The controlling group in the legislature is variously described as independent, conservative or reactionary, all depending on the point of view.

SO. ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK
(By U. S. Department of Agricultural Economics and Minnesota Department of Agriculture.)

South St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 14, 1935: Cold and heavy snows made for light supplies of cattle and higher asking prices today, but slaughter steers and she stock ruled only steady to strong. Warmed-up and short-fed steers and yearlings bulked at $6.00-8.00, with good fed beeves upward to $9.75, and very thin killer steers down to $4.00. Good fed heifers sold up to $8.50, in between grades $5.00-7.00, plain kinds down to $3.00, cutter grades of cows $1.75-2.50, beef cows $3.00-4.75. Sausage bulls gained $25, going at $3.25-4.25, beef bulls upward to $4.75. Stockers and feeders enjoyed a broad demand at steady to 25c higher terms, selling at $3.00-5.00 for common to good stock steers and at $6.00-6.75 for fleshy feeders. Vealers grading good to choice brought $6.00-7.00, weightier selections $7.50-8.00, plain sorts $3.00-4.50.

Hogs opened the week strong to 25c higher, with the greatest advance on light-weights. Good to choice 210-325 lb. hogs carried $7.25-7.85, 170-200 lb. mainly $7.50-7.75, 140-160 lb. $6.50-7.50, 100-130 lb killer pigs $5.00-6.50, and good sows largely $7.25. Feeder pigs sold in limited numbers at $4.00-5.00.

Fat lambs gained 25-35c on an active market, better sorts making $9.00-9.75, mostly $9.25-9.75 on packer account. In between grade lambs brought $8.00-7.50, cull and common sorts $4.50-6.50, yearling wethers $6.00-7.25, slaughter ewes $2.50-4.25, and several packages of 82-84 lb. feeding lambs $6.50-7.25.

NORTHERN PACKING COMPANY OF GRAND FORKS
Tuesday, January 15

"Receipts of both hogs and cattle have been very light due to cold weather and bad highway conditions.

Hogs—Market has weakened about 25c since last Friday. Butcher hogs weighing from 200 lbs. upward continue in very good demand and prices ranged from $7.00 to $7.50 with $7.50 top paid for the best kinds weighing 210 to 280 lbs. Butcher hogs ranging from 190 lbs downward to 160 lbs do not share the keen demand and prices ranged from $6.25 to $7.00. Packer sows are very scarce.

Cattle—receipts have been light thus far during this week and the demand is correspondently keen for practically all grades of cattle. Medium conditioned short fed steers, heifers, and yearlings are salable here at prices ranging from $3.50 to 4.00. The better grades of fed steers and yearlings are quotable at from $5.00 to $5.50 with strictly good yearlings and medium weight steers upward to $6.00 and above. The common and fair conditioned steers and heifers are also in good demand and prices ranged from $3.25 downward. Butcher cows sold mostly at from $2.25 to $3.25 with some extra good young cows upward to $3.50.

Calves—The very good demand exists for the better grades of vealers. Strictly good kinds are salable here at from $4.00 and upward to $5.00 and above on the best kinds. Common calves and medium vealers are not in good demand and prices ranged mostly from $1.50 to $2.50.

Bombardment of Fort Sumter

The Ohio legislature was in session on April 12, 1861, when the news reached Columbus that the Confederates had begun bombardment of Fort Sumter. As the startling news was read from the clerk's desk a shriek rang from the house gallery. In almost hysterical tones a woman's voice uttered the words: "Thank God! It's the death of slavery." The woman was Abby Kelley Foster, who as a foe of slavery was almost as strenuous and energetic as Carrie Nation was as a foe of intemperance. She is said to have been the first woman to oppose slavery from the platform before mixed audiences.

The 1849 Gold Rush

Channing's History of the United States says that before the end of September, 1848, notices of the discovery of gold in California appeared in the columns of the eastern newspapers. In the spring of 1849, 20,000 men were said to be waiting on the banks of the Missouri river for the first opportunity to cross the plains on their way to the land of gold. Somewhere between 80,000 and 100,000 persons reached California within the year 1849.

The Word "Customs"

The word "customs," meaning tariff dues, is of early origin and arose as an abbreviated form of customary dues. It was used to describe such dues whether payable to church or state. In 1293, in the Exchequer Statute, reference is made to yield of customs duty on wool.

Who Will be Our McCormick-Deering Tractor Buyers in 1935?

1935 will make our quarter of a century in farm equipment business on the same corner.

We are very happy with the confidence evidenced by all our customers in us and confidence in the quality equipment we offer for sale.

We pledge to do everything possible to retain your confidence.

When you decide on the kind of tractor to buy in 1935 we ask that you investigate the wonderful record made by McCormick-Deering tractors. The satisfaction by other users. The service we have here for you in replacement parts. Our service shop. Our competent mechanics and substantial investment in special tools for handling quick repair jobs on McCormick-Deering Tractors. The close to factory branch service—Grand Forks, Fargo, St. Cloud, and Minneapolis.

We believe if you make careful investigation, you too will buy McCormick-Deering Tractors of us in 1935.

The F-12 McCormick-Deering tractor has made its first appearance with unusual success in 1933 and we would have sold twice as many in 1934 if we could have gotten delivery. 1935 is going to find us short again unless we get orders in early. The F-12 is a leader. The big surprise in a small tractor.

Motion for adoption of the foregoing resolution was seconded by Commissioner Mandt and carried.

Division Highway Engineer A. O. Jorgenson appeared before the board and suggested that the County carry on construction on County Aid Roads the coming year and use as much as possible of the State Aid Allotment for gravelling County Aid Roads which have been constructed in previous years and as yet have not been gravelled. The department would like to see the county adopt the policy of gravelling County roads the year after they are constructed as it preserves the grade and very materially reduces the cost of routine maintenance.

A letter was received from Women's Protective Ass'n requesting use of the Court Room on Monday evenings for meeting. Request granted.

Report of County Attorney was received and ordered filed.

Report of Livestock Inspection and Sanitation for year was received and ordered filed.

Oddest Burial

People have been buried in many strange positions. But probably the oddest is that of a man who died in 1772 in Leith Hill, England. At his request he was buried upside down on horseback so that he would be all set for Judgment day, when, according to the once popular notion, the world would be reversed.—Collier's Weekly.

LEGISLATURE GETS RECOMMENDATIONS ON LIQUOR STATUS

Arundel Urges Steps to Reduce Prices, Discourage Bootlegging

Thirteen liquor law recommendations, designed to lower liquor prices, reduce bootlegging and encourage municipal operation of dispensaries were made to Gov. Olson Tuesday by David R. Arundel, state liquor control commissioner.

Although the report urged retention of present state tax rates on liquor, wine and beer as a "painless" source of relief funds, it called attention to the desirability of a slash in the federal taxes.

Aimed directly at illegal sales were recommendations that $500 fines or 90-day jail sentences be mandatory in bootleg convictions; extension of "off sale" hours to coincide with "on sale" hours; more stringent regulation of 3.2 beer establishment; increasing the number of state liquor inspectors from 10 to 50; permit licensing of dispensaries outside of cities and villages; establish a legal division of the state liquor.

The report rapped negligence of local officials in permitting on-sale dispensaries undue freedom; cited profits of $1,880,000 by 79 municipal liquor stores in 1934; placed the year's receipts of the liquor control department at $2,840,877.74 and disbursements, including $2,226,711.17 transferred to relief funds, at $2,665,186.02, leaving a balance of $175,691.72.

Federal Collector of Internal Revenue Sends Out Income Tax Blanks

The collector of internal revenue for the district of Minnesota has just completed mailing the 1934 income tax blanks to 100,000 or more persons required to file the various income tax forms. These forms must be completed and returned to his office on or before March 15.

Included with the return in each envelope was a new Form, Number 1094, which is a statement of items shown upon the income tax return. Every taxpayer including individuals, corporations, partnerships, and fiduciaries, must file with the return of income this separate Form 1094. This is a new requirement, which was incorporated in the Revenue Act of 1934, and collector cautions all taxpayers to carefully consider it, for, if the Form No. 1094 does not accompany the income tax return, the law requires the collector to prepare the statements on such form and to increase by $5.00 the amount of the tax shown to be due on the return. If no tax is shown due on the return, the $5.00 will be assessed against the taxpayer and collected in the usual manner.

Within a reasonable time after the income tax returns have all been filed, the statements on Form No. 1094 will be available for public examination and inspection in the office of the collector of internal revenue.

The new toboggan slide in Tindolph park, recently completed under the auspices of the park board, is now providing winter diversion for local young people. The slide is 50 feet in height and 180 feet long, and supplies plenty of thrills, while a warming house adds to the comfort of those participating. Olaf Ryan is in charge as caretaker, assisted by relief workers.

TAX LIMITATION PROGRAM READY FOR LEGISLATURE

Association Would Reduce Taxation on General Property

Provisions for two tax limitation measures that will require a material reduction in the heavy tax now paid by owners of homes, farms and other general property throughout Minnesota were outlined in St. Paul today by officials of the Minnesota Federation of Associations for Tax Reform.

The federation was formed last summer by fourteen associations of taxpayers and other interested groups to work out a program of legislation designed to readjust and equalize the tax burden in Minnesota, and the measures outlined today are the first results of that study.

Two bills providing for a tax limitation that will require a substantial cut in general property taxes will be presented to the legislature at once, Constant Larson of Alexandria, President of the federation, said, and members of the federation and other sponsors of tax limitation throughout the state will make every effort to obtain their enactment. With many of the members of the legislature committed to tax limitation and wide public support for it, especially in the rural communities, he expects favorable action on the proposals.

"The first step to be taken in obtaining relief for general property taxpayers and readjusting our tax burden," Mr. Larson explained, "is to enact measures that will place definite limitations on the taxes that may be levied on real estate and other general property."

The first proposal in this program is a bill providing for submission to the people of a constitutional amendment for an over-all tax limitation. This amendment would provide that, except for the payment of indebtedness incurred prior to January 1, 1937, the general ad valorem tax on real estate and personal property could not exceed 1.2 per cent of its full and true value if located in a city or village nor 1 per cent of its full and true value if located outside cities and villages. If approved at the general election in 1936, it would become effective on taxes levied for the year 1937.

The same amendment would provide that the state could levy no general tax on real estate and personal property as it does now. Revenue for the state would have to come from other sources.

"To provide relief while passage of the amendment is pending, the federation will urge passage of a statutory tax limitation measure," Mr. Larson said. This bill provides that, except for money required to meet charges on debts incurred before the act takes effect, the total mill rate of taxes levied for all purposes shall not exceed 30 mills upon each dollar of assessed value, but allows an increase over this amount on taxes for 1935 and 1936 should an emergency require it.

The bill provides for a board of tax adjustment, made up of taxpayers, in each county, and this board could by a two-thirds vote increase the levy over the 30 mills in 1935 and 1936, but the amount added could not exceed 20 per cent of the difference between 30 mills and the total rate levied on property in that taxing unit for 1934.

SHERIFF INJURED IN COLLISION WITH 'LEGGER

Clarkfield—Sheriff Fitzner, of Yellow Medicine county, apprehended an alleged criminal in a most violent and unusual manner here recently. He was cruising around recently seeking clues to the recent Taunton bank robbery when he noticed a car come careening toward him on the highway. Although the sheriff swerved his car as far to the right as possible, the oncoming machine seemed to be out of control of its driver and crashed full into the side of Fitzner's car. The sheriff suffered a broken leg and a head injury in the accident, but the driver of the other car received worse injuries, being unconscious for several days. Upon investigation it was found that the strange driver was Lovine Melby, of Canby, and that his car contained a goodsized load of liquor being illegally transported. A charge of bootlegging will probably be proffered against Melby if he recovers.

THREE SETS OF TWINS COMPOSE WEDDING PARTY

Canby— Lydia Pueppke and Walter Stelter were the principals in a unique wedding on Christmas Day. Both the bride and the groom were twins, and the other twins attended them. Alfred Pueppke, twin brother of the bride, was the bestman, and Frieda Stelter, twin sister of the groom, was maid of honor. The other twins were the ring bearers.

Governor's Safety Awards to be Conferred Feb. 18

Six Minnesota cities and counties, winners of Governor Floyd B. Olson's 1934 traffic safety contest, will be awarded plaques by Governor Olson at an impressive dinner and program Feb. 18 in the Lowry hotel, St. Paul. The plaques were donated personally by the governor. All members of the state legislature will be invited to be guests at the dinner meeting, according to an announcement by A. V. Rohweder of Duluth, chairman of the Minnesota Public Safety Advisory committee. In addition, members of public safety committees of the winning counties and cities will be invited to be guests and scores of other persons prominent in the state's public and private life are expected to attend. The traffic safety contest ended Jan. 1, but, because of the amount of data to be studied, the winners will not be known for several weeks.

Birthday Balls to be Held in State Jan. 30

Chairmen for the second annual Roosevelt Birthday Balls to be held throughout the state on January 30, have been appointed by Colonel Henry L. Doherty of New York, national chairman of the Roosevelt Birthday Ball committee.

Seventy-three chairmen have been named for Minnesota to handle all arrangements for the state events, including the appointing of sub-committees to work under them. There will be approximately 300 balls in Minnesota this year in comparison with 250 in 1934.

Funds raised by the Roosevelt Birthday Balls will be used to further the fight for the rehabilitation of crippled children, with 70 per cent of all net monies taken in to be used for work in the state. The other 30 per cent will be turned over to President Roosevelt to be used by a national commission appointed by him for widening the research efforts aimed at wiping out infantile paralysis.

Two Eclipses Will be Visible Here in 1935

Seven eclipses of the sun and moon, an unusually large number take place in 1935. Two will be visible in the United States.

The first of these is a partial eclipse of the sun on February 3. At maximum, seven-tenths of the sun's diameter will be covered by the moon's shadow, enough to chill the air and turn the sunlight temporarily greenish-yellow.

This maximum shadow will cover the United States west of the Rockies, and nearly half of western Canada. In the rest of the United States and Canada it will be less.

The second eclipse visible in the United States will come on July 16, a total eclipse of the moon.

HERDERS LOSE PAY— TO SETTLE DAMAGE CLAIMS

Grand Rapids.—The government herders of relief cattle found their job very expensive when complaints began to come in about damage the cattle had committed. The cattle were assigned to the herders on a head basis—each herder to receive $1.00 a head for every animal detailed to his charge. 25c of this amount was paid when the cattle were put in pasture, and another 25c soon thereafter, but the remaining 50c was held out until recently. The Minnesota cattle were easily handled, being used to being fenced in, but the western cattle found a barbed wire fence to be little impediment in their wanderings. These cattle broke out of the enclosures and devastated farmers' property for miles around. Nearly 400 damage claims were received by the committee on damages, and all these were settled but three out of the fund which the government had reserved to pay the herders.

INSANE PRISONER LOCKS UP JAILOR

Fairmont—Sam Chaffin, night policeman at St. James, found himself locked behind the bars of his own jail recently and his prisoner, H. C. Dodge, at large. A special guard had been employed to guard Mr. Dodge, who has been slightly deranged since the recent death of his daughter. The guard left the jail in the early morning hours on an errand, and left Chaffin in charge. Chaffin wandered too near the cell door, and was grabbed by Dodge. A tussle ensued in which the prisoner got out of the cell, pushed in the officer, and escaped. The guard returned shortly, and he and Chaffin hunted up Dodge, who was discovered almost immediately and returned to the confines of his cell. Dodge was taken before the Probate Judge and adjudged temporarily insane and committed to the state hospital at St. Peter.

Unexplained Accidents Traced to Carbon Monoxide Fumes

Carbon monoxide is always present in automobile exhaust fumes. If a motor is not functioning properly, the gas is present in extremely dangerous quantities. In a recent survey, made in seven large cities, more than 57 per cent of the motorists queried had experienced at some time or another some symptoms of this deadly gas.

In 1933, there were more than 800,000 persons injured in reported accidents. Of the cars involved, 80 per cent were without known faults in steering, braking, signalling and vision equipment. Insurance companies studying these accidents found that 79 per cent of the drivers of these cars had no mental or physical defects prior to the accident. The obvious deduction is that, in nine cases out of ten, accidents occur to cars that are in good condition and in the hands of motorists who apparently are physically fit. It is obvious that there is some reason for the faculties of the drivers becoming impaired while driving. That reason, in the opinion of safety commissions and health authorities, is carbon monoxide.

This reason is further borne out by scientific exhaust gas analyses on more than 300,000 cars. Engineers of the Cities Service Oil Company who conducted the tests found that 90 per cent of the cars were discharging large quantities of carbon monoxide.

In addition to the obvious safeguard of never starting a car in a closed garage, motorists are urged to make sure that a window of the car is always open. On extended drives it is also advisable to stop every hour for a five-minute "breather."

YOUTHFUL SANTA IS PRESENTED WITH WATCH

Granite Falls.—13 year-old Thurman Odegard was a mighty happy boy New Year's day despite the fact that his hands and face were swathed in bandages as the result of the burns he received while playing Santa Claus at a school program. It looked like a pretty dull vacation for the boy after his suit had caught fire from one of the lighted candles, and he was badly burned before the fire could be extinguished. But the neighbors and friends didn't forget Thurman, and he was deluged with presents. Those who didn't know what to give him got up a purse and turned it over to his parents. They knew what he wanted, and wasted no time in seeing that he got it—a new wrist watch.

Twin City Market Week Set for February 11-16

Merchants in hundreds of towns and communities in Minnesota and the Northwest will be taking final inventories during the next few days in preparation for the Twin City Market Week to be held in St. Paul and Minneapolis, February 11-16.

The event is sponsored jointly by the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce association and the St. Paul association of Commerce. A gala program of entertainment, unusual features and worthwhile displays has been planned for the six day meeting.

J. A. Dieber of Minneapolis, Charles L. Semmers of St. Paul, and co-chairmen, are anticipating the heaviest buying season in years, this belief being based on the upturn in business and the encouraging outlook for 1935.

BASKETBALL TEAM LOSES GAME, RECEIPTS

Baudette.— Baudette's basketball team lost both the game and the receipts thereof in a recent game with Warroad. Four local Baudette fans thought the Warroad team's chances were pretty good, but the members of the local team didn't agree with them. A wager was made with the game's receipts as stakes. The Baudette boys did their best, but didn't have much success in finding the basket, and the Warroad quint piled up a 19 to 8 victory. The real winners were George Severn, Carl Hrovold, Joe Guenin and Dick Walter, the local quartet that walked off with the $30 taken in at the gate.

MAN SHOOTS DOG AND KILLS SELF

Austin—Carl C. Anderson left this world recently confident that he was taking with him his dog, Curly, whom he described as the only friend he had in the world. He had shot Curly first, and then turned the gun on himself. He left a note to his wife written on the white plastered wall of the living room in red crayon. The note read "Goodbye, Emma, and God bless you. I think He will forgive me. I am taking Curly, my only true friend, along. I feel sorry for the two kids. Your husband."

GLENWOOD GETS CHECK FROM ARMY-NAVY GAME

Glenwood.—The secretary of the Glenwood Chamber of Commerce recently received a check for $100 to be used for charity in Glenwood. The check represents part of the proceeds of the Army-Navy football game. Each year the proceeds of this game are all used for charity. Each town that is represented by a player on either team gets a check for $100 to be used for local charity. Glenwood's representative is Edward Grove, a halfback on the Army team.

Elden Rowe, sheriff of Nobles county, was elected president of the Minnesota State Sheriff's association for the third consecutive time.

PROWLERS DEFEAT WARREN BY 76-9 IN LOCAL TILT

Prowlers Defeat Traditional Foes Friday, Jan. 11; B Squad Wins Victory

With a barrage of shots and some excellent floorwork the Prowlers turned back their traditional rivals from Warren last Friday night to the tune of a 76 to 9 score. The Prowlers got off to a good start and counted up 21 points before Warren could score.

The scoring opened three seconds after the starting whistle with Nicholson counting a field goal. Then Van Pelt sank one and Nicholson put in two more field goals to run the score up to 8-0. Kielty and Van Pelt then scored on short shots for the Prowlers. After Van Pelt missed a free throw Nicholson tipped the ball in. Then Mickleson and Nicholson again scored for the Prowlers. As the first quarter ended Warren was given its first chance to score when Anderson was fouled by Van Pelt but the shot was missed. Mickleson and Hermanson ran the score up to 24-0 as the second period opened. Engelstad then gave Warren its first points with the field goal. Lee then made two field goals and Mickleson one before Engelstad again scored for Warren as the half ended with the score 37-4 in the Prowlers' favor.

Kielty was fouled by Anderson as the second half started, but missed his gift shot. Shortly after this Kielty, Hermanson, and Nicholson then scored for Warren and the Prowlers respectively. Anderson missed a gift shot after being fouled by Van Pelt, but Engelstad tipped it in. After Warren had missed several tip shots, Kielty took the ball off the backboard, but was fouled in doing so by a Warren player and he made his free throw. Warren had now started to gamble on long shots, but could not seem to hit the basket. Nicholson then put in two baskets and Kielty and Van Pelt one apiece. Birdmo substituted for Willey, who had been playing a excellent game for the Warren team. As the third quarter ended, Hermanson had made a free throw. Another barrage of shots started for the Prowlers with Kielty getting five field goals, Mickleson two, and Lee and Berg one apiece. [illegible] the Prowlers for a few seconds with a free throw, but it was started again when Lee and Hermanson each scored on tip off plays. Warren then sent in a complete second team which the Prowler seconds had defeated earlier in the evening. Nicholson got two more goals and Kielty one as the game ended with the Prowlers winning by a overwhelming score of 76-9.

In this game which is probably the biggest margin that the Prowlers have ever beaten their Warren rivals Nicholson and Mickleson stood out for the Prowlers while Engelstad was outstanding for Warren.

In the Preliminary between the Prowler B. squad and Warren B the Prowlers won 38-16.

ETIQUETTE CORNER

In view of the fact that the Junior-Senior masquerade is coming in the very near future, you boys and girls that expect to attend had better brush up on your etiquette. Remember, boys, when you ask a girl for a dance, even if it is from a sense of duty, make her feel as if you would be honored if she would accept. Don't monopolize all the girl friend's dances; give the other fellow a break.

Now for you girls. Don't turn any one down if it can be prevented even if he isn't such a "hot" dancer. Turning him down certainly wouldn't lead to improvement; it would just aid in discouragement. Accept and then if you think you know him well enough, give him a few pointers.

"After the dance is over" (this goes for both the boys and girls), thank the members of the faculty and the school board. Of course, this doesn't mean you should run around and thank every member, but those that are present at the time. Let's make them proud of you and show them you know what it's all about!

RADIO BROADCAST IS FEATURED AT WARREN PEP FEST

Doris Nelson, Kivle Sisters, Unkle Oscar, and Beatrice Fairfax Entertained

The pep fest which was held on Friday, January 11 was set to represent a broadcasting studio.

"Red" Hammergren was the Studio Announcer telling us the name of the station and that we were broadcasting to Warren. The microphone was taken over by Theodore Quale. Brunell Erickson directed the school song which was played by the band and sung by the entire student body. Little Doris Nelson, accompanied by Helen Graham, sang "June in January" and "If I Had a Million Dollars." Then as Teddy was in the midst of advertising a certain hair tonic which would renew the hair so quickly that in ten days people would think you had joined the "House of David", a telegram was received calling attention to the game to be played between Warren and Thief River. The High School Band, directed by Mr. Orwoll, played a novelty number in which at certain times the band members stamped their feet. The number was played again and this time the students made the noise by clapping their hands. Bud Kelly led the school in the "Haymaker" yell and Bob McFarland with the help of the students, gave fifteen "rahs" for the team. Theodore then introduced Francis Kavanaugh impersonating Miss Beatrice Fairfax giving advise to the lovelorn. She read a letter she had received from a student of Lincoln High School asking if she should go to the basket ball game between Lincoln High School and Warren, and give her "Handsome Hero", who played on the team, the satisfaction of thinking she came just to watch him. However "Miss Fairfax" heartily advised her to go to the game for it was an important one and told "Broken-hearted Susie" as the letter was signed, that at her age she knew very little about Life and Love. Life, Beatrice Fairfax said, was just one thing after another, while Love was two things after another! Love is a disease—it begins with a fever and ends with a pain. And, she also encouraged, boys are like street cars, if you miss one there's always another one coming.

The next number to be broadcast was the two Kivle sisters singing "Rain", accompanied by Eileen Rolland. Don Hermanson gave a very short "pep talk," saying that he couldn't tie a string around the world and give it to us but the boys on the team would try to wrap up Warren and bring them to us. It was then time for "Uncle Oscar's (Martin Jorde) Story Hour. He told a story about Thief River Falls in 1985 and a school called Lincoln High School filled with little kiddies. There was a basket ball game on Friday night between Warren and Thief River Falls and all the kiddies went to see the "Prowlers" win. "And Uncle Oscar concluded, "The Prowlers did win!" With the playing of the school song our station signed off.

LINCOLN GRAD GETS NEW POST

Melvin Engelstad who for a number of years has had a position with the Illinois Chamber of Commerce has recently been appointed secretary of the Research Division. He will continue the Business Review Column of the "Illinois Journal of Commerce" and will take care of all research work and of much of the industrial development program planned for 1935.

We congratulate Melvin on his promotion. In the ten years since he graduated from Lincoln High he has made his own way to an important position in the city of Chicago. He is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Engelstad of our city.

PROWLERS WILL PLAY BEMIDJI AND CASS LAKE

East Grand Forks and Crookston Defeated by Fast Bemidji Quint

Tomorrow night and Saturday afternoon, respectively, the Prowlers, who, with East Grand Forks and Crookston, are the most powerful contenders for District honors, will meet Bemidji and Cass Lake. Bemidji has a record marred by only two defeats, one to Coleraine and the other to Brainerd. Both East Grand Forks and Crookston have bowed to the Lumberjacks.

The Bemidji team, which contains only one regular, Galloway, from last year's "five", will probably represent its district in the Regional Tournament at Crookston.

In stopping East Grand Forks' string of victories a few weeks ago, the Bemidji quintet showed considerable defensive strength, holding the Little Green Waves two field goals. Crookston lost to the Resorters by the low margin of two points.

The Prowlers will find the Cass Lake team, Regional Champs in 1934, minus only Weldon Gray, their sensational scorer. This quintet upset Bemidji in the District meet to eventually go down to the State Tournament.

The offensive strength of the Prowlers, as shown in the Warren game, will come to the surface again during this performance, but Cass Lakes' scoring ability, will, in any event, even things up a bit.

This pair of basket ball battles will be well worth seeing as all teams are powerful and capable of turning an upset. When the Prowlers meet Bemidji again on February 22, there will be more of a clash than ever before seen on our own floor as both teams will be "in the pink."

CHARLES MARTIN HALL CHEMISTRY CLUB MET MON.

The Charles Martin Hall Chemistry Club held their first meeting Monday night. The charter members include: Henry Arras, Arnhild Fjelstad, Charles Asp, Phyllis Nesbeck, Frederick Voth, Ardith Mellby, Jack Booren, Francis Engle, Robert Hanson, Arthur Nelson, Marjory Ward, Eleanor Leirdal, Phillip Prichard, Martha Storholm, Victor Jung, Gilbert Mickleson, Robert Mayer-Oakes, Stanley Mortenson, Inez Werhan, and Lucille Reidy.

The Chemistry Club was so named the Charles Martin Hall Chemistry Club in honor of Charles Martin Hall. He was a young American college student who discovered commercial use for the production of aluminum.

The members of the club will start etching their names on glass using hydrofluoric acid. They will also prepare some bromine and study its properties.

Bromine is the only liquid nonmetallic element. It is extracted in large quantities from the sea waters for the use in the preparation of tetra ethyl lead.

If any former students, who had higher than a C average, wish to join a similar chemistry club they should see Mr. Mayer-Oakes at their first convenience.

EDITORIAL

Last week the Progress came out with an article that predicted that the Prowlers would have little opposition in their battle with last year's district champions, the Warren basket ball quint. We were the object of considerable rebuke for printing such a statement. It was argued that only a small crowd would turn out to see the game. Either there are only a comparatively few persons who read the Progress or else there was a great deal of doubt as to the verity of the statement. Anyway, the auditorium was filled to capacity and the Lincoln High School five showed championship ability as they trounced their opponents 76-9. We may not have been very tactful in printing the statement but we had the satisfaction of correctly "calling the turn."

An article in the Minneapolis Journal by Cal Larson, associated press sports writer, reveals the fact that in a vote taken by coaches Thief River Falls is expected to recapture the district 31 basket ball crown. The balloting also shows that Crookston and East Grand Forks will offer the locals the stiffest resistance in the fight for the coveted title. One coach favored Crookston over Thief River. One of the coaches who picked the Prowlers to win says, "I have been impressed by their early season form, and if they continue to improved they will be the team to beat and win the district tournament. It seems as though year after year the best material comes from Thief River Falls." (May we add that the "best material" would not win many games without the best coaching.) We wonder just what this coach would have reported had he seen the locals perform against Warren last Friday.

Those teams who face the Prowlers during the remainder of the season will face a team with a formidable record. In 5 games the Gold and Blue have piled up an aggregate score of 268 to the opposition's 56. They have a clean record with 5 victories and no defeats in intrastate competition. The Warren coach paid a highly sarcastic compliment (?) to his first team when he removed all five of them and inserted a complete "B" squad. It is our opinion that he should not have been so severe with his players. They were facing a highly polished, inspired team that absolutely refused to be stopped.

The Prowlers have a splendid start toward a highly successful season. It seems to be the consensus of opinion that the present team is the best since the 1931 state championship quint from Thief River. Yet, there are many things that can ruin a team before tournament time. Scholastic ineligibility, injuries, overconfidence and a score of other things have spelt woe to many coaches who had good teams. However, if nothing unexpected turns up the 1935 basket ball team of Lincoln High School should make quite a name for itself.

Again we pay honor to the pep committee and Miss Fletcher and Miss Lunder. This time it is for the very interesting and entertaining pep fest we had prior to the Warren game. Tryouts for the Senior one-act plays have been held and the casts have been selected. Rehearsals will begin immediately. With Miss Edberg as director we anticipate successful productions. Those who originate pep fests should continue their search for talent in the grade schools. The enthusiastic receptions given several grade students who have appeared on the assembly stage should mean that this type of feature is genuinely appreciated. The entertainment sponsored by pep-committee girls between halves was enjoyed both because of the novelty of the idea and the skill with which the maneuvering was done.

This week the Progress inaugurates a new column. It will be written by different members of the faculty. Every instructor will at some time be given the opportunity to write a discourse on his favorite subject. The writer will be permitted to dwell on any subject of his choosing as long as he thinks it will be of interest to Progress readers. We expect this column to become popular and widely read, because of the wide variety of experiences and knowledge of the writers.

Next Tuesday the Prowler debate team will meet Red Lake Falls in the High School assembly. The debate question one of great importance at the present time, concerns federal aid for schools.

During the recent tournament held here the locals entered but one team. None of the three debaters from Thief River Falls who will debate Tuesday, participated in the tournament. The Prowler team has worked hard since the resumption of school after the holidays and they have high hopes for victory. However, they have not been disillusioned into thinking they will have an easy time. Red Lake Falls was the winner in the recent tourney and they are skillful debaters, an interesting battle of wits is promised those who attend. This will be the only home debate and a large crowd is anticipated.

The usual class play will be given in the spring. Plots will be announced in Progress next week. The plays will be given Tuesday, January 29.

Use for Radium Detector

The bureau of standards reports that a radium detector is not for use in finding radium deposits in the earth. Radium used in hospitals is contained in minute quantities in hollow needles. These are so small that they are sometimes lost or mislaid. A detector having a small ionization chamber is employed in finding the misplaced radium.

SEASON'S FIRST DEBATE HERE TUES. AT EIGHT

Locals Seek to Win From Red Lake Falls Trio, Recent Tourney Champs

On next Tuesday night at eight o'clock in the high school auditorium a group of local high school debaters will meet a team from Red Lake Falls. Our team consists of Kendall Gustafson, Dorothy Rau, and Corlan Dokken and will uphold the affirmative. Malcolm Magnuson is prepared to substitute in case of illness of any Lincoln High School participant. Warren, Red Lake Falls, and Thief River Falls are the towns in the district which will debate. East Grand Forks was also in the group but has dropped out. This is the first debate this year. The judges for the contest will probably be professors Schrier, Muns and Brown of the University of North Dakota. Red Lake Falls who won the Debate Tournament which was held before Christmas will enter on their team the two winners of the debate, Everell Smith, and Paul Du Charme. The question to be debated is of great interest to both parents and students so the public is invited.

Girls Taught Correct Posture in Physical Ed.

First lessons in posture consist of becoming familiar with exercises for correcting faulty posture as well as judging good posture.

Miss Pierson's plans are to get a sheet or a light screen in a dark room with a lighted lamp behind it. Each girl will walk, in her bathing suit, behind the screen while the rest of the class will criticize her posture.

Some exercises which will be used are:

1. Day's Order for Foot Exercises. Cue: "weak arches, feet forward, weight on outside."

Exercises:
1. Relaxation of foot.
2. Spread toes, flex ankle.
3. Circumduction of foot.
4. "Crab" step.
5. Place bottom of feet together, straighten legs.

2. Day's Order for Forward Head and Round Upper Back.

Cue: "Head back, chin in, shoulders back."

Exercises:
1. Head relaxation without resisting.
2. Head rotation
3. Relaxation upper back and head—come up slowly.
4. Shoulder rotation.
5. Arms bent, pull shoulders blades together.

3. Day's Order for Weak Abdominal Wall and Hollow Back.

Cue: "Abdomen flat, hips down."

Exercises:
1. Sitting—hands on head, place, and back to position at sides. (Repeat.)
2. Hip up draw.
3. Sitting— aeroplane exercises.
4. Bicycle.
5. Lying—abdominal breathing.

Weight of Brains

Generally speaking the male human brain weighs more than the female, although the relative weights of the brain and body are about the same. The average weight of the male brain is about forty-eight ounces and the female brain forty-three ounces. The human brain is heavier than that of any animal in proportion to his size. Whales have the largest brains.

PLUMMER

In a hard-fought and well played game the local high school went down to defeat in the hands of the Bemidji Hi 52-20. The Plummer boys played the best floor game of the year but were unable to find the basket and so the game was closer than the score indicates. Bemidji is credited with playing its best game of the season and looked like the best team that Plummer has played this season. The local club was without the services of Schoenauer, veteran forward. Johnson and Langlie played good ball on the offense and Arnie Karlstad turned in his usual strong game on defense and appeared to be the best defensive man on the floor. The local team is preparing to play Alvarado this week in a district contest and hope to turn in a winning game on Friday.

The local independent basketball team broke even in two games played during the past week. They lost to Gonvick on Saturday, at Gonvick, and turned in a win against Erskine Monday at Plummer. The game at Gonvick was close during the entire game until Plummer lost four of its regulars on fouls and then Gonvick stepped ahead to win by a score of 45 to 38. The locals however, outscored Gonvick from the floor by two field goals but Gonvick had fifteen more opportunities to score from the foul line.

The game at Plummer on Monday night was the reverse of the Gonvick contest with the lead changing hands several times until the last quarter when two of the Erskine players were forced from the game on personals and Plummer went ahead to win 58-56.

The local team will be strengthened this week by the return of Tony Langlie, a stellar performer from last years team who plays equally well at either guard or forward.

On February 1st there will be an entertainment in the Plummer hall, consisting of four one-act plays. These will be given by the Smiley Farm Club, Silverton Farm Club, the Wyandotte club and a group of young folks of Plummer. After the plays a dance will be given. The purpose of the entertainment is to raise funds to buy chairs for the hall.

Deane Schoenauer has been confined to the hospital at Crookston during the past week by a hip injury received while skiing. He is recovering rapidly and is expected home during the last part of the week.

Another state ton-litter title has been annexed by the Baughman brothers of Randall, Morrison Co. Results of the 1934 Minnesota Ton Litter Contest have just been announced, with Charles Baughman topping the list of 16 contestants who reached the goal of a ton or more of pork from one litter in 180 days. The 1929 state title went to Allen Baughman with a 3,700-pound litter of 14 pigs, and that for 1930 was captured by Ernest Baughman, with 15 pigs totaling 3,890. Word "Pagoda" European; Used as House of Worship

The word pagoda is European, and has not a very exact significance. The idea generally conveyed is merely that of an oriental religious tower. The pagoda is customarily a temple, or part of a temple, and thus is of the greatest antiquity in origin.

A Chinese pagoda is often simply a memorial building, not connected with a temple or monastery. Here the usual form is an octagonal tower of many stories, with a curved roof, and with an encircling ledge or roof, like that of a veranda, around each story. Brick is the usual material of the Chinese pagoda. They are of no great architectural pretentions, although effective in outline. In some parts of the country their great number gives a curious aspect to the landscape.

In Japan the Buddhist temple consists of three buildings—the hondo or temple proper, the gateway building and the pagoda. In Japan these buildings are always of wood. In the magnificent stone temples of Indian Buddhism—they are among the finest buildings of purely monumental design—the pagoda is usually a pyramidal structure raised above the gateway or above the inner sanctuary.

Meaning of Prefix "Ex-"

The prefix ex- means "out; out of; off; beyond," says Literary Digest. Prefixed to a word denoting office or condition, it means one who formerly occupied the position; as ex-president, ex-convict. It is improperly prefixed to any geographical division, but properly to an office or position. The expression "ex-Chicago Mayor" would indicate illiteracy on the part of the person who used it. "The ex-Mayor of Chicago" is correct. In describing a person who formerly occupied the office of district attorney, it would be awkward to say "ex-District Attorney of Cleveland," for the reason that it might be misread as the attorney from the ex-district of Cleveland. Hence, though cumbersome, it should read, "the former District Attorney of Cleveland."

CAPITOL NEWS

If the present session of the State Legislature develops into a dog-and-cat fight, the fault will be not with Governor Olson but with reactionary senators and representatives who are more concerned with playing politics than they are with passing remedial legislation in the interest of a depression-stricken people. In a statement issued by the Governor a few days before his inaugural message, he said that it was not a question whether he or the Legislature wins, but rather whether legislation in the interest of the people will be passed.

"I not only will go half way but I will go more than half way with you," the chief executive said in his inaugural. "I am convinced that the great majority of you will agree with me in the necessity for the passage of legislation tending to give social and economic security to our citizens." If the legislators exhibit the same kind of co-operative spirit, this session, despite its apparent control by conservatives, will set a record of progressive legislation.

The Governor's inaugural address was warmly acclaimed, even by the opposition forces. Speaker Johnson's comment was as follows: "Its a far-reaching program of constructive legislation, which will meet with approval both in the Legislature and throughout the State." Lieutenant Governor Peterson said: "The Governor's proposals are sound, and his suggestion to have farm mortgages paid off with a share of the crops is excellent. There is good sense in that."

The suggestion to the Legislature that it order a non-political investigation of the Department of Conservation should be readily accepted. The findings of a committee composed of legislators who, for political reasons, are interested in the result, would not be worth the paper it would be written on. It is safe to say that there is not a conservationist in the state who would not accept as honest and unbiased the findings of a committee composed of the state president of the Izaak League, the president of the Minnesota Game Protective League, and the head of the forestry department of the University of Minnesota, not a one of which are members of the political party to which Governor Olson belongs. In view of the vicious and malicious attacks that have been made against the Department of Conservation, it is entitled to an investigation by a committee such as the above.

One of the early bills introduced in the Senate was one petitioning Congress and President to pass and approve an adequate old-age pension law. The bill was introduced by Senator B. J. Novak, a member of the liberal faction. Social legislation is certain to play a very important part in the deliberations of the present Legislature.

Mabeth Hurd Paige of Minneapolis is serving her seventh term as a member of the Minnesota House. She was first elected in 1923 and has served continously since that time. Her chief legislative interest is social welfare, and she has devoted much of her time to the work of the House Committee on Public Welfare and Social Legislation. Mrs. Paige said she was much interested in the Governor's inaugural address, which showed a "fine grasp of the needs of the State." She was careful to point out, however, that she does not agree with all of the proposals made by Governor Olson.

Mrs. Paige is going to introduce a bill in the Senate prohibiting the manufacture, sale, and transportation of mariahuana, the deadly Mexican drug. "Mariahuana has been found in the possession of school children", said Mrs. Paige", and its sale has developed into a profitable business."

Governor Olson told the legislators that fear that some "mysterious red influence" will prepare the text for the free text book proposal made by him was just "political bugaboo." With the campaign now over, these remarks were really superfluous as the legislators know it themselves. They might try to fool the people but hardly themselves. The Governor, by way of irony, reminded them that all they had to do was to provide by law that the selection of free text books rest with the very same authorities as now select the school text books.

There is every reason to believe that the Legislature will be induced to play ball with the Governor. The effects of the depression through the State cannot be denied, and the people will not tolerate legislation that avoids all important issues and continues the old game of giving corporate interests all the breaks. The Governor reminded the Legislature that not it but the people are sovereign, and that the interests of the people as a whole should therefore be given first consideration.

Attorney General Harry H. Peterson has asked the Railroad and Warehouse Commission to make an immediate investigation of Minneapolis telephone rates. If the St. Paul case, which is still pending, should result in a rate reduction, Minneapolis rates would be unaffected since the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company is a different organization from that which operates the St. Paul system. It will therefore be necessary to investigate the charges of the Minneapolis company before uniformity of rates for the Twin Cities can be established. Mr. Peterson has promised to give the Railroad and Warehouse Commission the full cooperation of his office in conducting the investigation.

Arsenic Eaters

In the iron mountain regions of the Austrian province of Styria, where arsenic is a by-product of iron smelting, some peasants eat this virulent poison, according to the National Geographic Magazine. It is taken in small doses, which are gradually increased as the system becomes used to it, until it may be taken daily, without visible ill effect, in quantity sufficient to kill an average person. The arsenic is supposed to clear the complexion, increase the appetite, and improve breathing, especially for mountain climbers.

Green and Black Tea

The most common tea in use is China tea, which is made from the leaves of Thea Sinensis. This plant is closely related to the camellia. Both green and black tea may be manufactured from the same plant since the difference is due to the process of preparing the leaves. Green tea is the result of drying the leaves immediately upon their removal from the plant, while the leaves of black tea are fermented for a short time before they are dried.

Swastika Existed Before "It Had Name, Expert Says

Some scholars believe the swastika is merely a decorative or ornamental design, having evolved from the lotus petal pattern used in early architecture. Some say it was merely a talisman or charm, to be worked in precious metals and worn as amulet or pendant.

As a mystic symbol, says a writer in the Washington Post, it has been associated through the ages with fire, water, wind and rain. There are archeologists who hold that its four points, or feet, indicate the four cardinal points of the compass. It has been interpreted as representing a flame of sacred fire, the sun in its daily rotation and a flash of lightning.

Much speculation followed its adoption as the national emblem of the German Socialist party several years ago, and many articles were written about it. However, its real origin and first significance are still uncertain.

The final word of the swastika comes from the curator of archeology of Smithsonian institution.

"It is the earliest known symbol or form of the cross and is undoubtedly prehistoric. The name is Sanskrit, but the symbol itself existed long before it even had a name," he explained.

Dumas Hired Writers

Alexandre Dumas, the celebrated French writer, was perhaps the forerunner of those modern comic strip artists who have a staff of other artists to do a large part of the detail work of their strips. Dumas, after the great success of his "Monte Cristo" and "Three Musketeers," launched on a program of works so extensive that no one man could hope to carry it out. He hired a number of young writers to do the writing and then he went over the work, changed it as he saw fit and had it published in his name. Despite the severe criticism which followed this action upon his part, he continued to carry out the practice. While he made a large income, he lost everything through extravagance and venturing into wild schemes. He died penniless in 1870.—Washington Star.

W. C. T. U. News Notes

NO SURRENDER

The Campaign of 1934 is ended. The known results evidence the fact the liquor conspirators are in the saddle and that they through the majority parties which they control, both soul, body and breeches will work in the interest of the liquor traffic. The morals of the people will be sold for revenue. The closing of the 1934 campaign does not close the battle, between those who in this, and in former campaigns have stood against the debauchery caused by the liquor traffic, allied with gambling, immorality, and the political corruption sponsored and upheld by both of the major parties of the state. The war must go on until the liquor business and its allied evils are driven to their own native hell where it was spawned and born. Then on to the battle armed by faith, education and the white American Ballot.

Pluto, Ninth Major Planet, Billions of Miles Away

Pluto is the ninth major planet of the solar system, of the fourteenth and fifteenth magnitude. The existence of this body had been predicted in 1915 by the late Prof. Percival Lowell. Lowell's calculations were based on the erratic behavior of Neptune, which was then the farthest known planet: the discovery was made in March, 1930, by Clyde W. Tombaugh, assistant at the Lowell observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz. The event created a sensation, and it was reported that years of study would be needed to determine the facts. Skeptics in scientific circles suggested that the body was a comet, or that its discovery near the predicted position should be regarded as accidental. It is stated that the orbit of Pluto is from 2,800,000,000 to 4,000,000,000 miles from the earth, from the orbit of which it is inclined 17 degrees. Calculated to be smaller than the earth, Pluto is invisible to most telescopes because it is not self-luminous and, being perhaps the most distant object in the solar system, receives very little light from the sun.

McNeil Island Penitentiary

McNeil Island penitentiary was established by an act of congress in 1867. As the original records are not now at the prison, the actual date of opening the prison is not certain. It appears that the institution was under the Department of the Interior for the first few years of its history. The government owns about 400 acres on the island. The institution has not been constructed in accordance with a careful plan as was the case at Leavenworth and Atlanta, but the construction program of the last few years has resulted in a group of buildings modern for the most part, though the maintenance shops in the earlier buildings are old and inadequate.

CITES INCREASED EMPLOYMENT THRU U. S. ROAD FUNDS

Matching Aid Would Provide Work for 14,000 Men, Says Elsberg

Jobs for approximately 14,000 men will be provided on Minnesota highways if the state matches federal aid offered for this year and next, according to N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner.

"If revenues of the highway department are restored to the 1932 level", said Commissioner Elsberg, "Minnesota will be able to obtain nearly $7,000,000 offered us by the federal government for road construction and unemployment relief.

"That would mean jobs for 14,000 or more Minnesota working men, and the circulation of $14,000,000 in Minnesota business and trade channels. If Minnesota does not match the federal aid, the 14,000 men will have to be provided for by relief or other expenditures.

"The charge has been made that political favoritism will be shown by the highway department in employing men under such a construction program. This is entirely unfounded. On all projects financed with federal highway funds, the hiring of men is in the hands of the National Re-employment Service, a federal agency over which the state has no control.

"Members of the legislature will search a long time before they can find a better bargain for the taxpayers than this opportunity to get two dollars worth of road construction and employment for every dollar advanced by the state."

Calls for bids on highway projects totaling approximately $290,000 have been announced by the Minnesota Highway department. Blue Earth, Polk, Pope, Mower, Todd, Winona and Wright counties are included in the letting. Bids will be received January 25.

MAYOR'S NAME FORGED ON 2 CHECKS IN 2 DAYS

Marshall—If there is anything connected with the superstition that certain numbers are lucky or unlucky for certain individuals, Mayor Middleton of Marshall certainly must consider 1120 and 1220 a couple of Jonahs. The Mayor's name has been forged to checks twice in the last two weeks, both times the amount was for $11.20 and both times the number of the check was 1120. Both checks were cashed at Minneota by a transient, it is believed. Apparently the officers of the First National Bank at Marshall know their signatures, for both checks were immediately refused as forgeries.

Fish in the mill pond west of Faribault are reported dying in large numbers. It is thought that a leak in the gas main under the mill pond is the cause.

Girl Scouts Learn Modern Ways to Make Grape Jam and Jam Pastry

The occasion was the visit to her test kitchen of a group of Girl Scouts, representing some of New York's leading troops. The girls, and their sisters in field-green uniforms, are studying modern home making methods and they came to Mrs. Barton for cooking hints.

"You must always keep February and March in mind when making your jellies and jams," Mrs. Barton told them. "Then, you will find, you can put it to many good uses. On one of those days next winter, when you run short of cooking inspiration, you can go to your pantry, look at your jams and jellies and prepare a pleasant surprise for jaded appetites.

Polish Tartlets

2 cups sifted cake flour
½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup cold shortening
¼ cup cold water (about)
½ cup butter, creamed
Grape Jam

Sift flour once, measure, add salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening until mixture looks like meal. Add water, a little at a time, mixing with knife until dough clears bowl of all pastry and flour. Use as little water as possible. Roll pastry ⅛ inch thick and cut in 2½-inch squares; wet edges and fold towards center, pressing lightly. Chill. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) 10 minutes, then decrease heat to slow (300°F.) and bake until done. Press down center and fill in with grape jam.

Ripe Grape Jam

4¼ cups (2¼ lbs.) prepared fruit
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar
½ bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, slip skins from about 3 pounds fully ripe grapes. Simmer pulp, covered, 5 minutes. Remove seeds by sieving. Chop or grind skins and add to pulp. Add ½ cup water and if desired, grated rind of 1 orange. Stir until mixture boils. Simmer, covered, 30 minutes. (Wild grapes, Malagas and other tight-skinned grapes may be stemmed, crushed whole, simmered with ½ cup water 30 minutes, sieved, and then measured. With tight-skinned grapes add juice of 1 lemon to water. Use 4 cups prepared fruit.)

Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, mix well, and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each.)

Growing With Your Child

THAT GUILTY FEELING

Are you one of those people who couldn't possibly sit down to a novel for fifteen minutes in the morning or leave the supper dishes standing until the next day, without feeling horribly guilty? Even if these are not your particular "sinful" feelings, and chances are that you have some that press down occasionally and make these things that we feel "wrong", they often turn out to be surprisingly innocent, or even beneficial. After all, there are times when reading a novel might be a more utilitarian occupation at ten a. m. than pushing the dust mop conscientiously into the corners of every bedroom. Maybe that's the only time in the day we have to ourselves, and the freshening that goes on in that little time of relaxation will be worth as much to the comfort of our family as spotless floors. Or maybe, just possibly, the characters in that novel will give us some glimpse of understanding of our children that will make us blush to think of the crudeness with which we have sometimes misinterpreted behavior.

I've known women whose itch to get the diningroom and kitchen back into their accustomed immaculate state made them completely unaware that their husbands had disgustedly or resignedly, as the case might be, given up all idea of ever having an evening companion whose thoughts were on anything but household matters.

How do these habits get such a grip on us that it is painful even to contemplate changing? What is so sacred about the hours for dishes or novels?

These silly bits of behavior, that gratify no one but ourselves are left over attitudes, scraps of teaching done too well. We had it so impressed upon us, for example, that work must be finished before we should enjoy ourselves, that we haven't since stopped to question the good sense of the statement. We have neglected to ask ourselves if, after all, work might not go better with a little pleasure interspersed to give us something enlivening to think about. No, some of us have become so rutted in our conviction that "good" behavior involves unpleasantness that we cannot help feeling that almost any carefree pleasure is wrong.

This fear—for it is nothing but fear—usually comes about because originally we shrank from the disapproval of some one we loved, who impressed a certain point of view upon us. It is Bertrand Russell who suggests that whenever we find ourselves feeling remorseful over what we know that our judgment and reason tells us is not wicked, we should try to find the cause for these absurd feelings, and convince ourselves of the fact that they are nonsensical. He goes on to say, "Do not be afraid of irreverence towards the memory of those who controlled your childhood. They seemed to you then strong and wise because you were weak and foolish; now that you are neither, it is your business to examine their apparent strength and wisdom, to see whether they deserve that reverence that from force of habit you still bestow upon them." In other words, are we blindly following a pattern of behavior that has no meaning, or are we free agents, able to make our own decisions?

But the weighty and important part of this matter is, it seems to me, to beware of so emotionally charging our children that they will be bearing heavy loads of guilt in respect to conduct that doesn't at all deserve profound consideration. It's not the criminal who feels guilty, it's the person with an overdeveloped conscience who feels pangs of remorse from the slightest step out of the path of the minor righteousnesses taught him in his youth.

Can we afford to burden our children with prejudices and notions of what is "right" and what is "wrong"? Let's be mighty sure our convictions deal with truths, rather than with passing customs, before we try to dye our children's minds with them. The children who were made to sit solemnly in the house all Sunday afternoon, twiddling their thumbs, have disappeared, but some of them have grown up to be individuals who cannot enjoy the most uplifting Sunday afternoon concert without twinges of guilt. Let's not interfere with our children's lives that way.

CHOPS OFF FOOT; WALKS, RIDES TO HOSPITAL

Coleraine.—Out of the North Woods this week comes the story of old pioneer grit. It is told of a man named Washburn, who was chopping wood in Aitkin county. As he told the story, he was chopping wood and felt something hit his foot. Raising it from the ground, he found that the front half of it was completely severed, boots, sox and all. Washburn was alone, but he managed to hobble to the house and get on a horse, which he rode three-quarters of a mile to the road, where it happened that the school bus was passing. The bus took him to Hill City and he was driven from there to the hospital. Although a tourniquet had been applied, the loss of blood from the injury was extreme. Nothing daunted by the accident, Washburn nonchalantly announced that "someone had better go back to the woods and pick up his foot."

LEGISLATIVE LETTER

By R. W. Hitchcock

The committee is the laboratory of all law-making bodies. For that reason the make-up of the committees of the House and Senate is of immense importance to the members of the Legislature. Chairmanships of committees are eagerly sought for, as is position upon the more important committees.

The two most important committees of the Minnesota Legislature are in committees which appropriate the funds of the state and the rules committee in each chamber.

The Appropriations committee of the House is the largest committee in the Minnesota Legislature. The corresponding committee in the Senate is called Finance. These committees are the most powerful in the Legislature, membership is esteemed a high privilege, they carry a heavy responsibility and do an immense amount of work at each session. They meet almost every day of the session. The chairmanship of these committees ranks next to the position of Speaker of the House.

The Chairman of the House Appropriations committee at this session will be J. R. Sweitzer, a St. Paul contractor who has been a member of the lower House for several sessions.

Senator A. J. Rockne, a former Speaker of the House, has been chairman of the Finance committee of the Senate for 16 years and will serve in that capacity again at this session.

The Rules committee is a powerful committee. It is the governing body, the power behind the throne in each House. With the Speaker the Rules committee dictates all appointments to committees in the House and distributes all patronage. This committee can report a change in the rules and secure its adoption by a majority vote; otherwise a rule can be changed only by a two-thirds vote. In the Senate the Rules committee is an even more powerful body. There with Lieutenant Governor Hjalmer Peterson, Farmer-Labor, as President of the Senate, and the Senate in control of the independent progressive group, the Rules committee handles all appointments, dictates the disposition of bills and directs the business of the Senate.

Roy E. Dunn of Ottertail, victorious leader of the independent progressive group in the House, will head the Rules committee in the House, and Senator Charles Orr of St. Paul, who successfully engineered the winning Senate combination will be chairman of the Senate Rules committee.

Out in the Cold

Farmer-Labor members got no committee plums in the House this year and but two in the Senate. Senators Charles A. Hausler and George Siegel of St. Paul, both Farmer-Labor, were allotted the chairmanships of Civil Administration and Corporations respectively.

In the past it has been the custom to recognize both majority and minority factions in the distribution of chairmanships and important committee posts, but when the Farmer-Labor party gained control of the House in 1933, not a single chairmanship was given the opposition. This particular chicken has now come home to roost, and the Farmer-Labor members of the House this year get no chairmanships and little other recognition.

The powerful Rules committee of the House is composed entirely of independent progressives; Roy E. Dunn, chairman; L. E. Brophey, Minneapolis, vice-chairman; Burt J. Costello, Wabasha; J. R. Sweitzer, St. Paul; Frank W. White, Marshall; Walter Campbell and John A. Weeks, Minneapolis; Warren E. Hastings, Two Harbors; R. G. Johnson, Forest Lake; W. F. Merrill, Winnebago; Robert F. Lee, Annandale.

They're All Good Fellows

Hjalmer Peterson, Lieutenant Governor and Farmer-Labor, is President of the Senate. At home he is publisher of the Askov American, one of the cleanest and most enterprising weekly publications in Minnesota. In 1933 Mr. Peterson made a good record as chairman of the House committee on Taxes. Now he sits in the Senate and watches the wheels go 'round, that's all, for the Senate has stripped its presiding officer of all authority. They wouldn't even let him appoint the pages this year.

Harold Barker, the unsuccessful Farmer-Labor candidate for Speaker of the House, is also a newspaper man, publisher of the Grant County Herald at Elbow Lake. He served in the 1931 and 1933 Legislatures. The Farmer-Labor party hitched its wagon to a star when it selected Mr. Barker as its candidate for Speaker, for no cleaner, finer man is to be found in or out of the Legislature. He was an active, resourceful leader for liberal measures in the 1933 session.

The new Speaker, George W. Johnson, is also tarred with printers ink, although he is not an active newspaper man. His service in the Legislature runs back to 1925, ten years. A good many years ago Mr. Johnson was a clerk in the employ of a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation in West Duluth. This sad blot on an otherwise perfectly progressive record was made the most of by Mr. Johnson's opponents on the opening day of the session. They made the welkin ring with it and pummeled the steel trust something terrible. Mr. Johnson represents a labor district and has the distinction of being the high man in the legislative vote in his district ever since he first offered himself as a candidate.

A Brilliant Performance

Governor Floyd B. Olson scaled the heights of seductive oratory in his third inaugural message. It was comprehensive and exceedingly artful, a remarkably subtle dumping in the laps of the members of the Legislature the whole radical Farmer-Labor platform which the people so emphatically rejected in November.

One editorial writer said of this brilliant message that it was "a sort of funeral sermon on the grave of a rash radicalism."

The message was cannily conciliatory, as the Governor had promised, but it was forceful and eloquent. The great throng assembled to hear it listened in silence, until, the presentation of the Farmer-Labor platform being complete, the Governor smilingly turned his guns on the Legislature itself and advised that body to cut off its head and hinted that if the Legislature were disposed to otherwise maim and mutilate itself he would in no wise object. These sallies finally brought laughter and applause.

They Want Action

When the Governor's message was finished, the joint convention of Senate and House dissolved, and the handshaking was over, the independent progressive majority went promptly into action. Disregarding the suggestions of the message they struck immediately at the heart of the tax problem with measures to cancel all future state levies upon real property and to scale down the mortgage indebtedness of some 8,500 farmers who are in debt to the state Rural Credit Bureau.

Meanwhile both factions of the Legislature scratched their heads and wondered how they are going to keep up to the Governor in his sweeping recommendations for increased expenditures on the one hand and his failure on the other to suggest substantial sources of new revenue.

When Mohammedans Pray

The whole practice of Mohammedanism is based upon the Hebrew ritual, and for a very short period after Mahomet took over his "rule," prayers were said facing towards Jerusalem. But very soon this was changed, and now Mohammedans all the world over turn towards Mecca when they pray.

DEPARTMENTAL INVESTIGATION TO START SOON

Legislature Will Inquire First into Department of Education

EIGHT GROUPS TO BE SUBJECTS OF QUIZ

Farmer-Laborites Would Include Auditor and Secretary of State Offices

Investigation of state departments, proposed in a resolution by Senator James A. Carley of Plainview, will be started next week with an inquiry into the state department of education, senate leaders said Wednesday.

One of the first witnesses will be Representative Harry L. Wahlstrand of Willmar, who will testify he was offered the post of commissioner of education, later given to the incumbent, John G. Rockwell, but the suggested conditions did not appeal to him, and he declined to permit the use of his name.

The resolution of Senator Carley, introduced Tuesday, went to the rules committee, which is expected to report today. It calls for investigation of eight named departments. It is taken for granted that the resolution will pass and the inquiry will get under way next week.

Senator George H. Lommen, farmer-labor, offered some amendments today to the Carley resolution, and they went to the rules committee with the resolution itself.

One amendment would investigate the state auditor's office, with regard to a reported deal with mining companies as to exemption from taxes. The other would include the secretary of state and the railroad and warehouse commission in the investigation of campaign assessments on employees.

The senate committee on university discussed the election of eight university regents, which will be done in joint session with the house. It was decided to have a joint meeting in a day or two with the house committee on university, planning to get an agreement on an early joint session.

It is desired to get this matter of business out of the way before the rush. Two years ago the two houses deadlocked over procedure and did not elect, but this time no trouble is expected.

The Carley resolution provides a committee of 11 senators, and, if precedent is followed, Mr. Carley will be chairman of the committee. He has had much experience with such proceedings, having taken charge of an investigation into campaign expenditures 12 years ago, and having had a leading part in the Tom Schall-Magnus Johnson election contest eight years ago. He is a democrat from Wabasha county.

Preliminary plans call for this committee to go from one department to another in its investigations, so that all work of this nature would be co-ordinated. Subcommittees may be appointed to gather information, but hearings presumably will be conducted by the full committee, taking one subject at a time.

Included in the list are the department of education, the Big Three, the executive council, the board of control, the highway department, the conservation department, the tax commission, and the liquor control department. Others may be included under the terms of the resolution.

The executive council and the board of control are included because the council directs expenditures of state funds for relief and public projects, and the board of control was in charge of relief until the SERA (state emergency relief administration) was set up.

PROWLER QUINTET MEETS E. G. FORKS IN CITY TOMORROW

Locals Register Victories Last Week at Bemidji and Cass Lake

With two decisive victories during the past week to strengthen its position in district and regional play the Lincoln high school Prowler basketball team will seek further laurels Friday evening when it meets the strong East Grand Forks team in the Auditorium. As a curtain raiser the Prowler B team will meet Alvarado at 7:15.

Playing at Bemidji last Friday the local quintet was victorious by a score of 22 to 14, in a rough contest, and score at the end of the second quarter being 11 to 8 in favor of the Prowlers. The local boys continued their winning streak at Cass Lake the following evening, winning by a score of 40 to 26.

That the contest Friday will be a hard fought battle is indicated by the records showing six straight victories for East Grand Forks and five for the Prowlers.

Plans for Postoffice Arrive in City Monday

That the proposed new postoffice building here, bids on which will be opened in Washington February 11, will be devoid of frills but well adapted to the needs of the local office is indicated in plans and specifications received Monday and now on file with Postmaster Andrew Anderson. The plans were drawn by A. F. and Ray R. Gauger, St. Paul architects, who also planned the Auditorium.

The plans call for a structure 78 by 55 feet in dimensions, facing LaBree av., and built of a matt-faced texture variegated brick with alternative bids to be received on common red brick construction.

Patrons will enter into a lobby approximately 23 by 13 feet in dimensions, with the postal savings, money order, and registry window at the south end and the postmaster's office in the northeast corner of the building. Provision is made for a total of 529 lock boxes compared to 464 in the present quarters.

The workroom, 39 by 46 feet in size, is equipped with a conveniently located vault and a skylight, in addition to which there are two toilets on the main floor. The basement includes boiler and fuel rooms, employes waiting room, an office for the postoffice inspector and three large storage rooms.

Specifications provide for completion of the structure within 300 days, and the work will be carried out under the supervision of the United States treasury department.

Five hundred officials are expected to attend the convention, features of which will be a concert by the St. Paul police band and the annual dinner Thursday evening followed by an entertainment program.

COLD WAVE BRINGS MERCURY DOWN TO -44 ON WEDNESDAY

Subzero Temperatures Prevail Steadily Here During Week

The most extreme cold spell of the winter prevailed thruout the northwest during the past week, reaching a minimum of 44 below zero Wednesday morning, according to unofficial observations of Bert F. Umland, who has a recording thermometer. Mr. Umland's records indicate that no new low mark for recent years was set, a minimum of 46 below having been registered Christmas night in 1933.

Low readings for other days of the past week were as follows: Friday, -21; Saturday, -25; Sunday, -27; Monday, -35; Tuesday, -31; and this morning, -26, the mercury later rising well up toward the zero mark, indicating a break in the frigid spell. During the week automobile traffic has been at a minimum, comparatively few daring to venture out on the highways.

The mercury in St. Paul Wednesday registered 31 below, setting a low mark for 23 years, and resulted in the closing of grade schools for the day. The coldest point in the state was Eveleth, with a minimum of 51 below zero, while in northern Ontario a low of 73 below was recorded.

"President Vanishes" At Avalon Next Sunday

The question of what might happen if the president of the United States were to be kidnapped furnishes the theme of "The President Vanishes", which will be the offering at the Avalon theatre Sunday and Monday. The President disappears on the eve of an address to a joint session of Congress dealing with a new European war, and the situation is complicated by the mobilization of an army of a million "Grey Shirts".

Highway matters and other projects of special interest to this section of the state will come up for discussion next Monday at a meeting of the North Central and Northwestern Minnesota Development association in this city, A. C. Knudson, of Detroit Lakes, president of the group, announced this week.

An afternoon meeting at 3 o'clock in the Civic and Commerce association rooms in the Auditorium will be followed by a dinner at the Evelyn hotel, at which Highway Commissioner N. W. Elsberg or a personal representative will speak. District Engineers Harbolt of Bemidji and A. O. Torgerson of Detroit Lakes also will be present.

The scale of motor vehicle license fees to be fixed by the legislature at its current session will come up for consideration, and it is expected that recommendations will be made to Northwest senators and representatives. A committee to promote desired legislation also may be created at the meeting, Mr. Knudson said.

PRESIDENT'S BALL, BENEFIT FOR DRUM CORPS WEDNESDAY

The largest attendance of the season at a dance in this city is anticipated at the President's Birthday Ball and drum corps benefit to be given at the Auditorium next Wednesday evening, January 30. The musicians, who recently returned from a European tour, have appeared in New York and Chicago and are now engaged in a tour that will carry them over the greater part of the United States.

RELIEF STATUS IN TOWNSHIPS MEETING TOPIC

221 ACTIVE RELIEF CASES IN COUNTY

Fowler Advises Using Facilities of Present Relief Office

Arrangements whereby the state and federal emergency relief administrations may continue thru the county office to share in handling the relief burden under the township system which went into effect the first of the year in Pennington county were discussed Friday afternoon at a meeting of township, county and city officials in the court house.

Also present were Mrs. Trudie King, county relief worker, and Miss Hilfrid Johnson of St. Paul, connected with the state office of the ERA. Miss Johnson stated that while no definite arrangements for the year could be made at this time, pending action by Congress, the state office wanted assurance that if further federal allotments are to be received here, the townships and municipalities will co-operate by sharing a portion of the burden.

An informal vote taken at the close of the meeting indicated that virtually all of the officials present at the meeting were personally in favor of a one-mill levy for relief purposes.

County Auditor Harry Fowler, who was present at the meeting, recommended that the town boards and municipalities avail themselves of the services of the county relief office, pointing out that the central agency will reduce the responsibilities of township officials and cut expenses by obtaining low hospital and burial costs. These two classes of expenditures must be borne directly by the local units of government concerned, Miss Johnson said.

The emergency relief administration, Miss Johnson stated, has to date paid out more than $60,000 for relief purposes in this county. Of 221 active relief cases in the county, she said, a total of 121 were in the city of Thief River Falls when the last report was filed, involving 467 persons.

Miss Johnson announced that officials in each township should make arrangements immediately with the relief office if they desire to have that agency handle hospital cases originating in their localities.

The regional meet between hockey teams and speed skaters representing eight northwest counties will be held on the local rink Sunday, February 3. The statewide finals will be held February 9 in Powderhorn park, Minneapolis.

Arrangements for the district and regional hockey tournaments are in charge of Alex Campbell, Earl Effinger and Ole Ness, while J. G. Messenger, district recreational director; Kenneth Lindberg and Miss Harriet Helquist are in charge of speed skating events.

Small Damage Results From Series of Fires During the Past Week

Fire originating in the chimney at the Gilbert Granum home on LaBree av. N. Monday morning damaged the downstairs rooms before being extinguished by a fire department bucket brigade, it being unnecessary to call the engine into action. The department was called Tuesday evening to the Joe Dostal home on Schuneman st. when a chimney fire developed, no damage resulting. Firemen responded late Friday evening to a call from the Sager Oil company when gasoline leaked into the basement, but this was removed without any fire resulting.

To the list of 12 nominees listed last week was added the name of Dr. A. M. Smith, who was nominated from the floor at last Thursday's meeting.

Secretary Paul Lundgren announced that word had been received from Mayor A. C. Knudson of Detroit Lakes that a meeting of the Northwestern Minnesota Development association would be held in Thief River Falls next Monday, January 28. Sessions will be held in the Civic and Commerce rooms in the afternoon and evening, and State Highway Commissioner N. W. Elsberg or a personal representative will be present at the meeting.

COUNTY SPELLING CONTEST SET FOR SATURDAY, FEB. 2

Winner Will Represent Pennington in Valley Event Feb. 8

With township sectional contests now getting under way, the annual Pennington county spelling contest will be held in the court room at the court house Saturday, February 2, at 2 o'clock, A. C. Matheson, county superintendent of schools, announced this week.

The winner of the event will represent Pennington county in the Red River Valley contest to be held in Crookston Friday, February 8, in connection with the valley winter shows. A championship award will be conferred on the school whose representative wins the contest, in addition to which there will be nine prizes ranging from $1 to $7.

The sectional and county contests will be conducted on much the same basis as in former years, Mr. Matheson said, except that there will be a miscellaneous written exercise consisting of synonyms, antonyms, abbreviations and plurals, counting 20 per cent toward the total credit. Oral and written tests, dictation and a spelldown also will be features.

The allotment is made on the basis of $2.20 for each public school pupil between the ages of eight and 16. In addition a payment of $162.50 was received for the St. Hilaire school district, which was omitted from the first allotment made in 1934.

PRESENT PLANS FOR APPROACH TO NEW BRIDGE

Division Engineer Torgerson Meets Monday With City Officials

DESCRIBES PROPOSED EAST SIDE BOULEVARD

Provides for Parking Property at East and West Approaches

First presentation of a detailed sketch for the proposed improvement of Johnson st. east of the new bridge as well as the beautification of the east and west bridge approaches was made at a meeting of city officials Monday evening by Division Highway Engineer A. O. Torgerson of Detroit Lakes.

The members of the park board and city council who were present expressed personal approval of plans for the project, which will be financed largely by the state highway department thru an allotment of federal funds, with planting and maintenance of trees and shrubbery, and possibly the installation of curbs and gutters, to be financed by the city.

The proposed plan calls for widening Johnson st. east of the bridge into a double parkway starting at the Dr. G. W. Booren corner. A right-of-way 110 feet wide is specified, which would provide two 24 foot driveways with parkways 22 feet wide between, and an 11 foot boulevard and a six-foot sidewalk on each side. The state would acquire from property owners on the north side of the street the additional land required.

The sketch also provides for parked areas on the north side of the street at the east and west ends of the bridge, and an extension of the Elks park to come up to the highway leading to the bridge. A circle effect is proposed at the intersection of the three streets at the west end of the span.

Subject to approval by the council and park board bids on the project probably will be called for in March by the highway department, Mr. Torgerson indicated.

HOUSE TO DECIDE CONTEST BY DAY AGAINST WALDAL

Judge Torrance Rules W. E. Day Has Margin of 11 Legal Votes

The election contest instituted by W. E. Day of Bagley against Representative Marius Waldal of Plummer will shortly go to the legislature for final determination following a ruling by Judge Graham M. Torrance in Red Lake county district court last Thursday that Day has a margin of eleven legal votes over Waldal.

Despite the findings of the district court the final decision in the contest rests with the house of representatives which under the law has the power to seat its own members.

A transcript of Judge Torrance's findings has not yet been forwarded to the house, and when it is received by that body probably will be referred to the committee on elections which will take further testimony and may recheck the disputed ballots. Waldal's charge that Day violated the corrupt practices act also is expected to come up for consideration by the house committee. Two weeks will probably elapse before a final decision is reached.

INTERMEDIATE HOCKEY LEAGUE IS REORGANIZED

Arrangement Provides for Three Teams Instead of Four

Due to lack of material to supply replacements for four teams, the intermediate hockey league this week was reorganized into three teams and started a new schedule Monday. Under the new arrangement all teams will be at full strength. The three groups will be known as the Pirates, Cubs and Rangers.

Three contests will be played each week on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. A 15-game schedule will be played, ending February 22, it was announced.

The Pirates jumped into the league lead Monday, outshooting the Rangers 6 to 1. Lorentson was high scorer, netting 3 for the Pirates, other scores being made by Lund, Thronson and Helquist. Bredeson made the only score for the Rangers.

Arrangements are being made for a series of intermediate games with high schools at Roseau and Grand Forks, it was stated by Alex Campbell, chairman of the rink committee.

First of Series of Articles on History of Valley This Week

In this issue the Times presents the first of a series of historical articles furnished by the Northwestern Feature Service. This service has been acquired because the Times believes most of its readers are history-conscious and because it is hoped it will be helpful in the study of local history either in the school room or the home, for children or for men and women who have helped to write some of the chapters.

The Times believes that study of local history, or a reasonably comprehensive knowledge of it, is likely to make our young people proud of their community and its pioneers, in many instances their own forbears, and that this pride will make these young people better citizens.

The sources are authoritative and the research material and writings are supplied by recognized historians.

PICK ATTORNEY TO ACT FOR COUNTY IN BERVE ACTION

Board Engages Chommie to Resist Move for Increase in Salary

At a special meeting of the county board Friday Attorney H. O. Chommie was retained to represent the board in the action recently instituted in district court by County Attorney H. O. Berve, who is asking the court to fix his salary at a higher figure than the $1,200 allowed him by the commissioners at their January meeting. A hearing in the case has been set for Friday in the court house.

In its resolution engaging the services of Mr. Chommie, the board expressed the belief that a salary of $1,200 for the county attorney is fair and reasonable due to the fact that a large amount of work heretofore done in the county attorney's office in connection with tax collections on delinquent lands is not to be handled in his office in 1935, but will have to be handled otherwise with additional expense to the county.

Representatives from This District Receive Committee Assignments

Marius Waldal, representative from this district in the Minnesota legislature, last week was appointed chairman of the house committee on corporations, as well as serving on committees on civil administration, game and fish, markets and marketing, public domain and municipal affairs. Representative J. O. Melby was assigned to serve on committees on commerce, manufacturing and retail trade; telephone and telegraph, reapportionment, municipal affairs, public welfare and dairy products.

Grocery Customers Will be Guests at Banquet and Entertainment

The Thief River Grocery company last week sent out invitations to its grocery customers to attend a banquet and program in the Auditorium next Thursday evening, January 31, commemorating a year of cordial business relations, it was announced by W. L. Carlisle, manager of the company. Nearly 300 persons from thruout the trade territory are expected to attend the event.

Chester Myrom of the grocery company staff will preside as toastmaster at the banquet, which will be served at 8 o'clock, and will introduce a group of speakers including L. O. Isaacson and C. J. Davis, respectively general sales manager and advertising manager of the Nash-Finch company in Minneapolis; and J. Bulach, widely known speaker affiliated with the National Cash Register company. Dr. C. M. Haug also will present feats of magic.

A group of attendance prizes will be awarded to guests at the banquet, following which a Technicolor sound film descriptive of the fruit raising and canning industries will be presented with special equipment, occupying a period of slightly more than an hour.

MAYOR HANDS RESIGNATION IN TO COUNCIL

Action Follows Election as State Senator From This District

APPROVE TWO PLANS FOR PARK PROJECTS

Grant 26 Beer Licenses Netting City Treasury $2,170 Total

A letter from Mayor E. L. Tungseth was read at the regular meeting of the city council Tuesday formally tendering his resignation as mayor of the city. The action was expected following his recent election as state senator from this district. No action was taken at the meeting to name a successor.

The city treasury was enriched to the extent of $2,170 at the meeting by the approval of 17 licenses for on and off sale of beer at $125 each and nine off-sale licenses at $5. One new on and off sale license was issued to Palmer Ekeland, the remainder being renewals.

Following presentation of the matter by Dr. A. E. Jacobson, president of the park board, the council went on record as approving plans for the improvement of Johnson st. and the beautification of the approaches to the new bridge as submitted by Division Highway Engineer A. O. Torgerson of Detroit Lakes. The park board had previously approved the project.

Dr. Jacobson also submitted plans for the improvement of the block including the skating rink now being acquired by the city for park purposes. The plans as drawn by the Northwest Nursery company of Valley City, N. D., call for the setting out of trees, shrubbery and flower beds, and provide also for a wading pool for small children, a playground and space for a bandstand.

Dr. Jacobson advised the council that the present park board budget would permit completion of the project this year, with payments spread over a three-year period. With this understanding the council voted approval of the undertaking.

Charles Pilerman registered objection to the amount of the condemnation award allowed him on his building adjoining the court house, and the council agreed to meet with him at an early date and thresh out the matter.

Following a communication from the state fire marshal stating that to connect the second floor of the Dahl building with that of the adjoining Benson and Halvorson building by means of an iron grating would not increase fire insurance rates on the Dahl building, the council approved an application of Severt Benson and H. Halvorson to make the alteration.

At the request of Fire Chief Leonard Hanson the council authorized the advertisement for bids on 500 feet of 2½ inch fire hose. Supt. Ole Legvold of the water and light department also was authorized to purchase an instrument to be used in locating sources of radio interference.

A pleasant variation in the dry routine of council meetings was supplied by the executive board of the Woman's club who, following the session, served the city officials with sandwiches, cake and coffee in the rooms recently assigned by the council to the use of the club.

RELIEF CLIENTS HERE TO UNDERGO PHYSICAL TESTS

Examinations to Determine Type of Work They are Suited for Examinations of relief clients to determine their physical condition and the type of work they are best suited for will be started in Pennington county Jan. 25-26, it was announced today in a communication from C. H. Zealand, director of the division of safety and compensation of the State Emergency Relief administration. The examinations will be conducted in the Auditorium.

Examinations already made throughout the state reveal that the great majority of work-relief clients are in good physical condition, Mr. Zealand explained. The few persons found to be in need of medical attention are referred to the county relief office for assistance.

Of 13,406 persons examined in 17 counties, the following classification resulted: "A"—fit for any work, 7,841; "B"—fit for moderately light work, 3,759; "C"—fit for extremely light work, 1,607; and "D"—not fit for work and in need of medical attention, 289.

The purpose of the examinations is to protect the relief clients against assignment to jobs for which they are physically unfit. The clients lose no work time as the examination periods are credited on the payroll sheets.

STEALS 20c FROM MILK BOTTLE, GETS 20 DAYS

Winona.— Crime doesn't pay, some moralist wrote, and he must have been referring to Mike Boryszkowski, 60-year old Winonan arrested here Monday afternoon on a petty larceny charge. He stole 20 cents from milk bottles, and was sentenced today to 20 days in the county jail. When arraigned before Judge Leo F. Murphy in municipal court Tuesday, Boryszkowski entered a plea of not guilty, but changed his plea to guilty as he was to be tried today. A Walnut street resident saw Boryszkowski take two dimes out of milk bottles he had set out, and ordered Boryszkowski to put them back. Boryszkowski "just walked away", he said, and the householder telephoned to police. Detective Albert Winkels and Traffic Patrolman August Bingold answered the call, and found Boryszkowski standing in Lake park, where he was identified as the man who took the money out of the milk bottles.

For those who have not had an opportunity to read "Arguments for Immediate Payment of Adjusted Service Certificates" by William R. Mitchell, in the Minnesota Legionnaire of January 16, we promise copies at our next meeting. The Questions and Answers on this are worth our serious consideration. Be informed!

W. C. T. U. News Notes

Dr. William J. Mayo, of the famous Rochester clinic, believes that the motorist who goes out on the highway with just two or three cocktails under his belt is a greater menace to public safety than the one who goes out blind drunk.

A couple of cocktails, he says, will slow up the normal man's reactions so that it takes him two or three times as long to react in an emergency as a man without any alcohol in his stomach. A cold-sober driver, proceeding at 40 miles an hour, will travel about 25 feet before he can take action to meet a sudden danger; the man ballasted with a pair of cocktails will require 50 or 100 feet.

"The drunken driver," says Dr. Mayo, "will crash into a pole before long and thereby take himself off the road, but the driver with only a couple of cocktails will keep on going. His slowed-up reactions to danger and emergencies constitute the real menace."

Congress believes that a little good oratory will yet solve the worst of the nation's problems.

ADDRESSES LOOK FOR MAIL IN SNOW BANK

Maple Lake.—Residents of this village were hunting for their mail over a stretch of some miles last week, after a mail pouch missed the hook to which it was thrown from the passing train and became entangled in the fast moving wheels. The pouch was completely destroyed and mail was scattered for some distance down the track, much of it being unrecognizable. As a result, instead of being deposited conveniently in their regular mail boxes, residents were forced to do a little traveling for their letters, and pick them up here and there in the snow.

Vienna Estate Chains Passing

The privilege of the chains, for centuries considered almost sacred in Austria, is being questioned in Vienna and may go. The chains are those stretching between stone posts to form a fence around an estate. In Vienna these chains are a symbol that the house belongs to a noble, and that neither the police nor any public authority may pass within them under any pretext whatever. They represent a separation between the nobility and the middle classes. People used even to take off their hats as they passed the house and its chains, the owner being all powerful on his territory. Now that Vienna is no longer the capital of a great empire the chains are to be merely interesting vestiges of a power that is past.

In the State Senate

By Sen. E. L. Tungseth

January 24, 1935

The Legislative machinery for the 1935 Session is now completed, both in the Senate and in the House of Representatives. The Senate organized fully the first day, having its majority set-up all ready to go. The House was slow in getting under way as the majority group had not done the preparatory work which the similar group in the Senate had done. In the Senate the majority group numbers 43, as compared with 24 in the minority group. As an Independent, supported by Farmer-Laborites, Republicans, Democrats and other political parties alike, and being anxious to obtain as many important committee assignments as possible, I organized with the majority group. This group held full sway and control of all the committee assignments. I may repeat what I have frequently said before that I have not surrendered to any one group, that I remain free to work and vote for measures which, in my opinion, will serve us best. It is yet too early to speak from experience, but I still believe that good legislation will have to come cross section politically. There should be enough progressively minded men in the Legislature of this Session to put across a good legislative program. Whether or not this is actually the case remains to be seen.

Last week we listened to his Excellency, the Governor. He gave the two bodies of lawmakers a very comprehensive message. Critics complained about lack of detail as touching upon important features. Such criticism might be partially justified. However, we must admit that all such details could not be presented in a message, which necessarily covered a large field and at the same time was required to be essentially brief. The Governor's presentation of the Farmer-Labor program was one of the finest in wing-spread and eloquence ever delivered. Of course, it bore a few political earmarks, which no doubt took well with the radio audiences. There was some play to the galleries, which could have been omitted, but these are things which I suppose all politicians are guilty of, and the censure should, therefore, be moderate. Our Governor ranks among the highest of political strategists, perhaps second to none, not even barring Farley.

The direction of the Governor's leadership was very definite in this message, which was not a speech, which he would have used in the campaign. He was opposed to further moratoriums and tax bargainings. He called for more revenue for the Highway Department. Such increase, he said, was necessary in order to meet the Federal appropriations for highway construction in Minnesota. There are essentially only two avenues from which such revenue can be obtained, that of revenue from automobile licenses and that of revenue from tax on gasoline. You are, no doubt, all familiar with the fact that the license rate on automobiles in our state will this year automatically revert back to the old high rate unless action to the contrary is taken by the Legislature. The Governor stressed high rates for high priced cars. Such an arrangement alone will, however, not provide the necessary additional revenue. As your Senator I shall appreciate very much to hear from the people in our district as to your opinion in this matter. Are you in favor of an increase in the license rate or do you favor an increase in gasoline tax? It is my opinion that at least the rate on old low priced cars should continue as low as they have been these last two years, since the people who use these cars are hard pressed financially and do not use the trunk highways very much.

During these first two weeks at the Capitol, I have heard from quite a number of the home constituents and I want to assure you that I appreciate such communications. I am here to serve you all to the best of my ability and shall endeavor to treat all political factions as fairly as possible. If you have certain suggestions to make as to any legislation, do not hesitate to write.

PETER FINDS A FRIEND IN TROUBLE

SEEING Farmer Brown's Boy coming through the Old Orchard, Peter Rabbit decided that that was no place for him, so he scampered for the Green Forest, lipperty-lipperty-lip. Just within the edge of the Green Forest he caught sight of something which for the time being put all thought of Farmer Brown's Boy out of his head. Fluttering on the ground was a bird than whom not even Glory the Cardinal was more beautiful. It was about the size of Redwing the Blackbird. Wings and tail were pure black, and all the rest was a beautiful scarlet. It was Redcoat the Tanager. At first Peter had eyes only for the wonderful beauty of Redcoat. Never before had he seen Redcoat so close at hand. Then quite suddenly it came over Peter that something was wrong, and he hurried forward to see what the trouble might be. Redcoat heard the rustle of Peter's feet among the dry leaves and at once began to flap and flutter in an effort to fly away, but he could not get off the ground.

"What Is It, Redcoat? Has Something Happened to You?"

"What is it, Redcoat? Has something happened to you? It is just Peter Rabbit. You know you don't have anything to fear from me," cried Peter.

The look of terror which had been in the eyes of Redcoat died out. He stopped fluttering and simply lay panting. "Oh, Peter," he gasped, "you don't know how glad I am that it is only you. I've had a terrible accident, and I don't know what I am to do. I can't fly, and if I have to stay on the ground some enemy will be sure to get me. What shall I do, Peter? What shall I do?"

Right away Peter was full of sympathy. "What kind of an accident, Redcoat, and how did it happen?" he asked.

"Broadwing the Hawk tried to catch me," sobbed Redcoat. "In dodging him among the trees I was heedless for a moment and did not see just where I was going. I struck a sharp pointed dead twig and drove it right through my right wing."

Redcoat held up his right wing and, sure enough, there was a little twig sticking out from both sides close up to the shoulder. The wing was bleeding a little.

"Oh, dear, whatever shall I do, Peter Rabbit? What ever shall I do?" sobbed Redcoat.

"Does it pain you dreadfully?" asked Peter.

Redcoat nodded. "But I don't mind the pain," he hastened to say. "It is the thought of what may happen to me."

Merchants Invited to Participate in Market Week, February 11-16

One hundred thousand letters were mailed this week to merchants throughout the northwest inviting them to participate in Market Week to be held in Minneapolis and St. Paul February 11 to 16, according to J. A. Vieker of Minneapolis and Charles L. Sommers of St. Paul, co-chairmen.

An extensive program of activity and entertainment has been planned by the committee, starting with the elaborate style show scheduled for the Lowry Hotel in St. Paul on the evening of February 11. Visiting merchants will be whisked through a solid week of events, to view fresh stocks of merchandise which have replenished the shelves of wholesale houses, hear a talk on "The Outlook of 1935" by Dr. Donald J. Cowling, president of Carleton College, attend luncheons to exchange views with their fellow merchants, and in general receive an injection of business enthusiasm which bids well to give the Northwest the greatest buying and selling spring season in recent years, according to committee chairmen.

Market week is sponsored jointly by the St. Paul Association of Commerce and the Minneapolis Civic and Commerce Association and headquarters will be set up in the West Hotel in Minneapolis and the Ryan Hotel in St. Paul.

ONE MAN ARMY AT MANKATO CLEANS UP

Mankato.— As head of the health department, the police, the army and navy, and every other department at Mankato, Mayor Charles K. Mayer is a pretty effective officer. Entering a barber shop in that city a few days ago, Mayor was confronted with the difficulty of having no warrant to search the place, altho he strongly suspected a slot machine. As head of the health department, however, Mayer had the authority to inspect the entire premises. In the rear room he found the slot machine, which he ordered confiscated in his capacity as head of the police department. The slot machine was the 17th confiscated since he took office in April, 1933.

WALTZING MICE HAVE PROLIFIC TENDENCIES

Blue Earth.—A pair of Waltzing Mice, small, white rodents that go on forever whirling around after their tails, have prolific tendencies toward begetting families. Sent up from the South for experimentation at the University, and kept by H. R. Roswall, Blue Earth, the Waltzers have been busy. In fact, every four weeks or so, the parents have about four or five more offsprings to worry about. Winchell would delight in such goings on. Although several Blue Earth residents would like a pair, sale cannot be made because they are the property of the University. Scientists say that if this particular animal were aided in his prolific tendencies, the state would be overrun with Waltzers in a short time.

The pahmi is a small animal of the weasel family, an inhabitant of central China. The fur is therefore a natural one. It is sometimes called the Chinese marten. The pelt is heavy, with a bright yellow and silky underfur, the top hair being grayish brown. A white line runs down the back from the neck to the tail and one along each side.

Official Paper of the City of Thief River Falls

This city has discovered that it is just as logical to maintain the streets of the business section during the winter months as it is to keep them clean during the summer. Snow removal is now accepted as a matter of course. There is reason to hope, therefore, that in a few years we will recognize the desirability of winter street maintenance in the residence sections.

There is much interest in financial circles in the coming Supreme Court decision on the validity of the gold clause. This decision will determine whether holders of gold clause securities, calling for payment in gold according to the old standard, will be able to collect the full amount of the gold promised to them or will be forced to settle for "new standard" dollars. Reports indicate that there is less hysteria over the situation than might have been anticipated. This is due to the fact that even if the decision forces payment of the full amount of gold, there still are several things the government can do to meet the difficulty. Business Week suggests, "one of the simplest (solutions) would be to comply literally with the gold clause, pay out gold in the specified amounts to holders of maturing obligations, public and private, and then seize the gold on the spot." And there would be nothing unfair in such a procedure for, after all, the dollar is still a dollar.

Those who have looked forward with high hopes to the fun of spending two hundred dollars a month as proposed in the Townsend Pension Plan will be disappointed with the measly little thirty-a-month plan recommended by the President. In this argument the President suffers the disadvantage of being practical. If the theory of the Townsend plan were sound then it would be short-sighted to limit the pensions to those who had lived sixty years. If paying two hundred dollars a month to those over sixty years of age would create prosperity, without placing a burden on the rest of the population, then why not have more prosperity by paying the pension to all citizens, old and young? Unfortunately all public expenditures, whether for good or evil, are obligations that must be met out of the earning power of the nation and out of each earned dollar must be taken a proportionate share to meet the cost of these obligations. Sincere advocates of an old age pension system or any other system designed to assure security in any form, will advance their cause by accepting a simple plan that has reasonable prospects of success rather than by insisting on an involved experiment that probably will fail.

Now that we have had our cold snap there is no further winter thrill to look forward to. As far as we are concerned they can bring in the spring mud now any time.

A preliminary sketch of the landscaping plans of the state highway department for the approaches to the new bridge was viewed by members of the park board this week. If these plans materialize and the city develops the proposed park and boulevard system, Thief River Falls will have taken a long step forward in its program of city beautification. From the city's standpoint, it will be possible to develop this elaborate program at a very moderate cost and this cost will be spread over a period of years. Several favorable circumstances combine to our advantage on this project. Highway department officials, recognizing the fact that the new highway will soon be the principal approach to the city from the south, appreciate the need for street widening. New construction being necessary anyway, adjoining property being lower priced now than it is ever likely to be again, and money being available for beautification, the project has naturally met a favorable response. Visiting landscape engineers are always greatly impressed with the possibilities of the river at this point and in planning the bridge approaches the state officials have included some development of the waterfront itself as a necessary part of the park picture. It is expected that plans and specifications for the entire project will be completed in time for a letting of the work in March and the starting of construction as soon as the weather permits in the spring. The building of these approaches will be a construction activity of major importance for the summer of 1935.

It really isn't strange that Bruno Hauptmann is fighting so hard to prove his innocence. If convicted he probably will be prosecuted for evading payment of the income tax.

It must be a tough break to be elected governor of a state like North Dakota. Before he gets through with his present fight Tom Moodie will even have to prove that he was born. But with his years of experience in newspaper work Mr. Moodie will probably be able to bear up under his present difficulties gracefully. In the course of his long career as a small town scribe he probably has had worse things said about him than they are saying now.

No man is deceived, however full of expectation his youth may be. But just as the expectation is located in his heart, so in his heart must he look for realization, and not in externals.—Goethe.

THE ART OF CONVERSATION
(Duluth News Tribune)

It is far better to think without speaking than to speak without thinking. One of the chief duties of the mind is to guard the speech and curb the tongue. One trouble with the world today is that there is too much idle talk and not enough constructive thinking.

Speech is necessary, of course, as a medium of communication, but it should be the result of deliberate thought, and not a riot of words uttered at random. Particularly should we guard against saying things which wound or harm others.

Polite conversation, kept on a high plane, is one of the joys of social intercourse. It promotes friendship and helps pass the time. It can be made interesting, entertaining and instructive. It is an art worth cultivating. Even so-called "small talk" adds to the gayety of meetings, and is not to be discouraged so long as it does not descend to the level of idle gossip.

Wit and humor are gems of purest ray serene in the diadem of conversation. They add a sparkle to the flow of talk like bead on champagne. But so-called humor which depends on sarcasm for its point, barbed wit that stings, should be taboo.

The chief thing to remember is to guard the tongue against hasty or ill-advised speech, and to say only kindly things, at least until matured deliberation and judgment show clearly the need for more drastic utterance.

It is far better to remain silent than to speak words we shall regret. And we should bear in mind too, that an important part of the art of conversation is in knowing when to listen.

SMALL TOWN CULTURE
(Larry Ho in St. Paul Dispatch)

It is a mistake to imagine the country town benighted or lacking in refinement. I venture to say that today there is a higher degree of genuine culture in the average village of 1500 people than in the average city of 100,000. And it is genuine culture. Village people have more leisure for culture and a greater inspiration toward it by reason of their superior quietness, the influence of outdoor living, and the absence of constant pretense. Being neighbors, the citizens of the village do not have to assume virtues they lack. There is a spirit of co-operation in the village impossible in the large centers, due to intimate familiarity of one citizen with another, and a consequent sympathy not to be found where most people are strangers. The country folk do not feel the need of "putting on style," and so, as the old song says, they "are in style all the while." But their great virtue is the virtue of naturalness. They know what "visiting" means, and they appreciate the privileges of friendly intercourse that breeds nobler opinions and finer enthusiasms.

DANGEROUS PROPOSAL
(Mankato Free Press)

Are we to have a repetition of war-time censorship and limitation on free speech? Apparently so if Representative Dickstein and members of the house committee on "un-American activities" have their way. Mr. Dickstein frankly declares that he and his colleagues favor passage of a measure at the approaching session of congress that would make it a federal offense "for an American citizen to talk or write in any manner which could be construed as advocating that the existing order be terminated."

Nothing quite as drastic as this has been proposed since the alien and sedition act in the early days when the American colonies first banded together to form this republic. After more than 150 years of building and progress are we still so afraid our governmental system will be overthrown that we must resort to a repetition of such dictatorial repression?

It is claimed by Representative Dickstein that the United States Chamber of Commerce, the American Federation of Labor and various veterans' organizations are supporting his proposal. If true it reflects little credit on either the liberalism or foresight of these organizations.

In the first place human history has proven again and again that such repression never serves the ends desired. If our present governing system is menaced by possible change and overthrow a censorship such as this house committee proposes will only serve to speed rather than delay an eventual collapse. The British crown attempted just such repression as this and the American colonies became an independent nation. The advocates of slavery attempted such tactics and the Civil war with the eventual freeing of the slave was the outcome. European history is shot through with similar examples.

Of course Mr. Dickstein and his colleagues insist the proposed measure constitutes neither censorship nor intolerant repression. Free speech and a free press, they say, would in no way be curtailed. The act would be aimed solely at communists, nazis, fascists and other subversive elements. Anyone knows, however, that such powers are never halted where their authors may have intended. Too often liberties have been surrendered only to find later that such surrender can not be rationalized and that invariably it is abused.

Freedom of speech, freedom of the press mean just precisely that. It cannot be compromised. Nor is there need that it should be compromised. The American system of government has withstood and survived far greater perils than Representative Dickstein and his committee on un-American activities has unearthed. It will continue to withstand them, without resort to jeopardizing and surrender of the very liberties on which a free government is founded.

No one thing has caused the wreckage in this world that intolerance has. Bigotry has bathed the world in blood, crucified the noblest ideals, broken the hopes and hearts of men and left ruin wherever its blight touched. Perhaps the most hideous thing about it is that it so often parades under the pretence of being religion. It is past the understanding of human sanity how any man believing in God could seek deliberately to harm a fellow being, who, like himself, is the child of God.—By Larry Ho.

A headline: "Domestic woes are blamed on poor housing" is the best one-sentence example of satire we have seen for some time. As short a time ago as one generation people lived and raised families and were happy and contented in one room sod or log huts, but today the government must furnish heated, roomy homes or "the poor" can't raise their families properly. Is there anyone silly enough to really believe it is outward easy [illegible] that makes contentment and peace? If so, analyze the "wealthy homes" and change your mind.—Fairfax Standard.

We cannot understand why those radicals who are trying to Russianize America do not go to Russia and live the Utopia they are dreaming. Anyone dissatisfied with the American system and opportunities ought to be deported to the paradise he advocates. We would gladly contribute a few dimes to such a cause.—St. Peter Herald.

Editor, Times:

Well folks, we humans in the hinterlands are downright happy. What with good crops and very satisfactory prices and with bright prospects to look forward to in the future.

As to my old friend, Prophet Wright, it is with apprehension that he is not up to snuff of late. Perhaps that philosophical soul is deep in thought or is it the weather. For a moment, I had an idea that the eminent apostle of Socrates was contemplating the benefits of the Townsend plan of old age pension, but on second thought I remembered Ponce De Leon and the fountain of youth and it sort of reminded me that some human beings appear to be eternally young, hence that would be out of question.

Personally, I have no faith in Mr. Townsend's scheme, but granting that his intellect is a couple of jumps and a gasp ahead of his imagination and with all due respect thereof.

When I went to school, at least I attempted diligently enough, we were taught that if I gave four apples apiece to three persons we multiply et cetera. Well then since statistics available will be assumed thusly, we presume that one person out of ten is over 60 years of age and is scheduled, according to the plan to receive $200.00 a month or $2,400 a year, we multiply one out of ten, 120,000,000 population makes 12,000,000 eligible and in one month the cost will be $2,400,000,000 and in one year the colossal total of $28,800,000,000 and so I vote that Mr. Townsend be elected the dunce and be moved to the foot of the class. Aesop's Fable or Bughouse Fable would be appropriate enough a title for that stupendous dream of paradise.

Yours truly,
O. O. Olson.

Red River Valley History

By Win V. Working

In starting a historical series it is, of course, advisable to begin far enough back that the threads of the narrative be neatly woven into a true pattern as the series progresses. In this case we go back to the Ice Age and Lake Agassiz. Ordinarily, this might be considered a dry subject, but there are two reasons that remove it from this status so far as Times readers are concerned.

In the first place, this locality lies within the great glacial lake bed and school children and others interested are able to find geological, archeological and even anthropological specimens virtually in their own dooryards. In the second place, recent finds in the state have attracted attention to the Lake Agassiz bed and its possibilities as a treasure house of information on prehistoric man and other remote archeological matters. The finding of the "Minnesota Man" near Pelican Rapids in Otter Tail county by a road construction crew in June, 1931, and the discovery of the "Brown's Valley Man" in October, 1933, near Brown's Valley by William H. Jensen were epochal in the anthropological field, as Dr. A. E. Jenks, head of the anthropological department of the University of Minnesota has pointed out.

We wish to call attention to the fact that the "Minnesota Man" was found in what is known to geologists as Glacial Lake Pelican in sediment of the late Pleistocene Age, which makes it about 20,000 years old. The "Brown's Valley Man" was located in the Glacial River Warren and is estimated to be about 10,000 or 12,000 years old, according to the geological evidence. It will be recalled that in the latter case dart-points and other artifacts were found which, by comparisons with other finds, seem to prove that mammoths and an extinct species of bison were contemporaries of the "Brown's Valley Man."

Now, these facts are interesting regardless of one's place of residence, but when they occur in our own state they have a much stronger appeal. But this interest has been greatly enhanced by excavations near Fertile in the past summer. Dr. Jenks headed this exploration party and many valuable finds were made, as most readers undoubtedly remember. Dr. Jenks has reported on the two earlier discoveries and is scheduled to read a paper before the Minnesota Historical society this month and it is to be hoped that he will present the details of the Fertile finds.

There is reason to believe that finds of equally important value may be made elsewhere in the old glacial lake bed. But information is needed before the story of prehistoric man in this region will be clear. For that matter, much concerning Lake Agassiz is pure theory. No geologist can say how long or just when the lake existed. It is agreed that it was created by the melting of the ice cap; that it covered the Red river valley and extended a considerable distance to the east along the Minnesota-Canada border and, of course extended into Canada; that it covered about 110,000 square miles, was 700 miles long and 250 miles wide (at the border) and reached a depth of 600 feet at Lake Winnipeg. To get nearer home, it was about 300 feet deep at St. Vincent.

Some authorities believe the glacial lake disappeared about 6,000 years ago, but its decline was probably so gradual that it would be difficult to fix a date for its disappearance as a glacial lake. Lake Winnipeg, we know, is what is left of it. A perplexing question arises out of the apparent conflict of archeological evidence in some instances, but it is probable that Dr. Jenks can iron out the details.

But the writer does not propose to dwell long in this remote field. We advance nearer the present when we consider that the publication, Science Service, hails the discovery of the "Brown's Valley Man" associated with dart-points of known antiquity, as highly important as proving human beings hunted game as far back as from 10,000 to 12,000 years ago at least. Science Service describes these early people as a pre-Columbian race, meaning they were a much earlier type than the tribes found by Columbus. From here we may proceed to the Mound Builders, but we shall deal with them only briefly and get on to more modern and pertinent matters.

Next week we shall present the latest theories concerning the strange people, known as the Mound Builders and point out their connection with this region.—Northwestern Feature Service.

The Word "Varsity"

The word "varsity" is a contraction of university, in which the "e," in analogy with "e" in the first syllable of sergeant, has the sound of "a" in large. The term is confined almost exclusively to the campus of any university, usually in speaking of any one of the university teams representing the university, or the like.—Literary Digest.

Common heifers earned $3.00-5.00, good grain-feds reaching $7.75. Cuttery cows earned $1.75-2.75, beef cows selling up to $4.50, good fat cows as high as $5.50, odd head of bulls $3.00-4.50. Vealers were fully steady, medium to good grades $6.00-8.00, a few up to $9.00, plainer sorts $4.00 and down. A few lower grades stock steers brought $3.50-5.00.

Medium conditioned steers, heifers and yearlings are salable at from $4.00 to $5.50 while strictly good long fed steers and yearlings may sell at from $5.50 to $6.25; the common and fair conditioned steers and heifers are also in good demand and prices ranged from $1.50 to $3.50; Butcher cows are scarce and stronger and quotable here at from $2.50 to $3.75; canners and cutters are salable at from $1.00 to $2.00. Father's Ingenuity
By Alice B. Palmer

'TWAS just two weeks before Christmas and there did not appear to be any material means of attaining the necessary funds for the great celebration.

"Oh dear, if John would only sell that old heirloom," thought Marty Armstrong.

"Oh, Mother, I just can't wait until Christmas. I know you are going to get that tuxedo for me. I can see it now, oh boy!" exclaimed Jerry.

"And I can see that party gown, Mother, with slippers to match," said Betty, sweetly.

"It's no use expecting anything this year, children," said mother. "Your father has made some unwise investments."

"Here comes father, now."

"Hello, everybody, what's up! Why the frigid atmosphere?" queried father.

"Mother says there's to be no Santa Claus this year," ventured Jerry.

The next few days John Armstrong was trying to figure it all out. Perhaps he had been a little too negligent in the past few years concerning his family. Now he realized that he must make amends. Christmas bells were chiming, reminding the Armstrong family that 'twas truly Christmas eve. Mother and the children were thinking of the things they were not going to get for Christmas. But Father was chuckling inwardly. In fact, he could scarcely keep from bursting out laughing; but that, of course, would never do.

The silence was broken by the jingling of sleighbells. They hurried out en masse to see what it was all about.

Were they all dreaming? There stood an old-fashioned bobsled, out stepped Santa Claus.

"Why, Uncle Joe, what are you doing here on Christmas eve?" exclaimed Mother, all excited.

"I've come to take you and the family for a ride. So bundle up and hop in, without delay."

The sleigh stopped with a jerk, right in front of a stucco bungalow all brilliantly lighted up with Christmas decorations.

"Why, I never knew the Thompson home was for rent. It has stood vacant so long," said Mother, with great concern.

"A friend of mine from the office just purchased it," said Father, with a convincing smile.

"We were invited over to see it in its new regalia. But you were all so out of sorts that I called up Uncle Joe and ordered the Santa Claus pose."

They all laughed most heartily. They couldn't help it—Christmas or no Christmas! They had to give father credit for his clever ingenuity.

Father took the lead and rang the doorbell, but no one answered. Then he actually turned the knob as they all stepped back in perturbation.

"Merry Christmas!" [illegible] father.

"Don't you understand? Oh, bang it all, anyway! This is your Christmas present," said father, sinking into the closest easy chair and gasping for breath.

"What?" they all exclaimed.

Then father explained it all to them—how he had sold the old heirloom, purchased the house and furnished it.

They gasped: "How could you? When did you? How did you know just what we liked?" All these questions were fired at father at once.

Father had done a perfect job. But that wasn't all. He led them proudly into the living room where stood the real best of the outstanding gorgeous Christmas tree. Needless to say Jerry received his "tux," Betty her gown and slippers and mother a set of silverware, a long-desired luxury.

There descended such a shower of Christmas hugs and kisses, gratitude and joy that dear old father was practically smothered under it. He enjoyed his Christmas presents better than all the material gifts he had bestowed upon his family; and he felt that he never was filled with so much Christmas cheer in fact [illegible].

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

SPECIAL MEETING
January 18th, 1935

Pursuant to call the Board of County Commissioners met in special session Friday, Jan. 18th, 1935, at the office of County Auditor in Thief River Falls.

All members were present and answered roll call.

The Chairman announced he had been served with notice of appeal by the County Attorney in the matter of his salary for year 1935, and this meeting was for the purpose of taking such action as the board saw fit in the matter. He announced that the County Attorney had filed action in District Court asking the court to set his salary at $1,800.00 per year instead of $1,200.00 as set by County Board and as this salary would be almost more than the county had ever paid in this office he thought the board should take steps to oppose the increase.

Commissioner Bredeson offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

"WHEREAS an action has been brought against the County by H. O. Berve, County Attorney, wherein he requests the court to fix the salary of County Attorney in Pennington County at $1,800.00 per year, and

WHEREAS, if the salary were set at $1,800.00 by the court it would be an increase of $600.00 over the highest salary ever paid in this office in Pennington County, and

WHEREAS this board does not believe an increase in salary is warranted at this time in view of the fact that a large amount of work heretofore done in the County Attorney's Office in connection with tax collections on delinquent lands is not to be handled in his office during the year 1935, but will have to be handled otherwise with additional expense to county, and

WHEREAS this Board did at their meeting held Jan. 8th, 1935 set the salary of County Attorney at $1,200.00 which we believed to be a fair and reasonable compensation for the work to be done in that office during the year.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that we deem it in the best interest of the County that the County be represented by counsel in the action brought by County Attorney Berve against the County and attorney [illegible] of Thief River Falls is hereby employed, authorized and directed to appear and represent the County of Pennington in the action brought by County Attorney Berve against Pennington County which is set for trial in District Court at Thief River Falls, Jan. 25th, 1935.

Motion for adoption of the foregoing resolution was seconded by Commissioner Muiry and unanimously carried.

Commissioner Mandt moved that the special meeting adjourn. Motion seconded by Commissioner Lee and carried.

PAUL ROY,
Chairman County Board
Attest: H. L. Fowler,
County Auditor.

English Coins

The English coin known as a guinea, issued from 1663 to 1813, was intended to pass for 20 shillings, but owing to the inferiority of the silver coin, it was never worth less than 21, and from 1717 on had a fixed value of 21 shillings—equal to American money to about $5.11. This coin was so called because it was first struck out of the gold mined in Guinea. The term "bob" is English slang for a shilling.

Cave Fish Lose Eyes

When fishes live confined to the dark waters of caves their eyes nearly or completely disappear. There are a few species of fish whose habitat is practically limited to cave waters, but most of them are of species to be found in outside water; the loss of sight is a matter of individuals and not of species.

BUDGET HEAD ASKS SALARY BOOST FOR STATE OFFICIALS

Recommendations Submitted to Legislature Monday by Governor

Salary increases for many state officials and department heads are recommended in the state budget, submitted to the legislature Monday by J. C. Stout, state budget commissioner, and by Governor Floyd B. Olson, who transmitted the budget draft without comment.

Total allowances of the budget proper are $41,200,000, but the commissioner recommends also a building program for the state board of control to cost $3,280,000, and two buildings for the University of Minnesota, to cost $650,000, these to be financed by certificates of indebtedness and paid off by future taxes.

Including the buildings, the budget proposes an outlay of more than $45,000,000. Two years ago, the legislature cut allowances from $444,028,320 requested by the departments to $37,207,000. The budget recommended then by Mrs. Jean W. Wittich was $36,343,988, but that did not include some allowances later made by the legislature. Department requests this year totaled $50,450,000.

The budget commissioner recommends a general restoration of pay cuts made two years ago but in some cases would reduce pay, as part of a readjustment of salaries. Department heads generally are given increases of 10 per cent or more by the budget.

Relief Activities in State Cost $44,000,000 Since in October, 1932

Relief activities in Minnesota have cost $43,965,511 since October 1932, when relief allotments began, the state emergency relief administration revealed Friday in a report on activities for the legislature.

Of this huge total, the federal government has contributed 77.09 per cent, the state 3.02 per cent and local governmental units 19.89 per cent. Total relief costs for 1932 were $1,258,739; for 1933, 9,042,387, and for 1934, $33,564,385.

Of the state's 2,563,935 persons, 503,921, or 19.7 per cent, were on relief rolls in September, 1934, the reports said. Ramsey county had 51,823 persons on relief that month, or 18 per cent of its population. This month $500,000 was allotted Ramsey county for relief.

50 Local Elks Journey to Bemidji Thursday

A delegation of 50 members of the Thief River Falls Elks lodge journeyed to Bemidji last Thursday to participate in the initiation of a class of 75 into the Bemidji lodge. Officers of the local lodge exemplified the initiation rites, and performed their duties in a creditable manner. The delegation arrived in the neighboring city just following a disastrous fire that caused more than $100,000 damage to a group of Bemidji buildings.

TAX COMMISSION WOULD ELIMINATE DISCOUNT SALES

Goes on Record as Opposed to a General Sales Tax Levy

Increase in special state tax rates, elimination of the "bargain counter" tax settlements and taxation of commercial trucks and buses on a gross earnings basis, were recommended Friday to the legislature by the Minnesota Tax commission.

The commission also went on record opposing any general sales tax as "not feasible," imposing a "greater burden on the poor than on the rich."

As a possible source of increased revenue the inheritance tax should be increased, with the definite recommendations to come from the attorney general's department, which administers the law, the commission said.

The income tax rates also should be increased, especially in the higher brackets, according to the recommendations.

Other recommendations by the commission are:

Increase of the present 3-mill tax rate on money and credits to at least 5 mills.

Boost the gross earnings tax on telephone companies from the present 4 per cent rate to 6 per cent, with the exception of rural mutual companies not organized for profit, which should be taxed on a flat rate on each telephone in use.

Increase the 5 per cent gross earnings tax on railroad companies which has been in effect since 1913.

Amend the homestead tax reduction law so as to clearly define what constitutes a homestead.

Preparations Made for Birthday Balls Jan. 30

The entire state of Minnesota is entering the final days of preparations for the Roosevelt Birthday Balls to be held in all sections next Wednesday, January 30. Colonel Henry L. Doherty of New York, national chairman, sent his congratulations to Oscar M. Sullivan, state chairman, for setting Minnesota as the leading state of the country with the 190 balls planned. "The nation is enthusiastically looking to Minnesota and all eyes will be focused on the Gopher state for the fine work of your committees."

State Game Wardens on Full Time Again Feb. 1

Beginning February 1, state game wardens will go on a full time basis, Erling Swenson, director of the game and fish division announced. Owing to a lack of funds in the game and fish operating account due to a marked decrease in the sale of hunting and fishing licenses and a diversion of funds for other purposes through legislative actions, game wardens were compelled to assume a five-day monthly layoff. Director Swenson expressed his thanks for "loyalty and cooperation" of wardens during the period when finances of the division were being adjusted.

BUDDIES IN LIFE ARE JOINED IN DEATH

Mapleton.—Fifty years ago two young men, Rober Jaeger and John Rabenhorst, buddies in the Old Country, left their homes in Germany to settle in Mapleton. Last week both died within two days of each other,—buddies in death as in life. For over 40 years Mr. Jaeger and Mr. Rabenhorst lived on adjoining farms. Their children grew to manhood and womanhood together. They attended the same church. They saw each other nearly every day as they went about their work. They have been the best of friends, as have their families. Both came to the United States on the good ship "America" in 1884, traveling together westward to Minnesota where they were settlers. Last week, as though they had lived together too long to become separated, Jaeger followed Rabenhorst to his last resting place.

HAS 100th BIRTHDAY PARTY BUT IT'S LATE

Hopkins—The 100th birthday of Claud C. (Doc) Cleveland was celebrated Monday evening by his friends at the Hennepin County Home, despite Cleveland's insistance that his birthday actually is January 1. "A chap can't reach the century mark and not know what date his birthday falls on. Not when he's had a hundred of them", said Doc. Official records, however, show that he was born on January 7, 1835. As his friends arranged the party in his honor, Cleveland consented to attend, but added the event was a week overdue. He was born in Canada and came to Minneapolis 53 years ago.

"Converse"

Converse is from the Latin convertere, participle of conversus, to turn, and the converse is an altered sequence. For example, all men are animals; the converse of this is that all animals are men, but the proposition is not true. On the other hand, take this thought: No vice is virtue; the converse of this is, no virtue is vice. In this case the proposition is true.—Literary Digest.

EVENING SESSIONS AT WINTER SHOWS TO ATTRACT MANY

Red River Valley Event in Progress Week of Feb. 4-8

In addition to an excellent series of day meetings for the men, the women and the 4-H club members, mass meetings have been arranged each evening during the Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows, February 4 to 8. The opening evening, February 4, will be devoted to a banquet and speaking program together with the presentation of silver trophies and other awards to winners in the school of agriculture, agricultural high school, farmers' club and 4-H club livestock and farm crops judging contests. Over one hundred contestants from three states and Canada are expected to take part in these educational events.

Tuesday evening, February 5, Dr. George Mecklenburg, Minneapolis, will give an illustrated lecture on his trip around the world during the past summer. Dr. Mecklenburg visited India, China, Japan and other important countries. There is a tremendous amount of interest in the far Eastern and Indian situations so that this lecture will be one of the features of the week.

Wednesday evening, Edwin L. Lundell, former commander of the state American Legion, and at present secretary of the Minnesota Law and Order League, will discuss "Crime Prevention." Numerous bills have been introduced in the state legislature dealing with this subject which has assumed unusual proportions not only from a state but a national standpoint.

On Thursday evening, February 7, thirteen Northwestern Minnesota counties will present an historical pageant of the Red River Valley. Each county will present one scene under the supervision of a local county director. This has stimulated a great deal of thought and interest in the history and development of the Red River Valley counties.

The closing evening of the week will be devoted to a song festival by the Northwestern Minnesota Singers' association under the direction of T. W. Thorson. This organization is composed of eleven unit choruses including Beltrami, Bygland, Crookston, East Grand Forks, Erskine, Fertile, Gonvick, Halstad, McIntosh, Mentor and Winger. Mr. Edery Knowles, East Grand Forks, is president of the singers' association which is regarded as one of the most unique organizations of its kind in the United States.

Legion Post to Discuss Auto Show Plans Friday

Results of the recent drive for memberships in the local post of the American Legion, in which two teams participated, will be announced at a meeting of the post in the club rooms Friday evening, S. P. Orwoll, commander, said today. Plans also will be discussed for the forthcoming automobile show and spring exposition in the Auditorium.

World War Cost U. S. Total of Fifty Billion

The cost of the world war to the United States was officially set at about $50,000,000,000 last week. The estimate was disclosed in the detailed annual report of the treasury. In it, Secretary Morgenthau figured the cost of the war as follows:

Estimated cost to June 30, 1921	$27,729,000,000
Interest on war debt	9,557,000,000
Veterans' administration	6,391,000,000
Settlement of war claims	88,000,000

This does not include something like $12,000,000,000 in war debts owed to the United States by foreign nations.

"Daniel in Lion's Den" on Radio Next Sunday

Daniel in the Lion's Den, a tale inspired by the Old Testament account of The Handwriting on the Wall, will be presented by Montgomery Ward on a coast-to-coast NBC-WEAF network as the third of a series of "Immortal Dramas" Sunday, January 27 at 2 p. m., E.S.T. The dramatic qualities of such scenes as Daniel's interpretation of the handwriting on the wall and the episode of his being thrown in the lion's den are further enhanced by appropriate symphonic music and special song effects by an A Cappella choir.

TOTAL OF 273 RABBITS BRINGS HUNTER $27.30

Madison—A total of 273 rabbits were brought into Madison recently by Ernest Patzer, Garfield township, the result of "just a little hunting". The rabbits filled a triple-wagon box full. They were sold at the rate of 10 cents each, bringing a check for $27.30. The Patzer boys have long been known for their uncanny ability with a .22 rifle. The shells for this gun cost but little, and with their knack of one bullet to a rabbit the boys find that 10 cent per rabbit is practically all profit.

Dickens Dyed Mustache

That Charles Dickens, the novelist, dyed his mustache, has been revealed in one of his letters found in the John Rylands library in Manchester, England. The epistle was written from Osnaburgh Terrace to Frederick Dickens on June 28, 1844. "I wish," he wrote, "you would get me a bottle of dye for my unprecedented mustache at the Baron's in Regent street, or some such good place." Another letter is written from Furnivals Inn, and is a request to J. P. Harley of St. James theater, to second the proposal of Dickens as a member of the Garrick club.

Crutches Made in 1100

A pair of crutches, made between A. D. 1100 and 1300 by aboriginal Americans who inhabited the prehistoric cliff houses of southeastern Utah, is on exhibition in one of the halls of North American archeology at Field Museum of Natural History. The crutches are fashioned from forked willow limbs. The crosspieces are mostly cushioned with yucca fibers and buckskin.

MINN. FARM GROUP ASKS REVISION OF STATE TAX SYSTEM

Biggest Convention in History Ends in St. Paul Thursday

The largest convention ever held by the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation came to a close in St. Paul last Thursday afternoon, with the re-election of all officers and the adoption of resolutions calling for complete revision of the state's tax system.

Officers re-elected were: A. J. Olson, Renville, president; Ole A. Flaat, Fisher, first vice president and H. M. Sword, Deer River, second vice president. J. L. Morton, of Hancock, was re-elected to the executive board and Mrs. Lewis Minion, Bingham Lake, was elected to the board succeeding Mrs. E. V. Ripley, Menahga. About 2000 farmers attended the 4-day session.

Among the 34 resolutions adopted was endorsement of the principle of tax limitation and establishment of the gross income tax, without exemption, as a means of bringing about real reduction in property taxes. Extension of the state mortgage moratorium law another two years is urged, as is a bill directing the State Rural Credits Bureau to give more liberal terms in its dealings with the farmers whose mortgages it holds.

Giving the Minnesota Highway patrol police powers, so that it can be made an agency of service to farmers in curbing farm thievery was asked. Another resolution calls for protection of the state prison industries, in order that it may continue to sell machinery and twine to farmers at reasonable rates, and without outside interference.

In the field of national legislation the Farm Bureau urges reduction of interest rates on farm mortgages, through federal action, to not more than 3 per cent, including both interest and amortization, with issuance of new currency to refinance the program. Federal farm mortgage moratorium legislation also was endorsed. President Roosevelt was urged to raise the price of gold to the full limit authorized by congress, as a means of putting sufficient money into circulation so that business will not be hampered through lack of the circulating medium.

Zimmerman Quits Post as State Relief Head

L. P. Zimmerman, acting state emergency relief administrator, has declined to continue in that position. Efforts of Governor Olson Saturday to have Zimmerman withdraw his resignation were reported unavailing, despite a long conference, and it was learned the governor shortly will appoint a successor. Political pressure on the SERA head was understood to be Mr. Zimmerman's reason for wishing to retire from the office, but he will continue with the organization as deputy administrator.

A car turned around three times on the highway at the edge of Isle without leaving the road, and ended up headed in the right direction.

Blaze in Bemidji Last Thursday Causes Damage to Stores, Apartments

One fireman was overcome by smoke and a bank, a half dozen business establishments and a number of apartments wiped out by a blaze that destroyed several buildings in the heart of Bemidji's business district early last Thursday.

Tom Wright, fireman, was overcome by smoke shortly after the fire broke out, at 2 a. m. and was taken to a hospital.

The Security State Bank building, housing the bank, the F. J. Kruse Fur shop and Al Davis Eat shop on the first floor and several doctors' offices on the second floor, was among the buildings destroyed.

Another structure wiped out was the Dr. E. W. Johnson building, which adjoins the bank building and housed two apartments and physicians' offices on the second floor and the Borg Co. store on the main floor.

Hopkins O.K.'s Mud Lake Conservation Project

Definite approval of the Mud Lake conservation project in Marshall county was announced last week by Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator at Washington, D. C., who conveyed the information by wire to I. E. Quist of Warren, engineer who is to direct the project. With definite approval granted, it is expected that bids will shortly be called for on construction work necessary on the project, and condemnation proceedings against the lands involved also will get under way at an early date so that actual work may begin in the spring months.

PRESIDENT GIVES SOCIAL SECURITY PLAN TO CONGRESS

Asks Old-Age Pensions and Compensation for Unemployed

President Roosevelt last Thursday submitted to congress a definite program of action for the security of men, women and children against hazards and vicissitudes of life.

He sent to congress a message requesting legislation to carry out the second phase of the new deal, designed to protect the jobless with unemployment compensation, to care for workers in their old age, and to aid dependent mothers and children.

The program would be financed mainly by taxes on payrolls, some of the tax being deducted from wages and the rest paid by employers. It was estimated $100,000,000 would be required to start. States also would contribute.

Legislation introduced today to put Mr. Roosevelt's program into effect.

Simultaneously with the message were made public the recommendations of the President's committee on economic security. The committee urged immediate action to establish:

1. Unemployment compensation.
2. Old age pensions.
3. Benefits for dependent mothers and children.

The committee reported it was not yet prepared to recommend health insurance but that this problem was under further examination.

Mr. Roosevelt asked for speed.

"Federal action is necessary to and conditioned upon the actions of states," he told congress.

"Forty-four state legislatures are meeting or will meet soon. In order that the necessary state action may be taken promptly, it is important that the federal government proceed speedily."

The President hopes to have his social security system operating by Jan. 1, 1936.

The message said the program safeguarded the national credit and considered the capacity of industry to assume financial burdens.

FINDS TWO QUARTS OF SAND IN ENGINE MOTOR

Milan.—Two quarts of gravel and sand were removed from the crankcase and engine of Albert Myrom's car in Milan, apparently the result of a prank or a malicious intent to work injury. The sand will necessitate the installation of a whole new motor, which will cost Mr. Myrom in the neighborhood of $100. The car was practically new. Myrom brought his car into the agency which had sold it to him, explaining that something must be wrong with the motor, due to the fact that oil consumption had increased so enormously during the past two weeks. The sand and gravel taken from the motor measured a good two quarts.

RETURN FOR MITTENS, SAYS THEFT VICTIM

Triumph—Victim of a theft of corn from his crib, Carl Sjogren had the following ad printed in the Triumph Monterey Progress: "The person who last week stole corn from my crib in Section 32, Cedar Township, and left his mittens, may have them by calling at my place and identifying them.—Carl Sjogren."

JIG SAW PUZZLE DECIDES LAW CASE

Foley.—Solving a jig-saw puzzle was the pastime indulged in by county authorities at Foley during the past two weeks, the loser of the game now serving time in the Stearns county jail as a result of some remarkable evidence brought out in court. Two pieces of cordwood, taken from separate piles several miles apart, were proved to be mates before Justice J. W. Nelman. So vivid was the proof displayed by these two jig-saw pieces of wood that the jury reached a verdict of guilty on the first ballot. August Stoltz was arrested on complaint of George Flieder for stealing three cords of wood. Flieder brought forth a piece of the stolen wood unique in its formation which fitted exactly a piece of wood from his own pile, and this evidence clinched the argument. Stoltz was fined $60 or 75 days, and chose the 75 days.

NORWEGIAN GROUP TO VISIT ITASCA PAGEANT JUNE 30

Northwestern Minnesota Event Gains Widespread Recognition

Definite assurance that the opening pageant of the 1935 summer series at Itasca State Park on June 30 is to be seen by a group from Norway on an educational tour of this country has been received recently by E. A. Barker, of Bemidji, in a letter from A. Fremmegaard, secretary of Normands Forbundet Minneapolis, says the Bemidji Pioneer.

Mr. Fremmegaard had previously written to Mr. Barker asking for the dates for the 1935 pageant presentations and telling him of plans being made by a group in Norway to make a tour of the United States next summer and the desire to see one of the Itasca Park pageants if the dates could be arranged.

When the group was informed by Mr. Barker of the pageant dates a change was made in the itinerary of the tour to make the visit to Itasca Park possible. On its arrival in Chicago the group will remain only about two hours between trains, taking a train to Minneapolis to arrive Saturday morning, June 29. From there a bus will be chartered to take the visitors to the Itasca Park pageant.

Interest in the Itasca Park pageant among the people in Norway was aroused recently when Mr. Fremmegaard wrote for a Norwegian newspaper an account of the pageant presentations he had seen. When arrangements were started for next summer's tour the interest in the pageants had become so widespread that it was decided to plan the itinerary to include a visit to the state park for one of the showings.

COLLECTS $73.00 ON ACCOUNT 28 YEARS OLD

St. James—Surprise of surprises! W. G. Manning of the Manning Fuel Company received a check for $73.00 the other day, as payment in full of an account contracted 28 years ago. A down payment of $5 was made at the time and never another word was heard from the account until last week. The original bill was sent along with the check. The party lived in St. James when the purchase of coal was made, but now are residents of St. Paul.

LET'S GIVE MEN JOBS BUILDING ROADS AND STREETS

GIVE THE MOTORIST A SQUARE DEAL

LET'S STOP THE BAD ROADS TAX
Bad roads levy annually an enormous tax on the motorist. Poorly surfaced highways are costing the motorist up to 2¢ per mile more than if they were properly improved.

LET'S MODERNIZE OUR HIGHWAY SYSTEM
Hundreds of miles of state highways need rebuilding—time saving and safety demand widening, and the elimination of sharp curves, steep grades, dangerous grade crossings. Traffic has outgrown our highway system.

LET'S GET OUR TRAFFIC THROUGH TOWN
Let's rebuild worn and bumpy streets, eliminate "bottle necks" and grade crossings, so that city traffic can flow freely and safely on our arterial streets.

LET'S PUT THE UNEMPLOYED TO WORK
In 1935 and 1936 Uncle Sam will give Minnesota $3,400,000 annually for road building, but the state must go 50-50. Cutting state road funds means loss of federal aid. Each road dollar put up by the state means $2 more for Minnesota men who need work. Cutting gas or auto taxes means spending more for relief and for bad road taxes.

Why buy your Hosiery from Peddlers?

COMPARE VALUES before you "pay down that small deposit" to the silver tongued salesman—who knows his stuff.

DO YOU KNOW that in most instances the price you pay for hosiery bought at your front or back door is more by the single pair or by the box—than your own merchant would ask you?

You Are Told In a Very Convincing Manner by these peddlers that you are saving on the purchase price of these hose because they come Direct-from-the-Mills-to-you—thus saving you the wholesalers and the retailers profit—and in some cases you are led to believe there are only two steps from Growers-to-you.

But these Peddlers OMIT telling you of These Facts which are NOT shown in the "cleverly prepared chart" but which Are Very Decidedly a part of Direct Selling Organization Expense.

THE SALESMAN is paid his profit from 15 per cent to 50 per cent which as a rule is the initial deposit on your order,—in addition to this deposit if he averages a certain number of sales he is given a bonus on his earnings of 10 per cent to 25 per cent all of which the customer pays.

THE BRANCH MANAGER comes in for 10 per cent to 20 per cent on the orders taken in the territory under his supervision. In many instances the Branch Office Rent is paid by the main office—which goes in to the price of your purchase.
Due to the many changes of Branch Managers there are unavoidable expenses which must be paid by the main office—and which are added to the price of the hose.
Office stationery, printed matter, etc.—are expenses never mentioned to you.

THE DIVISION MANAGER or District Manager is paid his traveling expenses, in addition to receiving a salary or commission on all business in his territory. Some direct-selling-organizations maintain Sectional Sales Managers whose traveling expenses, salary or commission must be paid.

IN ADDITION to the above some Direct Sellers pay Recruiting Managers—Sales Investigators—Sales Promoters—Home-Office Representatives—Advertising Specialists. All these men must be paid a salary and their expenses. Are you told about these?

THE HUGE AMOUNTS SPENT for Advertising is NOT mentioned by the well trained Bell Ringer. Tremendous Sums Are Spent in the conducting of Testing Schools—to devise "decoys" to better enable the Peddler to secure your attention.

SPECIAL PRIZES—Cash—Watches—Clothing—even Automobiles must be added in to the price on the order blank.

CONVENTIONS—Special Sales Meetings—costing enormous amounts must be figured in the cost of the hosiery. Freight and cartage expense thru different stages of manufacturing is necessary.

Do Not Be Misled by "THE GUARANTEE"

Some of the leading Hosiery Peddlers have gained their momentum of business on this pair free guarantee—but this Guarantee Has Been REDUCED—until now—the dissatisfied customer is obliged to answer a most lengthy and EMBARRASSING QUESTIONNAIRE in order to receive any consideration, which was assured her at the time of her purchase.

It is not impossible that eventually ONLY the toes—heels—and tops will be guaranteed—and as a rule they are of materials other than silk.

HOW MANY TIMES has the salesman called back as he promised, when taking your order to pick up your unsatisfactory hosiery and make an adjustment? How long before you received any consideration?

Plummer High Wins Two

The local high school basketball team got back into its winning stride during the past week and turned in victories over Alvarado and Crookston Agricultural College. Friday nite at Alvarado, the locals went on a scoring spree and rang up 53 points, a new high for the season. Hanson had a large evening getting 11 baskets and a free throw for a total of 23 points. Alvarado started fast but the locals were not to be denied in their first chance at victory since the holidays and went ahead in the first quarter. The final score was 53-18.

The next night the locals journeyed to Crookston and came from behind to win an overtime game 34-32, on the A. C. floor. The A. Considering the brain trust, it seems to be easier to write books than it is to balance them.

PLUMMER

P. T. A. Meets

On Thursday evening, the regular meeting of Plummer P. T. A. was held at the Pershing High School. In spite of the cold weather the assembly was filled to capacity. After the regular business meeting Mr. Rosen who is the recreational director for Red Lake county spoke on what assistance is being offered and what could be done if some organization is willing to cooperate and give assistance in leadership. Mr. Lauer in response, ordered a meeting to be held in Plummer on Monday evening for the purpose of organizing a community club which will undertake the support of a recreational program.

Mr. Ohnstad next spoke on Boy Scout work, pointing out some of the advantages to be gained by scout work and asked for better cooperation by parents in procuring more regular scout attendance.

The next number on the program was a one act play, "The Awkward Squad", by R. M. Baker and coached by Mr. Lauer. The play proved to be a success keeping the audience in constant laughter.

Mr. Lauer was the speaker of the evening. His topic was "Discipline In the School". He stressed the meaning of the need for better disciplined schools and very ably defined the duties of teachers, the school administration and the schoolboard, as well as the need for cooperation by parents if the school should ever hope to bear it's proper influence on the youth of to-morrow.

Lunch was served by a committee of parents from Brooks. The next meeting will be held Thursday, Feb. 11.

Plummer High Wins Two

The local high school basketball team got back into its winning stride during the past week and turned in victories over Alvarado and Crookston Agricultural College. Friday nite at Alvarado, the locals went on a scoring spree and rang up 53 points, a new high for the season. Hanson had a large evening getting 11 baskets and a free throw for a total of 23 points. Alvarado started fast but the locals were not to be denied in their first chance at victory since the holidays and went ahead in the first quarter. The final score was 53-18.

The next night the locals journeyed to Crookston and came from behind to win an overtime game 34-32, on the A. C. floor. The A. C. led most of the way and had an eight point lead in the last quarter, but Plummer rallied and tied the score just before the final gun at 32 all. Hanson scored early in the overtime period and Plummer kept the A. C. from getting a good shot at the basket during the remainder of the period.

The locals were without the services of Ripple Schoenauer, and Stan Karlstad during the week. Ripple and Karlstad have returned to school this week, but Schoenauer will be out of the game for another month.

Plummer has three games billed for next week. Meeting Thief River Falls on Tuesday, St. Hilaire on Thursday and Oklee on Saturday. The St. Hilaire game will be played at home and will be one of the few opportunities to see the local team play at home during the remainder of the season. The team is developing rapidly and playing much better basketball than during the early part of the season.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL PROGRESS

SENIOR PLAYS TO BE GIVEN JANUARY 29

Miss Edberg, coach of the senior class plays, has just announced the plots of the two plays, "The Black Valise" and "Wienies on Wednesdays", to be given January 29.

"The Black Valise" contains mystery as well as humor. Mr. Mason's mystery as well as humor. Mr. Mason is so certain that he can cope with any situation through sheer conversational art. He is boarding at the Clancy's apartment house and succeeds fairly well in combating the uncouth Mr. Clancy with a flood of words. An officer of the law brings the startling news that a lunatic has escaped and is bombing buildings containing people.

Just then, who should appear but a tall, dark man with a black beard, black clothes, and a black bag. By his black bag he proclaims himself a doctor. It seeps into Mason's consciousness that he is the lunatic, with a bomb in the bag.

A dramatic climax is reached when the "doctor" is delayed in setting off the bomb not by the lengthy conversation of Mason as Mason himself thinks, but by an entirely premeditated action.

"Wienies on Wednesdays" is a highly entertaining portrayal of home life. To Mr. Foster, the Foster home at breakfast, with kids crying and wienies frying, seems a very inartistic place to entertain a prima donna. Mrs. Foster, however, economically minded, as well as culturally minded, feels no fears whatsoever about entertaining the artist. The daughter, Marian, criticises the home, including the habit of eating in the kitchen and of having wienies for breakfast instead of grapefruit. She comes down the stairs dressed in her best and criticises her mother's house dress, comparing it with the clothes she imagines the prima donna will wear. When the prima donna comes in, she creates an unexpected surprise.

Girls' Gym Classes Begin Basketball

After-school basket ball has begun for the girls' gym classes. It means of course hard practice. Good guarding, pivoting, and making more baskets, are the reasons for this extra practice. Those who expect to make the first team are working hard. It counts toward letters and numerals too. Freshmen are working for their numerals while most sophomores, juniors, and seniors are working for "L's".

If the first team is made, 150 points are awarded (enough for the numerals), 100 points are given for the second team, and 50 for the third.

The freshmen who have signed up are: Harriet Simonson, Mae Anderson, Katherine Jacobson, Alyce Geske, Marion Berg, Edna Ellefson, Margaret McKechnie, Lillian Samuelson, Carol Havland, Lorraine Amundson, Mary Chommie, Beaulah Gulseth, Theresa Olsen, Evelyn Tungseth, Beatrice Fjmrite, Lorraine Lecheit, and Caroline Haugen.

Sophomores are: Roberta Dalley, Merten Ward, Hettie Gustafson, Margaret Paapst, Eunice Mullen, Dorothy Nojer, Kathleen Schuster, Elizabeth Dahlen, Marion Green, Verna Sagmoen, Ruth Goethe, Vargine Dow, Lillian Heddon, Dagney Sundby, Margaret Munt, Eleanor Bulland, Thelma Sandland, Marjorie Matheson, Helen Anderson, Ruth Fowler and Evelyn Vingl.

The senior girls seem to be bound to make "L's and work for them. They are Martha Storholm, Phyllis Norbeck, Dorothy Traver, Adele Holmstrom, Clarice Jarenson, Harriet Jung, and Ardith Knight.

THOUGHTS AT RANDOM

Wonder why Miss Diebel called on Duane Battleson for a question when he was absent.

Douglass H seems to think that all the railroad centers have succeeded in making Chicago a cattle center. (That's only one person's opinion.)

It's funny—when our grandparents were young, they had to know their lessons or they'd get a touch of the hickory stick; if we don't do our lessons, we stay after school and keep the teacher occupied. In the old days, the boys used to write on the slate "I love you", at the present, the feature columns print it instead. In the days gone by, the girls had pigtails and the beaux had "a chinese haircut;" today the boys and girls are having a race to see who'll have the most permanents. Long, long ago they used to have recesses; at the present time, it's our two-minute speaking privilege (stretched a little.) Wonder what it will be like fifty years from now?

It was interesting to have Clara S. and Jean M. for visitors the other day.

The boys in the sixth-period history classes are getting "chicken-hearted". Most of them (well, two in particular) have started wearing coats during the cold weather.

Ask Henry A. any question about the Missouri Compromise. He'll probably reply as he did in history: "What territory is it."

If you want to hear an interesting discussion, ask Miss Diebel about the Mormon religion and life in Salt Lake City. She taught there for four years and can give you many important pointers.

ETIQUETTE CORNER

Oh dear me! here I thought I had you all trained so nicely and everything running so smoothly when I find out there has been gossiping going on among the students. Now there must be a stop to this at once! Really, when you think of it it is old maidish, isn't it? Remember others judge you by your ways and actions and if you talk about others to your friends, they are bound to be suspicious as to what you say about them—and pop goes a friend. Many times you are guilty of things like this but do not realize it, so make a thorough check-up and you may be surprised! I'll be watching and expecting an improvement.

P. S. This goes for you boys as well as girls.

LOCAL DEBATERS DEFEAT R. L. F. HERE TUESDAY

Judges Give Dokken, Rau and Gustafson 3-0 Decision After Hard Battle

On Tuesday the only home debate within this district was held between the Thief River Falls and Red Lake Falls teams in the high school assembly. The debate was scheduled for 8.00 p. m., but because of the severe weather, it was somewhat delayed by the late arrival of the judges.

Participants were, from Thief River Falls, (affirmative): Corlan Dokken, Kendall Gustafson, and Dorothy Rau; from Red Lake Falls, (negative): Bernice Johnson, Paul Ducharme, and Everett Smith. The judges were Professors Schrier, Cape, and Brown, all from the University of North Dakota.

The question debated this year was: "Resolved: That the federal government should adopt the policy of equalizing educational opportunity throughout the nation by means of annual grants to the several states for public elementary and secondary education." In their constructive speeches both teams showed ability. The locals, having the affirmative, attempted to establish the following points:

(1) That there is a need for a change in our school system.

(2) That equalization could be accomplished partly by consolidation of rural schools and tax revision.

(3) That the necessary reforms must include federal aid to be effective.

To destroy these arguments the Red Lake Falls team, as negative, emphasized the accomplishments of the present system and maintained that federal aid was impractical and financially unsound.

The clash between the two teams came in the rebuttal, and here Coach Carlson's debaters demonstrated their ability in a battle of wits, as was evidenced by the judges vote of 3 to 0 in favor of the local team.

MASQUERADE TO BE HELD FEB. 1

Harry Hall and Orchestra to Provide Music for Dance

The long-awaited Junior-Senior Masquerade will be held on Friday, February 1. The music will be furnished by Harry Hall and his orchestra. The committees for the decorations, program, etc. are being chosen at this time. We do not know exactly what the program will be but we have been informed that a very good one will be presented.

You are not required to have an elaborate costume and, indeed, the simpler costumes are often more effective. There is to be a basket ball game at Warren that night but a large percentage of students is expected to attend. The Masquerade is to be held at the Sons of Norway Hall, although last year it was held at the Elks Hall. Be sure to read the "Progress" next week for further details.

Miss Fletcher Offers Suggestions for Costumes

To those to whom the masquerade is a big problem, here are a few suggestions:

The girls can represent natives of any country, a short skirt, a bodice, rope hair or braids, a small cap and we have a Dutch girl. Dark lounging pajamas with elastic in the bottom, a bright scarf, a veil and we have an Arab. A big sash and loose jacket and we have a Japanese maid. There also may be nurses, maids, bowery girls, nursery rhyme characters such as Little Red Riding Hood, Bo-Peep, Mother Hubbard, etc. or funny paper characters, as Orphan Annie, Minnie Mouse, etc.

The boys can represent unusual things as: Christmas trees, barber poles, or may be members of the bowery, doctors, pirates, funny paper characters, or men of various countries. The operetta costumes should be much in demand as they will work excellently.

CASS LAKE BEATEN BY PROWLERS

Locals Defeat '34 Regional Champions by Score of 40-26, January 19

Last Saturday, as the last of a two-game trip, the Lincoln High School Prowlers again proved their supremacy on the basket ball court by trimming the consistent Cass Lake quintet 40-26. The Prowlers held the lead throughout the game, but in the third quarter, the Cass Lake five almost turned the tables on them.

The Cass Lake quintet is the same team that won the Regional tournament, except for their sensational scorer, Weldon Gray, all-state forward, who was graduated last year. This year's team is captained by Rock, and a brother of Weldon's plays on the regular squad.

In the first quarter of play the Prowlers scored eight points to four for Cass Lake. The Lincoln five scored twelve points while Cass Lake only scored three in the second period to leave the score 20-7 at the end of the first half.

Cass Lake came back strong in the third quarter to score nine points and almost tie up the score, but when the quarter ended the score stood 21-16. At the end of the game, the score was 40-26, a result of a last minute drive by the Prowlers.

Hermanson and Nicholson tied for individual scores, each making twelve points. The Cass Lake team was led by Patzke and Rock, scoring ten and nine points, respectively.

LITTLE GREEN WAVES TO PLAY LOCALS JAN. 25

Dist. Champions to be Decided at Local Tilt; Teams Undefeated in District

Tomorrow evening at the Municipal Auditorium the Little Green Wave from East Grand Forks will try their best to stop the winning streak of the Prowlers. The feeling is probably mutual for the East siders have won six straight contests while the Prowlers have not lost a game in five tests against such formidable foes as Bemidji and Cass Lake.

Both of these teams are still 100 per cent perfect in district competition, East Grand winning seven games while the Prowlers have won two. This may seem to favor the East-siders, but four of these games were played with Climax and Fisher. In Regional competition the Prowlers have a perfect record, but the Little Green Wave dropped a contest to Bemidji in a hard fought battle.

The personnel of the East Grand Forks' team includes: the Raymond brothers, co-captain and the team's famous scoring combination, Rockwood, Peterson Kimblin, and Sundeen. This is the same team that represented East Grand Forks in the District tournament last year.

Crookston is the latest victim of the mighty quintet East Grand Forks. The game was a struggle from start to finish, but the East siders clearly showed that they were supreme on their own floor.

When these teams meet tomorrow, there will be plenty of fight by both teams, as each knows that the District championship is to be decided. This contest will be one of the best in the remainder of our schedule, and if anyone misses it, he will regret it the rest of the season.

VOX MAGISTRI
(The Voice of the Teacher)
Why Study for High Grades

Off hand one might classify high school students as (a) those who conscientiously work hard and obtain high grades (b) those who do little or no work and obtain low grades (c) those who are content to put forth just sufficient effort to "get by" with better than a passing grade.

By some of the latter I have been asked, "Why should I study when men like Edison and Col Lindberg could be successful even tho they were put out of school?" Of course the answer is, "You happen to have chosen the exceptional models". Whatever one does in his early life, he cannot have much chance to be either an Edison or a Lindbergh but he can become one of the thousands of successful men who carry forward this ordinary work of this country. Even the high school student who does not study, it appears, would like to be a success in later life. What then is the relationship between school grades and success.

Three independent judges picked what they considered to be the most successful men of the class of 1894 at Harvard. Twenty-three men were named. Then twenty-three of the remainder of that class were chosen at random. To the credit of the successful men went 106 "A"'s: to the credit of the other men went only 56 "A's".

A similar study at the U of Oregon for the first twenty-four classes graduated, showed that of the men ordinarily classed as successful, 53% had been A students.

At West Point it has been found by actual study of the record that high scholarship is the safest single forecast of success in the army.

In 1917 of the men then living who graduated from Wesleyan U. between 160 and 1889 and became successful enough to find a place in "Who's Who", 50% were "A" students.

Prof E. G. Dexter, from a study of the graduates of twenty-two colleges, found that to be successful enough to get into "Who's Who" the chances of the "A" student were about three times those of the unselected student.

At Oxford University, of a certain group of lawyers, 46% of the "honor" students attained distinction whereas only 16% of the "pass"-students attained distinction.

Of a certain group of clergymen, former students at Oxford U. 68% of the honor graduates attained distinction whereas only 9% of the "failures" attained distinction.

Yes, fortunately students even who fail still have a chance of success in life, but it is a poor chance.

Perhaps the question arises why do the "A" students have a three to one chance of success over all others. There are two obvious reasons: they have the intelligence or the "guts" to master their studies. Then, of course, they are able to make use of what they have mastered.

Grit, determination, stick-to-itiveness (call it what you will) and knowledge always will be the keys to success. The more keys you can add to them the better.

Drop from your mind forever the foolish notion that diligence and scholarship are poor preparation for success: mental sloth will never get you anywhere.

Apart from the forgoing, however, you should do your best for your own satisfaction. Some poet has spoken of the "upward reach" in the head of man: Make use of this instinct, the instinct to overcome difficulties until it becomes a habit. If education has been necessary for success in the past, it will be much more necessary for success in the future.

The age you have now reached is the best learning age you will ever have. Use every minute of it to learn not only your school studies but other useful things in your out-of-school time.

You will find after school, whether you are a "success" or otherwise, that working for high grades was very much worth while.

LUMBERJACKS DEFEATED BY LOCALS 22-14

Mickleson and Nicholson Lead Scoring for Locals; Galloway, Bemidji's Star

Combining a strong defensive game with the offensive power they have displayed in every game this year the Prowlers defeated the Bemidji Lumberjacks on their own floor 22-14 Friday evening. The Prowlers led all the way except at the end of the first quarter when the score was tied 4-4. Nicholson started the scoring with two baskets in quick succession. This was all the scoring done by the Prowlers in the first quarter. In the second quarter they came back fast to score three field goals and a free throw and lead at the half 11 to 8.

In the third quarter they settled down to play a close defensive game and held Bemidji to three points and gathered five themselves. Again in the last period they held the Lumberjacks to three points and got six themselves to make the final score 22 to 14.

The Bemidji team seemed pretty much dependent on their last years star Galloway, and though he made only one point, he led the Lumberjacks at all times that he was in the game. For Thief River, Mickleson and Nicholson were outstanding. When the Bemidji team comes here for a return game later in the season we hope to see a better game and one less marred by the loose and rough tactics as were shown by both teams in this game.

EDITORIAL

One week from tomorrow the Seniors sponsor the junior-senior masquerade. It is an annual event which is anticipated with a great deal of eagerness by many students. Class officers and different committeemen spent considerable time and exert no little amount of effort in making the affair a success. Those who do not contemplate attending should take that fact into consideration. The only reward for those who have tried to plan an enjoyable evening for upper classmen is to see a large crowd present. If you haven't as yet secured a costume, consult Miss Fletcher's suggestions which you will find listed in this issue of the Progress.

The Prowlers continued their victory march last week-end with victories over the powerful Bemidji quint and last year's regional champs, the Cass Lake five. These victories should prove to all cynical observers that the Prowler basket ball team is not a "flash in the pan". The locals have proved themselves to be consistent winners. Their triumphs over Warren and Cass Lake, district and regional champions, respectively, in last year's race for the state basket ball crown, seem to indicate that the Gold and Blue will be a hard team to stop when tournament time is at hand. There may, of course, be more powerful teams than Warren in district 31, and more powerful teams in Region 8, than Cass Lake (other than the local ball handlers) but the comforting fact is that as yet this team has not performed against Coach Dooley's men.

Hundreds of Farmers

IN the past twelve years hundreds of farmers in this Northwestern section have found that they can get more day in and day out by selling their cattle and hogs at their nearby market.

The Northern Packing Company at Grand Forks splits the saving with the farmers. You will realize more spot cash immediately by marketing here than by shipping one, two or three hundred miles or more farther with the attendant shrinkage, commission, yardage, insurance, transportation costs and the other charges that follow such shipments.

Then too, TIME is important.

SPOT CASH immediately paid to you any day at our market for your cattle and hogs. We want especially, choice young 210 to 300 lb. hogs for our Sweet Clover Grade products.

STATE HIGHWAY CHIEFS SPEAK IN CITY MONDAY

Address Meeting of Northwestern Minnesota Development Group

ELSBERG AND ELLISON OUTLINE SITUATION

Cite Importance of State Qualifying for Large Federal Grant

Citing the need of the state highway department for more funds to enable it to match federal allotments and thus adequately maintain and improve the enlarged trunk highway system, Commissioner N. W. Elsberg, Assistant Commissioner J. T. Ellison and other officials Monday evening at the Evelyn hotel addressed a well-attended dinner meeting of the North Central and Northwestern Minnesota Development association.

At an afternoon session a series of resolutions on road matters were adopted, which are detailed elsewhere in this issue, and at the evening meeting the staff of the highway department was given a rising vote of confidence and support. Delegates were present from Ada, Ulen, Crookston, Detroit Lakes, Bronson, Little Falls and other communities. Also present were Division Engineers A. O. Torgerson of Detroit Lakes and Harbolt of Brainard; Maintenance Engineer Al Graves of Crookston; and James Kelly of the St. Paul office.

Asserting that the federal allotment of $3,100,000 offered this state is the equivalent of the proceeds of the one cent gasoline tax paid into the federal treasury, Mr. Elsberg commended the association for going on record of retaining the present scale of license fees without reduction as a means of qualifying for the allotment.

He stated that of 600,000 pleasure car owners in Minnesota, only 110,000 pay more than the minimum license fee, and that the average payment for all classes amounts to approximately $9 a year, this state ranking 46th among the 48 states in respect to size of license fees.

In closing his remarks Mr. Elsberg said he will welcome the projected investigation by the legislature into the affairs of the state highway department, but expressed the hope that the inquiry would be conducted on a fact-finding rather than a partizan basis.

Assistant Commissioner Ellison cited the present demand for a shifting of the tax burden from real estate to other sources of income, and said that this aim has been accomplished in part thru the medium of the motor vehicle license fee and the gas tax. He pointed out the plight of his department resulting from the addition last year of approximately 4,500 miles to the trunk highway system and the simultaneous reduction of nearly 50 per cent in license fees.

The most practicable way, he said, to get the needed funds is to let the license fees remain at the present level without reduction. On this basis, he stated, the sum of approximately $11,000,000 would be available for construction in the next two years, and would aid greatly in relieving the present acute unemployment situation.

A. C. Knudson of Detroit Lakes, president of the development group, said that its purpose is to cooperate with the highway department, and he urged members to contact organizations in their home communities and to seek support for proposals to provide sufficient funds for the department.

WINNING PROWLER QUINT TO PLAY IN WARREN FRIDAY

Locals Decisively Defeat East Grand Forks by 46-19 Score

Following a decisive 46-19 victory over the East Grand Forks team here Friday, the Lincoln high school Prowler basketball team will journey to Warren tomorrow to take the next hurdle in its campaign for the district title. In view of their defeating the Marshall county team 76 to 9 three weeks ago, the locals are expected to come thru with another victory.

The East Grand Forks game was roughly played, at times resembling a football contest. Kielty and Nicholson each accounted for 18 points, and Mickleson for ten. The score at the half was 22 to 10.

Results of other games played last Friday in this section of the state included Bemidji 23, Wadena 17, Twin Valley 26, Ada 24; Crookston 27, Warren 19, and Cass Lake 34, Park Rapids 12.

HEARING IS HELD WEDNESDAY AS TO CO. ATTORNEY PAY

Testimony is Submitted by Present and Former Officials

At a hearing Wednesday afternoon before District Judge M. A. Brattland in the court house in the action brought by County Attorney H. O. Berve to secure an increase in his salary from the $2,200 recently fixed by the County board, testimony was brought forth in behalf of both Mr. Berve and the board. The court's decision will not be announced for several days, it was indicated this morning.

County Auditor Harry Fowler was questioned by Mr. Berve and by H. O. Chommie, attorney acting in behalf of the board. He testified that salaries of county officials under the jurisdiction of the board were reduced in 1932 with the exception of that of the county attorney, with the understanding that that official would continue to handle details in connection of rentals of tax delinquent lands. He also stated that additional help would be required by the county auditor if handling of tax delinquent lands were to be transferred to his office.

Former County Attorney Paul Lundgren, called to the stand by Mr. Chommie, testified that when steps were taken to reduce his salary in 1932 he had expressed to the board his willingness to serve at a salary of $1,800 a year if relieved of the work of handling tax attachments.

Mr. Berve brought out that the salary of his office had remained at $1,800 a year from 1925 up to the beginning of this year, and he expressed the opinion that there are more criminal actions in the county now than was the case four years ago.

BRATTLAND RULES IN FAVOR OF CITY IN ENGINE ACTION

Holds Council Did Not Exceed Powers in Accepting Oen Bid

In the action brought in district court last fall by Harry Brumund seeking to restrain the city council from completing a contract with the Oen Mercantile company for the purchase of a motorized fire truck, Judge M. A. Brattland at Warren last week handed down a verdict in favor of the defendant city administration.

"As a conclusion of law from the facts hereinbefore found", Judge Brattland held, "the court finds that the defendants are entitled to judgment of the court denying the plaintiff's prayer for relief, and dismissing the complaint on the merits, and that defendants are entitled to recover their costs and disbursements."

In his finding of facts Judge Brattland stated that acceptance of the Oen bid did not create any debt or liability against the city in excess of the amount of revenue in possession of or accruing to the city actually levied and applicable to the payment of such debt.

Brotherhood Hears Talk on Townsend Pension Plan

Supt. Morris Bye presented an interesting discussion of the Townsend old age pension plan now being advocated in Congress at a meeting Monday evening of the Men's Brotherhood of Trinity Lutheran church. The plan proposes to pay a pension of $200 a month to every person above the age of sixty, with the provision that the entire amount must be spent during the current month, the theory being that putting so much money into circulation will solve the problems created by the depression.

LANDSTAD CHURCH TO BE CENTRAL THEME

Event to Mark Silver Anniversary of Red River Valley Winter Shows

The silver anniversary celebration of the Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows will open next Monday and continue thru Friday, February 8. All Red River Valley organizations are cooperating to make this the most notable series of meetings ever arranged during Valley week.

As a special feature of the celebration Thursday evening, thirteen counties have joined hands to present an historical pageant depicting the settlement and development of the Red River Valley. From the opening scene which will be an Indian War Dance by the White Earth Indians to the Crowning of the Queen of the Red River Valley, the pageant will be replete with beautiful scenes reviewing the Romance of the Northwest. The cast will be made up of hundreds of characters from the entire valley.

As a feature of the pageant a group of 20 Pennington county residents, under the supervision of Arnold E. Carlson, will depict the development of the early church in the Valley. It is planned to show a replica of the Landstad church in Sanders township, founded in 1882 and the oldest church in this section. The characters will present a pantomime in costume, and this will be accompanied by a naration by Mr. Carlson. Assisting him in making arrangements for the presentation are V. C. Noper, Mrs. Della Zeh, Mrs. B. C. Bernard, Mrs. H. O. Chommie, Rev. F. A. Cooke, E. M. Douglass, J. G. Messenger and Verna Becker Purcell.

Thirty constructive dairy cattle and general livestock breeders who have contributed to the livestock development of the Valley during this quarter of a century, will also be honored at a special banquet, at which time suitable plaques will be presented by the Red River Valley Dairymen's association and the Red River Valley Livestock Association.

O. M. Kizer, Northwest School animal husbandman, reports many early entries in the livestock department, while R. S. Dunham and T. M. McCall anticipate the largest display of farm crops and horticultural exhibits in years. The poultry and 4-H club departments are also preparing for capacity exhibits.

Problems of state and national significance will be discussed each day. Dean W. C. Coffey, formerly regional drouth relief administrator, will discuss "Some Lessons from the Drouth"; Dr. O. B. Jesness, "The Farmer and the Export Market"; Dr. R. W. Murchie, state director of rehabilitation, "The Rehabilitation Program in Minnesota"; Professor Henry Schmitz, "State and Federal Windbreak and Shelter Belt Planting Plans"; Dr. A. A. Dowell, "The Effect of Direct Marketing on Returns to Hog Producers."

Monday has been designated Livestock and Crops Judging contest day; Tuesday, Crops and Soils day; Wednesday, Livestock day, and Thursday, Windbreak and Sugar Beet day. Women's sections have been arranged each morning and afternoon beginning Tuesday and continuing through Friday, while an unusually heavy schedule has been announced for the 4-H club members.

Evening mass meetings will include Dr. George Mecklenburg, Minneapolis, who will give an illustrated lecture, "Around the World in 1934"; Tuesday, Edward L. Resolutions Adopted By Development Group

At a meeting of the North Central and Northwestern Minnesota Development Association held at Thief River Falls Wednesday, January 23, at which delegates from Little Falls, Brainard, Ada, Ulen, Twin Valley, Wadena, Detroit Lakes, Crookston, Thief River Falls, Bronson, Hallock, Karlstad and Mahnomen were present, the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas the trunk highway system of the State of Minnesota has been greatly extended, increasing the need of the highway department for funds if the additional highway system is to be adequately constructed and maintained, and whereas there will be available for new construction seven million dollars of federal funds during the next two years, provided this amount is matched by an equal expenditure by the state, and whereas it is evident that the revenues of the highway department will be insufficient to match said federal aid if the reduced auto license fee of the past two years is continued;

Now, therefore, be it resolved that this association go on record opposing any reduction in auto license fee for the coming two years.

Be it further resolved that this association go on record urging that no further additions be made to the present trunk highway system as designated by the 1933 legislature until such time as that system has been completed.

And whereas Trunk Highway No. 59 has been designated as a part of a national highway extending from the Canadian border in the State of Minnesota to the City of Port Arthur on the Gulf of Mexico, in the State of Texas, and whereas this highway will become an important north and south transcontinental highway;

Be it resolved that this association go on record urging the cooperation of the highway department of the State of Minnesota with highway departments and the Highway No. 59 associations of other states, organized in the interests of this highway, by maintaining this route through the state according to the best possible standards in order that the full benefits of the transcontinental highway may be derived by the many communities in Minnesota served by the route.

And whereas the route of Highway No. 59 from Detroit Lakes to Erskine is now hard-surfaced with the exception of a stretch of approximately fifteen miles north of Detroit Lakes;

Be it resolved that this association urge upon the officials of the highway department the desirability of hard-surfacing the highway from Detroit Lakes to Ogema as soon as possible and that in the meantime this stretch be maintained according to the best possible standards.

And whereas the route from Erskine to the Canadian border is in need of reconstruction over practically the entire distance, and whereas that portion of the highway is not now a part of the federal aid system and therefore is not now eligible for new construction with federal aid funds;

Personal Property Tax List is in This Issue

An interesting feature of the Times this week, which will be carefully scanned by tax-conscious citizens, is the annual publication of the personal property tax list for Pennington county, preparation of which was completed last week in the office of County Treasurer John Gullingsrud.

That the bulk of the payments will be made by a comparatively small number of local business institutions is indicated by the fact that 44 taxpayers in the city are assessed over $100 in taxes, of whom eight will pay in excess of $500.

The Oen Mercantile company heads the list of ten taxpayers paying the largest totals, with $1,900.70, followed by the Thief River Grocery company, $1,718.45; Union State bank, $1,630.30; Montgomery Ward & company, $914.63; Gamble-Robinson company, $905.04; Land O' Lakes Creameries, $875.54; C. Gustafson & Son, $747.35; J. C. Penney company, $741.98; Charles Lieberman, $486.62; and Hartz Stores, $478.50. Payments in the city are made this year on the basis of a mill rate of 111.2 mills.

In Goodridge, with a rate of 237.3 mills, largest payments will be made by the Farmers Elevator company, $175.52; Math Barzen company, $171.57; and Stephen Singer, $164.40. St. Hilaire has a rate of 110.6 mills, the principal taxpayers being the Red River Power company, $189.08, and Larson Brothers, $151.68.

Payment of the tax may be made without penalty up to Mar. 1. Under provisions of a bill enacted at the last session of the legislature, taxpayers whose total tax exceeds $10 may divide their payments into two equal installments due respectively before March 1 and July 1.

LEGISLATIVE MILL GRINDS SLOWLY AWAY

Bill Would Halt Further Extension of State Trunk Highway System

ASK FEDERAL GRANT WITHOUT CONDITIONS

Bill Being Prepared to Provide 30-Hour Week in Minnesota

A variety of matters, including principally the proposed state appropriation of $10,000,000 for relief, were up for consideration in the Minnesota legislature during the past week, but have not yet reached the stage where final action has been taken.

Adoption of a definite policy halting further extension of the state trunk highway system was recommended Wednesday by the house committee on public highways.

Chairman Warren Hastings was instructed to report the committee action to the house, in the hope such a policy will be adopted immediately and an expected flood of bills for extensions would be averted.

The committee recommended that essential correctional work of minor cost be favored, in order that important arterial routes be completed and other errors corrected.

Charges that the state is paying excessive rentals for its highway department offices will be investigated by members of two house committees. The highway committee today directed its chairman to name a subcommittee of five, to act with a similar subcommittee already named by the committee on public buildings.

The highways committee has a bill by Representative G. W. Champlin, directing cancelation of the lease on the present building and spending $100,000 to remodel the old state capitol building for use. The annual rental now paid is $90,000.

The house committee on highways also approved a resolution by H. B. Fast, asking the federal government to grant the proposed $7,000,000 of federal road aid without requiring that the funds be matched by the state, or at least to reduce the amount of state funds necessary for the purpose.

In the house a bill which would provide for a 30-hour work week in Minnesota was being prepared. The bill was said to have the approval of Governor Olson. It was to be introduced by W. C. Daly, St. Paul Park, a member of the liberal minority.

It will provide for a six-day, 30-hour week and be administered by the state industrial commission. It would not affect farmers, persons engaged in seasonable work of construction workers who work but 60 days a year.

The senate voted to send three of its members to the northwest school and farmers' week and Red River Valley Winter Shows at Crookston from February 4 to 8. The three will be Lieutenant Governor Peterson, Alfred Bolstad, Fisher and, Alfred Berglund, Albert Lea.

U. S. APPROVES PURCHASE OF LAND IN GAME RESERVE

Authorizes Buying 52,713 Acres for Mud Lake Project

The Mud Lake wild migratory waterfowl nestling reserve in Marshall county is to be made one of the largest and most important reserves of its kind in the United States, E. V. Willard, commissioner of conservation, said Saturday in announcing federal approval for the immediate purchase of 52,713 acres in the area.

The state department has about completed the necessary surveys, Mr. Willard said, and the federal purchases of lands are to be made as soon as practical. Most of the lands to be acquired are marginal lands unfit for agriculture and are to be set aside forever as a wild life refuge. The state department is to co-operate with the federal authorities in acquiring the land and completing the establishment of the reserve.

The Mud Lake area was formerly swamp and lake and in early days was a famous duck nesting place. Later the area was drained and the lake bed dried up.

Red River Valley History

By Wm V. Working

There are no links in northern Minnesota by which the Red Indians of the modern period may be connected with the so-called Mound Builders. In fact, we have no definite trace of this early race here. Mounds, of which the large one at Crookston, is an outstanding example, have revealed no traces of the ancient peoples, who are known to have dwelt on other parts of this continent in a prehistoric period and whose tumuli have disclosed much of interest to investigators.

It seems likely that the mounds here either were simply burial grounds where the dead were interred after a battle or were made by earlier Indians in emulation of the Mound Builders. Although we find traces of the existence of human beings here much farther back we so far are unable to fill the gap between that period and the rise of the modern Red Indians. Before leaving the prehistoric period, we wish to direct readers' attention to the finds near Rosewood in which copper spear points were reported found. The writer happens to know that there is conclusive evidence of the ignorance of the earliest Indians known to the first whites here concerning use of copper. At an early date even the Indians in the Lake Superior copper regions knew nothing of its use, and E. J. Pond of Shakopee, son of the missionary, Samuel W. Pond, who, with his brother, Gideon, built the first house in Minneapolis in 1834, once told the writer that he remembered when the Sioux of the Twin Cities area began to use copper points, some time in the 50's.

There was a long period of slow transition between the status and physical development of the earlier peoples and the Red Indians. Some authorities accept lack of traces of human beings here, say, a thousand years ago, indicates that the region was uninhabitable. The writer does not agree with these authorities, but is of the opinion that people either were in residence here or visited the region more or less regularly without any interludes after the decline of Lake Agassiz and subsequent developments brought about approximately the present topography.

So the term, "aborigines", covers a long period and we have no reason to consider these aborigines the direct ancestors of the Indians who were here when the first whites arrived. They may be considered descendants of the earlier peoples, however, in a general sense, as we have no evidence to show that the aborigines were not Red Indians or their direct progenitors. Migrations of numerous families or tribal groups of Indians obliterated in many instances traces of their earlier life, and in this region we have virtually nothing to recall existence here of tribes that moved southward and westward or northwestward long before the first white explorers arrived.

In probing for the origin of the Red Indians, or perhaps we should say their direct progenitors, we encounter a confusing array of theories. There is the school of thought, for instance, that holds the first human beings on the American continent came from Asia by way of Bering Strait. Another traces their advent from the day the so-called "Lost Atlantis" a continent believed to have once existed in the Atlantic ocean, first began to sink beneath the waves. A third school places these first humans in South America first and several explanations of their arrival there are offered, including shipwreck after being driven across the Atlantic or Pacific and gradual movement to the mainland by way of islands when land conformations were different in the southern hemisphere.

Whatever the solution may be, it is certain that about the time the first whites settled on the Atlantic seaboard of the United States there was a movement of the tribes westward. That movement continued with occasional interruptions until the whites spread over the country, and the Indians were segregated. There is no information available to show which were the first families of Indians in historic times to reside in this region. It is assumed that they came from the west, since there appears to have been little movement from the western part of the country eastward or from the warmer southern areas to the plains long snow-blanketed in winter. But the Indians themselves have but vague and fragmentary records and the first whites made little effort to obtain data on the direct ancestry of the redmen they found in Minnesota.

In this series we shall begin with the first Indians encountered here by the whites, and shall try to follow their subsequent migrations in later periods.

BANCO PRESIDENT IS ACQUITTED IN MOORHEAD ACTION

Jury Returns Verdict of Not Guilty on Charge of Larceny

J. Cameron Thomson, president of Northwest Bancorporation charged with second degree larceny and the first of 19 defendants to be placed on trial, was acquitted by a Clay county district court jury Thursday in Moorhead.

The jury informed the court at 11:05 a. m., that it had reached a verdict and 15 minutes later it was announced in open court after Judge James E. Montague, who presided, had been summoned.

The jury was out 24 hours and 50 minutes.

Thomson and 18 others were charged with second degree larceny and swindling as an outgrowth of investigations by the state commerce commission into the corporation's stock sales, but the state elected to try Thomson first on the larceny charge.

Because Thomson was head of the corporation and the customer-ownership stock selling campaign, it was claimed by the state he was the "brain child."

Selection of the jury started December 7. Seven farmers, two housewives, a creamery worker, a garage man and an unemployed high school principal comprised the jury.

Bound Over on Charge of Stealing Pocketbook

Arrested Sunday afternoon by local police on a grand larceny charge in connection with the theft from the rooms of John Wiener of a purse containing $31, Roy Evenson, age 21, was brought before Municipal Judge J. M. Bishop Monday and was bound over to the February term of district court. Police Chief A. H. Stenberg reported that the pocketbook had been burned but that $19 of the stolen money had been recovered.

Wednesday afternoon Evenson was brought before Judge M. A. Brattland who, on the recommendation of County Attorney H. O. Berve, gave the young man a suspended sentence in the St. Cloud reformatory and placed him on probation with instructions to make regular reports to Sheriff Arthur Rambeck as probation officer.

THE ARGUMENT GROWS WARM

C. B. Crandall, president of the Central Co-operative Association of South St. Paul, says some mean things about Dr. A. A. Dowell, superintendent of the Northwest School at Crookston, because a report on livestock marketing prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture under the direction of Dr. Dowell, was favorable to the direct marketing method of buying livestock. Mr. Crandall and the Central Association, along with other co-operative and farm organizations, oppose direct marketing because, they maintain, direct buying reduces competition among buyers on the terminal markets and therefore tends to reduce prices. Dr. Dowell's report, nine hundred pages long, the result of many months of investigation, concludes:

> As hogs bought direct cost packers somewhat more than hogs bought at public markets, and since it is found that the cost of marketing hogs direct is less than through public stockyards, it follows that on the whole producers realize more on hogs marketed direct.
> Direct marketing has not lowered returns to producers.
>
> It has not reduced competition for hogs.
>
> A rise or decline in hog prices is as likely to occur first at interior points as at public markets.
>
> Direct marketing has not increased marketing costs nor widened the margins between prices of hogs and prices of hog products.
>
> The general trend of hog slaughterers' margins in the last few years has been downward while the trend of direct marketing has been upward.
>
> Direct marketing has not deprived public markets of supplies of the various qualities of hogs sufficient for registering prices for the different grades.
>
> Public markets are no price-determining points but only price registering points and there is no one basic price-determination point.
>
> Direct marketing has tended to reduce rather than to increase the actual cost of moving hogs from farm to packers.
>
> But to the producer at home with hogs for sale, the latter competition (direct buying effort as opposed to consignment marketing at terminal markets) is more useful since he is in a stronger position opposite the buyer with his hogs still at home than he would be if they were at a public market and had to be sold.
>
> In order to keep tissue shrinkage at minimum, hogs should be moved from the farm to the slaughtering plant in the shortest possible time.

On which the Central Association, thru it's president, Mr. Crandall, makes the following bitter comment:

> Farmers of Minnesota have suffered many 'lickings' from the packing industry, but this is the first time the 'licking' has come from the Minnesota College of Agriculture through one of its educators in defiance of and in opposition to thousands of farmers in the state who have patiently striven for legislative protection from the vicious practices of direct buying.
>
> The report apparently is nothing more than a flat betrayal of the livestock producers by one who is presumed to be able to speak with authority on livestock marketing.
>
> I have been unable to discover facts which justify or support Dr. Dowell's findings in favor of direct buying. His statements that direct buying furnished livestock producers a more economic service than have public markets; that direct marketing does not operate to the disadvantage of producers; that direct buying favors the farmer in the sale of his hogs; that direct buying has not reduced competition for hogs; that there exists no fixed price differences between public markets and interior points, any of which is not a fact, and all are misleading, sound as if a representative of the packing industry were making the report. The findings of the whole investigation has given the packer free rein to continue his unsupervised methods of 'selling farmers' hogs to himself,' and exercising all the sales factors which affect the price of hogs.
> It is my opinion that the exhaustive and costly investigation conducted by Dr. Dowell could have been carried on far more economically had the investigation been conducted by the packing industry itself. It could have been more favorable to the packer had this been done. At least, it would have saved taxpayers of the country around $50,000.

On so involved a question, and one on which authorities themselves cannot agree, we will not attempt to pass judgment on the merits of the argument. But we do feel justified in suggesting to Mr. Crandall that he does not strengthen his case in this section of the state by questioning the character or the integrity of Dr. Dowell.

Men in Mr. Crandall's position should not stoop to the practice so common among small bore politicians of attempting to win their arguments by discrediting their opponents with nasty insinuations. No question was ever fairly settled by the "You're a liar" method of argument.

It is our opinion that Dr. Dowell is working just as sincerely for the best interests of agriculture as Mr. Crandall or any of his associates. That there should be a difference of opinion among able, honest and well intentioned men as to the best means of reaching a specific end is not strange. Such differences arise in the consideration of even simple problems. And it is possible that Mr. Crandall is better informed on this particular problem than Dr. Dowell. But if that is true he at least does not indicate it when he attempts to prove himself right by a blustering personal attack on his opponent.

ADJUST RURAL CREDIT MORTGAGES
(Waseca Herald)

Senator Rockne of Zumbrota is proving himself a real friend of some 8,500 farmers who are burdened with heavy Rural Credit mortgages. These mortgages were issued during the time of inflated values and in many cases the land today is not worth the face of the mortgage. Senator Rockne proposes that the State make a reduction in the face value of these mortgages, the same as Banks, Insurance Companies, and other loaning agencies have done. This plan would enable many farmers to eventually pay for their homes and keep the property on the tax lists. The plan should meet with the approval of our legislators and be put into practice as soon as possible.

ADOPT RESOLUTIONS AT MEETING OF N. W. DEVELOPMENT GROUP

Be it further resolved that this portion of the highway be immediately designated as a part of the federal aid system.

And whereas Highway No. 61 — Lakes to the Canadian border will provide the most direct route, and will materially shorten the distance between the Twin Cities and Winnipeg, and will also provide a more direct route to the Twin Cities from a vast territory in Northwestern Minnesota north of Thief River Falls;

Be it further resolved that this association urge upon officials of the highway department that in the planning of this portion of the highway, consideration be given to the inevitable future importance of this route, and that it therefore be made as direct as possible and that all construction be of such a nature as to adequately meet the traffic needs of this important route when completed.

And whereas, from the standpoint of North Central and Northwestern Minnesota, Highway No. 10 is the principal east and west highway and the natural outlet to the Twin Cities from all of Northwestern Minnesota.

Be it further resolved that Highway No. 10 from Little Falls to Detroit Lakes be hard-surfaced as soon as possible and that in the meantime it be maintained according to the best possible standards.

And whereas, this highway serves a large territory in which tourist traffic is especially important;

Be it further resolved that the Association urge upon highway department officials the desirability of so arranging its schedule of new construction so that this highway will be kept open for traffic during the tourist season.

And whereas much south bound traffic from Winnipeg is diverted into the State of North Dakota at the Canadian border to the loss of business and gas tax revenue to the State of Minnesota;

Be it further resolved that this association urge upon highway department officials the desirability of immediately hard-surfacing into the State of Minnesota south from Noyes.

Be it further resolved that copies of these resolutions be sent to members of the state senate and house of representatives from North Central and Northwestern Minnesota and to highway department officials.

Another resolution urged that the legislature appropriate funds necessary to carry out the program of the Minnesota Tourist Bureau, which it asserted is doing a worthwhile work.

Grand Rapids—Sheep are usually considered among the least intelligent of domestic animals, but a ewe of the Morris O'Brien flock at Cohasset displayed almost human thinking recently. Awakened one night by a noise on the porch, O'Brien went down to find a bleeding sheep on its hind feet, tapping at the window with its fore feet. Sensing that something was wrong, he dressed and hurried over to the barn, a block away, where he found dogs had fatally wounded 10 of his flock of sheep. Several others were badly torn, but are being cared for. Had not the ewe aroused O'Brien, it is thought that the entire flock would have been killed before morning. Bloodstains on the window indicated clearly that the sheep had been tapping the pane with its front feet, just as a human would have done under the same circumstances.

Northern Chevrolet Co. Announces Winners of Stock Guessing Contest

The Northern Chevrolet company announced this week that Margaret Patton was awarded the car radio offered in connection with the presentation of the 1935 Chevrolet to the person making the closest guess as to the value of Chevrolet parts carried in stock by the local dealers. The correct figure was $6,580.62, while Miss Pattan's guess was $6,585, and A. W. Oski of Mavie, winner of a sportlight as second prize, made a guess of $6,582.

Neglect to File Game Reports Bars License

Thursday, January 31, marks the final day for the filing of game reports, Minnesota hunters were warned by Erling Swenson, Director of the Division of Game and Fish. Neglect to file report of game taken on both small and big game hunting licenses bars issuance hunting licenses for the year 1935, Mr. Swenson said. "We have received thousands of reports of game taken and work is progressing rapidly in compiling results," the director stated. "There are many hunters who have to date failed to file their returns. We urge that this information be forwarded to the division so that as complete a record as possible may be obtained relative to the amount of game taken in the state last fall during the open hunting seasons."

CITY OFFICIALS TO CONVENE FEB. 7TH AT WINTER SHOWS

Officers of State League to Address Regional Conference

High lights of the program for the regional conference of the League of Minnesota Municipalities, which will be held at Crookston, on Thursday, February 7, have been announced by Mayor W. J. Kirkwood of Crookston.

The morning session will begin at 9:30 a. m. in the city hall. It will be entirely informal. Municipal officials will have the opportunity to discuss any subjects of interest. Among the things which will probably be discussed are: (1) public works, (2) local, state and federal relief, (3) local and county option, and (4) the problem of state control over local finance.

The meeting will recess shortly after twelve o'clock for a noon luncheon with the Rotary Club of Crookston. A well known speaker is being secured by the Rotary Club for this luncheon. The meeting will be resumed at two o'clock in the afternoon and will be given over to a discussion of the legislative problems of interest to municipalities. A review of the activities of the state legislature will be given by Ambrose Fuller, Director Attorney of the League of Minnesota Municipalities.

The meeting will be adjourned shortly after 4:30 so that municipal officials will have an opportunity to visit the various interesting features of the Red River Valley Winter Shows which will be in progress at that time. During the evening all delegates will have an opportunity to attend the Red River Valley Pageant which is being put on by thirteen counties.

Creamery Boards and Dairymen Invited to Crookston Wednesday

In connection with the Red River Valley Winter shows in Crookston next week, several groups connected with the dairy industry will meet Wednesday. Arthur Maltrod, secretary of the Minnesota Creamery Operators and Managers association of District No. 4, extended an invitation to all Valley creamery operators to bring their directors for a joint meeting at 2:30 in the afternoon, at which time the proposed state cream grading law and the federal butter and cream program for 1935 will be discussed. At the livestock breeders banquet at 6 o'clock, plaques will be presented to leading dairymen and livestock breeders, it was announced by C. M. Pesek, secretary of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association.

The Leaning Tower

St. Moritz, Switzerland, boasts a leaning tower of medieval vintage, but every loyal Italian knows that Pisa thought of the idea first. When the town wayfarer stops at this corner to rest, it's always a question in St. Moritz whether he is leaning against the tower or the tower is leaning against him.

OPTICAL DEPARTMENT

In the State Senate

By Sen. E. L. Tungseth

St. Paul, Minnesota, January 25th, 1935.

Of major importance this week is the Senate Resolution, which called for a Senate investigation into the several state departments. The resolution as first introduced by Senator Carley of Plainview, included only such departments as were in control by the Governor. This resolution was, of course, not favored by the Olson supporters and neither was it satisfactory to the major portion of the so-called Conservatives. By amendment the resolution was made to include all departments of the state. Investigations are slated to begin early this week.

A resolution memorializing Congress to pass an adequate old age pension law was passed without opposition. No specific requirements were requested, as Congress must be expected to work out the details itself. No reference was made to the Townsend bill, which has been given much publicity lately.

A delegation visited the Capitol from the drouth stricken counties of central and western Minnesota. The situation there is very acute. Federal relief, according to information given us, is not adequate. These counties ask for a special relief appropriation of $750,000. When this request came thru, Governor Olson strengthened his plea for an adequate relief program in the state, which would be sufficient and elastic enough to provide for any such emergency, which occasionally may occur. He mentioned a $10,000,000 per year relief program in order to match and cooperate with the Federal program. "The longer such a resolution is put off the more uncertain relations with the federal government will be", the Governor said. Mr. Howard Hunter, Regional Relief Director, informed us that $10,000,000 per year would be Minnesota's share. "Plans for Minnesota after February 1st, will be conditioned upon the state paying its share", he said. In this connection, it may be well to mention that Congress has a bill appropriating $60,000,000 for seed relief to Minnesota farmers. This bill first called for $40,000,000, but an amendment was offered by Former Governor Christianson to increase this appropriation to $60,000,000. It has as yet not passed.

The Ninth Congressional District delegation has had two informal meetings. Representative Molby is our chairman, and we expect to meet whenever there are vital matters pertaining to our part of the state that need concerted attention. There are eight Senators from this Ninth Congressional district, four conservatives (Independents) and four Farmer-Laborites. There are seventeen representatives, eleven of which are conservatives and six farmer-laborites. At the second meeting of this group, Mr. Arens, conservator of the Rural Credit department, was present and we discussed with him problems relative to the Rural Credit department. I shall say more about this subject later.

This week, I, together with Senators Solstad and Rice, introduced (S. F. 210), a bill for an Act providing aid to certain school districts and appropriating money therefor. This bill will reimburse school districts such school taxes as they would have received if the state owned farms were private property. It is identical with former acts of this kind in the past, and will be in force for the years 1935-1936.

E. L. TUNGSETH.

Partial Eclipse of Sun to be Visible Sunday

A partial eclipse of the sun will be visible in the northwest next Sunday morning, if the weather is favorable, Professor William J. Luyten of the astronomy department of the University of Minnesota revealed today. The moon will begin to move across the face of the sun between 9:05 and 9:10 a. m. and will nearly blot it out before it moves slowly away and disappears at 11:15 a. m., Professor Luyten said. At the point of the greatest completeness of the eclipse, the moon will obscure about 74 per cent of the sun's face.

ROSEAU HOCKEY TEAM WILL PLAY INTERMEDIATES

To Compete Here Wednesday; Local Schedule Goes Forward

Wednesday evening, Feb. 6th, a representative team from the intermediate hockey league will oppose the strong Roseau intermediate team here. This battle of youngsters will be one of the high spots of the hockey season. A return game will be played at Roseau at a later date.

With the favorable hockey weather of the past week the intermediate teams have turned in four of the best performances of their league schedule so far this year. The reorganization of the league into three instead of four teams has resulted in three well balanced and speedy outfits.

In the games of the new schedule to date the Rangers lead with two won and one lost; Cubs second with one game won and one lost; Pirates third with one game won and two lost.

Worthington.—A .22 rifle bullet exploding in a stove grazed the temple of the 4½ months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McCoy Sunday at their home at 29 Tenth street. Mrs. McCoy was seated near the range in the kitchen, holding the child. She had just moved slightly—a move that saved the boy's life as the bullet would have struck him squarely in the forehead in his former position. Immediately after the explosion the child started crying and it was seen that there was a scratch on his temple.

PLANS FOR 1935

January is more or less the month in which we must straighten out and close up affairs for the past year.

This gives us only eleven months left for 1935, and during February we must lay our fundamental plans for our 1935 program of operations, which leaves us only ten months for actual work.

Well let's make use of every month, of 1935 and we shall share in it's returns.

What we started out to tell is something about our own program for 1935, which began in 1934. We bought merchandise for this year. We bought at a saving by buying early. We checked our past records for guidance as to quantity we could buy. We bought in quantity lots and again a saving.

There are many things experience has taught us, and we believe that we can share some of these benefits to the interests and profit of our customers.

We want to help in your 1935 farm program and problems. It is time now to make definite plans, and whatever new equipment you may require for 1935, we know positively that we can give you substantial savings now that we cannot give later. Our own savings were made by placing orders early and in the same way we can give our trade the same saving.

We have sold several new machines, including tractors, during this winter and these customers on early orders are going to save time and money.

You may never have heard of a SHORTAGE OF FARM MACHINERY, but you are very apt to hear plenty of that in 1935. It will be just as strange as $100.00 cows, but you will hear that also in 1935.

There is not the slightest doubt in the writers mind, but we shall also find shortage of new automobiles in 1935, which will be the results of even present threatening labor troubles.

The benefits you will get at the end of 1935 depends much on the plans and foundation you build now. We want to help you and know we can be of profitable service to you if you will give us a chance to figure with you.

What about a BIG SPRING PARTY AGAIN? That annual event we have at our place? We want it if you do. Lots of fun for us. Big crowd of old friends to get together at one time. Well we are making plans and going to try and make it more interesting than ever before.

LEGISLATIVE LETTER

By R. W. Hitchcock

The Legislature of 1935, Minnesota's forty-ninth, completed its organization in two weeks, rather sooner than the average. In fact, the Senate, showing real speed, started the actual business of law-making during the second week of the session.

Committee work began in earnest in both Houses last week, the third week of the session. There is no real progress in the actual making of laws until the committees began to meet.

When committees meet, bills, which are nothing but formal proposals for laws, get their first scrutiny. The mortality of bills is very high. Out of some 3,500 bills introduced at the session of 1933, only slightly more than 400 became laws. Many, very many bills are killed in committee; of those that survive the committee, a considerable number are done to death in combat on the floor of one chamber or the other, and a still larger number perish from neglect or starvation. Not much more than 10 per cent actually get to be laws.

But until the committees actually begin the sifting and winnowing of the bills that pour into the legislative hopper, there is little work for formal sessions of the Senate and House, which meet each day and shortly adjourn for the want of material to work on. Next week the public sessions of House and Senate will begin to lengthen. The bills will be coming out of committee then.

They're Good at Complaining.

The present minority of the House has complained considerably of its committee assignments; for two reasons—they are better beefers, more practiced in the art of opposition, having been a majority but once, the session of 1933, and having yelled from the minority benches for years; also, they are radicals and they like to yell.

What they complain of this year is really just a good dose of their own medicine. The present Farmer-Labor minority in the House, in former years was accorded generous treatment, chairmanships, choice committee places, etc., but when it won through to power in 1933 it promptly hogged everything in sight. Not a single chairmanship did it vouchsafe the opposition; it packed the committees with its own men; it rode rough shod for its own advantage over established customs and rights of the House. "What I do," said Charlie Munn, Speaker of the House in 1933, "I do for the good of the crowd I'm with; I'm playing politics all the time."

It's their own policy; it seemed good to them in 1933 but they make wry faces at it in 1935.

It is not to be denied that the Independent Progressives more or less packed their committees. But the Farmer-Labor folk set them an example in 1933 when they cleverly contrived a Temperance Committee composed of 14 Wets and 1 Dry.

A queer Idea of News

News as it is published in the Minnesota (Farmer-Labor) Leader was strikingly illustrated in the columns of that publication recently. Twice within the month the Leader has joyfully informed its readers, presumably Farmer-Labor folk for the most part, that Lyons was making substantial gains in his recount-contest with State Auditor King. The "news" was expanded with big, bold headlines on the first page. Both times, and at all other times throughout the recount, the record showed that Lyons was slowly losing, King slowly gaining.

Votes and virtue should be assumed even if you have them not, is evidently the motif back of the peculiar "news" published by the Leader.

Lyons "gained" so many votes that the King plurality of 648 at the beginning of the recount has increased to 1165, with only the City of Duluth votes still to count.

Banco Bunk Scores Another Goose Egg

The complete wash-out of the Banco Corporation in Clay county leaves the state speculating as to what the Banco bunk was begun for.

Some members of the Legislature in 1933, with considerable intestinal fortitude, voted against the $20,000 appropriation to enable the Securities Commission to probe the Bancorporation of Minneapolis. They thought that the whole thing was nothing but an effort to smear a big corporation for the purpose of exciting popular prejudice that might yield votes to the Farmer-Labor candidates for state office in 1934. There is some evidence that they thought correctly. Those who so voted have been denounced as reactionaries and a tremendous hue and cry was raised against the Bancorporation during the campaign last summer and fall.

The net results of the expenditure of more than $20,000 by the state, an expenditure of more than $10,000 forced on Clay county, heavy costs assessed against Hennepin county, and all the political uproar contrived by the Farmer-Labor leaders has been these:

1. Complete failure to obtain any indictments in Hennepin after the most elaborate and prolonged investigation, backed by all the power of the state and ample funds.

2. A stunning failure of the case brought in Clay county. Here [illegible] concentrated all its forces in an attack lasting for weeks; the [illegible] could not introduce a single witness; the jury promptly returned a unanimous verdict of not guilty.

From beginning to end this thing has all the earmarks of a political plot to obtain votes. The taxpayers of the state have been cruelly and unscrupulously gouged to satisfy personal political ambitions. With all the power of the state, backed by ample funds, the plotters have been able to show nothing but their own poison gas attack.

Tax Problem to the Fore

The first joint committee meeting of the session was held last week for a preliminary consideration of the most serious and most puzzling problem of the session—tax relief.

The gathering was impressive. It filled the Senate chamber. Senator George Sullivan of Washington and Representative Dick Hart of Carlton, chairmen of Taxes in Senate and House respectively, presided. The combined committee numbered 64, one-third nearly of the total membership of the Legislature. Spectators were struck with the evident ability of the committee members and their earnestness.

This initial hearing was devoted principally to factual information concerning the gross earnings or dollar turnover tax and the sales tax. H. L. Henderson, executive director of the Minnesota Institute of Governmental Research gave detailed figures and estimates as to the productivity of the gross earnings tax. His estimate of not more than $12,500,000 revenue from a gross earnings tax of one-half of one per cent contrasted strongly with estimates of $60,000,000 made by proponents of the tax. States which have tried the gross earnings tax, Indiana, South Dakota, West Virginia, have all been disappointed in the amount of the return.

FORTY-YEAR OLD CLOCK, ALL OF WOOD, STILL RUNS

Cokato—A forty-year old clock, the parts of which are made almost entirely of wood, is keeping accurate time for Lewis Skifstrom, Cokato's retired blacksmith and expert machinist. The Skifstroms were presented the clock as a wedding gift February 22, 1895, by Lewis Hedman, now a resident of St. Paul but a former neighbor of the Skifstroms. The clock has a metal pendulum governor and a few metal pins, but otherwise is made of wood in every respect, including the usual various wheels.

BROWN SWISS CALF IS 169 POUNDS AT BIRTH

Waconia—Six and a half feet in length and weighing 169 pounds, a calf, the offspring of a five year old Brown Swiss cow, was born recently at the Fred Winkel farm in Laketown. The abnormal size and weight of the animal eclipses all records known in this section of the state. The calf was dead at delivery, but the dam has responded to careful attention and appears to be in good condition. The calf was of fine proportions, and physically almost a giant. Dr. Spannaus, Waconia veterinarian, stated that the next heaviest calf which had ever come to his attention had weighed 156 pounds.

Weather Moderates Locally During Week

Last week's extreme cold spell moderated Sunday when the mercury dropped to a minimum of 24 below, temperatures on the succeeding days remaining above the zero mark except Tuesday when a low point of 7 below zero was recorded by H. F. Umland. The lowest reading this morning was 20 above. Several damp, foggy days this week created beautiful frost effects on trees in this locality, the twigs bearing more than an inch of the white particles.

"THE HOME OF BETTER SERVICE"

A Statement of the Thief River Falls Co-operative Creamery Association, Covering the Last Ten Years

In 1924, we built our fine new creamery building. It was carried along in our yearly list of assets, at its cost, with a small percentage charged off each year for depreciation in value.

But it was kept in good repair, improvements made, and it is today as good as new, and just as valuable. With its use and the help of our good farmers, we paid for it, until today only $7,800.00 of our building bonds remain outstanding.

And we made a profit every year.

In 1928, our yearly published statement showed that we had three valuable properties, to-wit:

New Creamery plant valued at	$ 50,467.01
Old Creamery plant valued at	10,059.85
2 residences valued at	4,257.51
Machinery and equipment valued at	14,058.85
Total	$ 78,843.22
Less depreciation	21,628.70
Leaving net fixed assets owned by us	$ 51,214.52

But from that time on, something began to happen to our property. The Land O' Lakes began to get it, piece by piece.

In 1929, our creamery board, without a vote of the stockholders sold to the Land O' Lakes for $550.00, our old creamery plant, (valued the year before at $10,059.85), and in their annual report said that by this sale we made a PROFIT of $19.41! ! !

In the deed, they reserved to us the old creamery well, from which we had always got our water free; but the Land O' Lakes promptly built a garage over it, and since then we have been buying our water from the Land O'Lakes at a cost each year, of almost as much as they paid us for the whole property, a total of many times that price.

The Annual Statement of our creamery for 1931, issued by our board, shows our net worth to be $51,009.91 after taking out a stated depreciation of $21,600.94, and that net worth includes our creamery plant valued at $50,467.01, and the two residences valued at $4,257.51.

But from that time on, our books were audited each year and our statement prepared by "Co-operative Auditing Service, Land O' Lakes Creameries", and the values of our properties began to strangely fall.

It was a convenient drop for the Land O'Lakes, because when they want more of our property they seem to be able to get it for next to nothing.

In the 1932 Report, the net value of our creamery building drops to $39,268.73, and of our two residence properties to $2,200.60.

Quite a drop in one year, when the Land O'Lakes begins to covet it. All you need do is to convince these farmers their property is worthless and you are doing them a favor to take it off their hands.

Well, what happens? Why the Land O'Lakes wants these two residences we own, to build an oil station on, and make more money. So, in 1933, our good-hearted creamery board, sells the Land O'Lakes our two residence properties, for $2,500.00; (valued in 1931, two years before, at $4,257.51). Good work, creamery board! At this rate you are sure to save our farmers money, because they soon won't have any property left to spend money on.

It is true that for this sale a special stockholders meeting was held with only a few present, and a hands-up vote taken in a hurry. Who knows whether some voted two hands instead of one.

The 1926 report shows that this property cost the creamery association $6,622.02, yet the 1933 annual report states that its sale for $2,500.00 made a profit on the sale, of $166.70. What masters of figures these accountants are. They can take your money away from you, and prove beyond a doubt that you are better off without it.

But the best stroke of all remains to be told. We've lost our old creamery property and our well. We've lost our two valuable residences with their lots in the midst of a growing city. But we still have our shirts, and our new, fine 2-story and basement creamery building, into the making of which has gone every quart of milk you squeezed from your cows, every day and night of hard work and unending effort you have put in for ten years.

You are facing a prosperous future, with the price of butter-fat gone up, and the ending of the depression in sight.

But the Land O'Lakes, not satisfied with all that they already have procured from you, wants your last good building.

What happens?

In the 1933 report of your board prepared by the "Co-operative Auditing Service, Land O'Lakes Creameries", your values go down with a thud. You are told that the net value of your new creamery building has fallen to $29,565.53, although but one year before the same parties reported the net value at $39,268.73; and two years before, in 1931, the value was reported at $50,467.01.

And the land on which it stands drops from $1,200.00 in 1932, to $900 in 1933.

How do you account for this loss in value of nearly ten thousand dollars in a single year?

Is it because somebody is planning to get your property for nothing and trying to convince you that they are doing you a favor by taking it off your hands?

Well, the Land O'Lakes seem so sure they are going to get it away from you cheap, that one of their officials appeared before the City Council at the Equalization meeting demanding reduction of the assessed valuation of OUR creamery building because they could buy it for less, and this incident occurred BEFORE the first stockholders meeting held in July, 1934, at which you were given a chance to vote on the proposed sale to them.

What foresight they possess. They know before you do, just what is going to happen to you. They plan while you sleep, and apparently somebody has put your creamery board to sleep. Every figure given above has been taken from the annual reports of your board. There are none so blind as those who will not see. If YOU have any doubts, look up your creamery reports yourself.

Late in June, 1934, a notice calling a special stockholders meeting to be held at the City Auditorium, July 6th, at 1 P. M. was received by some stockholders, the purpose of the meeting being omitted from the notice for some reason. Out of possible curiosity, 70 of the 153 stockholders were present at the meeting. What was it all about? It began to dawn on some of us it was something extraordinary, for there was President Brandt himself, the Vice president, the Auditor, the Fieldman, and lesser fry of the local Land O'Lakes plant. They fed us fine speeches, spoke of other smaller creameries connected with the Land O'Lakes that were paying from 1c to 1½c per lb. more, and if we got into a small one story building, we should obtain the same results; but they did forget to tell us what creameries independent of the Land O'Lakes are doing, like the Sebeka, Fergus Falls, and Pelican Rapids creameries, that are paying from 3c to 6c more than any Land O'Lakes creameries in the state.

Mr. Brandt gave a more general talk, outlining first, Proposal No. 1. The Land O'Lakes, Inc. would pay us $20,000 for our present building and site, we to assume our present liability, that is, we to pay the debt on the building we sold them, so that according to the 1933 report, taking out our investment in the Land O'Lakes of $3,000.03 we would owe $1,709.97, and receive net for our building and ground, $15,290.03. That for our $40,000.00 property.

And with all our $20,867.13 worth of machinery and equipment inside. Well, well, if they could get our property from us as easy and cheap as that by spending a few fine words, what fools bank robbers are.

Although very bad, this proposal was the best of the two offered. It was at least definite, and we would know that though we were going to lose our shirts, we'd still have our pants left. After paying our debts and estimated cost of moving and installing our machinery, we might have $9,000.00 left to build a creamery.

Proposal No. 2—The horse-trade. Shut your eyes and each hand the other anything you please. The biggest crook wins. We had the worst of this because they knew what building we had, but we don't know yet what they planned to give us.

We were to give them our property debt-free, and in return, in vague terms, they proposed to buy us three lots, drill a well, and build us a one-story, no basement, 44 by 84 feet, with a mortgage on it of $1,100.00.

Some other statements were made, but it is doubtful if they were even to put on a roof, other than the mortgage; and we could move in and look as if we liked it.

Several members of our board awoke to the situation and spoke their little pieces in favor of Proposal No. 2, and it was adopted, and a second stockholders meeting was called and held in August, to assure the Land O'Lakes their ears did not deceive them, and that they were going to get our magnificent and expensive property for a song.

Mr. Brandt was so enthusiastic, he told us how well qualified the Land O'Lakes was, with their great efficiency, credit, and purchasing power, to give us a wonderful building, with all the trimmings.

Now, 1934 has past. A few of the faithful of us, who at least have our eyes open, and refuse to be hypnotized, or have a deal of this kind shoved down our throats like bad medicine, without making a kick, have caused the horse-trade to be held up by court proceedings, and for this, and because we are trying to save the property of our creamery association, we have been abused and threatened and publicly blamed.

We do not believe that our creamery that has been built up by the sweat and the blood of our stockholders, by the hard work and never ceasing efforts of our patrons, should be hung to the tail of the Land O'Lakes cow, and switched around, gradually losing every piece of our property, and every dollar of our earnings, until with one final crack of the whip-like tail, we'll be deposited in the weeds by the roadside, stripped of our property, our money, and the business of our creamery.

Dated January 28, 1935.

PLUMMER M. W. A. DEFEATS GONVICK

The local M. W. A. basketball team displayed its best form of the year in defeating Gonvick on the local floor here Tuesday nite 57-31. The boys started fast to take a lead of 15-8 at the end of the first quarter. Gonvick spurted to the score at 19 all during the second period but Plummer came back with a rush to lead at the half 31-21. After the start of the second half the locals pulled ahead steadily to cinch the game. McCrady and Karlstad led the scoring for Plummer, accounting for 45 points between them. Johnson played his usual strong game at center for Gonvick and led his team in scoring with 10 points.

A community entertainment and dace for the benefit of the local hall fund scheduled for Friday, February first, has been postponed until the latter part of the month.

Mrs. W. G. McCrady entertained at two tables of bridge Wednesday nite. The guests were Miss Koed, Miss Fairchild, Miss Scherfenberg, Mrs. Lauer, Mr. Ohnstad, of the high school faculty and Mr. and Mrs. Rosaberg. Miss Koed won high prize for the ladies and Mr. Lauer for the men.

PLUMMER BOWS TO CROOKSTON 31-17

In a loosely played contest, the Plummer High School bowed before the Crookston Pirates on the Crookston floor, Tuesday night, 31-17. While the game was not especially well played, both teams showed signs of power that may be developed before the season is over. Crookston took the lead early in the contest and were never headed. Plummer threatened late in the second quarter but Crookston pulled ahead 16-12 at the half. Hanson, Langlie and Arnie Karlstad played the best for the locals. Alvin Johnson played his usual steady game at forward until he was forced out with a sprained ankle at the end of the first quarter. The locals were further handicapped by the fact that Schoenauer is still on the side lines.

The local junior high team took one on the chin from the Crookston Junior High team in a preliminary game 22-9. It was the first game for the Junior high team and they made a creditable showing.

Leland LaVoy passed his physical examination during the last week and will be in the line-up against Thief River Falls Tuesday night. He will add confidence to the team besides bolstering up the guard position. He has not reached his best shape as yet but by tournament time, he should be the outstanding guard in the district. Johnson has recovered sufficiently so that he will be in the line-up against Thief River Falls.

Messers Leo. J Lauer, Peter-Rolf Ohnstad, and Peter Gerardy motored to Red Lake Falls and Thief River Falls on Saturday.

Miss Marie Pinnonault of Red Lake Falls was a guest at the Jorgenson home Saturday and Sunday.—Paul Schonauer, A. M. Ripple and Leland LaVoy motored to Crookston Thursday.

Mrs. G. A. Kruger and daughter Althea left Sunday for Minneapolis, where they visited over Monday awaiting, K. A. Kruger who left Monday evening to join them. "Light" and "Dark" of Moon

Most people consider it the "light of the moon" when it is going from "new" to "full" and "dark of the moon" when it is on the wane. The weather bureau refers to a "light moon" when it remains above the horizon during the forepart of the night and a "dark moon" all of the time when it is not a "light moon."

U. S. Civil Service Commission Warns of Faulty Information

The United States Civil Service Commission says that numerous letters received at its office from different parts of the country indicate that misleading information is being given to the public by agents of some of the correspondence schools which give instruction in preparation for civil-service examinations.

To guard against the loss of money paid for tuition of this kind the Civil Service Commission informs the public as follows:

No one can promise appointments to positions for which the United States Civil Service Commission holds examinations. The claim that such assurance can be given brands the person making it as a fraud.

Information regarding examinations for the United States Civil Service may be obtained from the boards of United States Civil Service Examiners. There is such a board in each community which has a post office of the first or the second class. In nearly all cities the civil service board is located at the post office.

Before paying money for tuition, or signing a contract, it is advisable to make inquiry concerning the prospect of examinations. There is reason to believe that agents of some schools deceive the public as to the probability of early examinations.

SUIT BOUGHT 60 YEARS AGO STILL IN SERVICE

Litchfield—A suit of clothes purchased 60 years ago in Sweden, but still well preserved and showing little or no wear, was hauled out of the trunk the other day by Andrew W. Nelson, at Litchfield. Nelson bought the suit in 1875 as a boy of 15. He worked as a hired man for a year for 50 Swedish crowns, about $13 in U. S. money, in addition to a few work clothes. There were no NRA hours then, and he got up at 4 o'clock in the morning and kept on the job until around 10 at night. When the time of his service was over, he got his money and went to a nearby town to buy the cloth for his suit, which cost 49½ crowns. The balance of his year's wages, one-half crown, he spent for a hair cut. His parents hired the tailor who made the cloth into a suit. The material is a heavy black goods similar to what used to be called doeskin in this country years ago.

When he next looked out the window, the front end of his truck was ablaze. He was able to extinguish the blaze but not until the damage had been done. The Luverne Fire Department responded to the call for aid, its first call of the year.

GREEN WAVES DEFEATED 46-19 IN FAST GAME

East Grand Forks Loses Hard-Fought Contest to Gold and Blue

Last Friday evening the mighty Prowlers demonstrated their superiority in basket ball over another District 31 team by turning in a decisive 46-19 victory over East Grand Forks. The Prowlers took the lead early in the game and were never threatened with defeat. The "Little Green Wave" gave the Prowlers the most competition of any team on our floor so far this season, but they were unable to cope with the height and ability of the local quint.

Nicholson kept up his goal record by scoring the first basket for the Prowlers. Kielty followed suit and East Grand called time out. Nicholson and Kielty did all the scoring in the first quarter for the Prowlers, while Peterson and Kimblin each deposited a free throw for East Grand's two points. The quarter ended with the Prowlers safely leading 14-2.

The second quarter was more even, each team scoring eight points. Rockwood replaced Sundeen in the Grand Forks' line-up, and, after Peterson had tipped in a field goal, East Grand Forks called time out. Mickelson and Kielty each scored a field goal, and George Raymond sunk a long one-hand shot. Kielty accounted for two field goals, and the Raymond brothers each made a gift shot. Rockwood ended the scoring for the first half with a long one-hand shot to leave the score 22-10.

Peterson made a free throw at the beginning of the second half, but Kielty counterbalanced this by also converting from the foul line. Peterson and Gerald Raymond each made a field goal, and Mickelson, by outwitting the East siders, scored two baskets. Kimblin and Kielty each dropped in a free throw, after which Nicholson and Kielty scored a basket apiece. A field goal and a gift shot by Peterson and a pair of field goals by Mickelson and Kielty ended the quarter with the score 36-19.

The Prowlers tightened their defenses in the final period to hold the "Little Green Wave" scoreless and at the same time add ten points to their total. Nicholson bagged a pair of field goals, and after Mickelson had accounted for a basket, duplicated his act. Nicholson continued to miss his donated shots and the game ended 46-19.

With the East Grand Forks team successfully met and defeated, the Prowlers have left only Crookston to contest with before final judgment can be passed on the outcome of the District Tournament. This battle royal in pre-tournament encounters will be held here on February . Don't miss it!

OUTWITTED

Healy wondered how many others knew of the new shipment of diamonds he had received today. He knew he would not breathe easily until they were at rest in his vault.

As he rode home in his car a vague uneasiness came over him. For some reason his heart thumped wildly. Becoming more and more nervous he told the chauffeur to speed up. When he at last reached home he glanced out the window, then entered.

In the parlor he stood in the middle of the floor. Glancing around he spied the goldfish and decided to feed them. The hungry little fish readily devoured what they were given.

Healy walked into the kitchen, made a thorough search of the cupboards, and reentered the parlor. As he stood there his hands seemed unsteady. Suddenly his hands groped into his pockets and he pulled out a slender revolver and said, "You can come out from behind that screen now, sir. Your little game is up."

A tall man wearing a dark hat, coat, gloves and shoes emerged from behind a screen in front of the window. A sarcastic, revengeful look covered his face.

Still pointing his gun at him, Healy said, "Now if you will call police headquarters, I will be relieved of your company."

A few minutes later found them both at police headquarters.

"It was like this," explained Healy. "As I glanced in the window I looked at the screen and saw a pair of shoes protruding from under the screen. So, walking in, I fed my diamonds to the goldfish."

Annual Jr.-Sr. Masquerade Scheduled for Fri., Feb. 1

The annual masquerade sponsored by the Senior class will be held Friday, Feb. 1 at the Sons of Norway Hall. The music will be furnished by Harry Hall's Orchestra. Arthur Douville President of the Senior Class, said that three prizes will be awarded, one for the cleverest costume, one for the funniest and one for the most original. Art did not say what the prizes will be, but he said that although the favors have not yet been chosen, they will be suitable for the occasion. No definite time has been set for the masquerade, but all should be on hand by 9:00 p. m.

In an interview with a progress reporter, Arthur Douville, President of the Senior Class, stated that this year the Seniors will attempt to put out a bigger and better Prowler than previously. He stated that while the treasury now contains only $161, they expect to obtain the cooperation of the other classes in a drive which will probably start next week. Also, they will attempt to collect the remaining class dues which have not been paid.

PROWLERS TO PLAY WARREN FRIDAY, FEB. 1

Tomorrow evening the mighty Prowler of Lincoln High will travel to Warren for a return game with their old foes.

Although the Prowlers beat Warren by a lopsided score a few weeks ago the game tomorrow night is expected to be a lot more hotly contested. Warren has been strengthened by the addition of a new man who has shown great promise in his early games for the Orange and Black. Warren has shown some new strength in her games with Crookston and East Grand Forks. The Crookston Pirates, who are probably the Prowlers biggest barrier in the race for the district championship, defeated the Orange and Black five by a six point margin, 25 to 19, and the East Siders beat them by the same margin, 32 to 26. This shows that Warren has improved greatly since earlier in the season when they lost by far bigger margins to these two teams.

Although the Prowlers will go into this game the favorites their hope will be somewhat darkened by the fact that two of their stars, Van Pelt and Hermanson, have been out with colds and the flu. Neither of these players saw any service in the East Grand Forks game. After Friday's game with East Grand Forks the Prowlers had average slightly over 44 points per game to their opponents 16.

THIRD PERIOD HONOR ROLL IS ANNOUNCED

Juniors Have Largest Percentage; Sophs Are Second

It seems that the percentage of honor students is decreasing for only 3.4% Freshmen, .7% Sophomores, .8% Juniors and 2.8% Seniors appear on the Alpha Honor Roll; and 11.4% Freshmen, 7.0% Sophomores, 8.9% Juniors, 9.9% Seniors and 13% Normal Training students are on the Beta. Thus the Sophomore class has the fewest on either Honor Roll and the Seniors the most. The percentage of failures this six weeks was 7.8% in the high school. This was an increase over six weeks and the increase was due to absence on account of various diseases and incomplete work.

Miss Peirson Gives Exercises to Grades

Each fourth, fifth, and sixth grade teacher of the Northrup, Knox, and Washington schools is receiving twenty-seven stunts and tricks, to give their students, from Miss Peirson. The girl's gym classes have been using some of these. One exercise was assigned to a couple and after trying it once, the couple demonstrated it before the class. Some of them are: ankle throw, knee dip, monkey mark, crane twist, heel jump, chair creeper, broom raise, head push, balance touch, cork screw, spider band, wall pivot, one-arm pivot, chair lift, free standing, walrus walk, leg twirl, heel click, under the bridge, bottle balance, worm walk, sit up, knee walk, three chair layout, elbow dip, human knot and wand serpentine. Most of these exercises require skill and limber muscles. Their object is to strengthen balance and muscle control.

HERE AND THERE

The advanced cooking girls are reviewing work on breakfasts and are preparing for their advanced work.

The Junior high school girls are beginning the clothing unit for this semester. Most of the girls have decided to make pajamas using cotton goods.

The morning classes in English III are reading novels for outside reading, and the afternoon classes are reading biographies. These books are from American writers. They are also working on their thought books on American Literature in class.

STEINER

The spelling contest held at the Riverside school Saturday was not very well attended because of the bad roads and cold weather. The winners were Myrtle Jorde, first and Bernice Halvorson, second.

Evelyn Tornell, teacher of Steiner school spent the week end in Thief River Falls with relatives.

Mrs. N. E. Murry and sons, Ervin and Jimmy spent the week-end at Thief River Falls with her mother, Mrs. Mary Kisch.

Congratulations go to Willie Warring and Sylvia Bergeson of Thief River Falls who were married recently. —Miss Eleanor Rupprecht returned to Thief River Falls Friday after spending a week's vacation with her parents at Steiner.

The Skomedal brothers have been busy hauling and loading bailed hay at Steiner. —Mr. and Mrs. P. Dahl and daughter Eleanore were dinner guests at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Dahl at Thief River Falls Sunday.

CLASS PLAYS

Next Tuesday the seniors present two one-act comedies in the high school assembly. They will be under the direction of Miss Edberg, veteran director, who last year turned out two successful productions, "Skidding" and "The Boomer". The seniors anticipate a capacity crowd, in view of the fact that they have guaranteed complete satisfaction to those who attend.

The general public, as well as high school students, is invited to attend. This will give you an idea of what to expect; Louise LaBree as "Madame Castinelli" an operatic star with a distinct French accent, Corlan Dokken as hostess to the famous Castinelli and a server of "Weenies on Wednesday", Theodore Quale as "Doctor Nikolov" a lunatic in a black beard who excells in the art of bombing apartment houses, Kendall Gustafson an impecunious student of psychology who cannot refrain from talking, and Walter Kinghorn a pompous cop with an Irish accent who wants to know "who stole me gun?".

PARENT-TEACHER ASSN. MEETS MON.

Faculty of L. H. S. Will Conduct 10-Min. Classes

The meeting of the Parent Teacher Association to be held Monday, Feb. 4th, at eight o'clock will prove to be of extra-ordinary interest to the parents of high school students. The meeting which is in charge of high school teachers, will be different from anything that has been presented before. Each parent will be given a card with his son's or daughter's daily program, and will be expected to go to each room for a ten-minute class conducted by the Lincoln High School teachers. After attempting to recall what they should have learned in their school days, the parents probably will understand what we students must go through every six weeks when tests are presented to us. The teachers may be happy to have their students back again the next day.

Since this "school for parents" will take up a great deal of time, there will not be any other presentation at the meeting. All parents are urged to come to this P. T. A. meeting.

THE PROGRESS POKES ITS NOSE AROUND

It's quite interesting to note how students who attend Lincoln high school make spending money. Then too, many students are securing an education in life by working at odd jobs.

Naturally, the department stores are considered one of the main stepping stones to both the young men and women. A casual observer during the weeks of Christmas would have noticed many high school students diligently and pleasantly serving those around them.

Of course there are the students "who work at dad's place." They are many times envied by the majority of people. It really is an unjust accusation because dad expects his son or daughter to work as studiously as he would want his employees to.

A few talented young men of our high school have obtained positions with orchestras. Criticism is made on this point because the students do not have regular hours. However, these young men are only fitting themselves for a better position when they graduate.

We can't forget the students who are employed at cafes, barber shops, etc. Their work results in much manual labor which sometimes cannot be expected of a high school student of that age.

A large majority of girls from out of town work for their board and room. In a case like this, the student usually has little time for recreation.

There perhaps are only two types left; namely, the girl who does housework at different homes in town, and the girl who works at home. Some people say this is excellent experience for a position to be occupied later in life. However, if the persons considered were spoken to, you might discover a different reaction.

All in all, you'll find that practically every student in high school is capable of performing some useful task. They should be complimented on assuming this attitude.

OLE OLSON, THE CRYSTAL GAZER AT PEP FEST

Piano, Vocal Selections, Tap Dancing, Band Numbers Featured at Pep Assembly

The usual pep fest which precedes a basket ball game was held last Friday, and this time Ray Olson as Ole Olson the Crystal Gazer, gazed into the crystal ball and told the students the numbers to be presented. He apologized for not bringing the real crystal ball but he said all the water and fish in it had frozen so he brought a basket ball instead. The first thing he saw in the ball was the whole school singing the school song, directed by Annette Simonson and played by the high school band. "But be sure you say the correct words," he warned, "because once I sang Hail, Hail Lincoln High, and the next summer we had a hail storm which broke over 160 windows in the high school!" He gazed into the crystal ball again and this time saw that the band would play some numbers, among them a vocal and instrumental selection entitled "Our Family Plays in the Band". Once more Ole looked into the crystal and although many boys had seen "dreams walking," he didn't think they had ever seen two "screams squawking"—Martha Storholm and Adele Holmstrom giving us a new yell, Rah! Prowlers! Yea!

Vivian Ward played a piano solo after which "two triangles" of girls, Ardythe Mellby, Adele Holmstrom, Helyn Rice, Lola Nelson, Audrey Anderson and Martha Storholm sang "Take a Number from One to Ten" and "College Rhythm". He looked in the mystic ball once more and saw some "yams, I mean jells" by Kathleen Monsbroten and Phyllis Norbeck. This time when our crystal gazer looked into the ball he gazed a long time, finally deciphering the "little Sophomore with the nimble feet", Roberta Dally, tap dancing to music played by Alyce Protz. "Cowboy" McFarland gave a pep talk urging the students to support the team. Ole looked into the ball for the last time and saw Bob McFarland leading a yell as the concluding number.

PROWLER B SQUAD DOWNS ALVARADO

Helquist and Stadum Are Outstanding Prowler Men

While the Prowler first string was demolishing East Grand Forks Friday, the Prowler "B" squad was doing a little cleaning up of their own. They defeated Alvarado on their home floor by the score of 31 to 9.

Alvarado started out fast and took the lead right after the opening whistle with a three to nothing lead, but after Olson and Nelson scored for the Prowlers the lead belonged to them for the rest of the game. The Seconds were somewhat hindered by the low ceiling but after they got used to the small floor they scored continually. Helquist was a constant threat with a deadly hook shots and when they guarded him too closely, the others slipped in for scores.

Helquist and Stadum stood out for the Prowler "B", while Helquist was also high point man with thirteen points.

Only 15 Minutes Now Needed to Stop Cough

If you have tried "everything" and your cough or sore throat still hangs on, do not think you can't get relief. What you need is Thoxine—real prescription medicine. It does two essential things: First, it relieves throat irritation and your cough stops. Second, it attacks the internal cause of trouble, drives cold and fever out of the system.

This two-way action makes Thoxine quicker and surer—and explains its truly phenomenal success. All you do is take a big swallow and in 15 minutes you feel relief or get your money back. Safe, pleasant. No harmful drugs. Only 35c. Lambert's Drug Store.

Chemistry Club Study Preparation of Iodine

The Charles Martin Hall Chemistry Club held their second meeting last Monday night. The members of the club studied the preparation of iodine and learned the test for free iodine. They also learned the test for the combined iodine by displacing iodine by means of chlorine and dissolving the liberated iodine in carbon tetra chlorine. The members of the club learned how to prepare commercial tincture of iodine. When you have a big spot of iodine on your clothing see one of the members of the Chemistry Club to learn how to remove it.

Local Declamatory Contests in February

The three local declamation contests will be held in February. The first contest, which will be composed of humorous selections will be in the high school assembly on Thursday, January thirty-first at 7:45 p. m. These selections which are being coached by Miss Tandberg and Miss Edberg are as follows:

Nothing but the Truth—Harriet Simonson.

Just a Little Joy Ride—Violet Anderson.

The Gypsy Trail — Dorothy Traver.

Let Brotherly Love Continue—Barbara Reep.

The Widow's Mites—Ethel Kivle

Dottie Dippendale — Marjorie Ward.

Mustard Plaster—Ruth Fowler.

The County Fair— Kathleen Monsbroten.

The Bath Hour—Mona Mosleth.

The Absentmindedness of Priscilla—Mary Margaret Cosgrove.

The contest of dramatic selections will be held in the high school assembly on Wednesday February 6th at 7:45 p. m. These selections which are being coached by Miss Stenerson are as follows:

The Show Must Go On—Margeret Larson.

Cataracts—Harriet Wilson.

Inja—Norma Anderson.

One of the Mothers— Edna Swanson.

The Death Disk—Helen Wilson.

The Lion and the Mouse—Dorothy Rau.

Madame X— Frances Kavanaugh.

The Laughter of Leen—Annette Simonson.

Franz—Dorothy Fowler.

Three winners from each of these two contests will be chosen to take part in the final local contest on Monday, February 11th. In this latter contest will also appear the orators who are being coached by Mr. Carlson, Francis Engle giving "Ropes" and Oscar Bickley giving "The Union Soldiers". One contestant from each of these three divisions will compete in the subdistrict contest at Warren on February 20.

Declamation in the last few years has won for itself a higher place than formerly. That it was included in the round table discussions at the Minnesota Educational Association at Minneapolis last fall shows progress.

In our own school, interest in declamation has grown and this is probably due to the opportunity to take part given to everyone who wishes it. Instead of choosing a few and having just the one local contest, the last two or three years no one has been barred from participating. Everyone who tried out has received training in his selection and taken part in a local contest, of which there have been several. In this way the training received has been stressed, rather than the winning of the contest, which after all, is secondary.

The benefits received from declamation are well enough known, as little need be said about them. Poise, ease in gesturing, voice training, and last but not least, overcoming the fear of appearing in public are probably the most outstanding.

PROWLERS TRIP PLUMMER 32-24 HERE TUESDAY

Locals Encounter Difficulty in Stopping Inspired Maroon Quintet

A hard fighting Plummer quint nearly upset the strong Prowler team Tuesday evening. Plummer presented one of the best teams seen on this floor this year. The Prowlers seemed to be off their usual form and were kept working hard all the way, winning by a score of 32 to 25.

Plummer started off fast and got and kept possession of the ball for a short time before the Prowlers first laid hands on it. Berg committed a foul but Johnson missed his gift shot. Then Nicholson scored twice from the floor, after which Hanson counted for Plummer with two free throws. Kielty made his free throw good after being fouled by Hanson. Nicholson then counted twice and Mickleson once. Karlstad counted for Plummer with a free throw as Helquist substituted for Mickleson and Jung for Kielty. Lee then scored three more points with free throw and a foul shot after Nicholson had scored twice. The half then ended after Karlstad and Hanson scored four and two points, respectively, for Plummer.

Plummer started the second half fast as Karlstad scored three points before Lee scored with a gift shot and Kielty and Berg with shots from the side of the floor. Karlstad, who was a constant threat all evening added three points for Plummer. Nicholson and Kielty scored two and one points, respectively, for Thief River. A double foul was then called on Kielty and Karlstad and both made their shots good. Nicholson came back with a free throw, his first of the season, to end the Prowlers scoring for the half. Johnson and Karlstad then scored for Plummer as the game ended.

The game was marked by some commendable playing by several players, but Nicholson and Kielty stood out for the Prowlers and Karlstad and Hanson for Plummer.

EDITORIAL

Tomorrow after the nocturnal shades are gently drawn a galaxy of young people will prepare themselves for an evening of pleasant diversion from the habitual thumbing of volumes of condensed knowledge. As the vesper chimes break the stillness of the night, a host of brilliantly attired Junior and Senior girls will take the arms of as many Junior and Senior boys (just as brilliantly attired), and together they will wend their way to an appointed place where they will fill the minutes and the hours of the evening by dancing to rhythmic music and watching the novel program that has been arranged.

In short, tomorrow after darkness descends we don our quaint costumes and hurry off to the annual Junior-Senior masquerade. This event, with the probable exception of the prom, is the most awaited incident of the school year. To see our friends (and teachers) wearing costumes other than the conventional attire which we behold five days of the week for every nine months of the year, is in itself a sufficient incentive for attending this momentous affair. Even if we don't attend for the sake of the novelty of the thing, we should be present to prove that we have enough spirit to want to make the 1935 Junior-Senior masquerade a huge success.

Our mathematical advisors have informed us that the local basket ball quintet has scored more than three points for every one scored by the opposition. If our figures are correct, the boys in the Gold and Blue have an aggregate score of 376 for the season thus far while their unfortunate opponents have been able to collect only 115 points. These figures pertain only to intrastate games (We use the word intrastate in an attempt to efface from our memories the incident at Grand Forks, North Dakota in the early part of the season.)

The game with East Grand Forks last Friday placed the Prowlers on the top in District 31 standings. All other teams in the district have suffered one or more defeats. However, the locals have still to meet the Crookston Pirates who are rated by many as the toughest opponent for the locals in their bid for supremacy in the thirty-first district. Although Crookston bowed to East Grand on the latter's floor, experts choose the Pirates over the Little Green Wave. Even if the truth of this claim is granted, we give the Pirates little hope against Dooley's well-coached team.

Approximately one year ago a Lincoln High School debate team visited Red Lake Falls where they were given the small end of the judges' 2-1 decision. Last Tuesday the Red Lake Falls debate team defied the dropping mercury and returned the visit. They were unable to repeat the performance of a year ago, and the judges gave the unanimous decision to the local debaters. In the course of the week the three Lincoln High School debaters received many compliments from friends, students and parents.

Mr. Carlson, the coach, is chiefly responsible for last week's victory. One of the members of the Lincoln High team had had little experience prior to the recent debate. Unfortunately debaters aren't made "over night". However, Mr. Carlson did a very effective job of coaching; this particular debater acounted for herself splendidly last Tuesday, which, of course, is a tribute both to the debater and to the coach.

Another fact that is not known by the general public is the fact that Mr. Bye, Superintendent of city schools, was instrumental in framing the affirmative case. Sometime ago he lectured to the debate squad on "State aid for schools in Minnesota." The essential part of the affirmative case was taken from Mr. Bye's lecture. Mr. Carlson and his squad enlarged on the idea to make it fit their case. They evidently found it quite helpful.

Orchids to Mr. Carlson and Mr. Bye!

HALLOCK WINS REGION HOCKEY TITLE SUNDAY

Thief River Falls Speed Skaters Win Majority of Events

RUSSELL BECKEN IS STAR IN MEN'S EVENTS

Three From This City Will Enter State Tourney in Minneapolis

With ideal weather conditions prevailing for outdoor sports, a large gathering witnessed the regional hockey and speed skating tournament held on the community rink in this city Sunday under the supervision of J. G. Messenger, district ERA recreational director.

Presenting the classiest aggregation which has played on the local rink in recent years, the fast-stepping Hallock hockey team won the regional title by defeating Thief River Falls 9 to 1 in the finals played in the afternoon. By virtue of its victory the Hallock team is eligible to enter the state tournament in Minneapolis Saturday. In the morning game Thief River Falls eliminated Crookston by a score of 7 to 1.

The local district, No. 37, comprising Pennington and Marshall counties, placed first in the speed skating events with a total of 320 points, followed by the Norman and Clay county district with 290 points, the Roseau and Kittson county district with 190 points. Speed skaters were entered in all classes from Moorhead, Crookston, Hallock, Roseau and Thief River Falls.

Russell Becken repeated his performance in the recent district meet by scoring virtually a clean sweep in the men's speed events. He won first place in the 220 yard dash, half-mile and mile events, and altho he slipped and fell in the course of the 440-yard dash, he finished second in that event. In the senior women's events Doris Thysell of Moorhead won all events, the half-mile, 440 and 220 yard dashes.

In the events for intermediate boys Robert McFarland of this city placed first in the three-quarter mile and the 220 yard dash, while Kiene of Hallock won first in the 440 yard dash. In the junior men's events Ray Bredeson of this city won the 440, Billy Gray of Roseau the 220 and Nels Thysell of Moorhead the half mile. In the junior women's events Verna Thysell of Moorhead won both the 220 and 440.

All entries in the boys and girls events, age under 14, were from this city, Moon Mullins winning for the boys in the 220 and 440 events and Margy Helquist winning the same events for girls.

By virtue of the greatest number of points scored, the winners in the men's events from this region are eligible to enter the state meet at Powderhorn park, Minneapolis, Saturday. All the eligible entries in the speed skating division are from Thief River Falls, including Russell Becken in the men's events, Robert McFarland in the intermediate men's and Raymond Bredeson in the junior men's. They will leave Friday with Mr. Messenger for Minneapolis.

In conducting the tournament Mr. Messenger was assisted by Miss Harriet Helquist in charge of the women's and girls' events; and by Phil Anderson of Roseau and Earl Effinger and Helmer Ness of this city as hockey referees.

Timers and judges were S. P. Orwoll, Don Chalmers, Roy Lambert and Marvin Lindberg; while Alvin Christofferson served as announcer, Kenneth Lindberg as starter; Arthur Johnson as registrar and clerk; Ward Long as scorer; and V. C. Noper as caller.

The local American Legion post served as host for the occasion, supplying headquarters and meals for the contestants.

PARENT-TEACHER MEMBERS GO TO SCHOOL MONDAY

Attend Ten-Minute Classes Conducted by Lincoln Instructors

Members of the Parent-Teacher association who attended the February meeting Monday evening at Lincoln high school have a better insight into the course of study offered high school students here as a result of the novel program that was presented.

Instead of listening to the usual talks and musical numbers those present visited the various classrooms attended by their children. The full staff of teachers was on duty and conducted classes for ten-minute periods, briefly summarizing the classroom work that is being carried on, much interest being displayed by the parents.

Refreshments were served by a committee of members following the program.

[illegible]acks Half Mile [illegible]eturn Lost Purse

Returning from a shopping tour in Thief River Falls last week Mrs. Carl Duis, on leaving the train at Rosewood, forgot her purse in the coach seat. The train pulled out and Mrs. Duis went up to the Chas. Sagmoen home to await the arrival of her husband who was to meet her with a team. Later the conductor noticing the purse ordered the train to back for about one half mile and the purse was entrusted to Axel Larson the custodian at the station. Larson had seen Mrs. Duis going to the Sagmoen home, and the purse was returned before the loss had been discovered.

GROCERY CO. HOST TO 365 GUESTS AT PARTY THURSDAY

Varied Program Presented by Thief River Grocery at Auditorium

What was perhaps the largest and most successful banquet ever to be staged by the local business establishment was held at the municipal Auditorium last Thursday evening under the sponsoring of the Thief River Grocery company, branch of the Nash-Finch company of Minneapolis.

A total of 365 persons from Thief River Falls and the surrounding trade area sat down together at tables on the main floor of the Auditorium to enjoy an elaborate dinner efficiently served by members of the Legion auxiliary drum corps and a large staff of assistants.

Chester A. Myrom, serving as toastmaster, introduced W. L. Carlisle, manager of the grocery company, who extended a welcome to the guests. Following he introduced the 22 employes of the local institution and L. O. Jackson and C. J. Davis, respectively general sales manager and advertising manager of the Nash-Finch company, who spoke briefly. Dr. C. M. Haug endemonstration of feats of magic.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by W. J. Bulsch of the National Cash Register company, Dayton, Ohio, who told of his extensive travels among merchants in all sections of the country, and gave suggestions as to the best merchandising methods. The program closed with the presentation of a Technicolor film dealing with the production and processing of the Del Monte brand of canned goods.

WINTER SHOWS IN FULL SWING AT CROOKSTON

Local People to Participate in History Pageant This Evening

EVENT TO CONCLUDE TOMORROW EVENING

Favorable Weather Insures Big Crowds at Valley Exposition

An array of well groomed livestock, poultry, grains and women's exhibits was placed before the public as the silver anniversary Northwest School Farmers' Week and Red River Valley Winter Shows opened in Crookston Monday. Favorable weather conditions prevailed, insuring a large attendance.

Exhibit space in the three buildings housing the shows was packed to capacity. The shows will continue through Friday night with morning, afternoon and evening education sessions and prominent speakers will have places on the various programs.

A major undertaking of the Winter Shows this year, the historical pageant which will be presented by a cast of more than 200 persons from 13 Red River Valley counties is the highlight of Thursday's program. The pageant will be presented in the Armory at 8 P. M., following a half hour program of music by the Crookston Municipal band.

A group of more than 20 Pennington county residents, headed by Arnold E. Carlson was to leave by bus this noon for Crookston, where they will present a scene in the pageant depicting the history of the church in the Red River valley.

Among the many meetings held in conjunction with the Winter Shows was the annual dinner gathering of county agents at the Hotel Crookston Tuesday night. Robert M. Douglass, Pennington county agent and director from this district of the County Agents association, presided and new county agents were introduced.

Ninety potato growers meeting Tuesday in connection with the Winter Shows selected a committee to represent the valley potato interests to work with the agricultural adjustment administration in framing its program for restricting potato acreage.

The committee appointed by T. M. McCall, chairman of the meeting and approved by the producers, is composed of Ole A. Flaat of Fisher, chairman; A. W. Aamodt of Moorhead, William H. Pare of Grand Forks, Martin Hogstad of Karlstad and Albert Torkelson of Erskine.

The committee may be enlarged in the future to include at least one potato grower from each of the Red river valley counties in Minnesota and North Dakota.

LIQUIDATION OF RURAL CREDIT BUREAU URGED

Bill Empowers Conservator to Sell Lands for Less Than Investment

MELBY INTRODUCES PROPOSAL IN HOUSE

Highway Department Criticized for Hiring County Foremen

Liquidation of 2,500 farms owned by the state rural credits department would be provided in a bill introduced in the state senate Tuesday by A. J. Rockne, Zumbrota.

The bill would empower the department conservator to sell land owned by the department for less than the amount invested in it, and to settle with persons who owe the department for less than the amount of their debt.

The purpose of the bill, Rockne explained, is to return as much property as possible to tax rolls. It would also start payments by persons heavily delinquent.

The conservator, debtor, a person who has acquired the interest of a debtor or a person wishing to purchase lands owned by the state department could petition for a hearing on scaling down of the debt or price of the property. Three district judges would conduct the hearing. Debts on good land could be scaled not more than 75 per cent of the total, and on sub marginal land not more than 50 per cent. Property prices would be scaled in equal proportion.

"This problem has been studied carefully with the aid of the rural credits conservator and competent attorneys, and we believe it is the best method for relief of this burden right now," said Representative J. O. Melby of Oklee, sponsor of the bill in the house. "We must give some new life to Minnesota agriculture. The practical farmer must be given a chance to keep his property. He is entitled to such a chance and the people of this state will certainly be much better off when the farmer can operate as an owner, on a basis which will permit him to live rather than to hang on the fringe of mere existence."

Representative L. E. Brophy, Minneapolis, conservative-progressive leader, charged at a motor vehicle and motor vehicle taxes committee meeting last night that the highway department last year had "spent about $100,000 for county foremen picked for particular fitness to organize a political party and perpetuate it."

A direct consequence was postponement of action on the measure making permanent the 1933-1934 reduction in motor vehicle license fees.

Liberals maintain the fees must be restored to the former status so the state will be able to match federal funds; conservatives believe the department is in no need of additional funds.

The state senate, with only one dissenting vote, Tuesday passed the bill extending the time for payment of automobile taxes until March 15. The house had not yet acted. The measure, sponsored by Senator William Roepke of Faribault, would apply only to this year.

ANNUAL MEETING IS SET FOR FEBRUARY 16

Detailed Report on Operations is Published This Week

In spite of generally unfavorable pasture conditions over much of this territory last year, the Thief River Falls co-operative creamery in 1934 increased its output of butter approximately 30 per cent over the preceding year, or from 316,019 pounds in 1933 to 417,642 pounds in 1934, it is revealed in the annual statement of the institution published elsewhere in this issue. In addition 75 new patrons were added during the past year, making a total of 300 that delivered cream to the local plant. Due to the increased volume operating costs were reduced from 4.693 cents a pound in 1933 to 3.768 cents in 1934, a reduction of almost a full cent. At the same time local sales of butter increased from 91,000 pounds in 1933 to 105,000 pounds in 1934, and despite the increased volume the bill for electric power was reduced $169.82 from that of the preceding year.

The average monthly settlement price for sweet cream butterfat in 1934 was 25.11 cents, while the cash price averaged 23.81 cents and the station at Rosewood 22.90 cents. The average price paid for all butterfat received during the year was 24.80 cents compared to 19.28 cents in 1933, a gain of more than five cents a pound.

A total of 1,254,832 pounds of cream was received during the year, from which was obtained 337,731.4 pounds of butterfat. The percentage of overrun is shown to be 23.67. Net returns from butter manufactured is reported at $98,618.37, to which is added $177.91 from retail cream sales and $317.03 from the sale of buttermilk, making a total of $99,113.31. The sum of $84,445.04 was paid for butterfat.

That another year of continued growth is in prospect is indicated by the figures for the first month of the current year showing that 29,247 pounds of butter was manufactured compared to 22,109 pounds in January, 1934.

The Word "Yegg"

The word "yegg," used originally by the Gypsies in their Romani chib, was derived from Hindustani, in which language yagh designates "a plunderer, pillager, thief," and yaghna, "booty, plunder, spoil, etc." Its ultimate source is the Sanskrit yagan, "singly, or one by one," from ya (verb), "to move from place to place," and ya (noun), "one who moves or goes from place to place." —Literary Digest.

Mastiff Is Among Oldest on Britain's Canine List

From a niche among the greatest of all hunting dogs, the Mastiff has been relegated to the level of our neglected canine breeds. It is deserving of better treatment than this, declares a writer in the Detroit News, for it is the embodiment of all that is good and desirable in companionable pets.

It would not be far-fetched to say that the Mastiff has become a rare breed, for it is only on occasions that one is seen. And yet the owners of what few Mastiffs remain cannot understand why the popularity of the animal should be less than the St. Bernard, Newfoundland or any other of the large dogs, and there appears to be no reasonable answer to their query.

The Mastiff is generally conceded as being among the oldest of British bred dogs and can trace its ancestry back to the Assyrian hunting moors. It was brought to England by the adventurous Phoenician traders about the Sixth century B. C. For years it was bred primarily for big game hunting purposes, but was gradually replaced by the smaller terrier and hound breeds.

The standard weight of the Mastiff is around 170 pounds, and it stands about 28 inches high at the fore shoulders. The body is strong, muscular, straight and heavy with a deep chest. The head is massive with square muzzle. The color should be fawn with darker ears, face and muzzle or it may be brindle.

Laying aside the splendid hunting instincts found in the well-trained Mastiff, its disposition and faithfulness recommend it as an exceptional companion. In this respect it is the equal of the St. Bernard or Newfoundland.

Sandow, the Strong Man, Was Weakling, When Boy

The world's most famous strong man was Eugen Sandow, who, while he lived, was the strongest man on earth, says a writer in the Kansas City Times. He died in 1925. Sandow did not always have an extraordinary physique. Born in Konigsberg, Prussia, in 1867, he was in his youth a weakling, and his family many times despaired of his reaching manhood. His father, a jeweler, believed travel would improve the boy's health, and the two visited a number of foreign countries, among them Italy, where Eugen, then sixteen, became interested in the statues of Greek and Roman demigods. If they had had such wonderful bodies, Sandow reasoned, why couldn't persons of the present age? He believed physical training was the answer, and he immediately began a course of such development, using dumbbells and weights. He studied anatomy, and within a few years he was rewarded by the growth of his muscles. No longer a weakling, he gave private exhibitions to his friends, who marveled at the change.

Sandow was 5 feet 8½ inches tall and weighed never less than 180, nor more than 200 pounds. His chest, normal, was 52 inches; expanded it was 61 inches; his biceps measured, flexed, 19½ inches; calf, 18½; ankles and wrists were relatively small, fingers well shaped and well cared for.

Growing With Your Child

Debunking An Old Adage

I wonder what kind of feeling arises in most people's minds when they hear the old words, "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again?" Isn't there apt to be a little remnant of resentment, left over from the childhood days when one's elders so complacently gave voice to this bland advice?

Resentment or not, the psychologist, with his scheming experiments has long questioned the desirability of revising the statement. He has pretty well come to the conclusion that it will hold true if we change it to read, "If at first you have a little success, you'll try, try again." He has found that both children and adults learn better when they have some success near the beginning of their efforts; that they are much more apt to "try, try again" when they are getting somewhere than when they "don't succeed."

Haven't we ourselves known all along that if we are working at such an uphill job that we make no progress at all, the heavy load of discouragement presently drags us down so that we no longer feel like making an effort? But how little account we take either of our own experience, or of the psychologist's findings, when we are training children for various skills we feel are important to them! Instead of trying to hasten their learning of certain habits by making sure that they will have a little success, or praise, or reward early in the game, we often hold them back by scolding, or not noticing their need for praise, or telling them how much better we could do it! When a little girl is learning to make a bed, how often does her mother have self-control enough to say something nice about the rather humpy and skewed-looking result? If only, instead of remarking on the wrinkles, she'd stop to think of the difference it might make to the child, that little bit of encouragement it would be so easy to give.

When Jackie remembers to wash his hands before he comes to the table (even if his "success" in getting the dirt off has not been so great as to overwhelm us), we might better concentrate on the "success" of his remembering, at all, than on the high-water line around his wrists. When Jane is learning to cut out doll clothes, we can try to insure some initial success, and thereby encouragement to a happy feeling about sewing, by providing her with good scissors, and cloth that lends itself to ready manipulation by unskilled hands.

As a matter of fact, there's another old adage that falls in line rather better with present day psychological findings: "Nothing succeeds like success." Without suggesting for a moment that courage in the face of great odds, that indomitable prolonged effort and refusal to say die have not been among the qualities that have brought man as far as he has come, the fact remains that these traits have been developed by successes rather by unmixed failures. So, if we want to be modern and constructive parents, let's be sure to manoeuvre a little success into the early stages of our children's learning, so that they may be acquiring the habit of success which will give them the strength to believe in themselves, and their ability to make good under discouraging conditions.

Deaths by Pernicious Anemia Have Been Cut in Half, Say Doctors

Among the great advances of medicine, none is more curious and interesting than the modern treatment of pernicious anemia. The great success of the liver treatment for this formerly fatal disease is noted in a bulletin issued by the Minnesota State Medical Association today because the figures assembled in a recent authoritative survey show that deaths from pernicious anemia have been cut in more than half since 1926 when the usefulness of liver in treatment was first discovered.

The improvement has been much greater, as might be expected, among young people. But substantial decreases in deaths have occurred at every age, according to these figures.

Like insulin for diabetes, liver treatment is not a cure for pernicious anemia, the doctors point out. It simply replaces an element that the body itself produces in health and must usually be continued as long as the victim lives.

Once, the pernicious anemia patient had nothing to look forward to but invalidism and death. Now with proper treatment, he can look forward to a relatively normal, useful life. Death, when it occurs in these cases, is usually from other causes than the anemia.

"Pernicious anemia is a distinct disease which affects the bone marrow which in turn fails to produce red corpuscles for the blood" says the bulletin. "It is not to be confused with so-called secondary anemia due to undernourishment or lack of rest or resulting from some infective process.

Three great American physicians, recently awarded the Nobel prize for their work on anemia, Dr. George R. Minot, Dr. William P. Murphy and Dr. George H. Whipple, discovered that the disease could be controlled by feeding liver to sufferers from this disease. At first they fed raw liver daily. Next, an extract which was more palatable was produced for the daily feeding. Finally a concentrated extract that can be administered intramuscularly at intervals of from two to four weeks has been produced which has made the treatment cheap and comfortable for these patients.

Jazz-Colored Trees

Scientists are now able, by injecting a dye, to make trees grow any color they like. Thus, maple can be induced to become a deep and valuable mahogany color, oak assumes a rich and ancient hue in a few years, and walnut changes into a ravishing black, a marvelous material for antique dealers. Blue, green, red, violet, and orange trees are easily producible; their planks harmonizing with modern color schemes. To achieve these jazz effects, the tree surgeon drills a number of holes in the roots, also round the trunk, about four feet from the ground, and connects them up with rubber pipes to a feeding tank, fixed in a fork overhead. Normally, ten pounds of dye is sufficient to color a tree.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Song Life Is Shorter

Because of radio and the decrease in sheet music sales, the life of a popular song has been considerably shortened. When a song becomes a hit it is played six or seven times a night until even the apathetic radio audience gets more than a little fed up, writes Drew Kent, in Redbook Magazine.

There was a time, in good old days, when a song could retain its popularity for as long as twelve or fourteen months; now it is the unusual tune which is still played after eight weeks. As a result, the Tin Pan Alley salesmen have very little leisure time. New songs are turned out with the same monotonous regularity as tin cans in a factory; and it is up to the plugger to regard each one as a potential hit.

'U' Farm Man Explains Feeding of Game Birds by Children on Farms

For the winter feeding of game birds and other wild creatures, farm boys and girls are in a better position than any other group, says Ralph T. King, University Farm entomologist, who is one of Minnesota's leading authorities on the conservation of wild life.

Among the great advantages farm young folks have is that they know the kinds of wild animals or birds present on their farms; they know, or can readily find out, where coveys or flocks of birds stay and they know the kind and location of thickets, sloughs and other places on the farm that are attractive to wild life creatures. Most farms usually have the necessary feed and the young folks' experience in the care of livestock and poultry helps them understand the needs of wild life forms. Furthermore, because of their knowledge of local conditions, farm boys and girls can better provide for the protection needed at the feeding stations.

The success of any feeding station depends as much upon the safety of the creatures using it, as upon the foods provided, Mr. King emphasizes. Feeding stations must be located in or near the covey centers where the birds will be sure to find them and use them. Some shelter that will provide protection from winds, drifting snow and driving rains should, if possible, be provided at each feeding station. Such shelter need not be expensive and need not look like a natural part of the surroundings. Wild creatures will usually accept quite readily any structure that is safe and stable. Perhaps most important is that the shelter should permit the ready escape of the birds in case they are attacked by dogs or other enemies. It should be open on at least three sides so birds can run out, preferably into some sort of cover, and open on two sides so they can fly out.

Avoid putting stations in especially dangerous locations, such as near highways, places where livestock concentrates, and near high woven wire fences or numerous overhead wires. During the winter, birds feed largely during the twilight of early morning and late evening and cannot see obstructions when traveling swiftly as when frightened.

"Proper feeds should be supplied. For resident game birds this means grain feeds," Mr. King explains. "Corn, wheat, buckwheat, weed seeds and screenings are best. Oats and barley should be avoided unless cooked. Corn need not be cracked, even for quail. It need not even be shelled. Moldy grain should be carefully avoided, as it too often leads to respiratory disorders. A surplus of feed should be given because mice, rabbits, squirrels and other birds will probably take as much or more than the game birds.

"Gravel is a necessity. All grain-eating birds need grit to digest the foods eaten. Without grit the birds will starve to death in the presence of abundant food.

Because the weather was agreeable a large number of people enjoyed the hockey games and skating contests at the rink Sunday. The good attendance proved that such sport is popular in the community. Considering the length and severity of our winters, recreational need number one of the city probably is an enclosed rink. Skating and hockey will not be developed to their full possibilities until we get it. The well maintained and well supervised open air rink that we now have is a fine start toward a more complete program of winter sports but, after all, it is only a start.

The National Thrift Week executive committee decided to be thrifty this year by saving the expense of its annual campaign for thrift. And preaching thrift right now would be a little inconsistent with present public policy. But this will change again. There will come a time, perhaps before long, when the virtue of thrift will once more be appreciated.

Five different companies in Germany are now manufacturing television sets, the lowest priced receivers selling for a little over two hundred dollars. Under government subsidy, a daily program is broadcast. Rapid development of this new gadget may be expected in this country during the next few years.

With four different governors in seven months, North Dakota now has another political record that will make interesting reading a few years from now. Our neighbors west of the river certainly live in the state of turmoil. Oh well, until the rain starts raining again they might as well amuse themselves in this way. It still isn't quite clear to us whether Tom Moody was disqualified because he had left the state or if they questioned his sanity for coming back once he had gotten away.

Next Tuesday will be Lincoln's birthday again and thruout the world a lot of nice things will be said about this great martyr to the cause of liberty. Not so when Lincoln lived. At that time he was looked upon by quite a large portion of the population as an inhuman butcher. But Lincoln was not the first good man to pay the penalty of unthinking hatred and prejudice. Nor, unfortunately, will he be the last. Most of the world's greatest benefactors do not live long enough to hear their praises sung. Those leaders who enjoy great popularity when they live seem to be forgotten rather quickly after they are dead.

Prospects for 1935 construction activities in Thief River Falls are exceptionally bright. We can see no good reason why the contract for the new post office should not be let next week. With two or three inspectors for each worker on this job, the corner across the street should hum with activity thruout the summer months. Work on the new bridge approaches should get under way as soon as the frost leaves. This project will involve a great deal of labor. Besides the actual road building, three or four houses will have to be moved to new locations. If present plans materialize, building the approaches will be an all-summer job at least. And then there will be the private construction. Several new houses are already assured, along with some substantial improvements in the business section. When we consider the building prospects for the coming summer we can hardly wait for that first blade of green grass to make its appearance.

It is possible that with a few years of intense study we might acquire sufficient knowledge about international affairs to be qualified to express an opinion on the question of whether or not the United States should become a member of the world court. As it is, we will have to break down and admit that to us the problem is about as simple as Herr Einstein's theory of relativity. But if we were called on to decide this important question, without benefit of more information than we now possess, we would be forced to throw our vote in favor of court membership. This judgment would be based entirely on our opinion of the group of Senators who opposed such membership in the recent Senate vote. While a few of the members of this minority group deserve respectful consideration, the fact that Huey Long and Tom Schall were against affiliation convinces us that the four Presidents who have advocated membership and the Senate majority which voted in favor of it must have been right.

Because we didn't care to arouse Bob Douglass from his slumbers at the hour in which this was written we can't verify the figures but we are sure Pennington County produces at least a million and a half pounds of butterfat a year. On this volume, one cent a pound means fifteen thousand dollars a year to the farmers of this county alone. Last year the average price of butterfat was five cents a pound higher than in 1933, which means that this crop brought us at least seventy-five thousand dollars more in 1934 than in 1933. And prospects are better for this year than they were in 1934. Which is a rather cheerful outlook indeed.

CAREER SERVICE ADVOCATED
(Detroit Lakes Record)

President Lotus D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota rang out a clear call for better government last week when he urged the adoption of a career service program in a talk given over a nation-wide hookup from Station KSTP. He defined such a career in public service as "a life work which one would normally take up in his youth with the expectation of advancement and pursue up to retirement." Mr. Coffman explained that only by offering a secure position with a comfortable salary can we hope to attract the country's ablest manpower into governmental work. To illustrate his argument, he referred to the English system where, though political parties may come and go over night, the normal policies of the state are kept steady by under secretaries and junior secretaries who are civil service men.

Alongside of the administrative arrangement in England, our comparable spoils system is thrown into the mean light it deserves. This invidious practice of ours had its inception about a century ago when the embryonic political parties fell to feasting on patronage to keep themselves powerful. They found false hope in the philosophy of "to the victors belong the spoils." In the greatness of their folly they failed to foresee the suicidal consequences of applying such a doctrine within a nation made up of a group of related people living under the same form of government. It has been like a person drinking his own blood to quench his thirst.

So mighty has this monstrous practice of political pillage become that it is idle to dream of some 'plumed knight' riding forth to wipe it out. It remains for the people to arise and annihilate the thing and to substitute the system advocated by President Coffman.

THE CLOUDED TITLE
(Duluth Weekly Herald)

Governor Olson and the state planning board have urged the legislature to adopt a statute taking possession of ten million acres of land more than five years tax delinquent. The suggestion is that the state be given "clear title" to the lands.

Certainly if the state is to take possession of the lands it should have a clear title, one not clouded by adverse claims. It may be well to consider what are the other claims.

When the former owners of these lands failed to pay their taxes, others in the districts had to pay increased taxes to support the schools, to build and maintain roads, and to support the county and state institutions. The payments of these increased taxes established claims on the land. The largest claims, of course, are those of the school districts. Next come the claims of townships, counties and the state in the order mentioned. The claim of the state is about ten per cent of the total. Ninety per cent belongs to the local taxing units, only ten per cent to the state.

These claims are just ones. The money has been paid. All previous just laws have recognized these claims. When land has been sold for taxes, the money received has been divided among the taxing units in proportion to their claims. If the lands are to be forfeited then 90 per cent belongs to the local people.

The governor and the planning commission fail to mention this feature. They appear to feel that the state can just blandly grab these lands for its ten per cent claim, leaving out the people who have put up the other ninety per cent. Certainly the omission is a fatal one. No clear title, in right or justice, at least, can be established in any such way.

The governor's land use committee, discussing this phase of the situation, put in a few words, very justly and correctly as follows: "The local taxing districts will expect the state to pay for any such lands as it may wish to use for reforestation, water conservation or other public purposes. The state should make no move to improve such lands until this cloud upon the title has been removed, and the local taxing districts have been compensated for their equities."

It is very doubtful indeed if any court would recognize a law that would attempt to permit a creditor holding ten per cent of the claims to take all the property securing them and cut out the owners of the other ninety per cent.

SOME SIMPLE RULES FOR DRIVERS
(The Fairmont Sentinel)

We think the following simple rules for auto drivers may have been published in this paper before but a diligent reader just brings them in and thinks they should appear again, for he had never seen them before and he was much impressed. He, by the way, was a Fairmont preacher who does a great deal of driving. What's good for the preacher should be good for you.

Always drive fast out of alleys. You might hit a policeman. There's no telling.

Always pass the car ahead on curves or turns. Don't use your horn because it might unnerve the other fellow and cause him to turn out too far.

Demand half the road—the middle half. Insist on your rights.

Always lock your brakes when skidding. It makes the job more artistic. Often you can even turn clear around.

Always drive close to pedestrians in wet weather. Dry cleaners will erect a monument to your memory.

Never sound your horn on the road. Save it until late at night for a doorbell. Few houses have guns.

Always try to pass cars on hills when it is possible. It shows your bus has more power and you can turn somewhere surely if you meet another car at the top.

Take the shortest route around blind left hand turns. The other fellow can take care of himself if you can.

Never look around when you back up. There never is anything behind your automobile.

A few shots of booze will enable you to make your car do real stunts. For permanent results quaff often and deeply of the flowing bowl before taking the wheel.

Drive as fast as you can on wet pavements. There is always something to stop if you lose control—often a heavy truck or a plate glass window.

Never yield the road to the car behind. The driver may be a bootlegger being pursued.

Never stop, look or listen at railroad crossings. It consumes valuable time, and besides, nobody believes in signs.

Lapse your insurance. Your family will remember you kindly anyway.

Commissioner Elsberg is wondering how people can howl about wanting continued low automobile taxes and still insist that new roads must be added to the state system. It's an old human failing, Mr. Elsberg—ask any county commissioner. There have actually been instances of men appearing before county boards in the forenoon to demand tax decreases, coming back in the afternoon to demand with equal vigor the spending of added county funds. Nobody has yet figured out how it can be done.—Minnesota Mascot.

The idea now seems to be to spend all you've got even if you haven't got it.—Roseau Times-Region.

PUBLIC OPINION

Expressions of opinion on timely subjects are invited and welcomed to this department of The Times. Letters should be of reasonable length, and the name should be signed, not necessarily for publication but as a guarantee of good faith. Letters duplicated to other local newspapers are not desired.

Dear Editor:

After reading the article in the last week's issue of the Thief River Falls local papers signed by some of the stockholders of the Thief River Falls Co-op. Creamery Ass'n, I could not refrain from answering that part of the article referring to prices paid for butterfat by Pelican Rapids, Fergus Falls and Sebeka creameries.

As an operator of a Land O' Lakes creamery, I feel it my duty to my own patrons as well as patrons of other Land O'Lakes creameries, that that paragraph relating to prices paid by the above mentioned creameries should not go unanswered because of its untruthfulness.

Having worked in creameries in Ottertail and Wadena counties for several years, it has given me a splendid opportunity to study the annual reports from creameries in that section of the state.

In the first place you are making a very unfair comparison in that you do not take either volume or quality into consideration. Pelican Rapids, Sebeka and Fergus Falls creameries have an output from four to six times as large as the Thief River Falls creamery and also have a higher quality of cream which gives these creameries a decided advantage over the smaller creameries in this section of the state. But even at that I find that the creameries selling to Land O'Lakes received a price which compares very favorably with prices received by Pelican Rapids which is one of the largest creameries in the state and has the advantage of shipping in carload lots direct from one creamery.

I have before me annual reports from Roseau and Thief River Falls, both Land O'Lakes creameries and Pelican Rapids which was referred to in the article and I submit the following figures from these reports:

Pelican Rapids—
Lbs. butter mfg. for 1933	1,124,000
Net price received for butter	20.18c
Net price paid for butterfat	22.47c
Loss	$3,837.76
Roseau—
Lbs. butter mfg. for 1933	599,047
Net price received for butter	20.04c
Net price paid for butterfat	22.30c
Gain	$171.87
Thief River Falls—
Lbs. butter mfg. for 1933	317,859
Net price received for butter	19.95c
Net price paid for butterfat	19.28c
Gain	$ 83.76

In analyzing these figures I find that there is only a slight difference in the prices received for butter by the three creameries, but why should it be necessary for a creamery having a volume of over a million pounds of butter annually, as in the case of Pelican Rapids, to show a loss on all operations of nearly $4,000.00 in order to be able to compete with the smaller Land O'Lakes creameries referred to in the above report. It can readily be seen from the above figures that the lower price paid for butterfat by the local creamery was not due to a lower price received for its butter, but due chiefly to lack of volume.

I also have figures from the other creameries referred to, but feel that it is unnecessary to make further comments.

Yours for more cooperation,
Goodridge Coop. Creamy Ass'n,
Lloyd A. Nelson, Mgr.-Operator.

Editor Times:

The dispute between two groups of stockholders of the local Co-operative Creamery Association is of considerable importance, inasmuch as a difference of several thousand dollars is at stake.

However, it must be borne in mind that the statement appearing in last week's paper only tells one side of the argument. The old wooden creamery building was never valued at $10,000, [illegible] when new, and the two residences purchased as an investment during boom years held an excessive valuation of $[illegible] in 1921, when sold for $[illegible] to Land O'Lakes it was the just and actual value of the property at the time.

The present creamery building was valued in 1924 at $[illegible], a boom year of high material costs, etc. The deduction for depreciation of $[illegible] in [illegible] years is fair and is customary in all lines of industry. That means that the building is worth right now approximately $[illegible], but who would pay that much for it, equity, outright? All machinery or equipment valued at $[illegible] is not subject to the deal. It is proposed to be moved into a smaller building, to be built complete by the Land O'Lakes, first with cream well. A copy of the specifications can be seen anytime at the local creamery office. The present building is practically a white elephant on our hands, four times too large for our needs and far too large an overhead. Even if we manufactured a million pounds of butter instead of the yearly average of 300,000 pounds we would still be carrying the same overhead. In other words we will continue to [illegible] of every [illegible] pounds to make up the difference of 2.7 and 3.9 cents per pound overhead and even then the expense of a [illegible] would be greater in such an event. A smaller building would be advantageous.

When the association called for a stockholders meeting to consider the sale or trade with the Land O'Lakes a majority of 67 were in favor and 17 against. Well, would any sane and benevolent soul be so kind as to enlighten us as to what majority means. This is America and when we vote we elect, the majority rules and not individuals. 67 to 17 understand, what possessed the minority to question the verdict, the desires and the wishes of greater numbers? Why all the injunctions after injunctions, delay after delay. Why not let the court decide whether or not 67 constitute a majority. Beating about the bush and using Mussolini tactics is futile and unnecessary.

Yours truly,
ORTON O. OLSON.

Red River Valley History
By Win V. Working

In the following excerpts from an article by Willoughby M. Babcock, curator of the museum of the Minnesota Historical society, interesting facts concerning the fortunes of the Indians of Minnesota since the advent of the white man are presented. It will be noted that the Chippewa of the northern part of the state are involved. Mr. Babcock, by the way, furnished the article to the historical magazine, now the Northwest Pioneer, published by the writer in 1932. Before presenting the excerpts we desire to explain that the Cree Indians, related to the Chippewa also were in northern Minnesota when the first whites came. They were not warlike. Smallpox decimated their ranks in the first quarter of the nineteenth century and most of the survivors moved over into Canada about 1820. There are a number of Cree mixed bloods in the vicinity of Pembina, N. D. and St. Vincent, Minn. The first excerpt from the Babcock article follows:

"When the white explorers and traders penetrated to the Minnesota country during the second half of the seventeenth century they found the Dakotas, or Sioux, as their enemies called them, in full possession of the north central lake and forest area. These Indians were, in the latter part of the Stone Age, using stone axes, hammers and weapons and were dependent chiefly on their ability as hunters and fishermen for their food, although the food from these sources was supplemented by the natural crops of the forests and lakes, such as nuts, roots, berries and wild rice. A rude type of agriculture was practiced and a small amount of corn was raised. The Indians of the Wisconsin country had learned to hammer out the pure copper mined on Isle Royale into improved tools and weapons, but judging from the small number of such pieces found in our state not many of these copper tools reached Minnesota.

"Against this rude stone age culture was projected violently and almost without preliminary preparation a highly developed iron, steel and explosive age, culturally several thousands of years in advance of the highest point reached by the American Indian. The Chippewa heralded the great change which was to come, as with their guns, newly acquired from the white traders, they fought their way westward into the choice hunting grounds of north central Minnesota during the years just prior to 1750 and drove the Sioux into the southern part of the state. In the short space of three or four hundred years the red man has been forced to leap this great cultural gap, adjust himself to the conditions of life of another race and become a self-supporting member of that society . . . .

"A people gaining its living from hunting and fishing in a wilderness must necessarily range over a great amount of territory. . . . The skins of animals killed for food were barring the few needed for tents, clothing etc., a waste product in the Indian's economic scheme, and brought valuable returns in the form of iron axes, guns, tin kettles and other useful articles . . . . there was little reason for the Indian to object when the white fur trader established himself in his country."

Mr. Babcock refers to the expulsion of most of the Sioux from the state following the outbreak of 1862, and says:

"The Chippewa have been more fortunate, so far as the continuance of their residence in Minnesota is concerned. Not being connected with the Sioux outbreak of 1862, there was no ground for removal and the 1931 Report of the Commissioner of Indian Affairs showed a total of 15,265 Chippewa in the state. The same general process of cession of lands, however, took place in their case. The treaties of 1847 released a tract extending from the south bank of the Crow Wing river at the Mississippi to Otter Tail lake and the Chippewa-Sioux treaty line of 1825 to the mouth of the Watab river for a consideration of $50,000 . . . . ."

Other treaties are mentioned and the early "dry" clauses which made much of northern Minnesota legally dry before federal prohibition went into effect are cited. Then we read:

"The Red Lake, Pembina and Bois Fort Chippewa ceded their holdings by the treaties of 1863 and 1866 . . . . The great cessions of 1854 and 1855 had left the Chippewa the land northwest of Lake Vermillion, a section of western Koochiching county and the area now occupied by the ten far northwestern counties as far south as Ada."

Now we know the Chippewa in the state are congregated chiefly on the White Earth and Red Lake reservations, but there has been constant agitation for relief to these Indians and the Indian department now is taking steps to inaugurate a program embodying drastic changes, which we may be able to describe in a latter article.—Northwestern Feature Service.

LOSES VALUABLE HORSE FROM 'SANDY' FEED

Odessa, [illegible]—All through the ages horses, like all living things, have passed out of the picture and from various and sundry causes, but it remained for one certain horse named "Ned" to turn up his heels in death yesterday afternoon from a distinctly new and different cause, namely, that of eating "sandy" hay. Ned, valued at $100, and owned by Herbert Haase, Odessa township farmer, lurched against his stall in pain and before assistance could be given fell dead. An autopsy performed disclosed that the horse's stomach contained 12 quarts of fine sand—an accumulation of two years of eating dusty, sandy hay in this hard hit drouth section. Mr. Haase stated that Ned had been fed sweet clover straw, silage and bottom hay. Fine sand, contained in the hay and silage from last season's terrific and unprecedented dust storms in this instance cost the life of the animal.

REMEMBERS COMBINATION TO SAFE AFTER 18 YEARS

Browerville—Editors of weekly papers are generally blessed with good memories, but K. H. Balcom, former editor of the Browerville Blade, holds all records. Eight years after he had last opened the safe in the newspaper's office, returned to dial the correct numbers and open the door of the vault after the present owners had failed. The present managers of the Blade, Bassett & Ezell, locked the safe recently and found they had forgotten the combination. Records needed daily were inside, and it was decided to call on the company which manufactured the safe when it was suddenly remembered that Balcom had been editor of the paper years ago and was still in town. Called upon, he stated that he would do his best, and after two mistakes and a few minutes time, he dialed the correct numbers and the door swung open. He had previously opened the safe 18 years ago.

In the State Senate
By Sen. E. L. Tungseth

At the end of the session today there are 390 bills in the Senate proper and committees to work on. This number is likely only a beginning. Many of them deal with the same subject matter and will therefore in committee be boiled down to much fewer bills for final passage. The subject matters are also numerous. Even bills on daylight saving have appeared. Perhaps someone should sponsor a bill to compel some people to get up a little earlier in the morning without changing the time that such as thinking in terms of "daylight saving" may find that nature has provided all the daylight necessary, and that no legislation no matter how radical or how reactionary may shorten or lengthen the hours of day. It might be equally justified to pass some moonlight saving bill. Such a bill might provide additional encouragement for all twilight serenaders.

Tax and relief measures, however, occupy the center of thought. My constituency will remember that in the past campaign I declared myself in favor of legislation which would offer real estate some fifty per cent relief from its present tax load. In this vicinity of fifty per cent relief for real estate taxes, some permanent maximum should be fixed. Whatever fluctuation may be necessary should be from the sources of whatever replacement tax that might be arranged. I also believe that voting on bond issue which actually places a legal mortgage upon any and all real estate within the government unit concerned should be limited to owners of real estate only. Bond issues will then become less popular and more difficult to engineer and the propagandist will have to talk to other than street corner crowds.

I understand that I have been somewhat criticized by the home district Farmer Labor Press for organizing with the so-called Conservatives in the Senate. This criticism is to be expected from the two papers concerned since they are hopelessly unfair. If they were fair they would offer space for presentation of the other side of the argument. Their opinion on this matter is not shared by all Farmer-Labor editors throughout the state. The Austin American, which is a well-edited and a very progressive newspaper published at Austin, Minnesota, and which generally supports the Olson administration, in its issue of Friday, the 18th of January, speaks on this same subject with reference to the Senator from that district, the Hon. A. O. Starks; "Insofar as the Conservative element in the upper house substantially outnumbered the Progressives, Stark's action in voting against Peterson" (with the Conservatives) "on organization was not of vital importance. The coming bills will be". This point of view, I believe, is fair and sincere.

Our local Farmer-Labor Press has made the statement that I campaigned on the Farmer-Labor platform and advocated it, and that by so doing the suggestion is very much on the surface that I have shown myself to be false. How strange. If I had declared myself in full favor of this platform from start to finish, why then the intense opposition from these editors? Only one of them to my knowledge, has attended any of my campaign meetings, and then only once. At that meeting as well as otherwise, I believe that I made myself perfectly clear to all who understand English and who want to be fair minded and sane, that my one major objection to the Farmer-Labor platform was the fact it contained no tax relief plan but rather definitely spoke of securing additional revenues. I believe it is time to call a halt to lavish expenditures of public funds. Even Relief must have its limitations of mere adequacy, under strict administration. It is not only the unemployed today that need relief. It is strange that some groups are so forgetful of the man who pays the taxes. He, too, must now obtain a marked relief or else public funds even in small amounts will soon be a thing of the past. The chief trouble with much of our radicalism today is that it is hopelessly bigoted and narrow-minded and often sponsored by social parasites.

Below I offer some brief highway department statistics in hopes that they will be of general interest. They are authentic figures from the Department and speak for themselves. Apparently some increase in revenue for this department will be necessary if we are going to be able to meet dollar for dollar the Federal funds offered us for construction purposes and which funds we cannot afford to lose out on. They are the 1934 figures with the license and gasoline tax as collected during that year. Speaking of the Federal appropriation to Minnesota of $[illegible] let us remember that Minnesota has paid this sum into the Federal Treasury by its one cent per gallon Federal gasoline tax to within $100,000. So after all, Uncle Sam is only handing us back, on his own terms, just a little more than he has collected from us.

Total revenues	13,147,[illegible]
Of this sum	3,200,000.00
has reverted back to the counties leaving the Highway Dept.	9,[illegible]
Revenue from licenses	6,[illegible]
Revenue from gasoline tax less the one-third to counties	[illegible]
Annual maintenance requires approximately	[illegible]
Annual department overhead required approximately	1,250,000.00
This leaves approximately	3,800,000.00

Federal construction funds can be used on Highways designated as Federal Highways only, and certainly some construction should be done on other trunk highways also.

Construction 1934 in Pennington county	$103,360.41
Maintenance 1934 in Pennington county	27,202.01
Construction 1934 in Red Lake county	58,193.54
Maintenance 1934 in Red Lake county	18,711.64
Construction 1934 in Clearwater county	7,353.52
Maintenance 1934 in Clearwater county	52,481.56
Total funds spent by State Highway Department in these three counties in 1934	$267,583.71
Contributions 1934 License, Pennington Co.	$28,537.00
Contributions 1934 License, Red Lake Co.	12,373.00
Contributions 1934 License, Clearwater Co.	14,873.00
Contributions 1934 Gasoline Tax, Pennington Co.	31,127.00
Contributions 1934 Gasoline Tax, Red Lake County	15,843.00
Contributions 1934 Gasoline Tax, Clearwater County	16,237.00
Total contributions	$118,890.00

Difference in license revenues between 1933-1934 rates and the so-called old rates is approximately $2,800,000.00, which sum would be restored annually to the Highway Department by an unmodified reversion back to the old rates which were in effect previous to 1933.

Writer Tells Origin of Name of Oklee Village

"The town with the singlest name in Minnesota," is the way a Twin City newspaper columnist describes Oklee, village with a population of 377, located in Red Lake county, miles northeast of Crookston.

In a recent column he wrote:

"Probably the town with the stingiest name in Minnesota is Oklee, a modest little place on the Soo Line. The place got its stingy name this way: When the Soo Line bought the townsite, the fellow who owned it sold only on one condition, that the town be named after him. His name was Lee. So the Soo Line tried to name the town Lee. But there were too many others with the same name and the postoffice department kicked. So the Soo Line added Mr. Lee's initials which were O. K. Lee."

HUGE LAND BANK REPAIR PROJECT BEING PLANNED

1935 Farm Improvements to Exceed Previous Years, Official Says

Repairs and improvements are planned on a widespread scale covering farms in Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota held by the Federal Land Bank of St. Paul, it was announced this week.

In the past 2 years, the statement says, the bank expended upward of $300,000 in repairs, and it has now embarked upon a program for 1935 which will represent a substantial increase over expenditures of the previous 2 years. A repair department is being organized and a definite policy has been decided upon that will keep the land bank in step with the administration's desire to increase employment and legitimate buying.

Local dealers will be patronized as far as possible in the purchase of such materials as lumber, cement, brick, paper, paint and other items. Outlining the project and some of the benefits that are expected to flow from it, Geo. S. Gordhamer, executive vice-president and treasurer of the bank, said:

"The Federal Land Bank believes in the betterment of farming in every way open to it, and believes in backing up that theory with practical works. We want the farms, which we are forced through circumstances to acquire from time to time, to go again into the hands of farmers, and when they do so, we want them to be satisfactory to the buyers, farms that the buyers will be glad to work for and to own."

While filling the duties of his new post he will continue to make his headquarters in this city, and will keep in contact with the activities of the local farm bureau office. To take charge during his absence the extension committee appointed Enoch Noram of Hallock, a graduate of the University of Minnesota college of agriculture last June. He also attended the North Dakota agricultural college two years.

Graduate Foresters Asked to Register at Re-employment Office

Any unemployed graduate forester who has not registered with the National Re-employment Service should do so at once, according to Howard Davidson, manager of the National Re-employment office in this city. The contemplated expansion of the forestry program has created a demand for men trained in general forestry which is expected to exceed the supply not only in Minnesota but in adjoining states. Forestry students who have had two or more years of forestry training are also asked to register. A limited number of woodsmen and cruisers who are able to do mapping may be employed. Even though the possibilities of employment for men with such experience are not as definite as for graduate foresters, it is suggested that they also register.

COURT RULES DAN MOODIE CAN'T HOLD GOVERNOR OFFICE

North Dakota Executive Is Disqualified Because of Term of Residence

Less than a month after he took office Governor Thomas H. Moodie was disqualified Saturday by unanimous decision of the North Dakota Supreme court.

Lieutenant Governor Walter Welford Nonpartisan league Republican, will serve out the balance of the Democratic governor's two-year term. He took the oath of office shortly after the decision was announced, completing the ceremony necessary to make him the legal governor.

It was the second time in seven months that the court was called on to judge the qualifications of a governor and the decision gave the state the fourth governor since July, when it disqualified William Langer who had been convicted of a felony in the Federal court. Langer was succeeded by Ole H. Olson, then lieutenant governor; Moodie was elected in November and succeeded Olson January 7.

The court held today that Moodie fails to meet the state constitutional requirement that a candidate for governor reside in North Dakota for five years "next preceding" his election.

Moodie admitted he lived and voted in Minnesota in 1930 but based his defense on intention to retain his North Dakota residence.

New Crop Improvement Seed List is Now Ready at "U" Farm, St. Paul

Farmers who want to know where to buy "blue-blooded" seed for 1935, meaning registered and certified stocks of the varieties recommended by the Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station, should lose no time in obtaining copies of the annual seed list of the Minnesota Crop Improvement association.

Just published at University Farm, this booklet lists the names and addresses of all members of the state crop improvement association who have for sale registered of certified seed of corn, wheat, barley, oats, rye, flax, soybeans, alfalfa and other crops.

Considering the present drastic shortage of seed, especially seed of fine quality, this list is a real treasure book for the man who wants to buy seed of known quality, variety and adaptation at prices not greatly above those for market grain, says Ralph F. Crim, extension agronomist. He especially emphasizes that all seed registered and listed by the Crop Improvement association has been field inspected, prior to harvest, to make sure of its varietal purity, its freedom from disease and noxious weeds, and its general suitability.

The growing menace of noxious weeds should make every producer extremely careful not to take chances on getting seed containing weeds, says Mr. Crim.

The total supply of available seed listed by association members is less this year than usual, though the value of all the seed, based on current figures for high quality seed, totals $188,819. This year's offerings include seed of two new varieties — Thatcher wheat and Minhybrid 301 corn, both of which were released by the experiment station last spring. Copies of the seed list may be had free from county agents, or by writing to the Minnesota Crop Improvement association, University Farm, St. Paul.

This will be the 14th annual meeting of this organization whose membership includes livestock producers throughout the five Northwest States.

FALSE TEETH IN HOCK FOR BOOZE

Grand Marais:—The high price of whisky, a universal complaint, took another form this week when the price of whisky was a brand new set of false teeth; uppers and lowers. It happened recently when a man appeared in a local restaurant and wanted to hock his set of false teeth for one dollar. The dollar was lent to him and he dropped over to the liquor dispensary and purchased a pint bottle of "bottled in bond". Then he came back to the cafe and promoted another 75 cents on the teeth with which to buy a meal. The teeth, uppers and lowers, repose in a glass at the restaurant.

This Indeed Ranks as a Peculiar Marital Mixup

Paul Miller, printing company foreman in Middlesboro, Kentucky, tells of a strange situation in the following words:

"Last year I asked her to be my wife and she gave me a decidedly negative reply, so to get even I married her mother. Then my father married the girl.

"When I married the girl's mother the girl became my daughter, and my father married my daughter, so he became my son. When my father married my daughter, she became my mother. If my father is my son and my daughter is my mother, who am I?

"My mother's mother is my wife and must be my grandmother. So being my grandmother's husband, I must be my own grandfather. And there you are."

LAMB PRODUCTION CONTEST WINNERS NAMED AT 'U' FARM

Two Pennington County Workers Place in State-wide 4-H Contest

Minnesota's pace setters in lamb production for 1934 have just been named at University Farm. Raymond L. Furtney, Austin, Mower county, is winner of the State-wide Lamb Production contest for adult shepherds, while Charles Confer, Angus, Polk county, is winner of the Statewide Junior Lamb Production contest for 4-H club members. Both of these events are sponsored jointly by the Agricultural Extension Service and the Minnesota Livestock Breeders association and conducted by W. E. Morris, extension livestock specialist.

In each contest, the honors go to the contestant who produces the most pounds of lamb per ewe when the lambs average 135 days old. The principal difference in rules is that adult contestants must have at least 25 ewes and must enter every ewe that lambs, while junior flocks consist uniformly of 10 ewes.

Mr. Furtney, winner of the adult contest, won in 1933 also, and so is automatically barred from future contests, as is Frank Passi of Pitt, Lake of the Woods county, who won two earlier contests. Mr. Passi set the contest record in 1930 of 159.8 pounds of lamb per ewe. Furtney's mark for 1934 was 140.2 pounds, his 36 ewes raising 60 lambs averaging 84.1 pounds per head.

Nineteen 4-H club members finished the Junior Lamb Production contest, Charles Confer's 10 ewes raising 20 lambs which averaged 98.2 pounds, making 196.5 pounds of lamb per ewe, the highest production so far registered in these contests. Names and addresses of the first 10 winners follow:

Charles Confer, Angus, Polk.
Kalvin Sylvester, St. Vincent, Kittson.
Nettie Sklund, Morris, Stevens.
Dorothy Hirst, Warren, Marshall.
Lee Munger, Warren, Marshall.
Leo Jensen, Goodridge, Pennington.
Cecil Fausch, Morristown, Rice.
Raymond Farnow, Erie, Pennington.
Wm. Sharkey, Belle Plaine, LeSueur.
Joseph Sharkey, Belle Plaine, LeSueur.

PHEASANTS TUNNEL INTO SNOW BANK TO REACH FOOD

Olivia:—In spite of everything that has been said to the contrary, pheasants are not a helpless type of game bird. That has been proved recently in this county. When local sportsmen went out Sunday afternoon not so long ago, to inspect an artificial shelter and "corn dump" they found that even a 5-foot snow bank didn't prevent the pheasants from getting to their food supply. Knowing that the corn was there, the birds had dug several tunnels into the snow and were systematically carrying out each cob of corn. More than a dozen cobs had already been excavated and the birds were busily engaged at their work when the visitors arrived.

NO COOPERATION BETWEEN THE ENDS

Bayport.—A complaint of no cooperation between the front and rear end of a train was registered at Bayport during the recent snow storm. A trainload of ice started out of Bayport with a freight engine in front and two behind. A short distance out, the front engine ran into a large drift of snow that almost buried it, while the rear engines kept putting on steam and wondered why the going was so rough. When communications had finally been established between the engineers, the front engine had been shoved into the snow bank so far that difficulty was experienced in getting out.

Member of '32 State Champion Cage Team Stars at Concordia

Blazing a path across the Minnesota State Conference basketball play is a young Thief River Falls youth, Art Myrom, who as a forward on the Concordia College five up at Moorhead, is fighting for high scoring honors among the best sharpshooters in the Minnesota Colleges.

Myrom from his forward position has to date scored in four conference games 16 field goals, 9 free throws for a total of 41 points, second in the race for conference honors. Myrom led the whole pack until recently when he relinquished his lead just a bit and fell into second place. With four conference games remaining Myrom should be high on an average of games played although some of the contenders for scoring honors have a greater number of games.

Coach Frank Cleve of the Cobbers regards Myrom as the key man of his offensive system. He has been constantly showing the way in scoring and has played a very important position in working the ball through on offensive thrusts. It appears that it is up to Art to carry on where the inimitable Pat Hilde left off last year after dominating basketball play in the Minnesota Conference for four years.

Myrom's chief asset as declared by experienced sports observers at the Cobber school is his cool, calculating eye for the basket. In the heat of a frantic skirmish for possession of the ball, Art is usually found coming up with it for a nice clean set-up or tip in shot. He exerts a steady and calming influence upon his teammates. Myrom's favorite shot seems to be a short one-handed push shot from about the free throw line after a quick dribble from the outer court.

Cage followers at Concordia predict that next year Art Myrom will be the Cobber basketball captain.

The Concordia star, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sig Myrom of this city, is a graduate of Lincoln high school and was a member of the 1932 Prowler team that won the state championship.

BUREAU FOLLOWS THROUGH IN LAW MAKING PROGRAM

Farm Bureau Is Keeping in Close Touch With Doings of Legislature

Members of the Minnesota Farm Bureau are maintaining close contact with agricultural legislative developments at the state capitol through a legislative news letter issued by the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation. Action on bills affecting agriculture is reported by J. S. Jones, secretary of the M. F. B. F. to each of the 1,200 township units in the state and these reports are studied and discussed at unit meetings, thus bringing legislative matters to the attention of every member in attendance.

In its first report of the present legislative session the Minnesota Farm Bureau reports on the development to date on bills dealing with seed grain, distribution, potato grading, livestock weighing and grading, price on prison machinery and twine, tax limitation, gas tax division, automobile "Guest" bill, and state highway patrol.

Coupled with a brief summary of a proposed law is a list of the authors or sponsors in house and senate, in order that farmers may know who to contact if they wish to write direct to their legislators to recommend affirmative or negative action.

The basis for Farm Bureau participation in the present legislative session was made at the annual district Farm Bureau conferences last spring, when members expressed their wishes for legislative action, and prepared questionnaires that were submitted to all candidates for legislative office. Most candidates returned the questionnaires with indications of their views on the subjects listed, and these returns are now on file. In August the semi-annual meeting of County Farm Bureau directors was held in St. Paul, where legislative proposals were discussed. The third week in January 2,000 Farm Bureau members from more than seventy counties, attending the annual meeting of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation, drew up 32 resolutions, 22 of which expressed the views of the membership on state legislative questions.

Nearly 3,000 at Farmers and Homemakers' Week

Attendance at the 1935 Farmers and Homemakers Week at University Farm, January 14 to 19, broke all previous records, according to L. A. Churchill, general chairman. Total registration was 2,973, about 400 greater than the 1934 crowd, which set what was then an all-time high of 2,551.

Except for the sharp cold and drifted roads, this year's short course registration would have exceeded 3,500, it is believed. Greater confidence and better times for farm people were factors in the increased attendance, but interest in new features added to the short course program was mainly responsible. Such new features included special conferences on AAA work, rural rehabilitation, farm credit, 4-H leadership and young people's problems.

The registration figure refers to the number of separate individuals who visited the short course during the week and is not an accumulation of daily attendance figures. Each person was counted only once, though he or she may have been present every day of the course.

ONLY THREE WEDDING LICENSES IN JANUARY

Cupid took a vacation in Pennington county in January, only three marriage licenses being issued from the office of Clerk of Court Ad. H. Eklund. The figure represents a decline of more than half from that of January, 1934, when eight applications were filed.

Goodhue County Wins Finals in Statewide One-Act Play Contest

Goodhue county came out the winner in the finals of the second annual State-wide Rural One-Act play contest, held at University Farm during Farmers and Homemakers Week. Nine county casts, each the champion of its district, were entered. The excellent performances given by all the casts, as well as the large crowd which stayed away from other interesting features of the short course to watch the contest, proved that farm folks of the state have a great deal of dramatic ability and take an enthusiastic interest in this type of recreation and self expression.

Second in the contest was won by Blue Earth county. Beltrami's players placed third. Itasca and Roseau tied for fourth, and Todd ranked fifth. Other counties entered in the finals were Carlton, Hennepin and Nicollet. During the year, more than 40 counties held elimination contests, each with from five to a dozen local casts trying for county honors.

A. E. Engebretson, University Farm, has been named chairman of the rural play contest for the coming year, which will again be sponsored by the University Department of Agriculture.

Triplets Born to Couple in Crookston Thursday

What is believed to be the first set of triplets ever to arrive in Crookston was born last Thursday in a hospital in that city to Mr. and Mrs. Nels Birkeland of Climax. The weight of the infants, two girls and a boy, varied between four pounds two ounces and four pounds ten ounces, and all were reported the next day as doing well. The mother is 28 years old.

Recount Ends With King 988 Votes Ahead of Lyons

State Auditor Stafford King has a lead of 988 votes in undisputed ballots, at the close of the recount of the votes for state auditor. With about 1,500 ballots held out and referred to the court by the referees, King's lead over John T. Lyons, farmer labor, is larger by 340 votes than it was on the official canvass. The counting referees will make their report this week to the Ramsey County District Court, and a time then will be set for the attorneys to argue on the admission of the disputed ballots. In addition to claiming their share of disputed ballots, the Lyons attorney, it is understood, will demand that the entire vote of some precincts be thrown out.

SLAP ON BACK CAUSES BARBER TO SWALLOW PIN

Caledonia:—Walter Akre, of Spring Grove, like most barbers, has a lot of friends, but one slapped him on the back at the wrong time the other day. Walter placed a long pin with a white head on it in his mouth while preparing to pin a cloth around a customer's neck, according to his usual custom. Just as he was about to remove the pin, however, someone slapped him on the back and he accidentally swallowed it. An X-ray was taken and the pin can be seen lodged in Walter's chest. Up to the present he has suffered no ill effects. One of Walter's assistants completed the shave.

HIGHWAY WORKERS CAN'T OPEN LOCAL ROADS, SAYS CHIEF

Numerous Requests Must be Denied, Commissioner Elsberg States

Hundreds of pleas that the state highway department operate snow plows over county and township roads have been received by the department in the past two weeks, but it is impossible to grant such requests, according to an announcement by N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner.

"During the recent heavy snows", said Mr. Elsberg, "we received letters, telegrams and telephone calls from all parts of the state asking that we open up particular stretches of local roads. The department would be glad to do this, but legal restriction of our operations to the trunk system, coupled with lack of funds, makes it impossible.

"It has taxed the highway department's equipment to keep the trunks open, and if we were to undertake plowing operations on local roads as well the situation could not be handled.

"Farmers also have complained that snow plows have dismantled their mail boxes along the trunk highways. While our crews are instructed to use as much caution as possible about such things, the roads have to be kept clear. With day and night plowing in heavy snow, it is often impossible to avoid striking a mail box. The benefits to the farmer of having his main highway opened up in all weather should compensate for any inconvenience of this character."

CARD REACHED CHICAGO BEFORE BEING MAILED

Montevideo.—Fast mail service from Montevideo to Chicago was so speedy during December that it got considerable attention around the country. A postal card postmarked Montevideo, Minn., Dec. 12, 5:30 p. m., 1934 was received in Winnetka, a suburb of Chicago, Dec. 12 at 1:30 p. m., 1934. Pictures of the card, showing the local postmark, were reproduced in Chicago papers. Getting mail out of the Montevideo postoffice all the way to Chicago four hours before it was mailed is speed plus.

Every day more than 57 million telephone conversations are held over Bell System wires in the United States.

The telephone system necessary to handle these conversations is one of the most complex in the world . . . billions of dollars worth of lines and equipment . . . 275,000 telephone workers . . . 850,000 owners of stocks and bonds . . . yet it functions with a smoothness and efficiency which makes telephone service in this country the best in the world.

It takes a telephone system of great size to provide quick and reliable service for the United States . . . a system with a nation-wide network of interconnecting lines . . . a system which uses equipment uniform in design and which constantly works to improve both its equipment and its methods of furnishing service.

NORTHWESTERN BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY

In relation to population there are six times as many telephones in this country as in Europe and the telephone is used nine times as much.

CAPITOL NEWS

By A. I. Harris

Members of the Legislature were the invited guests last Friday night at the Minnesota Editorial Association banquet and listened to Clayton Rand of Mississippi, the principal speaker, undoubtedly one of the most clever platform magicians of the country. Mr. Rand's discourse was delightful as an artistic presentation despite the fact that most of his utterances were pure sophistry.

Here is the recovery formula Mr. Rand offers the country: Keep government out of business. Work harder. Spend less. Sal more—what a hearty laugh for the devil!—

Some more from Mr. Rand: You cannot change human nature. We live in a fluctuating world, therefore we fluctuate between prosperous eras and depression eras. Too much prosperity is bad for us anyway. We deserve what we are getting because of our spiritual sins. Don't worry, we got out of former depressions and therefore we will get out of this depression.

This is optimism for those of means who do not suffer in a physical way from depressions but for the masses who know something about the reality of stark hunger the picture is rather black. Are we ready to admit that the problem of recurrent depressions has got us licked? Are we going to accept as a finality an economic order under which recurrent depressions are an admitted certainty?

Talking about "square deal in business", "rededication of righteousness", and "spiritual regeneration" are nice after dinner words, but they do not fill the stomachs of hungry children nor sooth the pangs of starving men and women. They are wholly deficient in caloric content. During times of so-called prosperity the masses for the most part do not live on much more than the bare subsistence level while during times of depression. Well, it is just too bad . . . And fellows like Rand come along and talk about "rekindling of souls", and stuff like that . . . .

The best answer the legislature can give to Mr. Rand is that the present session is at least going to try to do something about recurrent depressions besides cowardly surrendering to the theory that nothing can be done about it.

Attorney General Harry Peterson has announced that he will appeal to the State Supreme court the District court decision on the two-tokens-for-15 cent street car case. "Some issues of fact were decided," Mr. Peterson said, "which we did not understand were involved. We believe that the decision is erroneous." The Railroad and Warehouse Commission a few months ago issued an order directing the Twin City Rapid Transit Co. to issue two tokens for 15 cents.

Several conservative members of the House and Senate have said that they are in favor of higher income taxes in the upper brackets. We will soon find out.

Minnesota's place on the nation's aeronautical map has been definitely assured by the SERA. Work is underway on 34 airports in as many cities, officials report, and more than 2,000 relief clients are finding work on the projects. Twenty-one of the airports are near completion now, and final work on the remainder probably will be finished soon. SERA airport projects are supervised by the Minnesota Aeronautical Commission.

Minnesota residents are warned by Erling Swenson, director of the state division of Game and Fish, that retention of other game meat besides venison and bear meat may bring a visit from a state game warden. The time limit for retaining wild ducks and upland game birds in Minnesota in any form has expired, the warning stated. Venison and bear meat may be retained under permit until February 28. Hunters who have neglected to return their reports covering game taken during the 1934 open hunting seasons should do so at once, Mr. Swenson urged. Failure to make returns before the last day of this month bars hunters for hunting this year.

Senate conservatives are threatening to put through a sales tax in spite of Governor Olson's announced intention of vetoing such a bill. Legislation of this kind will never lighten the burden of the people. It is well known that sales taxes are always passed on to the consumer and that they oppress the rank and file of the people [illegible]
